MEASURE TO PROHIBIT BLACKLIST INTRODUCED BY TWO HARBORS MAN

Woodfill Also Wants Employers to Pay Men in Real Money.

Senate Indorses House Action Against Embargo on Foodstuffs.

High Tribute Paid to Memory of the Late F. W. Eva.

By a Staff Correspondent.

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—Two measures aimed at the protection of workingmen were introduced in the house this morning by Representative J. W. Woodfill, Socialist, of Two Harbors. One prohibits the blacklisting of workers by employers because of affiliations with unions or for any other cause, and the other requires all employers to pay off their men in real money and not checks, except where other arrangements are made by agreement between employer and employe.

The senate this morning passed the Bendixen house resolution asking congress not to place an embargo on the exportation of food products. The only negative vote was cast by Senator Richard Jones of Duluth, Socialist, who believes that starvation would stop the war.

The house, 94 to 22, passed the Kneeland constitutional amendment separating the control of state lands from the state auditor's office so a public domain department can be created.

Tribute to Late F. W. Eva.

The house paid a high tribute to the memory of the late F. W. Eva, formerly of Duluth, chief grain inspector, when it adopted by a unanimous rising vote warm resolutions of condolence on his death offered by Representatives C. M. Bendixen, Magnus Johnson and A. F. Telgen. Representative Bendixen, in moving the adoption of the resolutions, spoke in warm praise of the late Mr. Eva, both as to his personality and as to his virtues as a faithful public servant.

CONTINUE THE CASE AGAINST MISS COPE

Indefinitely Postponed and Woman Released on Own Bond.

Chicago, Jan. 29.—Miss Jessie Elizabeth Cope, indicted on charges of attempted bribery of government officials, was released from the custody of the government today on a bond of $1,000 signed by herself after the case against her had been indefinitely continued in the United States district court. Miss Cope visited the courtroom and declared her readiness to stand trial.

The indictment against Miss Cope was the outgrowth of an investigation of her charge that Col. Charles Alexander, a millionaire of Providence, R. I., had violated the Mann act. It was alleged that at the request of Col. Alexander, Miss Cope had accompanied him from her home in Los Angeles to Chicago and other cities.

An alleged agreement by which Miss Cope offered to divide $50,000 with the government prosecutors, if that sum could be obtained from Col. Alexander, was the basis of the indictment against her.

OPPOSITION IS VIOLENT

Reorganization of Education System Meets Adverse Sentiment.

Homestead Requirements of Cole Law Held to Be Repealed.

By a Staff Correspondent.

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—Marked opposition to the reorganization of the state's education system proposed by the public education commission at a joint hearing before the senate and house committees on education in the house retiring room yesterday afternoon, when the proposed changes were outlined by W. D. Willard of Mankato, chairman of the commission, and Prof. H. E. Webster of Minneapolis and C. G. Schulz of St. Paul, members.

Questions asked by members of the committees indicated violent opposition to the proposal to do away with local control of the schools, and even members who admitted that theoretically the plan might be an improvement on the present system said that they would not dare vote for it, so strong is popular opposition to the county unit plan in their home communities.

The commission, which was appointed by Governor Eberhart in pursuance to a law enacted at the last session of the legislature, proposes a state board of education, to take over the full control of the public schools, in-

BRIBERY AND CORRUPTION

Charged in Regard to Engineers' Licenses and Boiler Inspection.

Some Inspectors Make $4,000 a Year Under the Fee System.

By a Staff Correspondent.

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—Charges of bribery and corruption, in the issuance of engineers' licenses and the inspection of boilers throughout the state, under the present system were openly made at the public hearing of the senate labor committee on the proposed boiler inspection and engineers' license law yesterday.

These charges were not only made by members of the International Union of Steam Engineers, the labor organization directly interested in the bill, but were also substantiated by representatives of the Minnesota State Association of the National Association of Stationary Engineers, who were directly responsible for the drafting of the measure.

"Boiler inspectors, under the present system, have issued certificates where they have never inspected or even seen the boilers," declared one speaker. He supplemented his remarks by citing instances where second-hand boilers that were generally known to be in an unsatisfactory condition had been brought into the state and inspection

BELATED PRESENTS ARRIVE AT BERLIN

Five Hundred German Children Made Happy By American Gifts.

Berlin, via London, Jan. 29.—Five hundred children of soldiers from Berlin who fell in battle were made happy on Wednesday by the receipt of their share of the Christmas presents sent to Europe by children of America. This belated Christmas celebration was held in the arena of one of the great enclosed ice rinks of the German capital.

A pair of shoes, warm clothing and toys were given to each child in a pasteboard box. Through the generosity of Jacques Mayer, an American resident of Berlin, each child received also four marks ($1) in cash.

Mrs. James W. Gerard, wife of the American ambassador, and Mrs. Mayer presided over the distribution of the gifts and were assisted by the Women's Patriotic association and the American Women's Relief committee. The exercises were attended by representatives of Empress Augusta Victoria and Crown Princess Cecilie, the members of the staffs of the American embassy and the American consulate and many prominent Germans.

Joseph C. Grew, secretary of the American embassy, speaking for Ambassador Gerard, conveyed the greetings of the American children to the German children. A reply was made by Herr Plaschke, privy councillor, who closed his remarks by leading a cheer for the United States and the American children.

ACTIVITIES IN GALICIA AND THE CARPATHIANS FEATURE OF THE WAR

Germans and Austrians Pushed Near Roumanian Frontier.

Struggle Expected Soon to Enter Upon a Critical Stage.

Germans Gain But Little in West, With Heavy Losses.

London, Jan. 29.—With the renewal of offensive operations on the part of the Turks in the Caucasus apparently timed so as to force Russia to send more troops into this field, the Austro-German activities in Galicia and the Carpathians continued to dominate the military situation.

The Teuton allies are being pushed further to the south and strung out nearer the Roumanian frontier in order to meet any sudden movement over the passes from that country. The recent fighting in the Carpathians has brought no decisive engagement, both the Austrians and the Russians claiming local successes. It is believed in London, however, that the struggle may be expected soon to enter upon a critical stage both in the east and in the west. British military observers have expressed the opinion that Germany is still keeping a preponderance of her forces in the western theater of the war, where the allies should expect another great offensive movement.

The German tactics of the last few days at various points on the western front seem to have cost them heavily and to have brought them little gain, judging by the official reports given out in Paris and published prominently in London today. It is thought here that the next development may be a concerted blow at some strategic point.

AUSTRIAN TROOPS ARE SUCCESSFUL

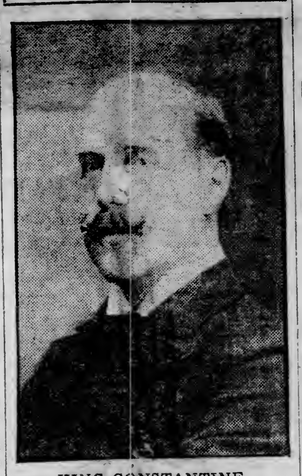

Reported to Have Driven Russians From the Nagyag Valley.

Berlin, Jan. 29, by wireless to Sayville.—The most encouraging war news, from the German viewpoint, comes from the Carpathian region, where Austrian successes are reported to have been achieved consistently for some time now. The latest feat of the Austrians is said to have been the driving of the Russians from the Nagyag valley.

Dispatches from Vienna state that the Russians probably will be compelled soon to evacuate the Galician city of Lemburg, which they have occupied for several months.

From all the theaters of war comes news of freezing weather which bids fair to continue for some time. The temperature in East Prussia has fallen to 13 degrees above zero. Thus far, however, the cold weather does not appear to have affected military activity.

ATTEMPT ON THE LIFE OF KING OF GREECE

KING CONSTANTINE.

London, Jan. 29.—An Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Copenhagen gives a report that an attempt was made several days ago to assassinate King Constantine of Greece. This report is conveyed to Copenhagen in a dispatch from Constantinople which says that the authority for the report is the statements of travelers arriving from Constantinople. The attempt on the life of the king, according to the rumors, was made at Patras, Greece.

KILLS ANOTHER'S BRIDE; ENDS LIFE

Charles Perkins of Kansas City Shoots Minneapolis Girl.

Willow Springs, Mo., Jan. 29.—A verdict of murder and suicide was returned here last night by the coroner's jury which investigated the death at a hotel here yesterday of Charles Perkins of Kansas City and Mrs. W. J. Hicks, a bride of less than a week. Mrs. Hicks, before her marriage, was Miss Ina Aldrich of Minneapolis, Minn.

Mrs. James Shipley, a mutual acquaintance of Perkins and Mrs. Hicks, and the latter's husband witnessed the shooting. They told the coroner Perkins shot Mrs. Hicks and then killed himself.

Mr. and Mrs. Hicks were married at West Plains, Mo., last Saturday.

Miss Aldrich, who was a newspaper woman, and Hicks met at a poultry show at West Plains last week, and there agreed upon the wedding. Perkins, learning of the marriage, telegraphed from Kansas City that he was coming to Willow Springs "to settle things."

When he arrived, Mrs. Shipley made arrangements for the conference. It is understood that Perkins before the shooting accused Hicks of having been married before and of not having been legally divorced from his former wife. Hicks and Mrs. Shipley, however, refused to throw further light on the mystery, or to ascribe a motive for the shooting.

VILLA HURT IS REPORT

Unconfirmed Rumor That Mexican General Has Been Injured.

Carranza Leader Enters Mexico City With 10,000 Men.

Washington, Jan. 29.—An unconfirmed report in Mexico City that Gen. Francisco Villa had been seriously injured was received today from Consul Silliman.

Mr. Silliman also sent word that Gen. Obregon, Carranza leader, entered Mexico City unrestrained at 2 p. m. yesterday with 10,000 men. The dispatch stated that quiet and order prevailed.

When Mr. Silliman sent his message no manifesto had been issued or temporary form of government announced. A few Zapatista adherents were captured while they were evacuating the city and it was reported that there were some casualties. Gen. Obregon had sent forces out to occupy the surrounding suburban towns.

Carranza Has Capital.

Mexico City, Jan. 29.—The capital today is again in the hands of the forces of Gen. Carranza, who, while acting as the provisional president of the government was forced to leave Mexico City early in November under the threat of the advancing troops of Generals Villa and Zapata who disagreed with his policies. The new authorities have re-established order and a general feeling of confidence prevails.

CROWN PRINCE GIVES HIS VIEWS ON WAR

Frederick William of Germany Confident of Ultimate Success.

Geneva, Switzerland, via Paris, Jan. 29.—Crown Prince Frederick William of Germany has sent to the local correspondent of the Associated Press, in response to a request for a statement on the war, the following reply, dated "Near Verdun," Jan. 22:

"You ask me to send a message to the American people. Being an officer and no diplomat, I have no right to do so, but if you like, I will tell you three things.

"First: Every single German and Austrian is quite certain that we will come out on top, and will give his last drop of blood to this end.

"Second: We are convinced that the day will come when the people of Russia and France will find out that they are only doing the dirty work for England.

"Third: We expect from America absolutely fair play in all questions.

"These are my personal ideas, but a good many of my countrymen feel the same. Greetings.

POLICIES ARE INFLUENCED

Rockefeller's Donations Have Weight With Colleges, Says Eliot.

Thinks, However, That Their Influence Has Always Been Good.

New York, Jan. 29.—Rockefeller donations to educational institutions have influenced the policies of presidents of universities and colleges in many instances, but the influence has always been good, said Charles W. Eliot, president emeritus of Harvard university, today at the Federal industrial commission's inquiry into philanthropic foundations and the causes of social unrest.

These donations, Mr. Eliot said, were made by the General Education board. As an instance, he cited John D. Rockefeller's offer in 1908 to furnish $1,000,000 to Harvard university if the university would raise $875,000 additional.

Sum More Than Needed.

Dr. Eliot said he had not hoped to obtain as large a sum. His estimate of what was needed was much lower than the estimates submitted by Mr. Rockefeller's investigator.

Dr. Eliot said that he was connected with the General Education board and other philanthropic foundations established by Andrew Carnegie and Mr. Rockefeller. He thought the practice of interlocking the directorates of such foundations was a good one.

He thought that the General Education board had given $200,000,000 to Immigration Committee Votes 8 to 3 on President's Veto.

Washington, Jan. 29.—By a vote of 8 to 3 the house immigration committee today voted to report the immigration bill, vetoed by President Wilson yesterday, back to the house with the recommendation that it be repassed over his veto.

Chairman Burnett expressed the opinion that the bill would get the necessary two-thirds vote. The committee's report will be brought in for a vote next Thursday.

VICTORY FOR COMPANY IN LEGAL BATTLE

Supreme Court Upholds Decision Handed Down By Judge Cant.

Track Was "Shabby Affair, But It Was a Mile Long."

Not Operated But Long Acquiescence Estops the City.

The Duluth Street Railway company has won from the city of Duluth the deciding battle of its franchise fight.

Today at St. Paul, the Minnesota supreme court handed down a decision which determines as final the fact that the Duluth Street Railway company is operating on the streets of Duluth under a valid and existing franchise, the claims of the city to the contrary notwithstanding. The franchise will expire in 1931.

The court of last resort affrms the judgment and order of the lower court in dismissing the quo warranto proceedings instituted by the state, at the instance of the city, to test the validity of the legislative franchise granted to the street railway company in 1881.

The case was begun in district court a year ago last October. Judge Cant rendered his decision in the case last May after having the matter under advisement about five months. An appeal was taken from Judge Cant's decision and the supreme court today disposes of the appeal by affirming the position of the trial court. The supreme court's opinion was written by Commissioner H. B. Dibell, former Duluth district judge.

The quo warranto proceedings were instituted in the name of the state of Minnesota by the attorney general's office at the instance of the city of Duluth. The writ required the company to come into court and show by what warrant or authority it claimed to be operating upon the streets of Duluth.

Array of Legal Talent.

A brilliant array of legal talent appeared in the case. On the city's side of the case were J. C. Netheway, assistant attorney general, Davis, Kellogg, Severance & Olds of St. Paul, Francis W. Sullivan of Duluth and City Attorney Harvey Clapp. The traction company was represented by Washburn, Bailey & Mitchell, Thomas S. Wood and Henry F. Greene.

Before the case was tried in district court, there were several preliminary skirmishes in the Federal court, where an attempt was made to secure an injunction against the city to prevent it from proceeding to trial with the quo warranto action. The attempt, however, failed and the case went to trial on its merits.

Many Witnesses.

More than 100 witnesses were called in the case and arguments were extended over a period of eleven days. Many of the witnesses who testified were old residents of Duluth and related from recollections the progress made by the company in the construc-

OHIO PAYS TRIBUTE TO MEMORY OF McKINLEY.

Columbus, O., Jan. 29.—Ohio paid tribute today to the memory of William McKinley upon the occasion of the anniversary of his birth. In the cities especially, the carnation, McKinley's favorite flower, was in evidence almost everywhere.

At Canton, the home of McKinley, the day was observed with memorial ceremonies, which included the decoration of the tomb of the martyr president. As a further mark of respect, both houses of the Ohio legislature after adopting appropriate resolutions adjourned yesterday until Monday. The annual McKinley day banquet, attended by many prominent Ohioans, was held at Canton last night.

SUMMARY OF THE WAR NEWS

Russia has answered the new Austro-German offensive movement in Hungary and Bukowina with a sudden resumption of the attack on the Germans in their own territory. The Russian army in East Prussia is again attempting to penetrate the German lines and an official report from Petrograd today indicates that heavy fighting is in progress. In two sections of the front, it is stated, the Germans were defeated and driven back. For several months there has been little change in East Prussia, the Russians having been halted after penetrating nearly thirty miles beyond the German border.

To the south the new Austro-German plan of campaign is developing rapidly. The Austrian army staff announces that the Russians who invaded Northern Hungary have been defeated and forced to retreat. Petrograd military experts expect that the main attack will be delivered on the extreme Russian right wing, in Western Bukowina, a supposition which is supported by the concentration of Austrian and German troops in Hungary.

Simultaneously with the stiffening of the Austro-German attack, the Turks have brought up reinforcements in the trans-Caucasian region and are again on the defensive. Russian and Turkish reports are contradictory, but it is apparent that severe fighting is in progress.

In the west there is less activity. The furious German assaults of the last few days seem to have effected no important results.

Russian claims of victory in East Prussia are disputed in the official German communication of today, which states that the attacks of the Russian invaders were defeated with heavy losses to them. In Central Poland, it is said, the Germans took the offensive and captured Russian trenches.

A German aeroplane squadron made a night raid on Dunkirk, dropping bombs in an effort to destroy the British supply stations there. The French official statement announces that one German aeroplane was brought down.

Only minor engagements were fought yesterday in France and Belgium. So far as can be learned from the French and German communications. British efforts to regain lost positions near La Bassee canal and German attacks in the vicinity of Ypres, Lens and Arras were equally unsuccessful.

MISREPRESENTING DULUTH CLIMATE

False Dispatches Tell of Extraordinary Low Temperature—Imaginary.

About a century or so ago somebody sprung two or three jokes on Duluth's climate. In their time they were very fair as jokes go, but since then they have been worn thread-bare, and Duluth has been made the butt by the envious for all kinds of weather jokes.

For instance, last night a dispatch was sent out over the Associated Press wires from St. Paul to the effect that with a temperature of 16 deg. below zero, Duluth offered the coldest record for the United States. At the same time St. Paul was 24 deg. below and so was Moorhead.

In the Chicago Journal of yesterday, a dispatch from Duluth is printed, saying that on the day before, street thermometers here showed from 27 to 31 deg. below zero, but bad and untrue as that is, the head over the dispatch is worse and unwarranted by the contents of the message. The heading reads "40 Below at Duluth."

ROUND PEGS IN SQUARE HOLES

Vocational Expert Says Eight Out of Ten Are Misfits.

Doctor Should Be Lawyer and Young Salesman a Scientist.

"There goes a man," said Joseph Blumenthal of Minneapolis, as he sat in the Y. M. C. A. lobby yesterday, "who would make a successful musician or a good lawyer."

The man pointed out was a doctor.

Joseph Blumenthal has been called the man who finds square pegs for the square holes and round pegs for the round ones. He is a vocational expert. He is conducting a vocational "clinic" today at the "Y."

He sat in the lobby, pointing to various men as they passed.

"Do you see the man with the blond hair? He would make a good clerk, except for the fact that his constitution isn't strong enough."

Investigation afterwards proved the man to be a clerk.

"Look at this one, with the black hair," continued Blumenthal, pointing to a young hardware salesman of the city. "He was cut out for scientific work—research work."

Eight out of every ten men are misfits in the work they are doing, in Mr. Blumenthal's opinion. Harrington Emerson, well-known efficiency expert, believes nine out of every ten are misplaced. Mr. Blumenthal's work for thirty years has been adjusting men to the right jobs.

"In thirty seconds," he said, "I can tell you to what occupation a man is adapted particularly. I don't say that he will be a success, if he follows my advice, but I do say that he will be more fitted for that than for other lines of work.

"There is nothing spectacular about it—everything is as old as the hills. It is merely the idea of applying the knowledge practically that has caused so much comment."

Government Interested.

Work of this kind recently has attracted the attention of the United States government, with the result that a brother of Mr. Blumenthal was appointed director of an "employment" bureau at Washington. Minneapolis now has an employment bureau in its Y. M. C. A., conducted by Mr. Blumenthal, where employers get men scientifically adapted to their needs.

Mr. Blumenthal's methods of glancing at a man and analyzing his characteristics and strong points seems nothing short of wonderful to the average man, judging by the attention his visit to Duluth has attracted.

Practical tests showed that in many cases he could tell at a glance how successful were men unknown to him, and that in most instances, without asking questions, he could name the occupation.

"When you meet a man," Mr. Blumenthal said, in describing his methods, "you involuntarily get an impression, composed really of a series of impressions. I merely classify the impressions and study their relation, one to another."

Some time ago in Minneapolis Mr. Blumenthal, while hearing William J. Bryan, secretary of state, give an address, declared that had he possessed more power of concentration, instead of branching out into different lines of activity, Mr. Bryan would have been president long ago.

Boxers Like Indians.

"The other day I examined photographs of six present day boxers. Five of the six had noses like those of the aborigine," he said. "The Apaches of Paris are being decorated for bravery in the present war, because their talents have been utilized for the defense of their country, instead of for crime.

"Twenty-five per cent of a man's make-up is influenced by heredity and the other 75 per cent by environment. It is astonishing to find how many clerks there are who are clerking because their mother wanted them to have gentle work, while all the time they really wanted to become agriculturists.

"Clerks have more of a desire to be farmers than anything else, although nearly a majority of young men who consult me want to be salesmen, traveling on the road, regardless of their qualifications."

Mr. Blumenthal has been a student of this work for many years, originally confining himself to research work among native tribes of Australia, with English scientists and phrenologists. For two years he has been helping Minneapolis business men hire men. He gave an address at the Y. M. C. A. last night, under the auspices of the educational department. A. L. Turner, educational secretary, presided at the meeting.

TOO MANY MEN COMING HERE

Crowds of Unemployed Pour in From Over Northwest.

Local and Married Men Only Now Considered, Says Lumberman.

The wide publicity given Duluth in regard to its care of the unemployed is causing men to flock to the Head of the Lakes from all parts of the Northwest, and is filling the police station and Bethel, according to an official of the Alger-Smith Lumber company. More men are now in Duluth than can find work, he says.

The opening of the Alger-Smith and the Mullery-McDonald sawmills next week will provide work for about 400 men, but old crews and married men already in Duluth will secure these jobs. The companies are being besieged with men who cannot be given employment.

"Duluth has all it can do to take care of its own unemployed without holding out inducements to men from other cities to come here," this official said. "Men have read in the papers that work is being provided for the unemployed here, and that inducement is crowding our city with men whom we cannot give work to. We have old crews that we will offer first place to at the mill, and married men will be given preference over the single men. The Bethel and police station are now crowded with unemployed men, and no matter how much Duluth is willing to do in providing work, it cannot serve as a clearing house for the whole Northwest."

Child Actress Coming.

Little Muriel Cole, the child actress, who has been so popular in Minneapolis during the last few months, will join the Baldwin Players next week for one week only. She will appear as Mary Jane in the play "Mary Jane's Pa" at the Lyceum next week.

This little girl was seen in Duluth when the Baldwin Players put on "The Littles' Rebel" last fall, and she made many friends among the Lyceum patrons at that time. Mr. Baldwin has secured her services for one week, as the Minneapolis company, of which she is a member, had no part available for her next week. The little girl is now in Duluth with her mother, and has been rehearsing with the company all week.

"Mary Jane's Pa" was used by Henry E. Dixey and Max Figman for several seasons, and was one of the most successful comedy dramas of recent years. It has been seen in Duluth but once. Max Figman having opened his tour here several years ago. It has never been presented by stock companies in the Northwest previous to this. It is a comedy drama somewhat of the type of "The Fortune Hunter" or "The Traveling Salesman," but entirely different as to plot.

Three more performances of "The Virginian" will be given, tonight, tomorrow afternoon and tomorrow night. In spite of the cold weather all week, the attendance has proven "The Virginian" to be one of the most popular productions the Baldwin Players have yet appeared in.

Who Is Pauline?

Who is Pauline?. The question is quite a natural one in view of the announcement that Pauline is to appear at the Orpheum theater next week. His family name is Poulin and his given name Joseph so that any doubts which may have puzzled people as to whether Pauline was a girl may be set aside. Born some 35 years ago in Paris, the son of a French mother and a Canadian father, Pauline was brought to this country at the age of 1 year and has remained here ever since, save for occasional professional visits abroad. His father was a doctor in New York and gained eminence in his profession owing to the skill with which he employed hypnotic suggestion in surgery. Young Pauline was something like 16 before discovering that he, too, possessed the gift of mesmerism. He calls himself an advanced psychologist and for three years held the chair of psychology in the University of Vermont.

As for what he does on the stage, Pauline presents an act which may cause amusement or profound wonderment depending upon the temperament of those who witness it. Pauline can and does make some of his subjects perform amusing feats. However, he makes others perform feats which may well baffle the most thoughtful of observers.

New Bill at Grand.

The joy germ caused an epidemic of laughter yesterday at the New Grand theater, when a corking good bill was put on at the popular downtown playhouse. Good vaudeville and pictures helped dispel the gloom occasioned by the frigid weather.

Al Lawrence offered a pot-pourri of mirth in the guise of songs, jokes, travesties, stories and impersonations. His act went big all the way through.

The Keough Sisters, two dainty little comediennes, appeared to great advantage in several smart costumes. Their songs were well rendered and their dances were done gracefully.

Davitt and Duvall in their new playlet entitled "Holding Out," caused roars of laughter. The skit is without any plot, but serves as an excellent vehicle for light comedy. The four Castrillions close the bill with a good tumbling and acrobatic act.

The photoplays offer a wide variety of subjects and are well produced. Francis X. Bushman appears with Beverly Bayne in a two-reel college playlet entitled "Dear Old Girl." Miss Helen Holmes, the heroine of "The Hazards of Helen" series, appears in another hair-raising railway episode. This time Helen leaps from a high water tower upon a swiftly-moving train. The Hearst-Selig News Pictorial shows Harry Thaw at his New Hampshire home, and also some good war pictures. These include a visit of the kaiser to the front.

George Beban in "The Italian."

George Beban, in "The Italian," gives a masterly example of what an actor, who is alive to his role and can feel his part, can do in the way of holding an audience in sustained tension. The photoplay is the current attraction at the Rex. By facial expression and the natural gestures with the hands he is capable of depicting so many different phases, so many different emotions, that though the action is only on the screen, we wonder why it is said that the screem has its limitations. Coupled with good photography, well chosen interior settings and a few startling innovations, such as hanging on the running board of a rapidly moving automobile, being thrown off by a kick in the face, and so on, the acting of Beban makes the production interesting throughout.

LESS CRIME; MORE VAGS"

Interesting Police Statistics Prepared By Municipal Court Clerk.

Begging and Vagrancy Only Offenses to Show Increase.

Comparative tables of convictions in the municipal court during the old city regime and the present commission government show that there has been a decrease in crime of almost every description since commission rule went into effect early in 1913.

The tables, showing the percentage of decrease in crime, were prepared by Walter J. Richeson, deputy clerk of the court, at the request of Municipal Judge Windom. A decrease is shown in every instance, except vagrants and beggars, who have apparently increased during the last two years. Judge Windom explains this with the statement that owing to the lodgers' room at police headquarters, more vagrants apply at police headquarters and are picked up by police officers either on a charge of vagrancy or begging.

Fewer Drunkards Now.

The principal feature of the tables is the decrease in drunkards, there having been 3,165 convicted in 1911, while but 2,631 were convicted in 1914. The decrease was 13.71 per cent. There was also a decrease of 300 per cent in the conviction of violators who sold liquor on election days and who allowed minors in poolrooms and 40 per cent in tobacco sale violations. There was a 57-per-cent decrease in the convictions of operators of houses of ill-fame and 54 per cent decrease in the arrest and conviction of common prostitutes.

WHITE PLAGUE IS DECEPTIVE

Dr. Murphy Declares Many Have It and Don't Know It.

Advocates Supervision of Employes and Campaign of Education.

Medical supervision of employes in all large factories and institutions and a more thorough education in tubercular diseases are given by Dr. I. J. Murphy, assistant health officer, as the only means of successfully fighting the white plague, in his annual report submitted this morning to Dr. H. E. Webster, director of the health department.

Dr. Murphy discusses at length the situation in Duluth with regard to tuberculosis, showing that there are hundreds of cases never reported until the last stages, and that this condition exists because those affected at first disregard the dangers, or are actually unaware of what is in store for them.

During 1914 there was not a single death from smallpox, according to the report, while sixteen died from typhoid. In 1914, six died from diptheria, the same number as in 1913 and eighteen passed away as the result of scarlet fever, while in 1913, there were but sixteen who died from this disease. Two deaths resulted from measles, three less than in 1913.

There were 177 cases of scarlet fever and fifty-nine cases of diptheria treated at the contagious hospital at Fourteenth avenue west during the year. Only seven deaths occurred at the hospital, all of these being from scarlet fever. A total of ninety cases of smallpox and seventy-three miscellaneous cases were treated at the pesthouse.

Regarding Tuberculosis.

With respect to the tuberculosis situation in Duluth, Dr. Murphy says in part as follows:

"Although statistics show that there were sixty-one more cases of tuberculosis added to the department's register during the year and a total of 292 cases now on file, at least half the cases in our midst have not yet been found or diagnosed. Authorities estimate that there are at least five active cases in the community for each death, and as 139 death certificates were filed, there should be at least 700 more names on our register.

"Some of these victims, it might be explained, do not realize that their gradually failing strength and perhaps slight loss in weight should demand an immediate examination. This means that people do not recognize their symptoms early enough or have not heard of the free dispensary. More education along this line is needed.

"Another means by which these cases could be weeded out in the incipient stage is by medical inspection of employes. Physical examinations of all applicants for positions and periodic examinations of all regular employes are now considered an economic necessity by many large employers of labor. A few local concerns have undertaken some medical supervision, but the movement has not reached the stage that we would like to see it reach in our city."

LEAPS FROM WINDOW.

Official of National Biscuit Company Ends His Life.

Chicago, Jan. 29.—Frank T. Crawford, son of the founder of the National Biscuit company and an official of that concern, ended his life by leaping from the third story of his North side home early today. He eluded a nurse who had been detailed to watch him because of a nervous disorder with which he had been afflicted. He was 37 years old and a graduate of Yale university. Mrs. Crawford is a daughter of the late Luther Laflin Mills.

Mrs. Walters Indicted.

New York, Jan. 29.—The Bronx county grand jury today returned two indictments charging murder in the first degree against Mrs. Ida Walters, who was known as the wife of Lorlys Fenton Rogers, and alleging that she poisoned her two babies.

Although England and Scotland produce the finest mutton in the world, they do not grow enough to supply their own needs.

STRANGE SYMPHONY.

St. Joseph News-Press: A certain clergyman was the guest of the Rev. Edward Everett Hale overnight. In the morning he came downstairs with a look of pleased surprise on his face.

"What a delightful custom you have here," he said, "of chiming the bells at midnight!"

"Yes," continued the guest, I got up and leaned out of the window to listen. It was a pretty air they played, although I did not recognize it."

"This," said Dr. Hale, telling the story afterward, "was the first time I ever heard of a fire alarm being taken for a symphony."

A DIRE THREAT.

Judge: At a county fair in a small island city several hundred men were engaged in holding down a large balloon which was rapidly being inflated with hot air. The smallest man of the lot looked about him nervously, and then yelled at the top of his voice:

"Hey, come and take my place, somebody! I got to go!"

No one paid any attention to him. A few moments later the little man bawled:

"If somebody don't come and take my place right away I'm going to let the old thing go up!"

UNCLE SAM PROUD OF BOYS WHO ENLISTED IN NAVY HERE

FIRST MIDDIES TO TAKE NEW ROUTE FROM THE RANKS.

Naval Recruiting Officer Peter Coyle is particularly proud today of the Duluth office. The reason for his pride is shown in the accompanying picture of five young midshipmen at the United States naval academy at Annapolis. These men were the first to be admitted to the academy under the provisions of the naval appropriation act, which was approved by the president June 30, 1914, and opened up the route to a commission in the navy by a new route, not dependent upon the appointment of a member of congress.

These five young men all enlisted at the Duluth office and their pictures are being featured by the navy department at all its recruiting stations. Officer Coyle has forwarded his lists to Minneapolis and does not recall the names of the five men, but they all enlisted here. The significance of the picture is that these men are the first of the new school of officers who have taken the route now open to any young American between the ages of 17 and 19 years.

The action taken by Secretary Daniels is one of the first steps taken in that department of the Federal service to make the officers' staff of the navy democratic.

CATHEDRAL FIVE TO MEET SUPERIOR QUINT

There will be a basket ball contest this evening between the strong Cathedral high school five and the basket ball quint of the Nelson Dewey high school of Superior. The game is scheduled for the Cathedral high school gymnasium and will be called at 8 o'clock.

This season the Cathedral team has made an excellent record. Some of the best players of the city are members of the team. Nelson Dewey has also a very aggressive and speedy team, so that the prospects for a well-played and close game are very bright.

Reulbach Released.

New York, Jan. 29.—Pitcher Edward Reulbach was unconditionally released today by the Brooklyn National league club. Reulbach came from the Chicago club to Brooklyn during the season of 1913.

SLANG.

St. Louis Globe-Democrat: Prof. Thomas R. Lounsbury, the noted grammarian of Yale, said the other day.

"The peach season will soon be upon us. This reminds me of a slang word.

"There was to be a school picnic in a wood one summer day, and the teacher said to little Tommy:

"'Tommy, run to the grocery and buy a half peck of peaches. But pinch a few first to see if they're quite ripe.'

"Tommy hurried off and soon returned with his peaches in a huge bag.

"'Did you pinch a few first, as I told you?' said the teacher.

"'A few?' laughed Tommy. 'Why, I pinched the whole half peck.'"

MILLIONS IN IT.

New York Tribune: George W. Perkins, discussing in New York the iniquitous war prices, said:

"France, under the heel of an invading army, did not raise the prices of her bread, her wheat, her milk or other necessaries a single cent. But we!

"Our food speculators tell us there's good reason for war prices. They know we don't believe them, but they say cynically:

"'You can't fool all the people all the time, but there's millions in fooling part of the people part of the time.'"

The first play he will give in New York—beginning next week—is "Androcles and the Lion" by Shaw, which has not been given before in America.

DULUTH MEN ON PROGRAM

N. A. Young and A. B. Hostetter Will Speak at Carlton.

Large Crowd Expected to Attend Agricultural Conference There.

Two Duluth speakers will have a place on the program which has been arranged for the Carlton county agricultural conference which will be held at Carlton tomorrow. They are N. A. Young, county superintendent of schools, and A. B. Hostetter, district supervisor of agricultural agents.

It is expected that the meeting will be attended not only by farmers, but by merchants, professional men and teachers as well. The program arranged for the occasion is as follows:

Afternoon Session.

"County Organization and Co-operation," A. D. Wilson, superintendent farming institutes.

"Boys' and Girls' Potato Contests," T. A. Erickson.

"Relation of Rural Schools to Agriculture," N. A. Young, superintendent of schools, St. Louis county.

Evening Session.

"Illustrated Talk," A. B. Hostetter, district supervisor of agricultural agents.

The purpose of the meeting is to bring together the various agencies which are working to boost the agricultural development of the county.

SHOWS 'SOME SPEED' IN GETTING DRUNK

Prisoner Released to Sober Up Is Rearrested on Similar Charge.

Joseph R. McFadden, aged 27, would be in line for an iron cross, at least, if speed was all that was necessary.

Shortly after 11 o'clock last night McFadden was brought in by Sergeant Roberg and Patrolman Nelson Terry on a charge of being drunk and disorderly. At 6:30 a. m. today he was released so that he could get ready to appear in court at 9:30. Something went wrong, however, and at 8:45 McFadden was "in again," the charge being drunkenness. When 9:30 came he was still too much indisposed to appear in court, so his hearing on the two charges was put over until later in the day. Police believe this to be a record for quick action.

WANTS POLICE TO FIND HER DADDY

Former Cloquet Girl Has Not Heard From Him Since 1909.

Niame Adele Sandstrom, aged 17, formerly of Cloquet, Minn., and now of Spokane, Wash., has not seen or heard from her father since 1909, and has asked Chief of Police C. H. Troyer to help her in the search.

Written in a round, girlish hand, the appeal to help her "find her daddy" is being passed around at headquarters, in the hope that the man may be found.

According to the letter, Charles W. Sandstrom, the father, aged 58, came to Duluth from Cloquet six years ago, and soon afterwards stopped writing to his daughter, the only member of the family. The daughter's address is 547 East Olympic avenue, Spokane, Wash.

JURY TO DECIDE ASSAULT ACTION

La Salle Hotel Management Sued for $1,000 in Assault Case.

A jury in Judge Ensign's division of the district court will retire this afternoon to decide what damages, if any, Santra Karvonen is entitled to receive from Louis and Rose Hammell, proprietors of the La Salle hotel, and Walter Sprinkle, assistant manager, for being assaulted by Sprinkle about a year ago. She testified that while she was employed at the hotel as a domestic, Sprinkle became displeased with her work and struck her. She was disabled for two months, she said, and was obliged to consult a physician. She is suing for $1,000 damages. M. E. Louisell appeared as her attorney and A. E. McManus represented the defendants.

NABBED IN PAWNSHOP.

Edward Laine Finds Himself in Toils When He Thought Himself Safe.

Alleged to have stolen a watch from George Finnegan, traveling salesman of Minneapolis, early in December, while in Moorhead, Minn., Edward Laine, aged 22, was locked up by the police today.

Lieut. Norman Terry found Finnegan's watch in a pawnshop at 522 West Superior street, Dec. 26, nearly a month after the timepiece was stolen in Moorhead. Since that time he has been waiting for Laine to redeem the watch, and today when the latter tried to, Officer Lading was waiting for him.

Laine is being held pending instructions from the Minneapolis police, who have a warrant for his arrest. In order to save the expense of taking him to Moorhead for trial, Laine may be arraigned here on a grand larceny charge.

Under the state law a man can be given as "stiff" a sentence for carrying stolen property from one county to another as for stealing it, in cases of this kind.

STILL WORKING ON BELGIAN PROJECT.

Promoters of the Belgian settlement project for St. Louis county are still keeping up their interest in the plan discussed here some time whereby Madame Phillipine Artois, the Belgian actress, was to bring a colony of about thirty families to this section of the state. When last heard from Madame Artois was in Minneapolis continuing her work to raise her expenses for the trip to her native shores.

J. L. Washburn of this city, who made an offer of 500 acres of land to the proposed colony in behalf of the Boston & Duluth Farm Land company, said today that he had not heard anything directly from Madame Artois, but he heard she was in Minneapolis at a recent date.

MAY RETURN TOO LATE.

Frank Drury, Brakeman, Wanted By Sister Who Is Dying.

Frank Drury's little sister is very ill and his mother is worrying over her long absent son, fearing that he will return too late, according to a letter received this morning by Chief of Police C. H. Troyer from Mrs. William Kaufman, 522 Fourth street, Green Bay, Wis., who says she is Drury's older sister.

He has not been heard of for eight years, but is known to have been employed as a brakeman on various railroads in this part of the country.

ASKS POLICE TO HELP FIND BROTHER.

Grand Kelley, who lives at 742 Butterworth street, Grand Rapids, Mich., wants Chief of Police Troyer to help him find his brother, Noble, who has "an appetite for drink" and who "loves horses."

Noble is described as being 6 feet tall, weighs 170 pounds, aged 48 years and dark complexioned. Grand has not heard of him for nearly ten years, but believes that he is in the lumber camps.

A recent government report shows that wages of farm laborers have increased more than those of city workmen in the last twenty years.

G. J. WEIGLE FOR COMMISSIONER

Philipp Names Successor to State Food and Dairy Head.

Madison, Wis., Jan. 29.—Governor E. L. Philipp today sent to the senate for confirmation the appointment of Former State Senator George J. Weigle as state food and dairy commissioner to succeed J. Q. Emery, whose term expires Feb. 1.

A joint resolution for a constitutional convention to be held in November, 1916, was offered in the assembly by McGowan, Adams county.

Waldron introduced a bill providing free text books in all public schools, and Tews one to repeal the law providing for non-partisan elections in all cities.

A joint resolution by Assemblyman Vint urges congress "to prohibit the shipping to the war zone of any article that will help to keep the warring armies at their murderous work and furthermore forbid the lending of money to any government that has plunged its interests into war."

A bill by Assemblyman McGowan would abolish the office of oil inspector and place the duties under the dairy and food commissioner.

WHY THE RUST SPOTS.

By Miss Annabell Turner, instructor in home economics, University of Wisconsin extension division: There were tiny rust spots on the clothes just laundered. How they came there was a mystery. Everything was suspected and examined but the bluing.

And in the bluing lay the fault.

Most of the bluings in the market today come from Prussian blue. It is very cheap, gives a good color, and is readily soluble, but it is an iron compound which is decomposed by alkalies, yielding iron rust. If the clothes are not carefully rinsed until free from all soap and other alkali used in washing, contact with the bluing will result in tiny rust spots on the clothes.

Here is a test for the presence of iron in bluing. Prepare about a teaspoon of a strong solution of the bluing you wish to test. Add an equal amount of ordinary household ammonia and allow to stand from fifteen to thirty minutes. A reddish brown precipitate shows the presence of iron.

The objectionable results of Prussian blue may be overcome by the use of an acid rinse to neutralize the alkali. Two tablespoons of acetic acid or about a third of a cup of vinegar to a pail of water will be sufficient under ordinary circumstances. The amount of alkali present in the rinsing water varies greatly, and therefore no absolute rule can be given. A smaller amount might often be used.

Ultramarine blue is an iron compound, but it does not decompose with alkali. It is often bought as ball bluing. It is insoluble in water, but breaks up into very minute particles which spread through the liquid and give it a blue color. The water must be stirred, and one must be careful in using it, or the clothes will be streaked.

Aniline blues give good clear colors, but they actually dye the material and should therefore be used carefully. Some of them require an acid to develop them. Acetic acid, or vinegar, is preferable to oxalic acid, as it is volatile and has less action on the fiber.

Two British girls applied for positions as Red Cross nurses, but insisted their mother "prefers it is officers we nurse."

ISANTI CREAMERY ELECTS.

Chooses Officers and Hears Reports on Business.

Isanti, Minn., Jan. 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—The annual meeting of the Isanti Farmers Creamery company was held Tuesday afternoon. The report showed that during the past year about $31,000 was paid for milk and cream; about 100,000 pounds of butter were manufactured; and the net earnings were $750. The following officers were elected: President, Eric Lundgren; vice president, Leonard Larson; secretary, W. D. Oleson; treasurer, J. W. Clover; directors, Gust Johnson, John Ostrom, F. W. Krueger. The directors re-engaged Henry A. Hansen as butter maker at a salary of $90 per month.

COMB SAGE TEA INTO GRAY HAIR

Darkens Beautifully and Restores Its Thickness and Lustre at Once.

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea, with sulphur and alcohol added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant; remove every bit of dandruff, stop scalp itching and falling hair. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get the ready-to-use tonic, costing about 50 cents a large bottle, at drug stores, known as "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," thus avoiding a lot of muss.

While wispy, gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared. After another application or two your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant and you appear years younger.

NO INCREASE AT PRESENT

Revenues of Government Are Satisfactory for Time Being.

No Immediate Need of Any Legislative Action on Matter.

Washington, Jan. 29.—Leaders of the administration in conference yesterday with President Wilson decided there was no immediate need for legislative action to increase the government's revenues. Secretary McAdoo of the treasury announced last night it had been agreed that at the end of the fiscal year the government would know better the effects of the European war and what, if anything, it is necessary to do.

Mr. McAdoo declared he still stood by his estimate of the government's revenue for the fiscal year ending next June, which compared with its estimate of expenditures, would leave a deficit of $10,000,000.

It was understood after the conference that suggestions that the war revenue act be extended for six months and that congress abandon the $34,000,000 river and harbor bill struck no responsive chord. On the other hand, the cabinet officers were said to have made it plain that in accordance with the president's suggestion, they had cut their estimates to the very limit and could not make further reductions without impairing the efficiency of their departments.

The estimates sent to congress in December aggregated $710,000,000 to which $26,000,000 was to be added for Panama canal disbursements.

Additional Estimates.

Some additional estimates have been sent in since then, however, and substantial additions to the proposed appropriations have been made by the house committees in drafting the supply bills. Secretary McAdoo's estimate of revenues, exclusive of the postoffice department, was $728,000,000. This included $220,000,000 from customs, $305,000,000 from ordinary internal revenue, $54,000,000 from the emergency war tax, and $80,000,000 from the income and corporation tax.

In a statement to the White House conference which Majority Leader Underwood and Chairman Fitzgerald of the house appropriations committee attended, Mr. McAdoo said:

"The conclusion was reached that no action is necessary now as we shall know better at the end of the fiscal year 1915 what the effects of the European war will be and what, if anything, is necessary to be done.

"Since the new tariff and income tax law was passed in 1913, there is deferred until June of each fiscal year, the payment into the treasury of $75,000,000 to $80,000,000 of corporation and income tax. Previous to that time almost the total receipts of the government were reflected in the revenues collected daily and shown in the daily treasury statement. In June 1915, almost the entire amount of the corporation and personal income tax will be paid, just as in 1914, and what appears to be a loss in revenue, will be overcome."

As Big As Expected.

In support of Mr. McAdoo's statement, some officials pointed out there was reason to believe that the war revenue act would be at least as big a revenue producer as had been expected. Available figures up to December last show that $600,000,000 war revenue stamps had been sold by internal revenue collectors throughout the country during 1899 when the Spanish war tax was effective the number of stamps sold was $1,650,000,000. The value of those sold to date under the present law has not been determined.

Secretary McAdoo's estimate for customs receipts for the coming year $220,000,000 is about $72,000,000 under the receipts for 1913.

So far as the income tax law goes, there is no accurate data available in the treasury department on which officials can base an estimate of what may be expected this fiscal year. Last year it produced about $60,700,000 from corporations and individuals.

STARTED IN LIFE AS OFFICE BOY

Rev. Dr. McClelland Called to One of Glasgow's Leading Churches.

(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)

London, Jan. 14.—Rev. H. S. McClelland, B. A., B. D., who has been called from the East Finchley Congregational church to the leading church of that sect in Glasgow, began life as an office boy in Fleet street on a salary of 5 shillings a week. As men who have worked up from $1.25 a week and paid their way through the university are less numerous in England than in the United States, his promotion has attracted considerable notice in the London press.

McClelland was born in Belfast in 1882. His father's going on the stage early caused an estrangement in the family, and when his mother died, he and his brother were adopted by their grandfather, a Belfast linen manufacturer. The grandfather was sternly religious, and punished the future pastor on one occasion for whistling on the Sabbath. The boy was sent to a Quaker school. On his grandfather's death, he came to London to make his own fortune when 14 years old.

As $1.25 was not enough to keep him, he found a family willing to board him on credit. Soon he found a job as salesman in a book store at 15 shillings a week, then with a big firm of tea merchants, where he became a secretary to one of the partners. This suggested the tea business for himself. He found he could make more as a drummer for a wholesale perfumery house. Then it was, at the age of 19, that he determined to educate himself. With a capital of $500 he had saved, he entered Nottingham college, where he soon won a scholarship. After taking his B. A. there, he entered New college, London, where he was largely supported by scholarships, taking an essay prize for three years and the jubilee medal at the end.

The engagement of McClelland to the daughter of Sir Andrew Torrence, former member of parliament, was announced recently.

Strikers Reject Offer.

Roosevelt, N. J., Jan. 29.—The striking employes of the American Agricultural Chemical company's plant here, voted unanimously at a mass meeting yesterday to reject an offer of $1.80 for a 10-hour day. This was 20 cents more than they were receiving when they walked out early this month. Reduction of wages from $2 to $1.60 a day, was the cause of the strike.

About the New Shoe Department

Important changes have been made this week in our Shoe department.

The east wall has been moved back to make a large, light and luxuriously pleasant room; the repair and stockrooms have been greatly enlarged; and the rear of the store altered to make a special Children's department. With these changes the Shoe department becomes the most up-to-date store of the kind in the Northwest.

FEDERAL RESERVE BANK PROVING A GREAT SUCCESS

Chairman Rich of Minneapolis Tells Advantages of New System.

Agency for Promotion of Sound Development Is at Hand.

Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—John H. Rich, chairman of the board of the North Federal Reserve bank, before the Minneapolis chapter of the American Institute of Banking last night, gave the first official expression of this bank to the public. Mr. Rich said:

"So far as any single measure can, the new banking act satisfies the best judgment of banking experts, financiers and business men. It is not perfect. There are here and there defects which will undoubtedly be remedied, but they are of minor importance and in no way detract from the achievement of establishing at last, after sixty years of argument and debate, a discount market in the United States, and the mobilization of banking reserves. My view of the act, and the system of banking created under it, is a hopeful one. No sound and well-meaning member bank should hereafter fail. Panics have been made a remote danger. New credit facilities have been extended, through member banks, to business and agriculture generally over the country. A new agency for the promotion of sound development is at hand. These are accomplished facts. The Ninth Federal Reserve bank is open and is transacting business. The degree in which it will help business depends wholly on the degree in which its member banks utilize the new rights it has extended to them. It is but sixty days old and as yet new to its work. I have no fear for the future. It will prosper and, as the months go by, its facilities will be more and more utilized in support of the activities of a thousand Northwestern communities.

System Is Unique.

"The banking system which has been established is unique. It is erroneous to take the view that the government has merely acquired a closer supervision over the banks of the country. The true situation is much more important and much better calculated to serve the people of the United States in a practical and beneficial way. The government was a supervising agency over all national banks before the Federal Reserve act was adopted. It has now become not alone a supervising agency, but a partner of the member banks of the new system. Where the member banks have supplied approximately $250,000,000 of funds now in possession of the Federal reserve system, the government has in turn provided a degree of protection to all banks which was never before known in this country.

"Where the banks have, without option, contributed to the capital stock of the federal Reserve bank of their district, they have been given 6 per cent cumulative dividends and the Federal government has, without reservation, released from their former hoards of dead cash an amount of money which is now entering the commercial field in the form of loanable funds, which makes it quite unimportant whether the Federal reserve banks ever pay their dividends. A profit to the member banks in interest upon what was formerly dead cash should be considered in the light of a dividend resulting from the establishment of the new system. I have no fear that the Ninth Federal reserve bank will not be fully able to meet its dividend requirements and its reasonable expenses, even in its first year. It was founded to perform a service to the public and while it was in no sense created as a profit-making institution, it will at the same time take its moderate earnings in increasing proportion, as its practical serviceability to commerce, industry and agriculture is extended.

Both Sides Benefited.

"The mutual relation between the Federal government and the member banks should be of the greatest benefit upon both sides. Through closer intimacy with the business of thousands of banks, the government will come into a better and a more intimate knowledge of the practical requirements of business in this country. It was essential that the mutuality of this new relationship be recognized on both sides, and there is no doubt but that this has been successfully accomplished. It constitutes the best and surest safeguard for the success of the new system in the future. When the idea has been dispelled from the minds of bankers that their interests are antagonistic to those of the general movement, and when the general government has appreciated that the greatest degree of public service can be rendered through close and intelligent co-operation with the commercial banks, there has been laid the foundation of an understanding which cannot fail to be of great practical benefit to every man engaged in commerce, in manufactures, and in agriculture.

"Two important principles, involved in the operation of the Federal reserve banks, have particular application to the banks of the Ninth reserve district, comprising a part of Michigan, a part of Wisconsin, Minnesota, North Dakota, South Dakota and Montana. They are as follows:

"1. The practical functions of the Ninth Federal Reserve bank, in relation with its member banks, must be performed at all times in consideration of the nation-wide purposes which lie back of the founding of the new banking system, and cannot yield wholly to the influence of district, state or local conditions.

"2. In such degree as the Ninth Federal Reserve bank continuously exhausts its resources in meeting the requests of its own member banks or in attempting to stimulate activities local to its own district or to the states or localities therein, it places itself in danger of impairing its serviceability in times of stress, danger or panic.

Adequate Protection to All.

"The purpose of the Ninth regional bank is not to unduly stimulate or accentuate agricultural and commercial prosperity. It must seek to afford safe and adequate protection to every member bank. The resources of the Ninth Federal Reserve bank promise to be entirely adequate at all times to any reasonable demands of this district. While undue stimulation and the creation of an artificial prosperity must be avoided, it is the business of this bank to meet the fair and reasonable demands of its member banks and, while exercising necessary conservatism, it must offer to commerce, industry and agriculture such a degree of support as will serve as a substantial protection against high money rates, stringency, sudden or unusual stress, or panic.

"Of various banking criticisms that have been made, the most common is that Northwestern banks have no paper of the kind and character acceptable for rediscount. Those who hold this view should study the act. No impression could be farther from the truth. Member banks have only to select such paper as has been made for the conduct of current business (as distinguished from paper made for the purpose of employing the proceeds for investment), and which is of the required maturity, and present it to the Ninth Federal Reserve bank, to find that it will be immediately accepted, and the proceeds forwarded in currency or placed to the credit of the applying bank. Paper which is based on agricultural, industrial or commercial transactions, of a non-investment character, is chiefly within the act. The bulk of the paper held by Northwestern banks is necessarily of this general character. A large proportion complies fully and completely with the requirements of the act. No bank need feel apprehension as to the character of available paper. We are daily rediscounting for member banks, without delay, red tape or inconvenience. Such transactions fulfill a principal purpose of the Ninth Federal Reserve bank and are daily increasing in volume.

Founded to Serve Business.

"The Ninth Federal Reserve bank was not founded to produce revenue for itself or create a surplus for the benefit of the government. It was founded to serve business through existing commercial banks. The method chosen is that of establishing a harmonious and co-operative relationship with its member banks. Through this it has been possible to provide new and much needed facilities for the better encouragement of business of all kinds. There should not be, in my opinion, any disposition to restrict or curtail member banks in the granting of just and reasonable accommodation. In no other way can the Ninth Federal Reserve bank accomplish the constructive work that lies before it.

"It is natural that those who have welcomed the founding of the new banking system have sometimes spoken of it with undue enthusiasm and credited to it possibilities which are outside of its real purposes. The view that it is to produce cheap money is erroneous. Such a purpose has never been seriously considered since the congress of the United States first undertook the formulation of the new system. It is a trite but effective answer to such an argument to say that 'Money is worth what it is worth,' and no artificial conditions produced in any locality of the United States or the nation as a whole, can create an interest rate which is out of line and not in equitable relation to the money rates of the great financial centers of the world. The current rate in the United States cannot be wholly determined by the United States itself, as the recent conditions created by the great European conflict bear witness.

"It is a reasonable view that the influence of the Federal Reserve banks will at all times tend to preserve money rates at a level which is fair, reasonable and just, in view of all of the conditions in the United States and the relation of those conditions to circumstances, events and developments at other financial centers and in other parts of the world.

Every One Benefited.

"While it may never be that the average man on the street will be able to point to any tangible, direct benefit to himself through the creation of this system, it will unquestionably prove true that every wage earner will find that the establishment of the reserve banks has so guaranteed the commercial safety of his employing concern, if it is conservatively managed, that he will be less exposed than before to violent fluctuations in the demand for labor. The salaried man has the same interest in the new system. Business men, big and little, have the assurance that so long as their enterprises are well and safely managed their credit will not be restricted. These are new and exceedingly valuable elements in the daily activities of the people of this Northwestern country. In such measure as the commercial banks are granted a line of defense to fall back upon, an added element of safety and protection has been passed along to all of their customers who are operating along conservative lines. These benefits pass in turn to those who are employed in such businesses, whether they be officers, salaried employes or wage earners.

"While the Ninth Federal reserve bank is not authorized to transact any business with individuals, it still has the ability to directly influence the growth and prosperity of every sound business by making it possible for every such business to obtain, from the commercial banks of the district, such credit facilities as it may be entitled to. The ability of business to obtain such facilities at all times is more important and is better calculated to serve the upbuilding of this Northwestern country in the long run than any direct and artificial stimulus or advantages.

Much Accomplished.

"To have accomplished so much within so short a period as that elapsing since the middle of last November is a compliment alike to those who are at the head of this new system and to those who are the executives of the numerous member banks. The Ninth Federal Reserve bank is today meeting the requirements of its member banks in continually increasing volume. A recent statement of its loans and discounts showed that, while its proportionate importance as compared with the Federal reserve system as a whole is only about one-twentieth, its then outstanding accommodations to its member banks constituted approximately one-eighth of the total loans and discounts shown on the consolidated statement of the Federal reserve board.

"I wish to place great emphasis upon the public service which these banks are destined to perform. Merely to satisfy the technical requirements as indicated in the act will not entitle them to the full confidence of the public. Their purpose was not alone or primarily to make banking a safe business, but to provide and guarantee safe conditions under which the business man and farmer man continue their activities. It is not to be assumed that the creation of this system has made panics impossible, but it has at least done away with the characteristic and very dangerous form of panic which has been common in the United States, arising out of a disturbed condition of public confidence. Such panic periods as that of the fall of 1907 will not occur again.

"Business in the Northwest does not need or demand any special favors or unusual advantages. To continue its very encouraging growth at an even more rapid rate than before, it demands only to know that credit facilities will be proportionate to its increasing demands and adequate to the requirements of sound and constructive expansion. Such facilities the Ninth Federal Reserve bank will provide."

WAR OFFERS NEW ROADS TO WEALTH

New Openings Found By British Manufacturers and Traders.

(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)

London, Jan. 14.—Men of business with ready eye to changing conditions have found that wartimes offers many new roads to wealth, if the opportunity is seized quickly. Almost every day since the war began some alert British manufacturer or trader has found openings in some new field.

The khaki boom, still at its height, resulted in the sudden establishment of huge factories in the heart of London. Hundreds of young women left good places in the jam and pickle factories nearby for the work of making uniforms. Tailors, pressers, who were glad to earn $10 a week in normal times are able to take in three times that sum at present.

A prominent hardware manufacturer in Birmingham put his factory into the hands of a manager at the beginning of the war and himself hurried to a nearby town and erected a plant for the manufacture of emblems and buttons. He has been making these novelties in wartime designs by the million at a handsome profit.

A lithographer found a similar gold mine by turning his entire plant over to the printing of patriotic picture postcards, while a struggling novelty dealer has put his business on its feet by the sale of a hundred thousand or more sewing kits for soldiers.

Lesser successes have been achieved by the men who have marketed such minor articles for soldiers' use as a boot-tag, a pipe lighter, and a patriotic brooch. An American traveler at the beginning of the war chanced to learn that the supply of cheap buttons in England was precariously low, most of the English supply having been imported from Austria; he took immense orders in behalf of an American firm at prices presuhmably well above the ordinary.

The war has brought a moderate degree of prosperity to makers and dealers in foods, clothing, medical supplies, war munitions, and an immense number of small articles required by land or sea forces. Ship builders and ship owners have scored heavily, and the British farmer is getting unprecedented prices for his products. Even the dentists have had their share of war business, for it is necessary that the man who is going to the front to serve the king in water-filled trenches, should have his teeth in sound shape if he is to enjoy the excursion.

BLOODY FIGHT IN DIXMUDE STREETS

Berlin School Teacher Describes an Assault By the Turcos.

(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)

Antwerp, Jan. 10.—A story told by a Berlin school teacher confirms what many have said about the bloodiness of the fighting which took place in the streets of Dixmude.

The teacher, and two other Berlin landwehr men—a lawyer and a publisher—were entering that little town in Flanders with other German soldiers by some of the main streets, when they became the prey of Turcos in hiding. They darted from narrow side streets and houses, and, as eyewitnesses relate, sprang upon the heavier Germans like so many tigers.

The three Berlin landwehr men had just rounded one of the corners of the city hall, when they were separated from their comrades by a rush of Turcos from the fire station. There was nothing they could do but back into a door opening, and here they tried to keep a large crowd of yelling Turcos at bay. What happened next is best told by the teacher, who now has the less exciting job of doing sentry duty on one of the local wharves, for which detail a rather large wound in the thigh is responsible.

"The Turcos went at us with might and main," he said. "I can still see their rolling eyes and white teeth. They seemed to literally thirst for our blood. But their yelling and shouting was worse, perhaps, than their efforts to finish the three of us. Every time we put a bullet into one of them, or jabbed the bayonet home, the awful racket the fellows made with their leather-lined throats increased.

"But we kept on shooting into the crowd, delaying the end which seemed all too close.

"Finally one of us three, the publisher, went down with a shot in the head—skull fractured. The Turcos thought that now they would put an end to the business. So also thought a French officer, who went down a second later with the bayonet of the lawyer sticking in his chest. Then the lawyer went down. I was alone then, and thought it was all over.

"Just then a large flash rose from the ground before me. The explosion which followed drowned the voices of the yelling Turcos. Then I went down—with my thigh split wide open by one of the splinters of the shell.

"The spot was a sight, when I regained by senses. Dead and multilated Turcos everywhere. We were found about 8 o'clock that night, and none too soon. My comrades are still in the hospital. They are men over 40 and not quite so likely to recuperate rapidly."

All three have been given the Iron Cross, second class.

SERIOUS UPRISING OF SOUTHERN SLAVS

Austro-Hungarian Order for Mobilization Causes Trouble.

Geneva, Jan. 28. via Paris.—The order of the Austro-Hungarian government for the mobilization of the last line of reserves has brought about a serious rising among the southern Slavs, according to uncensored dispatches reaching here from Austrian sources.

The clergy, these advices say, headed the movement of resistance, which began Sunday morning at Daibach, thirty-five miles northeast of Trieste. After the sermon by a Slavonian priest, the crowd is reported to have left the cathedral shouting "Down with the war!" "Down with the Germans!"

The rioters atacked the gendarmes and after shots were fired, the cavalry was called out and charged the crowd. During the disturbance the prefect's palace was burned and its furniture and pictures, which were thrown out of the windows were trampled to pieces.

At Agram, capital of Croatia and Slavonia, bodies of students tore down the mobilization notices and it is reported that a Hungarian official, a student and a child were killed in the rioting that followed. There was rioting also at Karlstadt, in Croatia, where the mobilization notices were destroyed.

At Susack, near Fiume, the armory of the Hungary landwehr is said to have been plundered.

An enormous crowd, these advices from Austrian sources also say, concentrated at Opina and then descended on Trieste and joined manifestants there. All the boards on which the official notices of mobilization were posted were destroyed and in the fight which followed with marines two of the rioters are reported to have been killed.

Late dispatches state that the rioting continues and that general apprehension is felt as to the outcome.

Serious trouble is reported also in Transylvania, where Governor Count Bethlen, it is stated, has ordered that all persons refusing to submit to the decree of the authorities shall be shot.

if you are careful to observe the following three points of distinction:

That the neck strap over the cork is unbroken.
That our name and monogram are blown in the bottle.
That the label bears our trade-mark of the "Old Chemist," and signature of the Company.

For more than 50 years Duffy's has been before the public and today enjoys a very favorable reputation; in fact so favorable that unscrupulous dealers go to the trouble of imitating the bottle and contents. An article must have merit to meet competitive conditions and to warrant the spending of thousands of dollars to spread the doctrine of its health giving properties. Take Duffy's in tablespoon doses in equal amounts of water or milk before meals and on retiring and you will be gratified at the results.

Wonder what upset your stomach—which portion of the food did the damage—do you? Well, don't bother. Millions of men and women to-day know that it is needless to have a bad stomach. A little Diapepsin occasionally keeps the stomach regulated and they eat their favorite foods without fear.

MERCURY MAY SCORE PLUS

Shift of Wind Out of North to East Would Do It.

Lowest Mark Is 24 Deg. Below—Highest Wednesday 16 Below.

Zero weather is in sight, if—

The fulfillment of the half promise depends upon the direction of the wind. If it stays in the north, as it is now, the below-zero weather will continue; if it shifts to the northeast, as there is a promise of it doing, the mercury will mount to zero or perhaps a little above.

Mr. Richardson says that if the wind stays as it is another night of 10 to 20 deg. below zero may be looked for, so the only salvation is a shifting of the wind.

The thermometer registered 22 deg. below zero here at 7 o'clock this morning, but went still lower by 8, hitting the 24 deg. mark. However, immediately after that—that being the lowest mark for the night and morning—the mercury began to go up. Here are the temperature records by hours:

7 a. m.	—22 deg.
8 a. m.	—24 deg.
9 a. m.	—17 deg.
10 a. m.	—13 deg.
11 a. m.	—11 deg.
12 m.	—10 deg.
1 p. m.	— 7 deg.

In Manitoba, weather of the 36-deg. below variety prevailed last night, but there has been considerable of a letup in the upper Mississippi and upper Missouri valley and the western lake region. The Red river region and Eastern points are getting the worst of the weather now.

Following is a record of the high and low temperatures for the last seven days, the below-zero weather beginning on Jan. 21:

Jan.	High.	Low.

22	6	— 8

At first he met with little or no resistance, but when the national palace was reached, shots from the cathedral roof and other buildings nearby caused his soldiers to open up a fusillade which, however, lasted but a short time. After the fighting was over, a correspondent counted three persons lying dead in the plaza.

The rear guard of the Zapatistas left the city as Gen. Obregon entered, holding up street cars at the point of rifles in order to commandeer the same for transport as far as the suburbs.

All commercial houses and banks were closed but aside from the shooting on the main plaza, the entry of the Carranza forces caused no disturbance.

cluding the normal schools, and doing away with the state normal school board. It proposes, too, a complete revolution in the system of distributing state aid and even in the distribution of local school taxes.

Abolish All Local Boards.

These provisions will be cared for in one bill. In another bill it will be provided that all local school boards, except in independent school districts, shall be abolished, and that in each county all the rural schools shall be put in one district under an elective county board of education consisting of three members. This board will appoint the county superintendent, who is now elected by the people, and will run the rural schools.

The temper of the members of the committees was indicated by a remark by Representative Elmer E. Adams of Fergus Falls, who said that a member from his county who voted for this proposal would never have any hope of re-election.

Representative Gunnar B. Bjornson of Minneota, though he admitted that academically there might be merit in the plan, said that it is the duty of government not only to educate children, but to educate adults in sound citizenship. "This cannot be accomplished," he said, "by taking such responsibilities as these away from them."

Though the commission's report has been made public, bills carrying out its plan are not yet before the legislature, so yesterday's hearing was informal. The bills will be ready soon, and will then be formally considered by the committees on education of both houses.

To Wipe Out One Saloon.

A complete revision of the state's lawmaking machinery to wipe out one lonely saloon is the project behind a bill which the house committee on villages yesterday afternoon recommended to pass.

The bill is introduced by Adolph S. Larson of Sandstone, and it provides for the dissolution of villages having less than fifty inhabitants. If it becomes a law, any time a census discloses the fact that any village in this state has less than fifty people, it will be possible to wipe such village out of existence without any vote of its people.

Any taxpayer can bring the matter before the county board by applying to the county auditor, who must take a censuse to ascertain the number of people living in the village on the date of the petition, and if it is found that the number is less than fifty, then the county board must declare the village dissolved.

Though the real purpose of the bill was not disclosed in the hearing before the committee, its object is to rid Sandstone, a "dry" community, of a saloon at Banning, a tiny village a mile and a half away.

If the village is dissolved, it cannot vote a license. The only way then would be to get a license through the board of county commissioners, and this the county board would not grant. Hence this bill.

Homestead Law Repealed.

State Auditor J. A. O. Preus yesterday afternoon received an opinion from Attorney General Smith that the homestead requirements of the Cole law of 1905 have been repealed.

Mr. Preus will, therefore, ask for legislation re-enacting these requirements, which are that purchasers of state land must make certain improvements within five years to show that they are settlers in good faith.

As stated in these reports the other day, it is Mr. Preus' intention to enforce, so far as he can, and so far as the legislature will co-operate with him a policy of preserving state lands for actual settlers and of preventing their absorption by speculators.

To this end he will ask the legislature virtually to re-enact the Cole law of 1905, which was repealed in 1911, together with additional provisions to make the limitation of 320 acres to each purchaser effective. These provisions will be that no purchases can be made by proxy, and that no holder of 320 acres of state land can buy assignments of land certificates from other purchasers.

Chapter 135 of the laws of 1911 repealed all of the Cole law except the 320-acre limitation. Chapter 90 of the laws of 1911, passed just before Chapter 135, re-enacted the Cole law. Mr. Preus asked the attorney general whether, the repeal law having applied specifically to the law of 1905 without referring to Chapter 90, the latter were or were not repealed. Following is the attorney general's answer:

The Attorney General's Opinion.

"You inquire whether or not chapter 90 of the General Laws of Minnesota is repealed.

"I have to say that it is. It was repealed by chapter 135 of the General Laws of Minnesota for 1911, which was passed at the same session of the legislature. Chapter 135 does not specifically refer to chapter 90, but it refers to it in unmistakable terms. Chapter 90 was but chapter 106 of the General Laws of 1909 (which was specifically repealed by chapter 135) with the time within which specified improvements should be put upon state land extended two years. The entire substance of the law remains the same through chapter 299 of the laws of 1905, chapter 106 of the laws of 1909 and chapter 90 of the laws of 1911. Laws of the same substance are continuous laws, although modified by slight amendments. A repealing law is to be determined by its intent. There can be no question but that chapter 135 aforesaid intended to reneal the law which existed at the time it was passed in substantially the same form as it had existed for several years. The certainty of its intent appears from the wording of the first section which releases all persons from the contracts entered into under its terms, as well as from the third section which specifically repeals the law."

Public Domain Department.

The house yesterday afternoon advanced to the calendar the proposed constitutional amendment by Representative Kneeland separating the control of state lands from the state auditor's office, so that a department of public domain can be given full control of the lands.

Though there was some criticism of the bill, there were no votes against its advancement to the calendar.

The house committee on general legislation, after a hearing, laid over for further consideration the bill proposing to cut the maximum rate of interest on contract loans from 10 per cent to 8 per cent.

Several bankers appeared before the committee and pointed out that while the bill looked like a move to protect the poor man, really it would not only injure the banks but would hurt the poor man too, by depriving him of credit.

They asserted that most 10 per cent loans are on chattel mortgages, and more or less hazardous. The effect of making 10 per cent loans illegal, they said, would be either to prevent such people as farm renters from borrowing money at all, or to force moneylenders to charge a commission high enough to offset the cut in rates.

The bill by Theodore Christianson abolishing the state oil inspection department was up before the house committee on general legislation yesterday afternoon, but was laid over to allow those interested in the bill a chance to be heard.

The bill by Senator J. D. Sullivan of St. Cloud, providing an appropriation of $100,000 for the 1915 state census, and directing that it be conducted by the secretary of state as the custom has been in the past, was recommended for passage yesterday afternoon by the senate committee on general legislation. The appropriation, however, will be considered by the finance committee.

The senate committee on general legislation recommended for passage the bill by Senator W. A. Campbell of Minneapolis providing for a state emergency fund of $75,000 to be used to relieve sufferers from catastrophes. An amendment by the author makes it applicable also to such exigencies as the recent hog cholera epidemic.

certificates granted for them right in the city of St. Paul.

State Used as Tool.

"The state has been used as a tool for cutting engineers' wages under the present system," declared Michael Morgan, a local engineer. "The boiler inspectors at present holding jobs have in many cases issued licenses to men whom they had never seen. For $25, and less in some cases, any person could get a certificate as a first-class engineer.

"This fee system, under which the inspections are now carried out, has resulted, in some cases, in the inspectors making as high as $4,000 per annum. This will all be eliminated under the proposed law."

Would Be Paid Salaries.

Under the existing law, there are fifty-three boiler inspectors, appointed by the governor. They retain all the fees for their inspections and certificates. The new measure eliminates this and calls for the appointment of ten inspectors, one for each congressional district, and a chief engineer. These men will all be bonded and will receive a salary of $1,500 with the exception of the chief examiner, who will receive a salary of $2,000. They will be compelled to devote the whole of their time to the duties of their office, instead of being allowed to engage in other occupations, as is the case at present. The chief engineer must be a man who has had at least fifteen years' experience as a practical engineer and the balance of the examiners must have had ten years' actual experience prior to their appointment. Enacting qualifications are necessary for the issuance of licenses for engineers and any engineer whose license has for any reason been revoked has the right to appeal.

Fees Revert to the State.

By the terms of the proposed measure, the fees collected for the issuance of licenses and the inspection of boilers will revert to the state and the salaries of the examiner will be paid out of this fund. The bill carries no appropriations.

Several slight changes in the bill were proposed at the hearing, and it was explained that they were the result of a careful examination of the measure by representatives of both engineering bodies.

While no action was taken at the hearing yesterday, it was intimated that when the bill is brought before the committee at the next regular meeting a favorable report will be prepared.

A sub-committee of the house committee on judiciary will have a public hearing Monday afternoon on the bill by Representative W. J. Help the Stomach Digest Your Food

When the stomach fails to digest and distribute that which is eaten, the bowels become clogged with a mass of waste and refuse that ferments and generates poisons that are gradually forced into the blood, causing distress and often serious illness.

Most people naturally object to the drastic cathartic and purgative agents that shock the system. A mild, gentle laxative, positive in its effect and that will quickly relieve constipation is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, sold by druggists at fifty cents and one dollar a bottle. It does not gripe or cramp, but acts easily and pleasantly and is therefore the most satisfactory remedy for children, women and elderly persons. For a free trial bottle write to Dr. W. B. ACTIVITIES IN GALICIA AND THE CARPATHIANS FEATURE OF THE WAR vancing into Egypt are marooned somewhere on the desert. Not one word has been heard of them since the announcement three days ago of their presence to the eastward of El Kantara and no further clashes with British outposts have been reported.

A message from Vienna by way of Venice says there is a growing popular demand in Austria that the government follow the example of Germany and take over the control of all the grain and flour in the market.

From Petrograd comes the news that Emperor Nicholas has approved an appropriation of $8,750,000 for the immediate construction of a government railroad from Petrozavodsk, 185 miles northeast of Petrograd, to the White sea. This would make a second line of communication with the outside world through this region, the other being to Archangel.

French Statement.

Paris, Jan. 29, 2:51 p. m.—Jan. 28 was a day of comparative quiet along the battle line in France, judging from the official announcement given out by the French war office this afternoon. There were artillery engagements, some of them fairly violent, at different places, and one or two infantry encounters are mentioned. Apparently long sections of the line showed no activity whatever. The statement says:

"The day of Jan. 28 saw nothing more than local engagements which resulted favorably to us. In Belgium, in the vicinity of Nieuport, our infantry secured a footing on Grande Dune, a locality which was mentioned in the communication of Jan. 17.

"A German aeroplane was brought down by our artillery fire.

"In the sectors of Ypres, Lens and Arras there were yesterday artillery engagements which at times became fairly violent. Several infantry attacks were undertaken, but at once driven back by our fire. In the sectors of Soissons, Craonne and Reims there is nothing to report. Between Reims and the Argonne yesterday saw artillery engagements, but not of great intensity.

"It has been confirmed that the German attack repulsed by us the night of Jan. 27-28 at Fontaine Madame cost the Germans dear.

"On the heights of the Meuse and in the Woevre yesterday was quiet. In the Vosges there were artillery engagements, our cannon at several points silencing the fire of German batteries and machine gun detachments.

"We have everywhere consolidated the positions occupied by us Jan. 27."

German Statement.

Berlin, Jan. 29, by wireless to London, 3:20 p. m.—The German official statement issued at the army headquarters today mentions especially the night fighting which took place between the Germans and French on the western battle front, and between the Germans and Russians in Central Poland.

A night attack on the British supply station at Dunkirk is reported to have been made by a number of German aeroplanes, and the statement also announces that a German attack with bayonets at night succeeded in driving the French from German trenches, to which they had penetrated near Nieuport.

In Russian Poland to the west of Warsaw several Russian trenches were captured by the Germans, who claim to have repulsed a fierce Russian night counter-attack. The statement says:

"In the western theater: During a night expedition made by one of our squadrons of aeroplanes the English provision establishments of the fortress of Dunkirk were attacked. Many bombs were dropped.

"An attack made by the enemy in the dunes to the northwest of Nieuport was repulsed. The enemy, who penetrated at one place as far as our trenches, was repulsed by a night bayonet attack.

"To the south of La Bassee canal the English attempted to recapture positions which we had taken from them, but their attack easily was repulsed.

"Nothing of importance took place on the remainder of the front.

"In the eastern theater: Russian attacks in the region of Russen, northeast of Gumbinen (East Prussia), failed, the enemy suffering heavy losses.

"In Northern Poland there was no change in the situation.

"To the northeast of Bolimow and to the east of Lowicz (Central Poland) our troops drove the enemy out of his outpost positions and penetrated into his main positions. The captured trenches, with the exception of one small portion of them, were retained and adapted by us notwithstanding a fierce night counter-attack."

Russian Statement.

Petrograd, Jan. 29.—The general staff of the Russian army today issued a report on the progress of the fighting as follows:

"In the country to the north of Tilsit, East Prussia, Russian detachments, Jan. 25, took the offensive and drove back the Germans, destroying the railroad station at Pogegen, a few miles north of Tilsit.

"The fighting in the forested country to the north of Pilkalen and Gumbinen continues and in certain places we are making progress. Along the rest of the front in East Prussia, Jan. 27 passed quietly, except in the country to the northeast of Darkehmen. Here the Germans attacked our positions, but they were driven back to their trenches.

"On the right bank of the lower Vistula encounters continue between our advance guards and those of the enemy. On the left bank of the Vistula, in the vicinity of Borjimow, Russian troops aided by sappers delivered an attack the night of Jan. 27 on the trenches of the enemy, after having the afternoon of that day successfully countermined these trenches. In this same locality the Germans assumed offensive operations but without success.

"The artillery duel along the left bank of the Vistula continued Jan. 27. Our efficient shell fire against the position of the enemy silenced several of his batteries and inflicted heavy losses on the Germans in their trenches. This was particularly the case near the village of Jidomitze, where we saw German soldiers carrying numerous dead and wounded from their trenches.

"Galicia: Along the Carpathian front from Dukla pass to the railroad running between Stry and Mounkatch, we were engaged Jan. 26 and Jan. 27 with successful results. Our success to the southwest of Dukla pass was particularly important. Here our troops, advancing with energy, compelled the enemy, Jan. 26, to retreat in great haste, leaving behind them ammunition and other war material. In the vicinity of Tsekhanie and Dolkhony we captured on Jan. 27 an earthworks of the enemy, and we surrounded a second position close to this first one. During these operations we took a number of prisoners, officers and men. The exact numbers have not yet been determined.

"At certain points along this front the enemy has made particular efforts to assume the offensive, but everywhere their endeavors have resulted in failure.

"There has been no change in the situation in Bukowina. Artillery duels and outpost skirmishes continue."

NET PROFIT OF $151,912

Great Northern Power Company Reports Balance on Right Side.

Company Spends $9,338,900 and Doubles Value of Its Plant.

During 1914 the Great Northern Power company made a net profit of $151,912.61, according to the annual report of the company filed yesterday afternoon with City Auditor B. J. Campbell.

According to the city charter, the Great Northern Power company will have to pay the city on Feb. 1 a special tax levy of $648.45, or one-tenth of 1 per cent of the gross earnings, which amounted to $648,455.42 for the entire year. The report is signed by Oscar Mitchell, secretary, and T. B. Hawkes, treasurer, of the company.

In 1911 the Great Northern Power company, the report states, spent a total of $9,338,900.14 on the purchasing and acquiring of new property, doubling the value of the plant, which was $8,788,414.62, the estimated cost up to Jan. 1, 1914. The cost of the plant to date is thus fixed at $18,127,314.76.

The company has capital stock outstanding valued at $11,000,000, a bonded debt of $6,989,000, payable accounts amounting to $445,832.72, accrued taxes totalling $22,942.98 and accrued interest amounting to $141,-105.75, according to the report. This makes a total of $18,598,881.46.

The revenues from operating and non-operating sources for the entire year amounted to $648,455.42, while the total expenses were $496,542.81, leaving a net income of $151,912.61. Out of this profit the company placed $48,750 into a sinking fund as required by the company's trust deed.

INVESTIGATION OF PRICES OF CATTLE

Representative Anderson Introduces Measure Providing for Such.

From The Herald Washington Bureau.

Washington, Pan. 29.—Representative Anderson of Minnesota today introduced a resolution directing the attorney general to investigate the prices of cattle and hogs at the terminal markets, with a view to determining whether there is a combination in restraint of trade. If that official finds no violation of existing law, he is required under the Anderson resolution to recommend changes in the law that will prevent what he believes to be manipulation of prices of livestock.

In the preamble Mr. Anderson states that the price of cattle has fallen $1.20 per 100 pounds and the price of hogs $2.29 per 100 pounds in the last six months. At the same time the price of corn has increased materially, and there has been no increase in the arrivals of livestock at the markets.

Notwithstanding the falling off in the price paid for cattle and hogs, Mr. Anderson says, the prices of beef and pork have increased at least 1 cent a pound. He charges that there is manipulation of prices which the Federal government should correct.

KAISER AND COUNT ZEPPELIN

The kaiser and Count Zeppelin have always been close friends and it was the kaiser who helped the count financially some years ago when he had spent his entire fortune on the building of the dirigible balloons which bear his name. These dirigibles have been the bugaboo of England since the war began but so far as the record goes they have done nothing to justify their reputation as engines of war. It is not known whether or not they were the airships used to drop bombs on Yarmouth and other towns recently, but the damage done there was inconsiderable.

Lodge Finds Mortgage Securing $5,000 Loan Is Worthless.

Another case growing out of C. J. O'Donnell's affairs came to light yesterday when a suit was filed in district court by the grand lodge of the Ancient Order of United Workmen of the state of Minnesota, in which the organization claims that because of O'Donnell's acts it has paid a mortgage indebtedness of $2,500 which never existed and is out an additional $2,500 on a loan. The court is asked to determine the equities among all concerned.

The grand lodge on June 23, 1911, received an alleged application from Mrs. Emma Anchutz, through C. J. O'Donnell, for a $5,000 loan. City real estate was offered as security. The lodge had its attorneys examine the title. A note for $2,500, secured by a mortgage on the property, was found recorded in favor of E. P. Towne. The lodge made the $5,000 loan and liquidated the debt July 1, 1911. At the time Mr. Towne was paid the $2,500 he was of the opinion that the note and mortgage he held were genuine evidences of debt and the lodge believed the same. He had purchased the mortgage about two years previously. Later it was discovered they were forgeries. They are credited to O'Donnell of the defunct Hartman-O'Donnell agency, which was handling the business at the time.

TAKES STAND FOR STATE

Zigmund Zalk Tells of Copper Theft "Deal" With Two Switchmen.

Zigmund Zalk, foreman for the Duluth Iron & Metal company, jointly indicted with George K. Robertson and Joseph Regali, two Northern Pacific switchman, on a charge of having stolen thirty-two copper annodes worth $3,000, from a car of the Northern Pacific railway a year ago last November, took the stand in district court this morning as a state's witness at the trial of Robertson, one of his alleged accomplices in the theft. He told the story of a "deal" with Robertson for the purchase of the copper and how the latter had switched the car to the yards of the Duluth Iron & Metal company, where several of the plates were removed from it one night.

Zalk, as a witness for the state testified that when Robertson offered to sell the copper, he agreed to buy it for $200. Later Robertson demanded $500, which the witness agreed to pay. He gave Robertson $200 at the time of the alleged theft and later paid him $50 more, and gave his alleged accomplice, Joseph Regali, $50, he said.

Joseph Galonch and B. Shapiro testified that they were working under Zalk and that one night in November, 1913, under his direction, they assisted in removing several copper annodes from the box car, although they had no knowledge that the plates which they were handling were stolen property.

Officials of the metal company have not been accused of having had any knowledge of the theft. On the contrary, as soon as they became suspicious that something was wrong, they notified the police and Zalk confessed, implicating the two switchman.

NEW REGULATIONS FOR REDISCOUNT

Federal Reserve Board Meets Objections of First Rules.

Washington, Jan. 29.—New regulations governing rediscount of commercial paper by Federal reserve banks were issued today by the Federal reserve board. They are designed to meet objections to those first issued on account of their stringent requirements for information regarding the financial condition of borrowers from member banks when they present the borrowers' paper to reserve banks for rediscount.

The new regulations will not require statements of financial conditions when member banks present depositors' paper for rediscounted in the following cases: Where bills bear the signatures of purchaser and seller of goods and present prima facie evidence that they were issued for goods actually purchased or sold; where the aggregate amount of obligations of a depositor actually rediscounted and offered for rediscount do not exceed $5,000, or where bills are specifically secured by approved warehouse receipts covering readily marketable staples. Member banks shall certify to these conditions in manner to be designated by the Federal reserve banks.

HOT WATER CURE.

Chicago News: "There is nothing like a hot water bottle on a cold night!" observed Mrs. Crabbley. "It warms up the sheets so quickly! I'm sure I would be cold all night if it weren't for the hot water bottle."

"It is awfully good for babies, too, a hot water bottle is," seconded Mrs. Nippkins. "It cures the colic in no time, and it helps my rheumatism."

"Well," said Crabbley, adding a masculine tone to the conversation, "the hot water bag is all right when it is hot. It will heat up the bed all right if you can endure the scorching of your toes to that end. But when a hot water bag is cold it is the coldest thing on earth. I would as soon have a toad in the bed with me as one of those things when it gets cold.

"A fellow jerks his feet up pretty lively when the water bag is hot, and he jerks them up still more quickly when it's cold. It is certainly clammy. And kicking it out of bed onto the floor requires a great deal of science and perseverance.

"Filling a hot water bag is a very difficult performance, that is, to do the job neatly and without scorching yourself. You are supposed to grab the water bag by the ear aggressively to make it behave when you are pouring hot water into it."

"That reminds me," broke in Nippkins, "that one of the most stubborn cases of something or other, I forgot what, was once cured by the hot water bag. In the case I speak of it effected an instantaneous and permanent restoration.

"Wallower had the worst siege of whatever it was that was ever known. It was an aggravated case. The doctors all gave him up. In fact, everybody gave him up except his wife. She continued giving him hot water bag treatments. He would start groaning in the night and she would get up and spatter hot water around and apply the hot water bag.

"He was flat on his back and could not move a muscle and the doctors said there was no hope. At last his wife wore herself out and they hired a male nurse. This male nurse cured Wallower.

"One night Wallower was suffering terribly. He called for the hot water bottle, and said he wanted it hotter than ever. He wanted it boiling. The male nurse arrived at last, bringing the water bag forcibly by the ear. Just as the nurse was on the point of applying it to Wallower's back, the darned ear pulled out and the bag busted and squirted boiling water all over the patient.

"That cured Wallower. If it hadn't been for the interference of other parties Wall would have killed that attendant. As it was he rolled him across the floor several times and, if I remember aright, they fought up and down the stairs a couple of times.

"Hot water restores the strength awful quick when you get it suddenly and unexpectedly like that."

NOT THAT KIND OF OFFICER.

Neale's Monthly: Gen. Leonard Wood, chief of staff of the United States army, has had many expressions of admiration voiced as to his personal appearance. It remained, however, for a humble maid servant to apotheosize his looks.

A young girl—who, knowing the general, worships him as her hero—always keeps a photograph of him in uniform on her dressing table. One day, entering her bedroom suddenly, she chanced upon her newly acquired maid, who stood agape, with gleaming eyes, holding the photograph in her hand.

Startled into speech, the servant asked:

"What's he, miss?"

"He's an officer, Norah." The young mistress deemed that answer sufficient.

"Gee, miss," was the breathless comment as the maid put down the picture lingeringly, "but ain't he the sweet looking cop!"

NAVAL BILL UP IN THE HOUSE

Appropriation Measure as Prepared By Committee Carries $148,000,000.

House to Remain in Session Until Conclusion of Debate.

Washington, Jan. 29.—The house met early today to begin consideration of the naval appropriation bill carrying about $148,000,000. Indications were that the measure would provoke lively debate.

The house agreed to remain in session continually to the conclusion of the general debate late tonight. Representative Hinsley of Missouri was allowed four hours for speeches against the bill by the minority on the Democratic side; Representative Gardner of Massachusetts an hour for the full program of the general board of the navy, and Chairman Padgett of Tennessee and Representative Butler of Pennsylvania, ranking Republican committeeman, controlled an equal division of debating time.

Some administration officials indicated they believed the naval bill would be stripped of some of the additions made by the committee over what the navy department recommended. The bill provides double the number of submarines recommended by Secretary Daniels, and a transport, a hospital ship and other items not requested by the department.

Representative Padgett opened the debate.

Would Prevent Leasing.

Senator Norris urged the bill should be amended to prohibit the government leasing its steamships and going out of the business. His statement brought to the surface differences among Democratic senatorers.

Senator Hoke Smith inquired if Senator Norris differed "with those of us who vastly prefer the government never to operate the ships at all," but lease the ships to the various companies to stimulate competition.

"The idea of leasing these boats," said Senator Owen, interrupting, "proceeds on the assumption that the lines would compete with each other and thus reduce the rates. We have tried that idea to its ultimate conclusion and found that the ships of the United States, Great Britain, Germany, Holland and Italy, instead of competing freely, are in a great international trust. All we would be doing here would be to contribute $40,000,000 to the perpetuation of that system. These government ships would become instruments of the existing trust."

education since 1902.

Stockholders in a corporation, Dr. Eliot testified, were not responsible for labor conditions, he thought, unless their attention was called forcibly to some particular wrong.

Uniform Schedules Bad.

Dr. Eliot said he believed that legislation providing for uniform minimum wage schedules and working hours was a bad thing. "Conditions are different in all industries," he said. "What would be good for one body of workers would be bad for another."

One reason why workers found it so hard to make their wages go as far as they should, Dr. Eliot declared, was because they bought and ate too much meat.

In no case where the General Education board had made a donation, so far as the witness knew, had the board investigated the methods of a university, college or school, or its curriculum. There was only one condition attached to the board's endowments; that condition was that no part of the money should be spent in teaching theology. The board made this condition, Dr. Eliot said, because it did not care to be placed in the light of assisting or supporting any sect or religion.

"Great Misfortune."

To be possessed of $100,000,000 was a "great misfortune," said Dr. Eliot. He added that if he possessed that sum he would try to get rid of it. He did not believe with Dr. John H. Holmes that the government could best turn the money back to the people. Governments were not always wise, he asserted, and foundations such as the Rockefeller foundation could best take care of the money by giving the people education and bettering their condition.

He did not think the great foundations a menace. On the contrary he believed they were of benefit to all mankind. The Rockefeller boards of foundations, he thought, constituted the most admirable system of benefitting humanity the world has ever known.

Industrial peace can never come, he declared, so long as both labor and capital employ the "methods of fight" they are using now. The panacea was "industrial democracy and publicity."

DULUTH STREET RAILWAY FRANCHISE HELD TO BE VALID

The contention of the state or the city was that the traction company had failed to live up to the requirements imposed by the terms of its franchise and that under a forfeiture clause, the entire grant had been forfeited at the time, more than thirty-two years ago, and that since that time the company has been operating upon the streets merely by sufferance and not by virtue of its franchise of 1881.

The city attacked the validity of the franchise on the ground that the traction company had failed to comply with the legislative grant which required that one mile of the line was to be completed and put into operation within the first year of the life of the franchise. The city or state produced witnesses to prove that the first line which purported to be a mile long was not in reality a mile long. The evidence was contradictory to that produced by other witnesses put on by the company and the trial court held that the company had constructed the required mile of its line.

A "Shabby Affair."

The supreme court in its opinion today holds that the evidence justified the finding of the trial court. "It was a shabby affair" says the supreme court "but it was a track and it was a mile long."

At the trial of the case in district court, the company contended that the state and the city after thirty years of acquiescence were now, under the law, estopped from raising the question of the validity of the franchise.

The high tribunal holds that Judge Cant was correct in his finding that the street railway company failed to equip the line and have it in operation within the prescribed time. "The condition" says the high court "was not performed within the time specified in the grant."

In spite of the fact that the supreme court holds that the traction company did not equip and have in operation the one mile of its street railway within one year after the granting of the franchise, in accordance with the conditions expressed in it, it finds that the act of 1881 constitutes a valid franchise, exclusive in character, in the Duluth Street Railway company.

The Vital Question.

"The vital question" the high court holds, "is whether upon the failure to perform the condition prior to Nov. 18, 1882, the forfeiture was at once executed with no power resting in the village to waive performance at the precise moment specified or to condone a forfeiture."

In its opinion the court holds that the franchise granted to the company by the legislature in 1881 did not contain a self-executing forfeiture clause and that the village of Duluth, of which the city of Duluth is a successor, had a right to waive strict performance of its terms. This, the court held, had been done as plainly indicated by the evidence.

The opinion in full follows:

"The opinion, in full, follows:

"This is an action in quo warranto on the relation of the attorney general questioning the right of the respondent Duluth Street Railway company to occupy the streets of Duluth. There was judgment for respondent. The state appeals from the order denying its motion for a new trial and from the judgment.

"The street railway claims the right to occupy the streets of Duluth by the grant contained in Sp. Laws 1881, Ex. Sess. C. 200, approved Nov. 17, 1881.

Company's Rights.

"Section 1 grants to the Duluth Street Railway company, 'during the term of its charter, the exclusive right and privilege of constructing and operating a single or double track for a passenger railway line,' etc., in the streets of the village and its suburbs.

"Section 2 is as follows: 'The aforesaid grant is upon the express condition that if the said Duluth Street Railway company shall fail to construct, equip and have in full operation one mile of said street railway within one year after the passage of this act, then and in that case the said Duluth Street Railway company shall without any act on the part of the state or the village of Duluth, forfeit to the village of Duluth all of the rights, privileges and immunities granted by this act, and is upon the further express condition, that said company shall build and operate a line connecting Rice's point with the central part of said village, as soon as there shall be an improved street available for that purpose.'

"Section 5 provides that, under certain conditions, the village council may designate extensions or new lines, and if not constructed by the company it may grant an exclusive franchise to another company; and if the company neglects to keep a line in operation the council may grant an exclusive franchise to another company to build and operate on such line.

"Section 16 provides that upon the company signing and filing an acceptance of the grant with the secretary of state and the village recorder the same shall operate as a contract between the state and the village and the company.

"On Nov. 8, 1881, prior to the grant of the franchise, the people had voted upon and adopted an amendment prohibiting the granting of such a franchise by special act. Const. Art. 4, 533. This amendment did not become a part of the constitution until the January following. City of Duluth vs. Duluth Street Railway Company, 60 Minn. 178. At the time fixed for the performance of the condition of the grant the legislature was without authority to grant a franchise.

Acceptance Filed.

"On Dec. 5, 1881, the Duluth Street Railway company filed with the recorder of the village, and on Dec. 8 with the secretary of state, its written acceptance, in accordance with the provisions of section 16.

"The village of Duluth was created by Sp. Laws 1881, C. 11, approved March 8, 1881. The authority delegated to it to grant rights in its streets for street railway purposes is as follows:

"'To authorize, control and grant the power to construct street railways in the streets and avenues of said village by any private company or companies, and to control and direct the operation of the same by contract or ordinance.'

Could Grant Franchise.

"At the time of the forfeiture claimed the village, by virtue of this charter provision, could grant a franchise. It could not grant an exclusive franchise such as the 1881 statute granted. Long vs. City of Duluth, 4 Minn. 280; Detroit Citizens Street Railway Company vs. Detroit Railway, 171 U. S. 48. And it may be conceded that it could not, under its charter, bind itself to a provision for fares such as was embodied in the 1881 franchise.

"By Sp. Laws 1883, C. 80, approved March 6, 1883, the provision above quoted was repealed.

"The Duluth Street Railway company was incorporated under the general laws on Oct. 17, 1881. The period of its corporate existence was fixed at fifty years from that date. By an amendment of its articles adopted on March 18, 1910, the period of its corporate existence was extended to fifty years from July 1, 1908.

What State Attacked.

"The state does not attack the general franchise of the company—that is, its right to be a corporation and to exercise corporate powers. It attacks its right to use the streets of Duluth under the special grant of 1881; and the proceeding resolves itself into an inquiry into the validity of this grant.

"In a general way the questions are these:

"(1) Did the company perform the condition contained in its grant to the effect that it should construct, equip and have in operation one mile of its street railway within one year from the date of the grant?

"(2) If it did not, was the forfeiture at once executed in that all rights were at an end, with no power in the village to waive strict performance or the right to claim a forfeiture?

"(3) If the village had the power to waive, did its acts constitute a waiver?

"(4) What right, if any, has the company by virtue of its grant?

The Fundamental Point.

"The second is the fundamental question. The others are proper to a complete statement of the case.

"1. The court finds that the railway company constructed one mile of track prior to Nov. 18, 1882. The evidence justifies the finding. It was a shabby affair, but it was a track, and it was a mile long. It had been built in haste, commenced not very long before it was finished, and was relaid before practical use was made of it.

"The court finds that the railway company wholly failed to equip the said line of railway or to have the same in operation before said last mentioned date, nor was said line fully equipped or in operation at any time prior to the 6th day of July, 1883. This conclusively appears. At the date stated it was complete, and ever since it has been in operation. The condition was not performed within the time specified in the grant.

"2. The vital question is whether upon the failure to perform the condition prior to Nov. 18, 1882, the forfeiture was at once executed with no power resting in the village to waive performance at the precise moment specified or to condone a forfeiture.

Heart of Controversy.

"The state reached the heart of the controversy when it rests its claim upon the proposition that the forfeiture clause in the franchise was self-executing; that there being a failure to build and operate within the time fixed by the grant the franchise was at an end; that there could be no waiver of a failure to operate on strict time; and that the street railway company could get rights in the street afterwards only by a new grant.

"That a sttatute may create a self-executing forfeiture so that upon the failure to perform the condition upon which it depends all right ends, is without question. Thus in Wilmington City Ry. Co. vs. Wilmington &c. Ry. Co., 8 Del. Ch. 468, 46 A. 12, the court says:

"The reason why a forfeiture created by a statute is self-executing, while one raised by the common law is not, is that the legislature said so, and intends so.

"Cases are cited almost without end, some reversing the one before us, others drawn from more or less useful analogies of the law. Many of them are cited and find comment in Booth on Street Railways, S. 46-47; Joyce on Franchises, S 486; 4 McQuillan on Municipal Corporations, S 1666-1668; and E Nellis on Street Railroads, S 17.

Question of Intent.

"A review of them would not be useful. We have examined them. The question is one of legislative intent. All of the cases make it so. If it was the intention of the legislature that on Nov. 17, 1882, the street railway not then being completed and in operation, all rights under the grant should cease, and there should reside in the village no power of waiving strict performance, such intent must be given effect. If that was the intent the village or city could not estop or otherwise bind itself to a franchise such as was granted by the 1881 act, for it had no power to grant such a franchise. It could not by estoppel bind itself to a franchise different from one it might grant under its charter. This is the effect of the holding in State ex. Des Moines City Railway Company, 159 Iowa 258.

"At the time of the grant of the franchise the legislature knew that when the time fixed for the performance of the condition came it would be without authority to make a further grant, because of the constitutional amendment mentioned. Section 16 made the franchise a contract between the state and the village and the company upon the company's acceptance. The forfeiture was made to the village. The village could give no such franchise. It was the purpose of the state and the village to get a street railway built and operated by the respondents. It was the purpose to put the street railway under the regulation of the village. So much was this so, that it was given power to require extensions and if need be grant exclusive franchises to other companies. In our judgment it was not the legislative intent that upon a failure to build on time the forfeiture should be ipso facto executed, of necessity, though the village preferred to waive the forfeiture, and did everything it could to avoid taking advantage of it.

Of Local Concern.

"Whether Duluth should have a street railway, and if so, upon what terms, was largely of local concern, though the right to use the streets for street railway purposes of necessity came directly or indirectly from the legislature. The condition was, in our opinion, in the nature of a condition subsequent, the strict performance of which could be waived. This was the view taken by the trial court. No case cited is in its facts precisely like the one before us. The cases furnish arguments, some for and some against the conclusion reached. More than thirty years have passed since the franchise was granted. We have not attached great importance to a long-continued practical construction; but the fact that for long the construction which we adopt has been generally accepted and acted upon by the public and the company and by those interested adversely to the company is reassuring of its correctness.

"3. If the village could give strict performance the evidence leaves no question but that it did. On Dec. 28, 1882, the common council, reserving to itself the right to except to the manner in which the tracks were laid and to the kind of rails used, consented by formal resolution that the company postpone the actual operation of its railway until May 16, 1883, and on May 1, 1883, it formally consented by resolution that the operation of the road be delayed until thirty days after the acceptance of a certain street improvement; and the railway was in operation within the time fixed by this last resolution. Upon its completion cars commenced running and they have run ever since. The village and its successor, the city, accepted the completed road and treated the grant of 1881 as the franchise under which it operated.

Valid Until 1931.

"4. The grant to the company was 'during the terms of its charter.' The company was incorporated on Oct. 17, 1881. The court found that its franchise expired on Oct. 17, 1931. Since its incorporation its corporate existence has been extended by the amendment of its articles to fifty years from July 1, 1908. The amendment did not result in an extension of the franchise. The street railway company has a valid franchise, granted by the act of 1881, exclusive in character, the provisions of which are subject to construction as occasion arises, and such franchise is at an end on Oct. 17, 1931.

"Judgment and order affirmed.

DIBELL, C."

Syllabus of Case.

The syllabus of the case follows:

"1. The Duluth Street Railway company did not construct, equip and have in operation one mile of its street railway within one year after the granting of its franchise, in accordance with the condition expressed in it.

"2. The franchise granted to the Duluth Street Railway company, Special Laws 1881, Ex. Sess. chapter 200, approved Nov. 17, 1881, was upon the express condition that if it failed to construct, equip and have in operation one mile of street railway within one year it should, without any act on the part of the state or the village of Duluth, forfeit to the village all of the rights, privileges and immunities granted. It was provided that the grant, when accepted, should be a contract between the state and the village and the company. It was held that the forfeiture was not executed ipso facto upon a failure to perform the condition strictly on time, so there could be no waiver of the strict performance of the condition, or of a forfeiture, but that the condition was in the nature of a condition subsequent subject to waiver.

"3. The village waived strict performance of the condition.

"4. The act of 1881 constitutes a valid franchise, exclusive in character, in the Duluth Street Railway company, and such franchise expires on Oct. 17, 1931.

"Judgment and order affirmed."

DRINK HOT TEA FOR A BAD COLD

Get a small package of Hamburg Breast Tea, or as the German folks call it, "Hamburger Brust Thee," at any pharmacy. Take a tablespoonful of the tea, put a cup of boiling water upon it, pour through a sieve and drink a teacup full at any time. It is the most effective way to break a cold and cure grip as it opens the pores, relieving congestion. Also loosens the bowels, thus breaking a cold at once.

It is inexpensive and entirely vegetable, therefore harmless.

CITY WINS ONE POINT

Two-Thirds Victory for Traction Company, Says City Attorney.

Franchise Is Not Perpetual; Company's Attorney Well Pleased.

"A two-thirds victory for the company," said City Attorney Harvey Clapp this morning, when asked to comment on the supreme court decison, handed down today, confirming District Judge Cant's ruling that the Duluth Street Railway company was operating under a valid and existing franchise.

"There were three points involved in the case," explained the city attorney. "One covered the franchise and its validity. The company at first claimed that the franchise was perpetual, but the courts have decided that it will expire in October, 1931. That matter is settled for all time.

"The second question was whether or not the franchise gave to the company exclusive rights to traction privileges in this city. The supreme court has upheld their contention in this.

"The third question involved the regulation of rates. At the present time the maximum charge specified in the franchise is too high to be of much value when it comes to regulation. The supreme court also ruled that the company could regulate its rates.

"Looking at it for its immediate effect, the decision was not a municipal victory," he concluded. "On the other hand, taking a broader view, it was a victory, because we will be able to settle all of these questions when the franchise expires."

"It is only what we expected," said Thomas S. Wood, one of the attorneys who represented the Duluth Street Railway company in the suit.

"I also believe it is just what nine out of ten people in Duluth who had given any thought to the case, expected.

"Naturally we are much pleased with the decision. It gives us what we sought."

"TREATED WHITE" ONLY AT THE WORK FARM

Charles Nichols, Too Old for Jobs, Incapacitated Because Hands Have Been Frozen, Loses Clothes to Thief While Bathing, Begs for Long Sentence; Real Hard Luck Story.

"I've never saved a cent or accomplished anything in my life, and now it's too late," said Charles Nichols, aged 59, this morning in municipal court, pleading with Judge Frank H. Cutting to give him a long sentence at the work farm.

"Give me ninety days, judge," he said. "That will be all right."

When his honor expressed a desire to parole theman, Nichols spoke up again, asking for a long term. He finally was given a 50-day sentence and the case was referred to Probation Officer Hicks.

"The only place they treat me white is at the work farm," said the old man afterwards. "I wish I could get a life sentence there."

About a year ago Nichols froze his hands badly, incapacitating him for hard work. He is more than willing to do anything, but his physical condition prevents him from carrying out his ambition.

His story told of a family that showed no interest in him, and of a struggle for existence that has led him over a long weary road. He spent $3 to go to a lumber camp several days ago, where he was promised work, but was fired the third day with a terse "too old."

Penniless, he managed to reach Duluth. He went to the Bethel mission yesterday to take a bath, and while he was bathing, some one stole his clothes. The case was reported to headquarters and Nichols was brought in on a charge of vagrancy.

LUMBER USED MUCH FASTER THAN IT GROWS

Kansas City, Mo., Jan. 29.—"Lumber is the only commodity that is used three times as fast as it grows," J. R. Moorehead of Lexington, Mo., said at the convention of the Southwestern Lumbermen's association here today. "The price is bound to advance as timber lands become more valuable," he continued. Mr. Moorehead asserted there would be no shortage of lumber soon, however, and no immediate advance in prices.

"The conservation program that was urged upon congress created erroneous ideas in the minds of the people," he said. "For many years the country will be able to produce all the lumber required."

MYSTIC WORKERS MUST PAY UP

Insurance Policy Is Held Valid By District Court Jury.

Carl E. Johnson was awarded $811.47 against the Mystic Workers of the World by a jury in Judge Dancer's division of the district court this morning. Johnson sued on an insurance policy which had been issued to his wife Gundborg Johnson, Jan. 26, 1912.

Mrs. Johnson died Aug. 27, 1914, but the insurance order refused to settle claiming that she had misrepresented certain facts in her application for membership. Johnson denied that any misrepresentation was made and claimed that if the application contained any untrue statements accredited to her that it was due to the neglect of the agent who filled out the blank for her.

The policy was for $1,000, but under its provisions, only 80 per cent of the amount could be collected in case death occurred within three years after it had been issued. The jury took the case at 11 o'clock this morning and returned a verdict forty minutes later. The verdict was for the value of the policy and accrued interest.

Andrew Nelson and George B. Sjoselius appeared as attorneys for the plaintiff and Jaques & Hudson represented the insurance order.

FISHERMEN ON ICE FLOES ALL SAVED.

Buffalo, N. Y., Jan. 29.—Fire tugs, which resumed today the search for fishermen believed to be marooned on the ice floes in Buffalo harbor, found no trace of the men, and it is believed that all of the 300 men who were sent adrift by a steamer breaking a channel through the harbor ice were rescued last night. When taken from their precarious position on the floes the men said that several of their companions were missing.

From Atchison, Kas., comes the tale that a woman returned a bag of salt to her grocer because the "flavor" of the salt was not good.

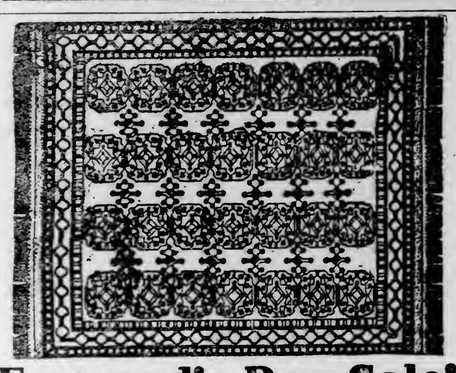

It is estimated that a day of darkness in London caused by fog costs the inhabitants $25,000 for gas, as well as a large sum for electric light.

MINISTER SIGNED FALSE AFFIDAVIT

Testifies That Statement That Negro Confessed to Phagen Murder Untrue.

Atlanta, Ga., Jan. 29.—The Rev. C. B. Ragsdale, former pastor of a local church, testified in superior court yesterday that he was paid $200 for signing a false affidavit to be used in the defense of Leo M. Frank.

Ragsdale was the first witness in the trial of Dan S. Lehon, southern manager of the Burns Detective agency; Arthur Thurman, a lawyer, and C. C. Tredder, a former policeman, charged with subornation of perjury in connection with affidavits signed by Ragsdale, and R. L. Barber.

In the affidavits, Ragsdale and Barber declared they overheard James Conley, a negro, confess he had killed a girl in the factory where Mary Phagan was murdered.

The former pastor testified to alleged meetings with the defendants, when he said the affidavit was discussed and described the signing of the document in the office of Luther Z. Rosser, of Frank's counsel. He added that the night he received the $200, "a man rode up to my house on a motorcycle and told my sons to tell their father not to say anything to anybody unless it was a Burns man."

NOTED LECTURER HERE NEXT WEEK

Dr. Ellwood, Famous Board Walk Preacher, to Be Heard in Duluth.

Dr. Robert A. Ellwood, who has gained national fame as a preacher-lecturer, and who, seven years ago, became nationally known by the founding of the famous "Board Walk" church at Atlantic City, N. J., will be in Duluth on Sunday and Monday, Feb 7 and 8. On Monday evening he will give his lecture "Bottled Sunshine," at the Second Presbyterian church, 1615 West Superior street, under the auspices of the Christian Endeavor society.

Dr. Ellwood spends his summers in preaching in the open air on the board walks of Atlantic City. During the colder months and winter he has been giving lectures in various parts of the country and has talked before some of the largest gatherings of the nation. He was in Duluth four years ago and gave the lecture "Under Three Flags" at the Y. M. C. A.

Dr. Ellwood is a Spanish war veteran. During the Spanish war he was chaplain of one of the regiments that saw service in Cuba and Porto Rico For a term of four years he was chaplain-in-chief of the United Spanish war veterans and it was under the auspices of the John G. McEwen and Maj. A. M. Diggles' camps of that order in this city that he lectured here four years ago.

The lecturer will preach at the Lakeside Presbyterian church on Sunday evening. He was in Chicago last Sunday and will speak in Minneapolis this coming Sunday. Among some of the other lectures that have given him national reputation are "Seein' Things" and "My Mother's Bible."

LECTURE ON SOILS OF MINNESOTA

State Agricultural School Professor Will Illustrate Various Kinds.

A stereopticon lecture on the soil of Minnesota will be given at 8 o'clock this evening by Prof. E. M. Freeman of the agricultural department of the University of Minnesota at the Simonson hall, Twenty-first avenue west and Superior street. The lecture is given under the auspices of the Northeastern Minnesota Horticultural society.

The lecture is free and all who are interested in gardening are invited to attend. Illustrations showing the various kinds of soil in this and other sections of the state will be thrown by a stereopticon machine.

At 2 o'clock this afternoon an informal meeting was held at the hall at which members of the West End Commercial club and many of the business men of the West end attended. At the close of this meeting the members of the club will entertain for Prof. Freeman at luncheon at the Rex hotel.

SERIES OF LECTURES.

Rev. H. A. Ofstie Will Give Stereopticon Talks at His Church.

"Methodism's Victories" will be the subject this evening of the first of a series of lectures to be given by Rev. H. A. Ofstie, pastor of the First Norwegian-Danish M. E. church, Twenty-fourth avenue west and Third street. The lecture will be illustrated with stereopticon slides and will be given in English.

Both of the other lectures will be in Norwegian. The second lecture will be given on Feb. 5, when the pastor will speak on "The Foolish Man's Religion," and the third will be given on Feb. 19, when he will talk on "Sparks That Light Up the World."

WILL ASK REMOVAL OF "Y" NEAR SCHOOL.

The West End Hillside Improvement club will meet this evening at the Ensign school, Twenty-third avenue west and Tenth street. The principal subject to be taken up by the members will be the presenting of a formal request to the Duluth Street Railway company to move its "Y" now located in front of the Ensign school, to a point a block or two farther up the hill. The object of the removal of the switches is to lessen the danger of further possible accidents at this point. Six-year-old Wallace Anderson was killed at this point recently while on his way to the Ensign school.

The club will also ask the city to install a city scale somewhere near the hilltop. Farmers bringing loads of hay, wood or produce that have to be weighed now have to go to Garfield avenue and Superior street in order to have the load weighed on a city scale. In case of having a customer on the hillside, it is necessary for the farmer to have his team reclimb the hill with the load. This latter trip will be done away with in case the city can be induced to place a scale near Twenty-third avenue and Tenth street.

LANGUAGES FOR EIGHTH GRADE

Supt. Denfeld Hopes in Time to Eliminate Freshman Class.

Eighth grade students in Duluth schools will have the option of taking Latin or German, beginning next semester, according to an announcement yesterday by Supt. R. E. Denfeld.

This step is a continuation of Supt. Denfeld's policy of having a junior high school system for the city. Business and scientific courses will be offered in the junior school before long, if the innovation proves practical. Pupils who plan to specialize in mathematics may be allowed to take algebra in the eighth grade later on.

By following out this plan, Supt. Denfeld hopes in time to eliminate the freshman class of the high school, and to have three schools. The first one would be elementary, covering the first six years; the next three years would fit a pupil for graduation or high school, and the next three would fit the student for college entrance. The junior school will give the student at least a smattering of cultural scientific and business education.

PREPARING FOR U. C. T. MINSTRELS

Annual Show Scheduled for Next Month Will Surpass Previous Attempts.

The annual minstrel show of Zenith council, No. 40, United Commercial Travelers, will be given Saturday evening, Feb. 20, at the Lyceum theater.

Preparations for the show are now being made and those in charge claim it will be "bigger and better than those of previous years." The proceeds of the show are to be used in boosting Duluth at the twenty-second annual grand council convention to be held at Winona, Minn., June 10, 11 and 12.

Charles Helmer is directing the rehearsals and he will also conduct the orchestra on the evening of the performance. George O'Sullivan will be the interlocutor again this year, and the end men will be "Bill" McGraw, Clyde Robb, Amorson Anderson and Johnson. A chorus of forty voices will assist the vocalists.

Following the regular first part, there will be a program of vaudeville numbers, solos and a grand ensemble by the entire company, which will close the performance.

NEARLY SUFFOCATE IN EARLY FIRE

Cushion Drops Against Stove, Starting Blaze at Axelson Home.

When a sofa cushion fell from a settee and dropped against their stove about 3 o'clock this morning, it nearly resulted fatally for Mr. and Mrs. Victor Axelson, 410½ East Eighth street.

The bedroom in which the two were sleeping adjoins the room containing the stove, and Mrs. Axelson awakened when almost strangled by the fumes and smoke. She aroused her husband, who crawled to the window and punched a hole in the windows, cutting himself badly in the process.

After the air had revived them, they managed to make their way downstairs and seek assistance from neighbors. The loss by fire was slight, totaling about $100. Engine companies Nos. 7 and 8, with Chief Joseph Randall and Assistant Chief C. W. Wilson, responded.

HAVE TALK WITH ROCKEFELLER, JR.

Mine Workers of Colorado Meet Magnate at His Offices.

New York, Jan. 29.—John D. Rockefeller, Jr., and representatives of the Mine Workers of Colorado met and talked yesterday afternoon for two and a half hours in the offices of the president of the Rockefeller foundation at No. 26 Broadway. The conditions of the employes of the Colorado Fuel & Iron company, of which Mr. Rockefeller, Jr., is a director, were discussed.

After the conference neither Mr. Rockefeller nor the miners' officials would discuss the talk in detail. Mr. Rockefeller would say only that there had been an exchange of views, and that the union men had given him some information as to conditions which he was glad to know.

There were present in the conference besides Mr. Rockefeller, William Lyon Mackenzie King, head of the industrial relations division of the Rockefeller foundation; Starr J. Murphy, a member of the personal staff of John D. Rockefeller, Sr.; Frank J. Hayes, vice president of the United Mine Workers of America; John R. Lawson, board member of the United Mine Workers, and Edward L. Doyle, secretary of District No. 15 of that organization.

The conference was arranged after the close of Mr. Rockefeller's examination before the United States commission on industrial relations yesterday and a subsequent personal interview between Mr. Rockefeller and "Mother" Jones, the woman champion of the cause of the miners. The discussion lasted from 2:30 until 5 o'clock.

The six men sat around a table in Mr. Rockefeller's offices and questions were asked and answered by both the representatives of capital and of labor.

The miners' representatives would not say whether they expected to have another talk with Mr. Rockefeller.

"THE CENTER OF GAYETY IN DULUTH"

SETTLER DEMANDS $25,000 DAMAGES

Overflow From Dam Said to Have Flooded Property.

An action for $25,000 was filed in the United States district court yesterday afternoon by William Abner Johnson against the Minnesota & Ontario Power company for damages alleged to have been caused to property owned by him in Jameson's addition to the town of International Falls through the construction of a dam across the Rainy river near that city. The dam is said to have caused a rise in the river of four and one-half feet.

Johnson declares that an erosion of the bank was brought about and that cellars were flooded. The plaintiff also filed a bill of equity praying the court to restrain and enjoin the defendant company from maintaining this dam in such a manner that it would cause the water to rise above its natural level.

Floodwood, Minn., Jan. 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—The annual meeting of the Floodwood Farmers' Co-operative association was held Wednesday in the Finnish hall and the following officers were elected: August Kautto, president; Albin Karttonen, secretary and treasurer. The association owns stores in Floodwood and in Wawina. E. Erikkila was retained as the manager of the local store and John Vita, of the Wawina store. The two stores did over $40,000 worth of business during last year.

Local farmers are hauling timber products mostly bolts and pulpwood. Between eight and ten cars a day have been shipped out of here by the Great Northern railway during the last ten days and with the coming of more snow this will be increased a good deal, as many roads are bare and the sleighing is poor.

ORCHESTRA IS PRAISED.

Presidents of Matinee Musicale and Schubert Club of St. Paul See Musical Future for City.

The following letters relative to the organization of the Duluth Concert orchestra were written by Mrs. George S. Richards, president of the Matinee Musicale, and Mrs. Warren S. Briggs, president of the Schubert club of St. Paul:

"No community can be called truly musical until it creates a greater part of its own music. Therefore I feel that the newly organized Duluth Concert orchestra is a step in the right direction toward a more musical Duluth. This organization is admirably worth while, is public spirited, praiseworthy and deserves the hearty support of the public."

"MRS. GEORGE S. RICHARDS."

"I congratulate the Duluth musicians and general public on the formation of the Duluth Concert orchestra. To the musicians it means a development of the city's resources, the value of which can not be overstimated. To the city it means an opportunity that would otherwise be denied for repeated hearing of the larger forms of music.

"The support of a permanent orchestra gives distinction to a city on the map of a musical America. It also stands for prosperity, inasmuch as it calls for generous financial support. It may be taken furthermore as pointing to an enviable degree of culture and refinement. Altogether, it is of inestimable value in giving a reputation which naturally attracts visitors and permanent residents, leading sooner or later to increased population, to refinement of appreciation, to a higher and yet higher grade of citizenship."

"MRS. WARREN S. BRIGGS."

SHERIDAN EVENING.

Twentieth Century Club Enjoys Talk on the Dramatist.

The life and work of Richard Brinsley Butler Sheridan were described in an interesting manner by Dr. J. M. Robinson at the meeting of the literature department of the Twentieth Century club held last evening in the library clubroom. This talk was followed by readings from "The School for Scandal" by Mrs. George A. Relfsteck.

The speaker said if he had been able to persuade the chairman of the department, Mrs. H. N. MacHarg, to wait a year and a half, or until July, 1916, the club might have celebrated the 100th anniversary of the death of Sheridan and he would have been better prepared to talk about the witty playwright. However, Dr. Robinson gave an interesting and detailed account, despite his being deprived of a year and a half for preparation.

The Sheridan Family.

He described the literary standing of the Sheridan family, telling how both the ancestors and the descendants of Richard Brinsley Sheridan acquired some fame in the world of letters. The grandfather, Thomas Sheridan, who may be taken as the founder of the family in a literary way, wrote "The Art of Punning." His father, another Thomas, was an actor at Covent garden in London and compiled a dictionary. His mother wrote verses and plays. One of her dramas, "The Discovery," ran one night with Garrick in the cast and was hissed off.

Dr. Robinson outlined the life of Richard Brinsley Sheridan, telling of his romantic, runaway marriage and his short but brilliant literary career, which was followed by a long period in politics.

He wrote "Jupiter" when he 18 years old, "The Rivals" when he was 24 and his masterpiece, "The School for Scandal," when he was 26. Dr. Robinson called attention to last night's being the 140th anniversary of the presentation of "The Rivals," which was a failure at its first presentation because Sir Lucius O'Trigger was unequal to his part. "The School for Scandal" was finished just before it was presented, the last scene being turned in by the playwright at 4 o'clock in the afternoon. Dr. Robinson ranked this play in the class with "Twelfth Night," "As You Like It" and several other Shakespearian plays, characterizing it as the most generally accepted comedy in the English language.

MIDWINTER CAUSERIE.

Members of Duluth Drama Study Club Discuss Philosophy.

At the mid-winter causerie of the Duluth Drama Study club held yesterday afternoon at the Holland hotel "Contemporary Philosophy" as presented in the works of Ibsen, Shaw, Maeterlinck and Tolstoi was discussed.

In an introductory talk Mrs. M. Cook said: "Every thinking person absorbs into himself various thoughts of the time and in absorbing is transformed. Stendberg says, 'A personality does not develop of itself but out of each soul it comes in contact with it sucks a drop just as the bee gathers its honey from a million different flowers and eventually gives it forth as its own.'

"In studying the modern dramatists we have an excellent opportunity to absorb the best thoughts of our day."

Mrs. J. C. H. Engel gave a talk on the philosophy of the four writers on the afternoon's program. She characterized Ibsen as an optimist, Shaw a satirical iconoclast—sometimes called a "laughing Ibsen," and Maeterlinck and Tolstoi as mystics.

"Any one who says Ibsen is a pessimist," Mrs. Engel said, "is a superficial reader. He shows the bad for the sake of showing the good that is essential. Shaw 'jollies' when he makes attacks on the foibles of society and is willing to make a buffoon of himself. He is a disillusionist, but at heart is religious and reverent. It is because he puts a sugar coating of fun on his writings that we are able to stand them; Ibsen has not this humor. Both are keen critics and satirists and the work of Shaw has been influenced by the writings of Ibsen. Maeterlinck and Tolstoi are both mystics. Maeterlinck, who is fond of silence, advocates the static drama."

Mrs. Engel said the four writers, two of whom are still working and two of whom are dead, believed in the drama for uplifting the people. Shaw was a pioneer in the English theater movement.

Miss Gertrude Gonska spoke of the three nationalities embodied in Ibsen, the German with its philosophy, Danish with imagination and Scotch with silence. She gave an account of his early life and educations.

Mrs. R. W. Daniels spoke on Shaw, pointing out that following the saying that every new idea creates a new art, so Shaw created a new philospohy every time he starts a new idea. Mrs. Charles Horr said that Shaw never says anything for which he is not willing to stand responsible and that he is the most nearly major among the minor English dramatists.

Mrs. W. A. Kaake gave a concise and inclusive account of the life, and philosophy of Tolstoi telling how he grieved over his personal appearance when told by an aunt that he must be a sensible boy because he would never be loved on account of his face, of his playing the parts of aristocrat and peasant, of his having been restrained from giving away all his property by his more conservative wife and of his contradicting himself in his philosophy of life.

Miss Grace Colby gave a resume of his last work, "The Light That Shines in Darkness," pointing out that several of the characters were drawn to a certain extent from the members of his family. This play was forbidden to be produced in Russia because of its hostility to military service.

Informal discussions and volunteer information added to the interest of the afternoon.

Preceding the literary part of the program Mrs. Edward P. Kreimer, accompanied by Mr. Kreimer, gave two vocal numbers.

Mrs. M. Cook and Mrs. Sol Goldberg were in charge of the causerie. The hostesses were Mrs. W. W. Merriam, Mrs. H. B. Weinstein, Mrs. A. S. Kreager, Mrs. W. P. Walbanks and Mrs. F. Mondschine. Coffee was poured by Mrs. H. E. Harter and Mrs. L. K. Daugherty.

CHEESE DISHES

By MARY JANE McCLURE.

Bear in mind that cheese dishes cooked at a moderate heat are the most wholesome. If cheese is cooked at a high temperature, it becomes leathery and tough and indigestible.

Putting cheese through a food chopper saves a lot of time and for the majority of dishes is quite as satisfactory as the slow process of grating it. For Welsh rarebit and other dishes calling for melted cheese, it is not necessary to either grate or chop the cheese. Slicing is sufficient.

Cheese Straws.—Roll plain or puff paste into a sheet about one-fourth of an inch thick. Sprinkle half the sheet with grated full cream cheese and dust lightly with paprika or cayenne pepper. Fold the other half of the paste over the cheese, press the edges together, fold again, pat and roll out as before, adding more cheese and seasoning, and repeat the process until cheese has been supplied four times. Then roll out into a sheet and cut into strips or rings and bake eight minutes.

Cheese Souffle.—Melt two tablespoons of butter and blend with it two tablespoons of flour, one-fourth teaspoon each of salt, soda and paprika. Add one-half cup of tomato puree and cook about five minutes, then add one-fourth pound of chopped cheese and the beaten yolks of three eggs, and lastly fold in the well beaten whites of the eggs. Bake in buttered souffle dish about twenty-five minutes, or until nicely puffed and delicately colored. Let dish stand in hot water to cook. Serve immediately.

Cheese Sandwiches.—Melt one teaspoon of butter; add a cup of cheese chopped or sliced, one-fourth teaspoon of paprika, one-fourth teaspoon of mustard and a few grains of cayenne. When the cheese is melted and smooth, stir in the yolks of two eggs well beaten to which a cup of thin cream has been added, and salt to taste. Pour in shallow dish to cool and serve cold between two slices of buttered white bread.

Stuffed Dates.—Wash the dates in warm water and remove the seeds. Cut full cream cheese into oblong pieces about twice the size of the seeds and place between the halves of each date.

Rolled Sandwiches.—Cut warm, fresh bread into very thin slices (a sharp knife is necessary) and remove the crusts. Grate full cream cheese and mix with it an equal quantity of butter and a small amount of cream, a dash of salt and a sprinkling of paprika. Mix into a smooth paste and spread on the bread, skewer the rolls with wooden toothpicks and toast. Serve hot.

OBSERVATIONS

—By PEGGY PEABODY—

Make Marriage Intentions Explicit.

A question that stares many parents in the face and makes sleepless the night of the daughters of the house in countless numbers of homes these days is the intention of some delinquent swain who is accepted by all the girl's friends as a suitor for her hand in marriage.

Such a man will monopolize the attention and time of a girl to the exclusion of everyone else, share in the comforts provided for members of her family quite as though he was one of them, and at the expense of her father, and by every outward sign attest his love and devotion, yet never come to the proposing point.

Next to the man who outwardly courts a girl and keeps his lips sealed is the man who, having proposed, settles down to a long engagement and occupancy of the parlor, much to the disgust of the younger sister, who considers that her turn ought to arrive some time and that her sister should by right be presiding over a parlor of her own. It is a very delicate matter for parents to take a hand in and often lasts indefinitely. Parents have taken various methods of bringing men to a sense of their duty in this respect, and while some have been successful, others have far exceeded the rights of even parents, in my mind.

I well remember the shame and indignation of a girl friend of mine whose mother took upon herself to ask a devoted admirer what his intentions were concerning her daughter, which was simply another way of asking him whether he contemplated marriage or considered her in the light of a very charming companion.

The girl, in this case, with every shred of her womanly pride torn and outraged, poured the vials of her wrath upon her mother's head, and great was the surprise of the elder woman, who for so many years had received nothing but love, honor and obedience from the child she still looked on as a dependent, not yet fit to be consulted upon such an important subject before that method of procedure was adopted and acted upon.

Though this is hardly worthy of imitation, parents should somehow circumvent the long engagement that covers five, ten and even more years, and also the man who hangs on for two or three years without making his intentions plain.

Lodge Notes.

"The Critic," a mock heroic drama by Sheridan is an example of the difficult problem of writing a play within a play. His "Duenna" was one of the first musical dramas. It contains some lyrics above those of the average musical comedy of the present time and in it are found the oftenquoted words, "Such a pair was never seen."

Drury Lane Theater.

An account was given of Sheridan's purchase, with much financial assistance, of Drury Lane theater that was not a financial success. After Sheridan had givenu up literature at the age of 29 and was in parliament, the theater burned. He asked that the affairs of the country go on while he attended the fire. Remonstrated with for enjoying a glass of port as he watched the flames destroy the flimsy structure he said, "May not a man drink at his own fireside?"

Sheridan's first speech in parliament was at the time charges were preferred against Warren Hastings. Five hours of his oratory left the members of parliament so afraid to take any action that they adjourned. Pitt said this was the greatest speech he ever heard. At the trial of Hastings, Sheridan made a two-day speech.

Sheridan's son was a colonial secretary and his daughters were known as the "three graces of London." One daughter, Mrs. Norton, was a fairly well known novelist and a granddaughter was the prototype of Diana in George Meredith's "Diana of the Crossways."

Mrs. Reifsteck gave two delightful readings of scenes between Lady Teazle and Sir Peter, bringing out the imperturbable character of Lady Teazle with great naturalness and charm. As an encore she gave Drummond's "Little Baptiste."

By request Mrs. F. B. Cronk repeated two readings from Beaumont's "The Knights of the Burning Pestle" that she gave at the last meeting of the literature department of the club when she spoke on the leading dramatists of the Eighteenth century and read excerpts from their plays.

HOW ABOUT EXTENSIONS?

With the city's action against the street car company decided in favor of the company, the supreme court holding that the latter has a legal franchise giving it the exclusive right to operate street cars in Duluth until 1931, the next question is, What is to be done about extensions and improvements in the present service?

Months ago strong efforts were made to get an extension of the car service as far as the steel plant. The company's answer was that in view of the case then pending in the courts, the company's position here was too uncertain to warrant any such additional outlay. The same answer was given to all other requests for improvements and additional service, and though in one or two of the most urgent cases extra cars were put on the lines, it was explained that nothing more than that could be done until the courts had given their decision.

Now that decision has been given, and it is in favor of the company. It assures the Duluth Street Railway of its position for a decade and a half, and that in terms that leave no question as to the exclusiveness of its rights.

It is good for the city to have the question settled, and it is good for the company to know exactly what terms it is working under.

In view of this situation, there should be no serious trouble in getting co-operation between city and company for the needed improvements, since they would be for the benefit of both.

Governor Philipp thinks there are too many people from other states in the University of Wisconsin. Bet you that when the governor was a kid he used to say "you can't slide down our cellar door."

THE LITERACY TEST VETO.

President Wilson did wisely in vetoing the immigration bill that contained the literacy test. He reasons the question out to a logical conclusion in the message accompanying the return of the bill to congress, and that his position is appreciated and understood is shown by the applause given the message when it was read in congress. Whether there is sufficient strength among the friends of the bill to repass it over his veto is uncertain. It will be attempted, of course. And it is to be hoped that it will fail.

Nothing that can possibly concern a man's quality as a citizen is involved in this literacy test. It has nothing to do with character, with ability to work, with willingness to work or with physical condition. It is no more a decisive factor in determining a man's qualification for American citizenship than is the length of his nose or the question of his taste for hoarhound candy.

As President Wilson said in his message:

> The new tests here embodied are not tests of quality or of character or of personal fitness, but tests of opportunity. Those who come seeking opportunities are not to be admitted unless they have already had one of the chief opportunities they seek—the opportunity of education. The object of such provisions is restriction, not selection.

If we want to limit the number of immigrants, let us adopt some arbitrary number and say no more than that number shall be admitted in any one year. But let us still leave the way open for men of integrity and personality and good character and honest purpose and natural ability to come in, whether they have had educational opportunities or not. And let us at the same time close the door against those who may have been well trained in the three R's, but who use that training to cheat and defraud and wrong their fellow men. One honest man who cannot read or write is worth more to the country as a citizen than a dozen who can read and write but who are not honest.

President Wilson sees in the immigration bill many valuable features regarding administration and other portions of the work. It would be well if congress would re-enact the bill, omitting the objectionable clauses, so that the country could get the benefit of its undeniably good features. Then, if it seemed desirable, the question of the literacy test could be disposed of on its individual merits, without dragging with it a number of measures of unquestioned value.

A Newark, N. J., street railway corporation has just declared a 375 per cent dividend. Most anybody would feel justified in declaring most anything if he could do it on such a scale as that.

FUNDS FOR DRAINAGE.

As far as can be seen at present, Representative Bessette has made a valuable find in his drainage fund proposal. He has introduced a bill at St. Paul providing for the establishment of a revolving fund for the draining of state lands. Under this plan there would be no more appeals for appropriations by the legislature, and the state would be able each year to add to its reclaimed acreage.

In few states is there better opportunity for reclamation by drainage than in Minnesota, yet it is always difficult to get money appropriated for that purpose. Still, some funds for this purpose have been secured in the past, and certain areas have been reclaimed.

Included in the 185,000 acres of state land to be offered for sale this year are about 75,000 acres that have been drained by the use of direct appropriations. State records place the cost of drainage at two dollars an acre, on the average, and land thus reclaimed has been sold in this state for as high as nine dollars an acre.

Under Representative Bessette's plan, a sum equal to the cost of draining the land would be set aside from the sale receipts from all such land, and would constitute a fund for additional drainage work. Thus, with the average cost of drainage at two dollars an acre, the sale this year of 75,000 acres of drained land would mean that next year the state would have approximately a hundred and fifty thousand dollars to use for drainage purposes, without having to provide a cent by appropriation, and still would have a good revenue from the sale of land.

The Bessette plan looks good. At least it has enough merit on the face of it to make it worth thorough study before being laid aside. It may be the means of solving an important problem for Minnesota.

"TESTING FOR EFFICIENCY."

Out in Portland, Ore., there used to be—mark the past tense—there used to be a police sergeant who was one of these "foxy" people. He wasn't to be fooled by any ordinary patrolman. No sir! He was strictly up to snuff himself and he proposed to see that every man under him was equally on the job. So he developed the idea of using surprise tests on the men.

His best chance to try it came when he discovered an automobile that had been reported missing and for which every man on the force had been instructed to be on the lookout. As he was taking the machine to headquarters the sergeant passed a patrolman, and in order to try out his system and see if the patrolman was "awake," the sergeant ordered his driver to go slowly enough to let the officer see the number of the car.

The officer saw it and ordered the driver to halt, but the sergeant was too foxy to do that. He wanted to know whether this patrolman was "awake" enough to try to stop the car. So he had the driver speed up. And the patrolman was awake. Not only that, but he was a good shot. And the sergeant will be buried today or tomorrow.

There is just one way in which substantial good can come out of the affair, and that is that it may serve as a warning to a lot of these "foxy" people who like to spring senseless surprises on others, under the excuse that they are "testing for efficiency."

The American association is to be ranked hereafter as a major league. But it will not have a real claim to fame until it gets into a fight with the Federals.

Advice to Readers.

Ruskin: Very ready are we to say of a book, "How good this is—that's exactly what I think!" But the right feeling is "How strange it is! I never thought of that before, and yet I see it is true, or if I do not now, I hope I shall some day." But whether thus submissively or not, at least be sure that you go to the author to get his meaning, not to find yours. Judge it afterwards if you think yourself qualified to do so; but ascertain at first. And be sure also, if the author is worth anything, that you will not get at his meaning all at once; nay at his whole meaning you will not for a long time arrive in any wise.

The Barber Pole.

Kansas City Times: In former times, when the barber united with his art that of surgery or at least blood letting, the barber's pole had a real significance. The gilt ball at the top represented the brass basin used for lathering the customers, the pole represented the staff held by persons during the venesection, and the two spiral ribbons painted on the pole represented, the one, the bandage twisted around the arm previous to blood letting and the other the bandage used for binding up the arm afterward. Now the barber's pole has only a historic significance.

No Place for Fido.

Boston Transcript: Mrs. Nexdore (angrily)—I want you to keep your dog out of my house; it's full of fleas.

Mrs. Naybor—Your house is? Mercy! I certainly shan't let Fido go in there again.

No More Armed Peace

Editorial in the New York World.

"Deliver us from another armed peace!" is the message that James Bryce sends to the American people through President Butler of Columbia university. This is not the casual sentiment of an emotional pacificist, but the profound opinion of a profound statesman and historian.

Whatever the immediate causes of this war, the conflict is the inevitable result of a theory of armed peace that was costing the nations nearly $3,000,000,000 a year to maintain. That burden could not be carried on indefinitely, and when the break came the whole world was drawn either directly or indirectly into the catastrophe.

If at the end of this year the nations return to the condition of armed peace that previously prevailed, another war of similar character and consequences is as inevitable as the rising of the sun. There can be no final settlement of the issues that are now before the court of cannon which does not decide that every peasant, every workman, every artisan, is not to be sentenced to a form of penal servitude which condemns him to carry a soldier on his back for the length of his natural life.

This is not to say that the nations are going to disarm completely, but it is to say that this former doctrine of armed peace cannot again be imposed upon mankind without inviting a repetition of the world tragedy that now shocks and rocks civilization. Even had it been possible to escape war, the competition of armaments under an armed peace would soon have left the nations bankrupt and the peoples in a state of revolution.

The money for armies and navies has to be earned by men who work with their hands, and at the rate of increase in competitive armament during the last twenty years the men who work with their hands could not indefinitely pay the price. Nor would they indefinitely pay the price.

A peace that does not settle this stupendous question is not a peace. It is only a truce. Another generation would have to finish the work that this generation proved incompetent to carry to a conclusion. Whatever the horrors of this war may be, whatever the cost in life and treasure, none of it will have been in vain if the world is delivered from another armed peace and mankind is emancipated from militarism. On no other terms can civilization re-establish itself.

Steel as Pauper

New York World: The capitalization of the United States Steel corporation today is only a trifle larger than it was ten years ago when dividends on the common stock were first suspended. But its plant and productive capacity are very much greater, and the country's consumption of steel is normally much greater.

Nevertheless, while the corporation earned a little something for the preferred stock in the last quarter of the pauper steel year of 1903, it now reports practically nothing earned in the last quarter of 1914, and the common dividend once more goes by the board.

Is the trust an exceptional sufferer from the depression, or is it true that the whole industry has touched lower depths than ever before since the trust was formed? The question has its bearing on "big business" efficiency.

Ships.

THE ORE.

Before Man's laboring wisdom gave me birth
I had not even seen the light of day;
Down in the central darkness of the earth
Crusht by the weight of continents I lay,
Ground by the weight to heat, not knowing then
The air, the light, the noise, the world of men.

THE TREES.

We grew on mountains where the glaciers cry,
Infinite somber armies of us stood
Below the snow-peaks which defy the sky;
A song like the gods moaning filled our wood;
We knew no men—our life was to stand stanch,
Singing our song against the avalanche.

THE HEMP AND FLAX.

We were a million grasses on the hill.
A million herbs which bowed as the wind blew.
Trembling in every fiber, never still;
Out of the summer earth sweet life we drew.
Little blue-flowered grasses up the glen,
Glad of the sun, what did we know of men?

THE WORKERS.

We tore the iron from the mountain's hold,
By blasting fires we smithied it to steel;
Out of the shapeless wood we learned to mold
The sweeping bow, the rectilinear keel;
We hewed the pine to plank, we split the fir,
We pulled the myriad flax to fashion her.

Out of a million lives our knowledge came,
A million subtle craftsmen forged the means;
Steam was our handmaid and our servant flame,
Water our strength—all bowed to our machines,
Out of the rock, the tree, the springing herb
We built this wandering beauty so superb.

THE SAILORS.

We, who were born on earth and live by air,
Make this thing pass across the fatal floor.
The speechless sea; alone we commune there
Jesting with death, that ever-open door.
Sun, moon and stars are signs by which we drive
This wind-blown iron like a thing alive.

THE SHIP.

I march across great waters like a queen,
I whom so many wisdoms helped to make;
Over the uncraddled billows of seas green
I blanch the bubbled highway of my wake.
By me my wandering tenants clasp the hands
And know the thoughts of men in other lands

—John Masefield.

From One Point of View.

Harper's Magazine: He had become the happy father of twins, and his unbounded pride in this twofold distinctive blessedness found expression on every occasion.

While conversing with a friend one morning at the entrance of his office building a young woman passed wheeling a baby carriage containing a bouncing baby boy.

"Doesn't a woman look queer," said the young father, loftily, "with only one child!"

The Cost of Living and the Housewife

From the Chicago Herald.

Leading and representative bakers from twenty-five states met in Chicago last week and made a business proposition to housewives. If the word "proposition" be thought too strong, since they did not offer a legally binding contract, we may at least term it a practical business suggestion. It was printed in the Herald, and this is the substance of it:

If buyers of bread will take 10-cent instead of 5-cent loaves, there will probably be no increase in the cost of bread, despite the soaring prices of wheat and flour because of the European war demands. The reason? W. E. Long of Los Angeles told it thus: A 10-cent loaf costs very little, if anything, more to bake than a 5-center. It costs less to bake than two 5-centers. That is, the 10-cent loaf halves the labor and fuel cost of a given quantity of bread.

That is the proposition or suggestion. It was not thought of as a theme for editorial page comment until an alert-minded woman reader called up and wanted to know whether housewives were acting on it. The Herald had to say that it didn't know and saw no way of finding out except through the bakers, which would take some time, whereupon this woman reader remarked:

"Well, it doesn't interest me personally, for I bake my own bread, and I can beat the bakers on both quality—at least those who eat it say so—and on cost of production, allowing 'union' wages for my own time. But I would like to know how many women see the point of the economy of buying in larger quantities?"

Here was an angle that did not seem to have been treated by the housekeeping writers, at least not conspicuously, and the woman reader was asked to write out her ideas on the subject. Here are some of the notes she sent in:

"I am not worrying about the price of flour, at least for several months. When the war began it was plain enough what was going to happen. I bought flour on every 'special offer' at the stores. It keeps indefinitely in any dry closet. Buying 10-cent instead of 5-cent loaves is the same thing in a small way.

"I am amazed at the hand-to-mouth way a lot of housewives of my acquaintance buy supplies, especially flour, sugar and canned goods. There are 'bargains' to be had at some time in the year, first-class goods, too. Yet they buy an eighth-barrel sack of flour, or 'a dollar's worth' of sugar or even less, and one or two cans, when by taking a little thought they might buy a barrel or a case or two or three cases.

"I know there is no use in preaching this sort of economy to the poor woman who can't get hold of enough money at once to practice it. But there are a lot of women who are not in that situation at all. I can show you about a thousand within half a mile of my own door. Their husbands are paying $50, $60, $75 and $100 a month rent, and some have automobiles. They have fine furniture and clothes, though no better or more comfortable than mine. But when dinner time comes they are apt to buy most of it at the delicatessen shop around the corner.

"At first I thought this was a good thing for the shopkeeper. But she tells me that while her total volume of sales is large the items are so small and the costs of attendance, wrapping and delivery so heavy that she could hardly keep going if her son wasn't working downtown and bringing his wages home. Then there are the charge accounts and bad debts. A lot of prosperous people, so far as income goes, are very careless, and even downright dishonest, about their bills.

"I begin to believe that a lot of women are lazy, if not with their hands at least with their heads, and that these lazy-heads are largely the cause of the high cost of living complaint."

There you have it from a woman by no means wealthy, a working housewife whose husband is regarded by all who know him as just "fairly well-to-do." What do you think about lazy-heads as a cause of high cost of living?

Trial Wedding Trip

New York Sun: "People laugh when they say that the best time to take a wedding journey is before the wedding," said a New York woman, "but there never was a truer thing said, and divorces would be much less frequent if that were the custom, with certain limitations, of course. I proved it conclusively during the last summer.

"In June last a young woman whom I have known since childhood asked me if she could join me in a six months trip my husband and I were about to take overseas. I was glad enough to have her with me. Three or four days before we started she asked me if I would object to a certain man making the fourth of the party.

"He was a nice sort. As they had been so attentive to each other for a year that their friends had concluded they were sure to marry before a great while I added him gladly, as did my husband, who liked him very much. Well, we got away in good style on a ship bound for Spain, where we were to spend the first month, and I was as happy as could be.

"On the fourth day out the girl came into my stateroom and to my astonishment put her head on my shoulder and began to cry. I was frightened and wanted to know what was wrong, and between sobs she told me the man she had thought was so nice was getting on her nerves so that she simply couldn't stand it and had to tell somebody or jump overboard.

"Her previous association had been of the usual kind incidental to the acquaintance of two unmarried persons, and while he was nice that way, having him around all the time was simply awful, she said, and I must help her out of it. Of course, that was easy enough, for, as before, I had been keeping myself out of their way. Now I did all I could to keep in their way, and it saved the girl's life till we reached land.

"After that it was a little easier, and by and by the man, being a sensible fellow, made it convenient to quit our party good friends and went to Paris. I'm sure, and so is the girl, that if they had not gone on the trip they would have married and then anybody can imagine what the result would have been."

Dare to Be True

She Was Born In.

Chicago News: A lady accosted a little girl who was entering one of the fashionable New York flats where she knew the rules were exceedingly strict, and after some little conversation said: "How is it you live in these flats? I thought they would not take children. How did you get in?"

"Why," replied the child, "I was born in."

Statesmen, Real and Near

By Fred C. Kelly.

Washington, Jan. 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—With one exception Oscar Underwood is called by his first name oftener than any other congressman. He is a man of quiet dignity, but it is not the kind of dignity that says "Stand off!" or that requires the prefixing of Mister. Oscar not only takes no offense when his associates call him by his first name, but really prefers that they do so. After he moves over to the senate he will not care a continental whether he is addressed as senator or not. Just Oscar is good enough for him.

We have already noted an exception. There is another member called by his first name even oftener than Underwood. If you were to try to guess the name of this man you would probably hit on somebody who has been in congress a great many years. And right there is where you would go wrong. For the man referred to has been here only one term, and will retire on March 4 next. Robert H. Gittins of Niagara Falls is the man addressed oftenest by his first name. Anticipating your question, it may be stated that Gittins is called Bob by nearly everyone in the house, simply because he calls most of the others by their first names.

And do not get the impression, simply because Gittins has been here less than two years and calls everybody by his first name, that he is a fresh young person. He is a mixer, and he likes human beings. Having a kindly feeling for everybody he meets, he falls naturally into the way of using first names as a sort of lid-lifter to open up the stove of acquaintance.

Gittins has had an odd career. He went to work when he was 13 years old as clerk in a lumber yard at Oswego, N. Y. At the age of 27 he was still a clerk, a quiet, law-abiding, trustworthy young man, who had the respect of all who knew him.

If he had any serious vices no one suspected it. He was about the last fellow in Oswego that anybody would have thought capable of going off on a tangent the way he did. In fact, if anybody had told what was taking place in Gittins' mind, everybody would have come to Bob's defense and declared that it simply wasn't true.

And nobody was more startled or more worried than Gittins' father when he heard from his son's own lips what he was planning to do. Bob came home from work one evening, seemingly in excellent spirits, and ate his supper with apparent relish. Then as he reached for a toothpick, he faltered:

"Father, I've got it into my head that I want to be a lawyer. In a week or two I shall quit my job and go away to a law school."

For a moment or two the father was too shocked to make any reply. Then in a tone of compassion he began:

"Robert, I have always endeavored to bring you up the best I knew how. You are now 27 years old, and I supposed you were past the age when your mother and I need worry any more about you. I have always thought you were industrious and taking an interest in your work. What has come over you?"

Bob swallowed hard and started to defend his course, but the words stuck in his throat.

"Most young men of your age," went on the father, "are married and thinking about educating their children instead of talking about leaving their positions and going off to college themselves. I suppose now you'll be coming home with queer clothes on and a mandolin under your arm."

Gittins' mind was made up, however, and nothing that his parents or the neighbors said could sway him from his course. He resigned his clerkship, went and had his life insured, borrowed a little money on the policy, and worked his way through law school. He not only became a lawyer, but did time in the New York state senate before coming to congress.

Shortly after he had been elected to congress Gittins spent a day in his native town of Oswego, partly for the purpose of receiving the plaudits of those among whom he had grown up to mature manhood. The first person he met after getting off the train was an old man who had known him from the day he was born. This old man called him to one side and began to whisper:

"Bobbie," he said, "I've often wondered about your case, and I want you to tell me something. Did you quit that good job you had here of your own accord, or was you fired?"

Speeding Up

The Nurse: Speeding up is altogether too common; we need not visit factories to see human lives wasting themselves in the deluded idea that they are accomplishing wonders by adding a little bit to their already ample output of daily product. There are still enough ignorance and recklessness in our rank and file to account for the sacrifice of much health and many lives merely for the sake of a little more speed. For speed means overwork and fatigue, and these, in their due time, speed the worker on to his death.

Every human machine is adapted to do a certain amount of work before fatigue asserts itself and demands a rest—a slowing down for repairs. If time is not taken for repairs, this delicate machine will surely run down and deteriorate. We are so wonderfully formed and adjusted that defects appearing in one part of our mechanism will produce impairment of the whole body with its endless complex of functions. Thus, fatigue of the mind will inhibit the functions of the muscles, and, on the other hand, muscular fatigue will cause mental inertia and "brain-fag."

The holiday season suggests to us all the pleasure and relief that come from relaxation, amusement and repose. It is a most beneficent feature of our civilization—this resting from our labors and enjoying a brief period of recreation. Let no arduous worker cherish the flattering notion that this blest rest is unnecessary, a thing for children and old people to indulge in. If you are tempted to think yourself made of iron instead of flesh and blood, we advise you to get the vacation habit just the same—make this one concession to the merry people who have holidays, that you will take your holiday, too.

"The Servant Problem."

Detroit, Mich., News: Mary Ryan, 22 years old, has been employed as a maid for seven years by Mrs. Leslie Lynch at White Plains, N. J. Mrs. Lynch became ill. She was dying because of the lack of blood. When Miss Ryan heard this, she went to the hospital and gave a pint and a half of her life fluid to her mistress.

"Mrs. Lynch has been a mother to me," she explained, "and I couldn't bear to think of those five children being motherless."

This statement makes the matter simple. It shows why Mrs. Lynch has had one maid in seven years also. It is evident that the mistress spent no time in planning how to make the maid "keep her place." Instead, it was the maid who was anxious to keep it, even to the extent of endangering her own life.

Keeping Up With Minnesota Editors

Press Comments on Current Events.

Live Within Your Means.

Slayton Herald: There is a pressing demand that people live within their means and not above them as many are doing. If anybody made a New Year's resolve and doubtless many did, let them hold to it at all hazards. Usually it makes all the difference between happiness and unhappiness, and between comfort and miscry.

No Corner on Republicanism.

Breckenridge Telegram: The organizers of the new Republican league of Minnesota can certainly write an appealing set of resolutions. But they have yet to learn that they have no corner on Republicanism.

Tables Are Turned.

Walker Pilot: About the only way for a white man to get a drink of whisky in the treaty belt these days is to work himself into the good graces of some Indian with a bottle. And the treaty was passed to keep the whites from furnishing liquor to the red!

Something to Learn.

Warroad Pioneer: The greatest factor in the strength of Germany is its thorough organization of agriculture. With a soil much inferior to that of Minnesota, they manage to make it yield many times as much produce. There was practically no poverty in Germany at the beginning of the war. All this was brought about through special efforts of the government. If our lawmakers will devote a little time to studying economic questions—rather than political ones—more real progress can be made.

Maybe It Would Help.

Little Falls Herald: The house of representatives has requested Attorney General Smith to prepare a bill that will cure the defects in the present corrupt practices act. There won't be much the matter with the primary law if a proper corrupt practices act is passed and enforced.

Cut Down the Other Fellow.

Litchfield Independent: The "economy and efficiency" program laid out for the legislature to make into law will find hard sledding before it gets through. Everybody wants economy and efficiency, but each of the several departments of our state government is dead set against any interference with it in the way of restricting its scope or development. Cutting expenses means usually cutting down the work.

Mose's Demise; Not Party's.

Brainerd Tribune: We suppose there is nothing to prevent Mose Clapp from filing as a Republican candidate for United States senator, provided he makes the necessary oath as to his party affiliation. But it does not necessarily follow that real Republicans, who stood loyally by their party while Clapp was traveling about the country making "Bull Moose" speeches and declaring that the Republican party was "dead beyond resurrection"—it doesn't follow that they will cast their votes for a renegade like Clapp. It is Mose who is politically "dead beyond resurrection"—not the G. O. P.

Most Likely.

Spooner News: We notice that a good many of our exchanges are publishing personal property tax lists as their people want it as a news item. To be fair to all the legislature should provide for the publication of this list, but we presume the tax dodgers will be on the job to defeat any law of that sort.

The Enduring.

Toledo Blade: The fish story never migrates. It is a permanent, all-the-year-round resident, as undiscouraged by the chills of winter as by the heat and drouth of mid-August. It has none of the feebleness of the snake story which blossoms in spring and fades as a leaf, but is robust and self-reliant like the mullin, which points its staff at the heavens despite every blast that blows, warm weather or cold. It does not crawl into a hole in November to come out timidly in February as the groundhog story does. It has enduring fiber.

Just to show the perennial character of the fish story, let us recite this short tale from Trempealeau, Wis.:

Ten days ago Zebbie Lane, fishing through the ice, speared a big pickerel which put up such a fight that he wrenched the spear from Lane's hand and escaped. Yesterday Lloyd Perkins speared the pickerel and landed him after a terrific fight. Lane's spear was still sticking in the fish's back.

Stories come and go in their season, but the fish story goes on forever. It has grit and nerve and virility and sturdiness. Truth which some day may prevail over all the earth may slay it. But of all the tall inventions of man's imagination it will hang on last. Its funeral will be at the foot of the procession.

Impedimenta.

Bacon: I cannot call riches better than the baggage of virtue; the Roman word is better, impedimenta; for as the baggage is to an army, so is riches to virtue; it cannot be spared nor left behind, but it hindereth the march; yea, and the care of it sometimes loseth or disturbeth the victory; of great riches there is no real use, except it be in the distribution; the rest is but conceit.

Here's a New Word for You.

Wichita Beacon: Jonathan Bourne of Oregon has found a perfectly sound word. He starts an interview in the Washington Times thus:

"The present conflict between the president and the United States senate over appointment of Federal employes in various states echinates a very grave evil in our form of government."

Huh?

Echinates?

Yes. It is in the dictionaries of as early a date as 1913, but apparently Jonathan is the only one who has found it. The dictionary says:

Echinate, v. t.—To render prickly or bristly.

Fine word, that.

When a thing becomes an issue between men or in politics, it pricks its partisans forward and bristles bravely toward its foes.

And it is because real progress; real fundamental truth has the quality of everlasting echination (that's one Jonathan hasn't seen) that truth and right will not down. The pesky thing is so prickly and irritating to our hearts and heads and sense of justice that we can't ignore it.

Thus progress echinates and, echinating, goes forward.

THE OPEN COURT

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest, but discussions of sectarian religious differences are barred. Letters must not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer (though these need not be published). A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

THE LITERACY TEST.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Being a reader of The Herald I would like to have you publish in the Open Court a few lines in answer to Mr. Mantell's letter of Jan. 25.

First of all I will have to admit that when I read your letter, it put into my mind, the song entitled "Meet Me Tonight in Dreamland." Why? Because your letter is nothing but imaginary dreams.

Do you think that we will have to go to Europe, and scan the situation of all the darkest corners and find out from every "young married man" what kind of laws we can pass and enforce. By the situation there now and what we read in the past, it ought to have dawned on the mind of every true American and especially on as bright a mind as Mr. Mantell's, that we can handle our own affairs without the least bit of the help from them. If there ever was an immigration law passed that will do this country good it is this same law that is termed "The literacy test."

I hope that when such eloquent writers as Mr. Mantell start to explain their dreams in the press that they explain it thoroughly, for as instance, Mr. Mantell says when his young married man strikes the shore he is approached by two uniformed men. One tells in his own "native language" that he will have to pass a physical examination. He passes O. K. But now he says, he is in a room with many strange charts, with weird characters, and they ask him to read. He can't, so a yellow tag is put on to him, and so he is marched away, later to be returned back whence he comes from. Why didn't you Mr. Mantell tell what them figures on the chart really were? Wasn't it this young married man's "own native language?" And he couldn't read it. Are you really so narrow-minded, that when or if this law comes to effect, that the United States will keep it secret and not let the countries, like the one where your young married man come from know that unless they can read their own language they will be sent back without excuse? Oh what and why is the old world called the perfection of Christianity and civilization, and why are we always asked to consult them when any minor question, regarding the welfare of the whole, civilized and really civilized populace of the United States is at stake? When there is today, in the Twentieth century, countries where they can't read nor write, and which are today called and respected as civilized and educated. Furthermore I believe it is just right and proper for the United States to pass this law, and make some of them look back how far they are in civilization.

You, Mr. Mantell, are too quick to call this law unjust, peculiar, undesirable, selfish, unnecessary and so on, in your eloquent piece for the young married man who is supposed to hail from yonder side of the pond from the land of Christendom, perfection and civilization, and when he can't read his own native language he gets barred. I say for every one that can't read so maybe they'll take more time to study than to fight. I would take you, Mr. Mantell, for an unAmerican by your article, but as you say it is imagination, I don't, but it looks to me as an imaginary dream. Hoping you and I will help with score of others to get this law passed. I remain,

Yours truly.

THE HOCKEY SITUATION.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Just a suggestion, not in a spirit of criticism, but with hearty good will towards every member of our team and the management. I am speaking for the "native sons."

There was once a man who sang this song, "If I Were It." I feel like that myself at times. I am sore, very sore; in fact, I am sick all over, and the doctor tells me I have hockeyitis—that is, I am suffering from lack of hockey nourishment.

Well, "if I were it," I would remove the cause, cure myself, and prevent a spread of the epidemic. "If I were it" at the curling club, I would, in addition to our present team of "furriners," have two more curling club teams made up of "native sons." I like the sound of that finely, and I will repeat it, "native sons." Now, let me explain. By "native sons" I mean those who were wheeled about our streets in go-carts. Well, "so far, so good."

I have three teams, one of "furriners" and two of "native sons." If I could have a preacher's son on each team, it would be fine, for somehow or other they have "pepp," the real fighting spirit.

Well, to go back a little, "if I were it," I would clothe one in red, one in white and one in blue, take them all under the wing of the curling club, give them sticks, bless them and say, "Go to it, and may the best bunch win the pennant." "If I were it" I would have the same trainer and coach for all. I think I would have "Bill." I would give each team equal privileges. I would start a strenuous rivalry, both in practice and exhibition. "If I were it," this should furnish the hockey for Duluth for all time to come. I would encourage the Duluth Amateur Hockey association teams as feeders for the three club teams, then, "if I were it," I would have the winning team of the series represent our fair city in a post-series of games with, say, two or three winning teams in other parts of our fair land, and from the domain of King George, God save him. Seriously, gentlemen, what think you? I think this is a winner. I love that "native son" idea of mine. Just stop and consider what James Ten Eyck has done with the "native sons," boys born and raised in our fair city. How proud we are of them, and how we turn out to do them honor when they return with a victory to their credit. This is one picture, and now I will give you another. "If I were it," I would have thirty young men composing these three teams, "furriners" and "native sons," brim full of enthusiasm, working day and night among their sweethearts, wives, brothers, sisters, cousins, aunts, etc., for the crowds to see them play. Money would begin to roll in, mortgages paid, bonds retired, etc. Every one would be "with one accord in one place" forever and forever, amen—which, interpreted, means, "so let it be."

"IF I WERE IT."

Duluth, Jan. 28.

PAWNBROKERS.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Kindly publish in your Open Court column the length of time a pawnbroker has to keep an article that has been pawned before he can sell it, in the state of North Dakota. Yours truly,

J. BERGMAN.

Duluth, Jan. 28.

In Minnesota any article on which less than $100 has been loaned must be held six months. The Editor has not a copy of the North Dakota law available, but one local pawnbroker stated today that he believed the limit was the same in North Dakota. Mr. Bergman might verify this by writing the editor of one of the Grand Forks or Fargo papers or the secretary of state in North Dakota.—The Editor.

TWO QUESTIONS ANSWERED.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Please inform me in the Open Court the correct manner of expressing the following: The injured man was taken to "an" hospital, or, the injured man was taken to "a" hospital. Which is correct to use "a" or "an" before the word hospital? Why do most jewelers have the hands set for 8.18 on their dummy watches and clocks outside their places of business?

Respectfully,
GEORGE F. COTEY.

Eveleth, Minn., Jan. 25.

"A hospital" is correct.

There is a popular belief, which jewelers say is correct, that dummy clocks are set at this hour because it was the time Lincoln was shot.

STATE LAND POLICY.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Through your columns I seek the privilege of expressing a few thoughts on some phases of our state laws which are too often tabooed from the columns of subsidized county newspapers. Some of our old-time legislators, shorn of their war locks as political partisans, are compelled to make tremendous efforts to keep themselves in the limelight. In the year 1905 an act was passed by the legislature of Minnesota by which the purchaser of state lands, to show his good faith as a bona fide settler, was required to fence 25 per cent of it or cultivate 5 per cent of it or live on it twelve months. This law was salutary and prevented the speculators from gobbling up the land and destroying the timber, which nature's God had designed for the incoming people who needed homes. But some of our legislators, finding that the proceeds from the state land sales dribbled in altogether too slow to suit their purposes, exerted themselves in the legislature of 1911 and had this law repealed.

By removing these homesteading features, the gateway was thrown open to the vulture-like crowd of speculators which has roosted, to its detriment, on the fairest portions of Northern Minnesota ever since.

Armed with fictitious affidavits, men came from other states and bid in our state lands at $5 per acre, which they have since refused to sell for less than $20, without making any improvements whatever. The repealing of this law was the greatest political crime of 1911. Under the present system, even if our state school fund does increase at the rate of a million dollars per year, our taxes go higher and higher. It is harder every year for working men to buy homes for themselves in the state of Minnesota, and all history points to the fact that contented homeowners are the greatest bulwarks of the commonwealth. It is of the utmost importance that our farmers' sons should be able to obtain land near the homes of their fathers at rates which would hold out some prospect of them being able to pay. Prior to the repeal of the above law this was possible. Now they must pay tribute and make obeisance to the alien speculator.

In one county seat of Northern Minnesota, a county official made the statement that there were twice as many taxpayers living outside the county as lived in it, which would go to show that in the future we may have to deal with absentee landowners, which is landlordism in its worst form. We are glad to note that our new state auditor, Mr. Preus, has taken up this homesteading feature of our state lands with a view to its readoption, and I hope, through this trespass on your valuable space, to aid The Herald in saving some homes to the people of Minnesota from the lands yet unsold. Yours truly,

F. B. MEGARRY.

On a winter's night, when hearts are light,
And health is on the wind,
We loose the rein and sweep the plain,
And leave our cares behind.

Chorus.

As merrily on,
As merrily on we bound.

With a laugh and song we glide along,
Across the fleecy snow,
With friends beside how swift we ride
On the beautiful track below.

Oh, swift we go o'er the fleecy snow,
And moon-beams sparkle round,
And hoofs keep time to music's chime
As merrily on we bound.

Oh, the raging sea has joys for me,
When gale and tempest roar,
But give me the speed of a foaming steed
And I'll ask for the waves no more.

"The Workingmen."

I've builded your ships and your railroads,
I've worked in your factories and mines,
I've builded the roads that you drive on,
I've crushed the ripe grapes for your wines.

I've worked late at nights on your garments,
I've gathered the grain for your bread;
I've built the fine houses you live in,
I've printed the books you have read.

I've linked two great oceans together,
I've spanned your rivers with steel,
I have built your towering sky-scrapers
And also your automobile.

I've gone out to wrecked ships in the lifeboats,
When the storm loudly cried for its prey;
I have guarded your homes from murderers,
I have turned the night into day.

Where'er there is progress you will find me;
Without me the world could not live;
And yet you would seek to destroy me
With the meager pittance you give.

Today you may grind me in slavery,
You may dictate to me from the throne,
But tomorrow I shall throw off my fetters
And be ready to claim what I own.

You masters of field and factories,
I am mighty and you are but few.
No longer I'll bow in submission,
I am labor and ask for my due.

MANY people in this section think that Ivory is a laundry soap. So it is, but that is not all. It is equally fine for the toilet and for the same reasons that it is fine in the laundry.

Because it is pure, because it is mild, because it lathers freely and rinses easily, Ivory Soap is unequalled for all laundry work.

Are not these the qualities you desire in toilet soap?

The fact is, you cannot get a better soap for the toilet than Ivory. Do not let its low price make you think otherwise.

STATE SUPREME COURT DECISIONS

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—The following decisions were rendered today by the Minnesota supreme court:

Franchise Is Valid.

ST. LOUIS COUNTY.

State ex rel Lyndon A. Smith, attorney general, appellant, vs. Duluth Street Railway company, respondent.—

1. The Duluth Street Railway company did not construct, equip and have in operation one mile of its street railway within one year after the granting of its franchise, in accordance with the condition expressed in it.

2. The franchise granted to the Duluth Street Railway company, Sp. Laws 1881, Ex. Sess. c. 200, approved Nov. 17, 1881, was upon the express condition that if it failed to construct, equip and have in operation one mile of street railway within one year, it should, without any act on the part of the state or the village of Duluth, forfeit to the village all of the rights, privileges and immunities granted. It was provided that the grant, when accepted, should be a contract between the state and the village and the company. It is held that the forfeiture was not executed ipso facto upon a failure to perform the condition strictly on time, so that there could be no waiver of the strict performance of the condition, or of a forfeiture, but that the condition was in the nature of a condition subsequent subject to waiver.

3. The village waived strict performance of the condition.

4. The act of 1881 constitutes a valid franchise, exclusive in character, in the Duluth Street Railway company, and such franchise expires on Oct. 17, 1931.

Judgment and order affirmed. DIBELL, C.

Verification Sufficient.

HENNEPIN COUNTY.

Peter Lyons, plaintiff, vs. Joel Jarnberg et al., defendants; Nels Westerdahl, appellant, Bruer Brothers Lumber company et al, respondents—

1. Where in an action to foreclose a mechanics' lien, a party verifies his pleading by an affidavit that the averments therein are true of his own knowledge, and such pleading states positively that the attached bill of items is true and correct, this constitutes a sufficient verification of such bill of items.

2. Under the rule stated in Capehart vs. Foster, 61 Minn. 132, that lighting fixtures do not become a part of the realty, at least under ordinary circumstances, it is held that the value of such fixtures was improperly included in the amount adjudged to be alien upon the property.

3. One of the lien claimants performed his contract only in part, but filed a lien for the amount which would have been due had he performed the contract in full. Held that he knowingly claimed more than was justly due, and thereby divested himself of all right to a lien against the property.

Judgment modified. TAYLOR, C.

Evidence Sufficient.

HENNEPIN COUNTY.

Sophia Dybvig, respondent, vs. Minneapolis Sanatorium, incorporated, and James J. Baker, appellants—

Evidence in an action to recover for services rendered by plaintiff at defendant's request, in nursing a patient at a sanatorium held sufficient to sustain a recovery as upon an express contract, established by reference to terms under which prior services of the same general character were rendered by plaintiff for defendants, supplemented by the conduct of the parties.

There was no reversible error in the rulings concerning evidence or in the instructions.

Order affirmed. PHILIP E. BROWN, J.

No Error in Ruling.

HENNEPIN COUNTY.

Charles J. Traxler, respondent, vs. Minneapolis Cedar & Lumber company, appellant.—

1. The evidence conclusively established that plaintiff was employed by defendant to perform legal services for it.

2. A president of a corporation ordinarily has implied power to retain an attorney to defend an action brought against the corporation, especially when the attorney so retained has acted as such for the corporation in prior matters.

3. Oral evidence of action of the board of directors of a corporation is properly admitted against the objection that it is not the best evidence, when it does not appear that any written evidence of such actions exists.

4. The evidence sustains the verdict as to amount.

5. There was no error in any ruling on the admission of evidence or in the charge.

Order affirmed. BUNN, J.

Entitled to Lien.

HENNEPIN COUNTY.

Lowell A. Lamereaux, et al, respondents, vs. Louis Andersch, et al, appellants.—

1. An architect who, under contract with the owner of land, furnishes plans and specifications for the construction of a building thereon, is entitled to a lien upon the building and land upon which it is constructed, though he does not supervise the construction.

If the owner, after the plans are furnished, of his own volition and without fault of the architect, abandons the construction of a building on the land, the architect has a lien on the land. An actual improvement is not necessary to a lien.

2. The contract between the architect and the owner was that the former should furnish plans and specifications for and supervise the construction of the building for an entire consideration based on a percentage of the total cost. The lien statement was filed within ninety days after the owner repudiated the contract. It is held that such statement was filed in time, though the last work on the plans and specifications was done more than ninety days prior thereto.

Judgment affirmed. BUNN, J.

Order Affirmed.

HENNEPIN COUNTY.

In re estate of Karen Paulson, Serena Moe, at. al., appellants, vs. Peter B. Paulson, respondent—

1. In a will contest case the evidence is considered and held sufficient to support the verdict of the jury to the effect that testatrix was mentally competent to make the will and that it was not procured by undue influence.

2. Where a party who is entitled to object to evidence of a conversation with a deceased person, by a person interested in the event of the action, calls such witness and cross-examines him in reference to such conversation, he thereby waives the right to object to a full statement of the entire conversation. Hess Estate, 57 Minn. 282 followed.

3. The rule applies even though the questions put to the witness were intended to call only for statements made by him to the deceased. Such statements are necessarily a part of the conversation, and by calling them out the other party is entitled to the whole conversation.

4. The rule that special reference in the charge of the court to a particular witness, with the admonition to consider his interest in the result of the action, is error, does not apply where the court in such connection names practically all the witnesses so interested.

5. Erroneous rulings admitting incompetent or immaterial evidence will constitute reversible error only when clearly prejudicial.

6. The charge of the court stated the rules of law applicable to the cases with substantial correctness and without reversible error.

Order affirmed. BROWN, C. J.

Not Cause of Discretion.

HENNEPIN COUNTY.

H. W. Johns-Manville company, respondent, vs. Great Northern Hotel company, appellant—

1. An order of the trial court refusing to relieve defendant from its failure to appear at the time set for the trial of the action, held not an abuse of discretion.

2. No errors were committed on the trial, had in the absence of defendant, and the evidence supports the verdict.

Order affirmed. BROWN, C. J.

RAMSEY COUNTY.

States Cause of Action.

1. A complaint alleging that one cut timber upon state lands without a permit such as is required by laws 1895, chapter 163, section 7, revised laws 1905, section 2442, states a cause of action in trespass, though words equivalent to "wrongfully" or "willfully" are not used; and the holder of such a permit, lawfully in possession for the purpose of cutting timber of not less than a specified size, is a trespasser in cutting timber of less than such size.

2. By laws 1905, chapter 204, section 43, general statutes 1913, section 5302, all limitation upon the time for bringing suit for a trespass on state lands is removed; and the statute is applicable to the situation stated in paragraph, 1 though the trespass was prior to its enactments.

3. The statute cited is not unconstitutional as in contravention of article 4, section 27, of the Constitution providing that "no law shall embrace more than one subject, which shall be expressed in its title."

4. A complaint is good against a joint demurrer if a cause of actiou is stated against any defendant; and a joint demurrer by the holder of a permit and his sureties on a statutory bond will be overruled if a cause of action is stated against such holder, though none is stated against the sureties.

Order affirmed. DIBELL, C.

RAMSEY COUNTY.

Must Be Accepted as Law.

William Quinn, respondent, vs. St. Paul Boiler Manufacturing company, appellant—

In this, a personal injury action by a servant against his master, there is not such an absence of evidence to sustain an alleged failure of the master to discharge one of his absolute duties that defendant is entitled to judgment notwithstanding the verdict.

There is ample evidence to establish the facts which under the court's instruction warranted a recovery. No error is assigned upon the charge, and, right or wrong, it must be accepted as the law of this case.

The damages awarded are considered excessive.

Affirmed conditionally. HOLT, J.

YELLOW MEDICINE COUNTY.

Car in Transit.

H. W. Otos, respondent, vs. Great Northern Railway company, appellant—

A car in process of transportation from one state to another is in transit and is being used in interstate commerce while being switched at an intermediate yard with other interstate cars, although there may be a purpose to switch the defective car to a repair track for repair of a defective coupler before it leaves the yard. The Federal Safety Appliance Act and the Employers' Liability Act apply to such a car.

2. The act of a switchman in stepping between moving cars to make an uncoupling because of a defective coupler is not the sole proximate cause of an injury received by him while so doing. The violation of the statute is a contributing cause of injury.

3. The damages as reduced by the trial court are not excessive. Defendant was not entitled to a reduction of the amount of plaintiff's damages because of a prospect that a surgical operation might relieve part of his injury.

Order affirmed. HALLAM, J.

MARSHALL COUNTY.

Had Right to Crop.

Pioneer Loan & Land company, respondent, vs. Joseph L. Cowden, et al., appellants—

Land under lease was sold in May under an executory written contract of sale. The contract by its terms gave possession to the vendee "by assignment of lease." Held, the contract gave the vendee the right to the crop for that year, and parol evidence was not admissible to show an agreement that the vendor should have the crop.

Where such a contract is pleaded in the complaint and admitted in the answer, it is not material in determining the rights of the parties between themselves whether or not the registry tax has been paid.

The lease provided that the owner of the land should receive one-quarter of the crop and should give the tenant three-quarters, that the owner should pay one-quarter of the threshing bill and on Nov. 1, pay 75 cents an acre for plowing all land in crop during that year. By a later agreement the owner agreed to pay for breaking land put into crop. After the sale, the vendor received the proceeds of the crop and paid all these charges. Held, the vendee, in this action to compel him to account, is entitled to recover only the net amount received after deducting such payments.

New trial granted unless defendants consent to judgment against them for the amount found by the trial court less deductions for such payments.

HALLAM, J.

BROWN COUNTY.

Judgment for Defendant.

George Johnson, respondent, vs. United Flour Mills company, appellant—

Evidence in an action to recover damages for injuries alleged to have been caused by defendant's failure to furnish plaintiff, its servant, with a safe place to work and proper appliances, and its unsafe methods of work, whereby a bag of oats fell on plaintiff while he was unloading an elevator, held conclusively to establish the defense of assumption of risk.

Order reversed, with directions to enter judgment for defendant.

PHILIP E. BROWN, J.

TRAVERSE COUNTY.

Verdict Sustained.

Harvey Meyer, respondent, vs. Julius Saterbak, appellant—

Where a complaint declares upon a quantum merult count for the reasonable value of services, and the evidence discloses that defendant agreed to pay a specified price therefor, this is at most a variance and when it appears that defendant was not misled thereby to his prejudice, a recovery of the agreed price is proper.

The verdict is sustained by the evidence.

There was no prejudicial error in the charge.

Order affirmed. BUNN, J.

DAKOTA COUNTY.

Award Not Nullified.

In re application of M. St. P. R. & D. Elec. Trac. Co. to condemn land, M. St. P. R. & D. Elec. Trac. company, appellant, vs. Edward E. Grimes, respondent—

1. In proceedings to condemn a railroad right-of-way the commissioners awarded to the land-owner a specific sum of money as damages, and in addition thereto imposed upon the company the obligation to construct a cattle pass and certain culverts for the use of the land-owner. The company appealed and by the notice thereof limited the issues raised thereby to the question of damages. The jury in the district court reduced the damages from the amount awarded by the commissioners, but the verdict contains no reference to the conditions imposed by the report of the commissioners. The company caused judgment to be entered upon the verdict, and the judgment made no reference to the conditions. The amount thereby awarded to the land-owner was paid and he formally satisfied the judgment.

It is held:

1. That the award of the commissioners imposing the conditions referred to was not nullified by the appeal, and since that branch of the proceeding was not challenged on the trial of the appeal, the conditions remained in force and effect.

2. The court properly corrected and amended the judgment by incorporating this provision of the commissioners' report, notwithstanding the fact that judgment as to damages had been paid and discharged.

Order affirmed.

WHEN A COAL MAN SMILES

"Bully! Fine!" Says Head of Clarkson Coal Company Anent Weather.

"Makes You Healthy, Kills Germs, and Booms Coal Business."

There are some persons to whom this brand of weather is idealistic.

Worrell Clarkson, one of the largest of the coal dealers who make the Head of the Lakes territory—and a former Duluthian, by the way—leaned against the desk of the Spalding today and smiled with the benign brand of radiance that indicates complete satisfaction with the ways of the world.

"Cold weather, Mr. Clarkson," said the young clerk at the desk—the good looking one with the struggling mustache.

"Great weather!" replied the coal dealer with rare and spirited enthusiasm. "The finest weather in the world, my boy; the kind of weather that makes one healthy."

When does Mr. Clarkson trek south? Well, most of the coal dealers are too busy just at the present time to think of leaving this portion of the country, even though it is very cold.

"This kind of weather has increased the coal movement," said Mr. Clarkson. "It's great weather. The sale of coal has been slack during the fall and early winter. Orders have increased since the thermometer has dropped. But this is the kind of weather that makes the blood circulate and kills the germs. Bully! Fine!"

So you see, it is a poor brand of weather that does not satisfy somebody.

PRESERVES MADE IN THE WINTER

Philadelphia Telegraph: "What in the world do you mean by winter preserves?" I can hear some sceptical one exclaiming. "I thought all preserve-making was done in the summer or at the latest in the autumn. What on earth can you find to 'do up' in the winter?"

Many things, and very excellent, delicious things, too. There are apples, for instance, and this winter the apple crop has been unusually fine, and we are often able to obtain excellent bargains in this wholesome fruit. Quarter of a peck of cheap, sour apples will make five or six glasses of clear amber jelly that is delicious. Some of the jelly might be spiced and will be very tasty to serve with meats.

It's really no trouble to make, either, as the fruit may cook while you are washing the breakfast dishes, drain till luncheon time, and the process finished while this meal is being cleared away. Good management is everything in housekeeping. It solves every problem, clears away every difficulty.

Sometimes it is possible to find a few winter pears selling at a bargain price; these will make a very good conserve combined with lemons, sugar and a little root ginger. Very soon now small, tart oranges will begin to be very plentiful, then orange marmalade can be made, and this is a very healthful breakfast, sweet and nice for luncheon also.

Cranberry conserve, made by adding the pulp and grated peel of two oranges, a cup of raisins and two cups of sugar to a quart of cranberries and boiling till very thick, is very nice to serve with chicken or for luncheon. Mint jelly is made quite easily by reserving some of the apple jelly and flavoring it strongly with fresh or dried mint.

Dried apricots, soaked over night and cooked slowly for an hour, then pressed through a sieve and returned to the fire with an equal quantity of sugar to simmer till thick, make a very delectable marmalade.

Another delicious winter marmalade is made from one grapefruit, one orange and one lemon, sliced, soaked in water for thirty-six hours, then cut in small pieces and cooked till rich and smooth with an equal quantity of sugar.

WHERE MANNERS BEGIN

If You Wish Well Behaved Child, Train It When a Baby.

Washington Herald: In this modern time, when kindergarten methods, Montessori methods, outdoor sleeping and living, and manual and technical training all tend to develop the child's individuality, and to make his path interesting, the tried and harassed parent, governess or nursemaid often wishes that she could settle all difficulties with the old-time admonition, "Children should be seen and not heard."

To be sure, this admonition was sometimes too strictly obeyed, as the mother who whispered it to her restless small son one morning at family prayers in some peaceful, forgotten day realized when, prayers over, she looked from the window and beheld the barn in flames and heard Bobby say: "That's what I wanted to tell you, mother."

Avoiding Conceit.

To some observers there seems to be a big risk, in the present methods of education, that children will gain a too high idea of their own small importance. To be sure, the future of a country lies in the hands of its children. Education of children doubtless leads to an uplifted standard of knowledge. And strong children make strong men and women. But conceited children are always and everywhere something to be avoided. Conceit is what some observers think the present methods of education give our children.

In reality, of course, carefully brought up children are carefully brogue up, no matter what the fashion in education may be. And many little snobs and prudes were developed under old school methods, just as many little bullies and tomboys are developed under the present system. There is still a table of the laws governing children's behavior, which all parents and all children do well to heed.

Where Manners Begin.

Children's manners begin in the cradle. A baby begins to understand long before it begins to talk. It notices the fact that its mother is its adoring slave before ever it has a tooth or a spear of hair to call its own.

So, if you would have your child well mannered, begin to teach it when it is still a baby. Teach it to stand its baby troubles uncomplainingly, and so lay the foundation of the qualities that will make people call it a thoroughbred in later life. Teach it to be sunshiny, and so start the biggest asset of good manners, a gracious and smiling presence.

As soon as the baby leaves the small baby state, the inculcation of its manners must go on with even greater care than before.

The minute it begins to eat with the assistance of its own small hands, the first lesson table manners must begin. There is little excuse for the disgusting table manners of some children. They are due, really, to the fact that the mother or other caretaker finds it less trouble to let the child search aimlessly for its mouth than to insist that it locate it daintily, surely and without experiment.

A very small child can be taught to eat nicely. Teach it that spotted bibs are beneath contempt. Patiently show it how to hold its spoon and cup, and help it to eat slowly. The lesson is a hard one for the teacher as well as for the child. But perseverance is the only way. And once the child has learned to eat daintily, the slovenly ways of untrained children when they are eating will be as distasteful to it as you would find them in a grown person.

Learn By Imitating.

Remember that children ape the manners of their elders. For this reason the greatest care should be used in the choosing of nursemaids, governesses or anyone else who comes in constant contact with the child. Many well-known men have talked, when excited, to their dying day in the brogue or burr of their childhood nurses.

And who can doubt that much of the gentleness of character and strength of spirit of Robert Louis Stevenson were inspired in him by the dear old nurse to whom he dedicated his "Child's Garden of Verse?"

The imitative method is the easiest whereby a child may acquire its manners. The small boy who adores his gallant father seldom forgets to take off his hat and stand in the presence of women. The small girl who looks up to her mother with affection is the pattern of loving courtesy to her father. Children often affect the graces of their elders in a most laughable way. But don't laugh at them. They will outgrow this priggishness. It is only a phase of their imitative acquisition.

It is the vogue of the day for small girls, up to the age of 10 or 12, to courtesy when they meet their elders. After that they, like small boys, stand and shake hands. It is also proper for children to be quiet and unobtrusive when they are in the company of grown-ups.

Some of the set rules of children's manners, like these, they cannot learn by imitation. But if they are courteous, thoughtful and happy, they will take an interest in acquiring these little superficial manners that will make their acquisition easy.

HEALTH INSURANCE

NOURISHMENT is the beginning of all good health, and milk is the most nourishing of all foods. Drink plenty of pure, rich, sweet milk, then you will be building and insuring a rugged constitution—that means so much to you.

You and your family should drink none but the richest and sweetest milk and cream—from healthy, well-cared-for cows—from dairies that welcome the most rigid of inspections, and exercise the strictest supervision over herds and methods.

Pure milk from healthy cows, when pasteurized, is safe, as safe as safety can be. Milk and cream lose nothing in sweetness, richness or wholesomeness during pasteurization.

They do gain a safeguard that guarantees their purity and quality.

DULUTHIANS AT MEETING

Lieut.-Col. H. V. Eva, secretary of the Duluth Commercial club, will leave tomorrow evening for Washington, D. C., to represent the club at the annual meeting of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States. Watson S. Moore will attend as representative of the Duluth board of trade. Julius H. Barnes, national councillor, elected by the Commercial club, is already on the ground and will attend the gathering. The council will meet next Tuesday and on the two folowing days the delegates will convene and discuss questions of commercial importance.

The gathering will be addressed by President Wilson next Wednesday evening. It is assumed that the president is taking this opportunity to go to the business men of the country because he has a message for them. Three cabinet members will also address the meetings. The first will be W. J. Bryan, secretary of state. He will discuss American investments abroad and lay before the delegates the problem as he sees it from the point of view of that department of the government which directs the foreign policies of the nation.

The administration has declared itself in support of the pending merchant shipping bill and the secretary of the treasury will give official utterance to the views of the administration. So that the delegates may have both sides of this question presented to them, Senator Burton of Ohio will present the views of those who are opposed to the legislation now urged by the administration.

The continued close association of the chamber with the department of commerce will be evident in the part which Secretary Redfield will take in the proceedings. He will speak at the banquet, on the development of foreign commerce. Charles Sumner Hamlin will make clear the evolution of the Federal Reserve system and its bearing on commercial relations.

The preliminary program reflects the national character which the Chamber of Commerce of the United States has definitely established not only by its actual, accomplished service to American business, but also through its membership. The national chamber now is a federation of more than 600 chambers of commerce, boards of trade, commercial clubs and associations and trade organizations—which in turn represent approximately 275,000 corporations, firms or individuals—with an individual membership numbering 2,500, while it is working on a budget of slightly over $100,000. It represents business organizations in every state in the union, except New Mexico, as well as Hawaii, Porto Rico and the Philippines and American chambers of commerce in Paris, Berlin and Constantinople.

GERMAN FIELD TELEPHONE USED BY ARMY

The field telephone has taken the place of the dispatch bearer in the field of war. Portable telephone outfits are carried by each of the armies and whenever there is a change of position of the troops wires are strung so as to connect each part of the firing line with the commander of the forces gathered there and through him with the commander-in-chief. The headquarters of an army now resembles a business office. All orders are sent over the wire and the foaming horse of the dispatch courier no longer staggers up to the tent of the commander-in-chief while his rider throws himself from the saddle.

CITY HALL GIRLS FACE DISASTER

Why?

Because thirteen of their number sat down to a supper party in the city assessor's office late yesterday afternoon.

However, the girls had their party and enjoyed it immensely, they all said this morning. Despite the condemning of the ice cream by the health department, the affair was a success. So rejoiced are the girls that this morning they passed resolutions thanking Fred Ash, deputy city clerk, for his failure to make any appearance.

Sandwiches, salad and ice cream were served and after the feast, the girls all went to the Rex theater for the remainder of the evening.

JURY IS DEADLOCKED.

Unable to Decide $52,000 Damage Action Against Saari Bros.

Up to 2:30 o'clock this afternoon the district court jury in the case of Mrs. Anna Olson against Saari Bros. had not reached an agreement after being out twenty-one hours. The jury took the case at 5:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

Mrs. Olson is asking for $2,000 damages, which she alleges were sustained to her homestead resulting from an overflow of the Waterhen river because of a dam built across the stream by the defendants. The logging contractors ask for $2,500 on a counter claim, alleging that Mrs. Olson placed booms in the stream last spring and thus prevented them from making a successful log drive.

WANT INFORMATION ON GARBAGE COLLECTION.

Information on Duluth's garbage collection system is desired by the League of Minnesota Municipalities.

Ruben Johnson, secretary of the health department, received a request this morning from G. A. Gesell, who is in charge of the bureau for information on the garbage collection system of this city. Mr. Gesell states that the information is desired by the reference bureau of the extension department of the state university.

The communication asks what methods are employed in collecting the garbage, the rates charged, what is done to keep the carts sanitary and how the garbage is disposed of.

New Voting District.

Mayor Prince and City Clerk Palmer announced this morning that the Sixth, Seventh and Eleventh election districts will be changed so that a new district will be created for the convenience of the residents in Kenwood park and Superior View.

The new district, which will be known as the Forty-fourth, will include the upper part of the Eleventh, a corner of the Seventh and an unplatted section of the Sixth precincts.

The change is being made at the request of the members of the Kenwood Park Improvement club, who appealed to the city clerk for a more convenient polling place.

POSTPONEMENT OF OPENING OF CANAL

Formal Announcement of Change in Dates Is Made.

Washington, Jan. 29.—Formal announcement of the postponement of the opening ceremonies at the Panama canal from March to some time in July was made today by Secretary Daniels after a cabinet meeting.

In July the Atlantic fleet will pass through the canal and all of the other ceremonies planned for President Wilson's attendance in March will be held. The report of Governor Goethals of slides in Culebra cut were given by Mr. Daniels as reason for the postponement.

It was definitely announced that President Wilson expects to go to the San Francisco exposition in March, despite the postponement of the opening of the canal, and will make a special trip to Panama in July.

Officials have every expectation that the slides will be completely removed by July.

FOR BABY'S BONNET.

Los Angeles Times: To have fresh rosettes and strings for baby's bonnet at a moment's notice, embroider an eyelet at each corner of the bonnet where the ribbons are usually sewed. Have on hand a supply of small rosettes with ends attached to serve for strings. Slip the ends through the eyelets, and the bonnet is ready to tie. If the ribbons become soiled, or a different color is desired, the change may be made instantly with no time wasted in ripping off old ribbons and sewing on new ones. A bunch of tiny rosebuds placed on the side of baby's little fluffy bonnet is one of its beautiful features. These little shirred bonnets, with their puffed-out crowns and sheer ruching over the face, are as pretty as can be devised.

HIBBING MAN HAS OPTION ON LANDS

Brainerd, Minn., Jan. 29.—John Harrington of Hibbing has affixed his name to a contract for a lease of the mineral lands which were bequeathed to the city of Brainerd by the late Judge N. W. Holland, and city officials will soon attach their names to the option for a lease.

Harrington has an option on the forty acres north of the Parker & Topping foundry and two other tracts in Southeast Brainerd, one being located near the Cuyuna Range addition to Brainerd.

The term of the lease is fifty years, the royalty 30 cents a ton and the minimum tonnage to be mined 10,000 tons the first year and 25,000 tons the second year and annually thereafter for the balance of the term.

Exploration work is to commence within thirty days.

FENCING BALL PARK.

Cedar Posts Are Being Cut for Nashwauk Ball Grounds.

Nashwauk, Minn., Jan. 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—Jerry Hicks and Jay McGuire have been cutting cedar posts for use in erecting an eight-foot board fence surrounding the baseball park. The poles are twelve feet long, and it requires 250 of them. There is some talk of finding a new site for a ball park and a number of fans favor the site now in use as a skating rink, owing to its nearness to town.

The construction of a warming house at the skating rink has been recently completed and is of great benefit to the rink patrons.

NASHWAUK POLITICS.

Several Are Mentioned as Possible Village Candidates.

Nashwauk, Minn., Jan. 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—Possible candidates for the coming village election are already being mentioned. The village and township election falls on Tuesday, March 9. H. T. Relfel, superintendent of the La Rue mine, has been mentioned for president. Wilbur M. Ohles is a candidate for village clerk. Archie McWilliams, J. P. Lanto and Dr. M. F. Hayes, it is understood, are candidates for trustees. J. E. Cannon, the present treasurer, and Crockett Brown, it is rumored, are candidates for village treasurer.

KEEWATIN SEEKING TELEPHONE SERVICE.

Keewatin, Minn., Jan. 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—Keewatin wants telephone service and a committee representing the Commercial club has taken the matter up with the manager of the Mesaba Telephone company, and expects to get results. Keewatin wants the same service that has been installed in other towns and the people think they are entitled to it. The object of the club is to get a telephone exchange switchboard installed in the village.

Bids will be opened at a meeting of the village council on the evening of Feb. 6, for the disposal of $80,000 worth of bonds to take up the outstanding warrants held by the Keewatin First State bank.

USING SOAP SPOILS THE HAIR

Soap should be used very sparingly, if at all, if you want to keep your hair looking its best. Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and ruins it.

The best thing for steady use is just ordinary mulsified cocoanut oil (which is pure and greaseless), is cheaper and better than soap or anything else you can use.

One or two teaspoonfuls will cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, which rinses out easily, removing every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves the scalp soft, and the hair fine and silky, bright, lustrous, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get mulsified cocoanut oil at any pharmacy, and a few ounces will supply every member of the family for months.—Advertisement.

BUHL HOTEL GUESTS ARE ROUTED BY FIRE

Careless Plumbing Blamed for Blaze That Does $700 Damage.

Buhl, Minn., Jan. 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—Forced outside in below-zero weather, lodgers and roomers, many in scant attire, carrying their clothes in their hands, had to resume dressing in nearby buildings about 10 o'clock last night, when fire, caused by careless plumbing, broke out in the annex to the Stratford hotel. The damage is estimated at $700. The fire department fought the flames until 3 a. m. today. Plumbers had thawed out the water pipes in the building in the afternoon, and the fire burned between the walls in the afternoon and evening. An employe smelled smoke and located the fire, calling the department. There was partial damage to the Rood hospital, housed in the annex. The damage is covered by insurance. J. Grant is the hotel proprietor.

COLD WEATHER CAUSES MUCH COAL PILFERING.

Virginia, Minn., Jan. 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—The severe cold spell of the past few days has caused an unusual amount of coal stealing in this city, but no prosecutions are being made on these charges, as the people who can afford to lose a little fuel feel that it is being taken by the unemployed and those who are driven by want and cold to provide for themselves and families in any possible manner.

The extreme cold weather of the past few days has wrought great hardships upon many of the poor.

SHENANGO WILL HAVE BUSY YEAR

Official of Company Just From Pittsburg Brings Welcome News.

Chisholm, Minn., Jan. 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—Supt. E. J. Maney of the Shenango Furnace company, who has just returned from Pittsburg, reports that his company is making extensive preparations for a busy year. He says that conditions in the steel trade and iron industry generally are greatly improved and keep on improving and that his company will operate on a larger scale than ever this year. At present the Shenango mine is working with a full force of men in its underground operations. The open pit mining will be resumed as soon as weather conditions permit.

COURT JUSTIFIES ACTION

Tells Man Accused of Fighting on Street He Did Right Thing.

Hibbing, Minn., Jan. 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—Fighting on the street is justified in certain cases, said Municipal Judge T. F. Brady yesterday afternoon when George Stanich, arrested on a charge of disorderly conduct, was arraigned. Stanich was discharged.

Stanich told the judge he was walking quietly on Pine street at 10 o'clock yesterday morning when an alleged friend accosted him and asked him to buy a drink. He also informed Stanich if he did not comply with the request he would take it out of his hide." Stanich hit the man a lusty blow on the jaw. Patrolman Flanerry appeared and led the protesting Stanich to the station.

HIBBING INVITES BIDS.

Council Asks Tenders for Forty Cast Iron Manholes.

Hibbing, Minn., Jan. 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—Bids for material for forty cast iron manhole covers and heads, combined weight to be 250 pounds, have been advertised for by the village council. Among the material wanted is 50,000 perfectly shaped, smooth surfaced hard-burned brick of the best quality. The village has received an application from A. P. Silliman for a permit to construct a garage in the rear of his office building, Pillsbury addition.

JUDGE BRADY DECIDES IN TWO CIVIL ACTIONS.

Hibbing, Minn., Jan. 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—Judge Brady, in municipal court yesterday afternoon, decided for the plaintiffs in both cases in two civil actions which were tried here.

The First National bank sued D. D. Butchart for notes recently given the Advance Auto company for repairs to his automobile last summer. The company is now dissolved, but indorsed the notes over to the bank. In a suit for a plumber's bill, Carl Schirmer was awarded a verdict for $40 against Mrs. Emma Thomas for repairs to one of her buildings here. She testified that she did not order the repairs and for that reason was not responsible. They had been ordered by a tenant, she said.

Village Council Grants Request of Boys of Civic Guards.

Chisholm, Minn., Jan. 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—A delegation from the Civic Guards, an organization of boys, waited upon the village council Wednesday evening and requested that a ski slide be built on Fourth avenue. The request was granted and the street commissioner instructed to do the work.

A proposition from C. O. Callam & Co., to purchase village warrants was laid on the table indefinitely as some of the provisions of the agreement required special legislative action before being of any value in an agreement between the council and the company.

It was decided to call for bids for a two-circuit switchboard to be used by the fire department.

Miss Ellis was placed on the pay roll of the village.

CROSS, FEVERISH CHILD IS BILIOUS OR CONSTIPATED

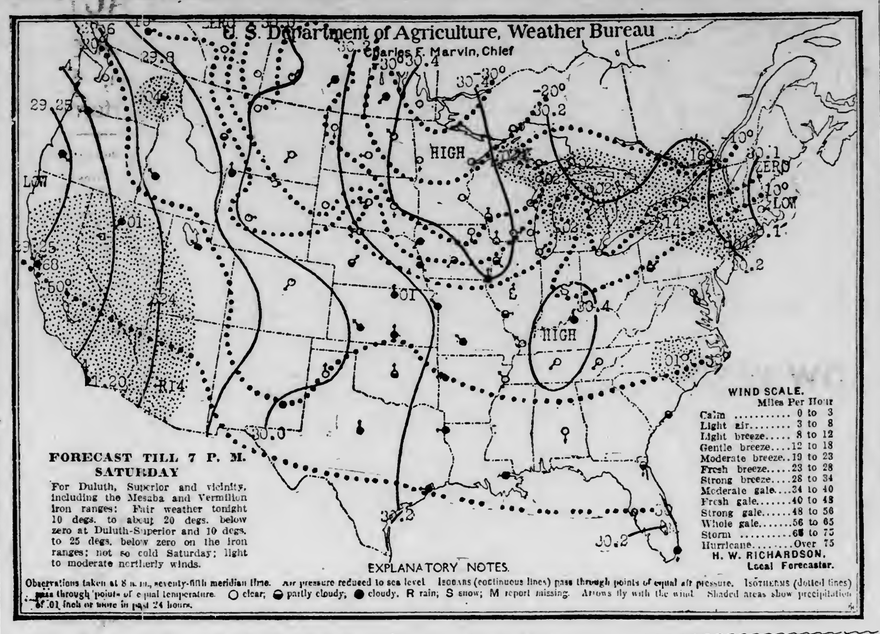

Look, Mother! If Tongue Is Coated Give "California Syrup of Figs."

Every mother realizes, after giving her children "California Syrup of Figs," that this is their ideal laxative, because they love its pleasant taste and it thoroughly cleanses the tender little stomach, liver and bowels without griping.

When cross, irritable, feverish or breath is bad, stomach sour, look at the tongue, mother! If coated, give a teaspoonful of this harmless "fruit laxative," and in a few hours all the foul, constipated waste, sour bile and undigested food passes out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again. When its little system is full of cold, throat sore, has stomach-ache, diarrhoea, indigestion, colic—remember, a good "inside cleansing" should always be the first treatment given.

Millions of mothers keep "California Syrup of Figs" handy; they know a teaspoonful today saves a sick child tomorrow. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and grown-ups printed on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here, so don't be fooled. Get the genuine, made by "California Fig Syrup Company."

FAIR

With a 24-deg. below zero temperature at 8 o'clock, strangely enough many people were of the opinion that there had been a big let-up in the cold spell. Probably absence of wind was the cause, and it was likely helped out by the better impression that the bright sunlight made. At any rate that was the feeling. Mr. Richardson hopes for milder weather soon—which also helps.

A year ago today was cold. The sun rose this morning at 7:37 and will set this afternoon at 5:06, giving nine hours and twenty-nine minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"The temperature has risen somewhat over the western lake region, the upper Mississippi and lower Missouri valleys, Southwestern states, Wyoming and Montana, and has turned colder over Eastern states, the Dakotas, Western Minnesota and Manitoba. Temperatures 36 deg. below zero occurred in the latter province last night. Snow fell during Thursday or last night over the lake region, New York and the St. Lawrence valley, and rain or snow over Nevada, Utah, Arizona and California. Heavy rain occurred at San Diego.

Zenith City Players Not Able to Stem Onrush of Other Team.

Two Harbors, Minn., Jan. 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—In a fast game of basket ball the local city team defeated the Catholic Athletic club team of Duluth last night in the local gym by the score of 35 to 26. The largest crowd of the season witnessed the game. In the first half the local boys played circles around the Duluth boys, the first half ending 21 to 8 in favor of Two Harbors. In the second half, however, things were quite different, and it looked for some time as though the Duluth boys were going to win out after all. For a few minutes in the last half they played the locals off their feet, but the locals braced up in time to stop the on rush of the visitors and win the game. The visitors made six more points in the second half than did the locals. Freeman, Woodward and McCurdy were the bright and shining stars for the local team. Freeman threw nine field baskets and Woodward six and one free throw. McCurdy was all over the floor at once and guarded his man exceedingly well.

The following was the lineup:

Paul	Johnson
Barrett	Filiatrault and Strand
Sarrie	McCurdy
O'Brien

Referee—Conliff.

VIRGINIA WANTS COMMISSION FORM

Charter Commission to Meet Tuesday to Consider Matter.

Virginia, Minn., Jan. 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—There is a growing sentiment here in favor of this city adopting the commission form of government. So far as can be learned today no petition has yet been circulated for the recall of four aldermen, as rumored in Thursday's Herald, but the subject is a lively topic of discussion.

WHAT NEURASTHENIA IS

Neurasthenia is a condition of exhaustion of the nervous system. The causes are varied. Continuous work, mental or physical, without proper vacation periods, without proper attention to diet and exercise, also worry over the struggle for success, are the most common causes. Excesses of almost any kind may produce it. Some diseases, like the grip, will cause neurasthenia. So also will a severe shock, intense anxiety or grief.

The symptoms are over-sensitiveness, irritability, a disposition to worry over trifles, heachache, possibly nausea.

The treatment is one of nutrition of the nerve cells, requiring a non-alcoholic tonic. As the nerves get their nourishment from the blood the treatment must be directed toward building up the blood. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills act directly on the blood and with proper regulation of the diet have proved of the greatest benefit in many cases of neurasthenia. A tendency to anemia, or bloodlessness, shown by most neurasthenic patients, is also corrected by these tonic pills. Your own druggist sells Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

Two useful books "Diseases of the Nervous System" and "What to Eat and How to Eat" will be sent free by the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y., if you mention this paper.

SHOUTING, KICKING, SLANGY "BILLY" SUNDAY IN ACTION

Close Range View of the Evangelist—Chief Causes of His Success Found in Organization, Slang, Baseball, and Eccentricities on the Platform.

New York Times: A trim and agile man of five feet eight, weighing 145 pounds, aged 53, blue-eyed, with scanty brown hair turning gray, in a well-pressed gray sack suit and new patent leather boots, with a polka dot bow tie, whose face was red and greasy, whose collar was melting with perspiration, holding a large white handkerchief which he used as a mop, now kicking, now laughing, now leaping on an unpainted kitchen chair, now hurling himself down to strike with fist the platform under foot, now prancing, now beating fist on palm, now whirling arms—this man, in a hoarse and somewhat rasping voice, which he shook from his throat in volume which was adequate with obvious and unattractive effort, shouted:

"Don't you have the audacity to sit there and call my preaching out of date, because I preach God's truth. Don't you insult God Almighty like that, you miserable mutt.

"Today the devil works through the schisms and isms. He is a smooth guy. He is on to his job.

"Whoever says Jesus Christ is not the Son of God is a liar. The Bible says he is a liar and so do I.

"If you use the word evolution to describe a protoplasm from which men and women came through the concurrence of atoms, you and I will lock horns, for I don't believe your old bastary theory."

And the hoarse-voiced man shouted many other phrases unusual in religious addresses.

Fifteen thousand persons held themselves so tensely during the shouting that there was a silence as absolute as if the 15,000 had been 15; 15,000 faces—faces wan and flushed, faces plaintive and blithe, faces of old men and girls—inclined in a single direction to the red-carpeted platform whereon was the man; 15,000 pairs of eyes gazed as if bewitched by what they viewed; 15,000 pairs of ears—so faces apparently signaled—welcomed the words as if they were those of a noble and glorious inspiration.

Why These Multitudes?

The man was "Billy" Sunday, evangelist; the time was last Tuesday night; the place was the Tabernacle in Philadelphia, with a seating capacity of 15,000 and a total capacity of 20,000, specially constructed for the eight-week Sunday campaign, which began on Jan. 3; the people were the successors of similarly large audiences which have jammed the Tabernacle at every evening meeting, and filled it comfortably at every afternoon meeting, there being thirteen meetings a week—three on Sunday, two every other day but Monday, which is "rest day."

Why?

Why is Philadelphia, both its men and women, of many classes, crowding into the Tabernacle?

Organization is the chief explanation of the filling of the Tabernacle.

Altogether, there are four factors to which much of Mr. Sunday's amazing success as an evangelist is due:

Baseball.

Slang.

Calculated eccentricity of platform manner.

Organization.

Taking organization first, it is found that a Sunday campaign means months of preparation. At the headquarters of the Sunday campaign committee in the Stock Exchange building in Philadelphia, The Times man learned from Rev. Dr. George H. Bickley, vice chairman, that the headquarters were opened last August, five months before the evangelist's actual appearance in Philadelphia. That was the start of active Sunday organization. Before that, however, 400 of the 600 Protestant churches of Philadelphia had agreed to enter the Sunday campaign, to back him and take part in the work. Mr. Sunday will not go into a small town unless he has the support and organization of all the churches, but in as large a place as Philadelphia—the largest city in which he has campaigned—he felt that success was assured with a majority of the churches.

A Special Tabernacle Builder.

Mr. Sunday has a tabernacle builder of his own, under whose direction the structures are put up. He has already built about thirty. The Philadelphia tabernacle cost $22,000. Other expenses brought the outlay of the Philadelphia committee—which has some of the most prominent business men in the city on its list—up to $50,000, all advanced by committee members. This money is being reimbursed through the collections, taken up in large th pans at each tabernacle meeting. Sunday gets no money until the last day. The collections of that day go to him. In Pittsburg he got $40,000 in the pans. Philadelphia supplies Mr. Sunday with a house, pays his living expenses and part of the salaries of his force of assistants.

So much for organization. As for slang, one of the other Sunday success factors, Mr. Sunday has discovered slang for religious purposes in somewhat the way George Ade discovered for the purpose of fiction, or as George Cohan in the old days discovered the American flag.

Baseball played a big part in Sunday's early evangelistic career because of the glamour surrounding a star player in the big leagues, as Sunday was—he played with Anson's famous Chicago team—and baseball still is an aid to Sunday because of its popularity and the friendliness prevailing for old-time players. In both his afternoon and evening addresses on Tuesday he referred at some length to the fact that he is an ex-baseballist.

As to his eccentricities on the platform, Mr. Sunday does not stand on his head, but he climbs up on his little white pulpit, and mounts the plain kitchen chair which stands on the platform—sometimes he picks up the chair and gesticulates with it—and he waves his arms and shakes his feet and throws his body around in extraordinary attitudes which proclaim that for a man of 53 he is marvelously nimble. George Ade termed Mr. Roosevelt the Eva Tanguay of politics, and might have termed Mr. Sunday the Eva Tanguay of evangelism.

Has a "Trainer."

Sunday has a "trainer"—Jack Carr—ex-pugilist—who massages him and rubs his neck and throat muscles and generally keeps him in pennant form. Sunday moves around so much on the platform that it is estimated that he walks 100 miles in six weeks.

He works very hard when speaking. On Tuesday night he was red-faced and perspiring three minutes after he began his discourse. He has a poor voice for a public speaker, in that it is hoarse—it is said he is almost always hoarse—and he seems to have much difficulty in getting sufficient carrying power to reach the big auditorium. One of his best platform points is a particularly boyish smile, which he uses considerably. He also laughs a good deal, and gets the audience to laugh with him, but the laugh rather lacks the spontaneity of the smile.

He talks very fast—so fast that the words almost choke his utterance at times; so fast that on occasions it is hard to follow him; so fast that two experienced court reporters had difficulty in shorthanding some parts of his address on Tuesday. In his sermon that night Sunday got his first laugh two minutes after he started when he referred to the devil as a "smooth guy," in a passage already quoted. He got another laugh a couple of minutes later when he said:

"The man who thinks he can improve on God's plan of salvation is as big a fool as the man who thinks he can make honey better than the bees."

Other portions of Tuesday night's address, taken stenographically, were as follows:

"A lot of nonsense is being spouted around about keeping good company, reading good books, and doing good deeds, and that by such things you can go to heaven. You will go to hell if that is all you do! (Applause.) A lot of stuff is being spouted about today. I agree that you ought to read good books and keep good company, but that doesn't save any man.

"If it did, you would be your own saviour, and it would be the height of nonsense for Jesus Christ to come into the world, and it would be a piece of foolishness for God to have given the final confirmation, God knows what to do. * * *

Hits Some Fiction Writers.

"I wish I could mete out a proper sentence for a lot of these writers of fiction. Every one of them has some crazy, fanatical, hair-brained theory about religion that is not the word of God at all, and this fiction is scattered broadcast.

"I read a book recently that advocated that marriage should not be a life contract, but should be on the installment plan, like we buy furniture. If you see a pretty good girl, a good looker, and are pleased with her, you say to her, 'Sis, let's hook up and try it for six months. If we think as much of each other at the end of that time as we do now, we will continue the arrangement; if not, we will play quits.' (Laughter.)

"I thank God that such a rotten, infamous, insulting doctrine will never prevail as long as there are found men that will preach God's truth and regulate their lives by the truth. (Applause.) * * *

"I heard of a lady who had an engagement to attend a meeting of a missionary society one day, but she stayed a little longer at the milliner's display than she intended, and when she got there, they were just opening the meeting. She was to lead the meeting. She grabbed a hymn book, Presbyterian, and said, 'We will sing four dollars and seventy-eight cents.' (Laughter.)

"So, we rush all day, business and society, and rush all night at the club, all night at the lodge, all night at the theater, and when we go to church on Sunday morning our minds are chocked full of business, chocked full of society, chocked full of pleasure. Oh, it would take forty Gabriels with trumpets to rouse a crowd like that, and interest them in God and his truths! (Laughter.) * * *

"They are searching, like the old woman who went to Chicago some years ago to visit some relatives. They took her around on a merry chase. After a few days they met her coming down the stairs one morning with her old carpet bag and her sunbonnet.

"They said, 'What does this mean?' She said, 'It means that I am going to swill a cup of coffee and eat a doughnut and catch the first train home.' They said, 'Oh, we have arranged an itinerary for you, and you must not go for several days.' She said, 'Yes, I am going to get a cup of coffee, a doughnut, and run home.' They told her that she must not go.

"She replied, 'I am going to tell you if I stay here another week I won't have any religion.' You took me to hear Robert Collier, the Unitarian minister, and he took my Jesus away. You took me to hear Bob Ingersoll, and he took my Bible and heaven away from me, and you took me to Genesee Miller on dress reform and she yanked my corsets off. So,' she said, 'I am going home where I can worship God.' (Laughter) * * *

"I say the church has been successful as she has been evangelical, and any church that has not been evangelical owes Philadelphia an apology for its useless, good for nothing, forsaken existence. (Applause.) We cannot get along with any other institution. Evangelical preaching is needed. Science has put a new dress on sin.

Environment of Adam and Eve.

"If it was a matter of environment, then you naturally would have expected that Adam and Eve would have made a great success, and Joseph and Daniel would have made a flat failure. Some people have an environment more difficult than others. Christianity is able to help you live above that environment, no matter what it may be, and keep a man and woman, no matter what their surroundings. But science today, this stuff, is trying to put a new dress on sin.

"A man is no longer a drunkard; he is a dipsomaniac. You shoot him full of bichloride of gold and he has a through ticket to salvation. He is really the same kind of an old drunken bum, no matter what kind of a label you tag on him. (Laughter and applause.)

"A man is no longer a thief, he is a kleptomaniac. But he is really the same old thief. Whoever takes what does not belong to him is really the same old thief. I don't give a rap what you call him. (Applause.) A man is no longer an adulterer. Oh, no! That is merely affinity, now. (Laughter.) It is the same rotten thing no matter what you name it.

"So they are trying to apologize for the impression that has gone abroad that the new birth is the old Adam life worked up. So we are going daffy today trying to get to heaven on culture. Literary clubs! All the culture on God's earth won't keep you out of hell. (Applause.) I believe in culture, but that is not salvation. Don't let anybody hoodwink you by such rotten stuff as that. Don't let anybody mislead you into thinking that you will go to heaven by doing good. What you need is a new birth not a new grandfather, or new sanitation. (Applause.)

Dogmatic in Preaching.

"Salvation is by faith in Jesus Christ and no other way. You cannot be a minister of the gospel and not be dogmatic in your preaching. Not at all. Here, let us throw away our doctrinal dogma, they say, and let us not be severe critics of Oriental religion. Let the Mohammedan come in, and the followers of Buddah and Confucius, and let us cull out the things on which we do not agree.

"The first thing they will ask you to cull out will be the word of God, and the next thing they will ask you to cull out will be the divinity of Christ, and salvation by faith in His shed blood; and when you get to trimming your gospel to suit that bunch, you will have nothing but a jumbled jargon of words that are not worth the paper they are printed upon. (Applause.) And you have done it to please a few mutts, and slapped God in the face. (Applause.) Say, if the world is against Jesus Christ, I am against the world, and don't forget. (Jumping on chair.) (Applause.) * * *

"Now, then comes another thing. We need a new article in our creed, 'I believe in hell.' Not gehenna or hades, but I believe in plain old hell, for the mouth of the Lord has spoken. (Applause.)

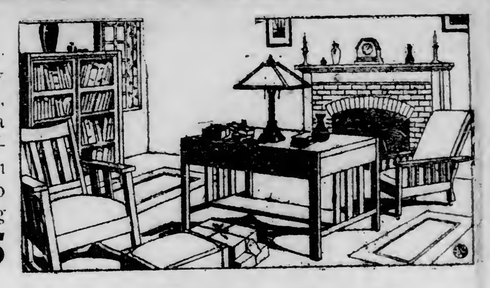

"I am not like a young preacher I know of, just out of the seminary, who stood up before a congregation and said, 'Dear brethren, judging by the way many of you are living, if you don't change your method of life, when you die you will go to a place which is so terrible that I cannot pronounce it.' I can pronounce it. You will go to hell. (Applause.) There is where you will go.

"Oh, it is not an indication of culture and reverence that you cannot say hell. If I could not, I would shape my lips until I learned to speak it. Jesus Christ could pronounce it, and God has put it in the Word of God and it is my business to preach it.

"I believe in hell. We need a new article in our creed, and we need a new ring in our preaching to let people know they are in danger of hell fire and damnation, for God hath said eternal damnation for the impenitent, but you say, I don't believe in frightening humanity. No, and I don't believe in lying to humanity. I believe in telling the truth, and if I tell you the truth, then you cannot blame me if you don't act upon the truth that I tell you. * * *

"If many of our armies were officered like our churches, it would mean defeat before a shot was fired. That is why we are not making great headway. They (the preachers) rattle around like dried peas in a boot or pebbles in a dishpan and make a few clickety-click prayers. It is as hard to get some people to do anything as to drag a cat backward by the tail over a piece of carpet, to get them to go out and start for God. (Laughter.) I believe they would if they were asked."

AUTHOR VISITS KAISER IN FIELD

Dr. Ganghofer Tells of Conversation With the German Emperor.

Berlin, via London, Jan. 29.—The Lokal Anzeiger published some further accounts of the visit of Dr. Ludwog Ganghofer, the author, to Emperor William at the German field headquarters. It tells of a trip made by the emperor and Dr. Ganghofer to Donchery, in the region of the Sedan battlefield. Here the emperor, in speaking of the unity of the German people, is quoted as saying to Dr. Ganghofer: "It is my greatest pleasure that I could live to see it."

The emperor pointed out to the author where his father had stood at Sedan, where Napoleon and Bismarck had met, and other historic spots.

The trip by automobile finally brought the party to the headquarters of Crown Prince Frederick William, where, after luncheon had been eaten, the emperor turned smilingly to his son and said:

"Once get a bite of things to eat by you then by me, I shall consider whether I shall not requisition your cook."

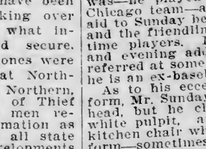

The emperor here had an opportunity to see a thousand French prisoners march by. He was greatly pleased when some of them doffed their caps to him, and he returned their salute. During this review he turned to a photographer who was taking pictures and said:

"Photograph the prisoners, and not always me."

The party later climbed a steep ascent to get a view of the surrounding region. When descending, Dr. Ganghofer slipped, but the emperor quickly grasped him by the arm and saved him from a fall, saying at the same time:

"Soldiers and citizens must help each other all they can."

WARROAD'S COAL STRIKE ATTRACTS

Representatives of Railroads Looking Into the Matter.

Warroad, Minn., Jan. 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—There are no particular developments in the Warroad coal find. The severe weather caused the well-drillers to suspend operations until milder weather. There have been several outside parties looking over the ground and gathering what information that they could secure. Among the most prominent ones were representatives of the Great Northern railroad, the Canadian Northern, and the Electric railroad for Thief River Falls. While these men refuse to give out any information as to their investigation, they all state that should there be any developments in the coal matter, that Warroad would have better railroad facilities.

During the week there have been several deals made for options for mineral rights on various tracts of land adjoining the village.

WOMAN'S DEATH SELF INFLICTED

Mrs. Perry Fatally Shoots Self Near Warroad, Minn.

Warroad, Minn., Jan. 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—Later developments in the case of Mrs. J. E. Perry, living at Conrad, twenty-four miles from here, whose death was reported in The Herald recently, indicate she died a suicide, having shot herself through the heart with a 32-caliber rifle, while apparently in a fit of temporar yinsanity, which appears to run in the family.

The deed was committed while she was alone in the house, the three children being at school and Mr. Perry at the barn doing his chores.

Leaves Telltale Note.

She left a note stating, "Don't blame anyone for this," and signed her name. The remains were shipped to the old home in Iowa for burial.

TOOK SHIP SAFELY THROUGH THE MINES

El Monte First Merchantman to Fly American Flag in Bremen for Years.

New York, Jan. 29.—Capt. Edward T. Pinchin, who piloted the American steamer El Monte, through mine strewn waters safely into the harbor of Bremen on New Year's day, brought his ship back to this port today. Although Capt. Pinchin's feat was regarded with amazement at Bremen, he was arrested before his ship could discharge its cargo of 6,000 bales of cotton, questioned at length and finally taken before a German admiral who cross-examined him and released him.

Because of the double distinction of guiding his ship through the mine fields and of bringing the American flag into Bremen harbor for the first time in forty-four years aboard a merchant vessel, Capt. Pinchin was royally entertained, he said, during his stay in Bremen.

Took Ship Through Fog.

Capt. Pinchin said that he had steered his vessel through a prohibited channel into Bremen harbor during a fog. Because of the fog he eluded the cordon of German battleships and cruisers stationed at the entrance. The first the German naval authorities knew of his intentions was when the fog lifted and they saw El Monte lying at anchor.

El Monte sailed from New York Dec. 11, having stopped here on her way to Bremen from Galveston. She arrived at Dover, Egland, on Christmas day and had to wait till the next day, on account of the holiday, to obtain permission from the British admiralty to continue her trip to Bremen. Capt. Pinchin said that after he left Dover he was held up by patrol boats at Deal till a party of junior naval officers who boarded her were satisfied as to her cargo and destination.

After El Monte had discharged her cargo at Bremen her crew of American sailors were given shore leave. They were welcomed by citizens with a great demonstration, Capt. Pinchin said.

El Monte brought back a cargo of salt from Bremen.

DACIA'S OWNERS TO BUY AMERICAN SHIP

Will Transform Ward Liner Into Freighter to Carry Cotton.

New York, Jan. 29.—Edward N. Breitung, owner of the steamship Dacia, which the British government has announced it would seize if it sailed from Galveston, as contemplated, with a cargo of cotton, is negotiating with the Ward line for the purchase of the steamer Seguranca. Mr. Breitung's intention, it became known today, is to convert the Seguranca, a passenger ship, into a cotton carrying freighter.

The Seguranca is due to arrive here Sunday from Havana. It was said that she will be turned over to the company Mr. Breitung represents upon her arrival here and that the work of reconstruction will be begun without delay.

Another ship of the Ward line, the Vigilancia, it became known today, has been sold and will likewise be converted into a cotton carrying freighter. The Vigilancia's purchasers are Ward & Armstrong of Savannah.

A representative of Mr. Breitung announced that he was seeking to purchase other ships of American or British registry. Offers had been made, the representative said, for available vessels and in the past two weeks prices had advanced approximately 50 per cent. This representative asserted that Mr. Breitung and his associates would not consider the purchase of any more ships of German registry and their transfer to the American flag, after their experience with the Dacia. Officials of the Ward line confirmed the report of the Vigilancia's sale and said that negotiations for the sale of the Seguranca still were pending.

"GYM" QUINT TRIMS BUSINESS COLLEGE

Commercial Lore Absorbers No Match for Youngsters of Central High.

Can a "stenotype shark" run an adding machine? To those that attended the basket ball game between the Central high school "gym" class quintet last evening it was conclusively proved that he cannot. The management of the high school gymnasium team invited the haughty business college five to come up to the Central floor and show the "kids" how to play basket ball. Incidentally they invited them to bring an adding machine along so that the score could be properly kept in case one team began to get considerably the better of it. One of the "stenotype" artists volunteered to keep the score and guaranteed that he would have it correct at the conclusion of the contest.

When the referee's whistle finally ended the slaughter, the scorekeeper was found exhausted. He had not been able to keep up with the baskets made by the "Gym" aggregation and as no "time out" was allowed him there was no definite score to be obtained. Even if there had been an announced score it would probably have been best to keep it dark for the sake of the business men.

There was nothing to the game but the work of the Central "Gym" team. They played rings around their older and heavier opponents and made baskets at almost any time they wanted one. Pedrizetti starred for the high school team with Shaw a close second. Betwen halves the "Gmy" class second team defeated the Washington Junior high school team in an exciting contest by a score of 15 to 12. Kerr starred for the victors, while Casmire played well for the losers. The lineup of the first game follows:

"Gym"—		Central Business.
Pedrizetti	f	Vincent
Mason	f	Frost
Gogins	c	Patton
Rosenberg	g	Black
Shaw	g	Middlecoff

CENTRAL VS. DENFELDS

Will Meet at Former's Gymnasium in First Basket Ball Collision.

Centrals Shy Two Good Men—Denfelds Have Good Record.

Looking upon their defeat last Friday evening at the hands of the speedy Cathedral team rather as a stimulus to further and harder work than as a serious attack to their championship aspirations, the Central high school basket ball squad is continuing to work with increased effort in preparation for the coming games. Tonight they will play the Denfeld high school team from West Duluth at the Central gymnasium. This game will mark the opening of athletic relations between these two schools, and considerable interest has been stirred up among the students and supporters of both institutions. A return game will be played at the Denfeld gymnasium on Feb. 22.

The West Duluth aggregation is somewhat light and inexperienced, but they have played a good many games this season and have made a good record. This is the first Denfeld quintet, and considerable interest is attached to them. The students support the team in fine style, and there will be a big delegation from the West Duluth institution to root for their favorites.

The best Denfeld athletes are in the freshman class, and there should likely be some exceptionally good teams developed there in the next few years. It is hoped that football relations may be started between the two schools next fall.

Coach G. A. Glyer has been working hard with his Central men, and although Scrivens will probably not be able to take part in tonight's contest, the coach is not discouraged, and looks forward to a successful season.

Scrivens was the fastest man on the team and one of the speediest high school players in this part of the state. His absence cripples the team considerably, but it is hoped he will be back in the game by next Friday, when Central meets the fast Hibbing quintet on the local floor.

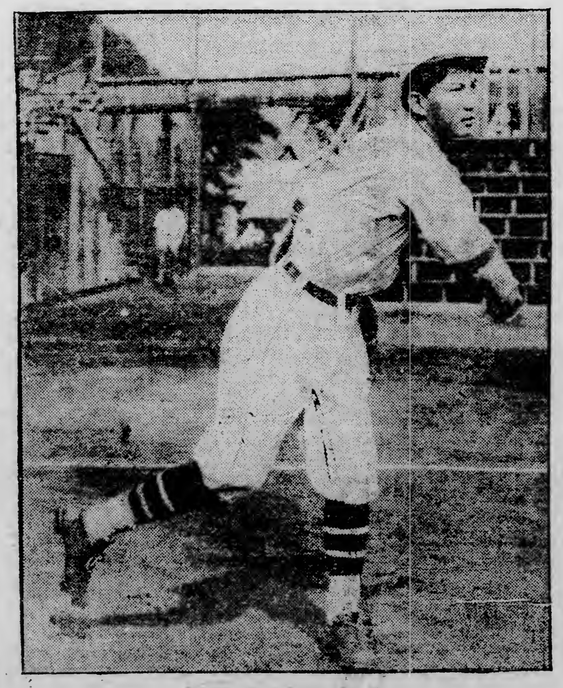

The loss of O'Brien, one of the best of last year's veterans, was a severe one, and Coach Glyer cannot afford to lose Scrivens. Several good men are available to fill in, and either Nelson, Shaw or Rosenberg will be used this evening. Karon has not completely recovered from an injury received in the Cathedral game, but he will be in the game tonight. Coach G. A. Glyer of Central and D. W. Hiestand of Denfeld have announced their lineups, and they will be as follows:

Central—		Denfeld—
Nelson, Shaw	f	Clark
Karon, Rosenberg	f	Ross
Moore	c	Huth, Dormady
Taylor, Farah	g	Allen, Rosborough
Solheim	g	Newsome

FORT WILLIAM HOCKEY TEAM HERE FOR GAMES

Canadian Seven Rated Faster Than the Port Arthur Team.

John Adams Expected to Make Trouble for the Linderites.

Fort William hockey players are here today ready for the initial game of this evening with the crack Duluth Curling Club hockey team of Duluth. With victories won over Port Arthur and Schreiber this season, the visitors from the Head of the Canadian Lakes are classed as one of the greatest aggregations in all of Western Canada.

The team that is to play a two-game series here was good enough to defeat the team that was classy enough to take the measure of Duluth in the first game of the series of last week. Port Arthur players declare Fort William one of the best teams that has been developed in Western Canada in recent years. With Duluth going at top speed there is abundant promises for some great sport in the game of tonight.

Real Stars Here.

First of all is John Adams. This lad is classed as one of the greatest wings in Canada. If Adams lives up to his name and plays a game comparable with the sterling exhibitions of "Ham" Baker and the Duke of Wellington, there is going to be trouble in store for Duluth.

Dale Bole at rover is another speed boy and is looked upon to lend admirable support to Adams. O'Neil on the right wing is said to be nearly as effective as Adams. With two speed merchants on the wings and the clever Bole at rover, the forwards of the Fort William outfit is expected to make a lot of trouble for Duluth.

Members of the Fort William team are said to be experts at back checking. It requires speed and dexterity to become proficient at this style of game, and speed and dexterity are qualities that the members of the visiting team are said to posses.

Opposed to Barkell at center will be Bob Armstrong. This lad is the largest player on the visiting team and is also rated as one of the cleverest stick handlers in Canada. If the lanky Canadian lives up to expectations Barkell is going to have one merry time of it in both games.

Harry Nicholson, the Duluth guardian of the sacred net, is rated as one of the best goal tenders in this section of the country. McTeigue, the net guardian of the Fort Bill outfit, is ranked as great as Bell, the sensational and acrobatic net guardian of the Port Arthur team.

McTeigue was with Laval university last season and stands as one of the greatest college players ever turned out in the dominion. This lad learned the rudiments of the game in Montreal, the home of Canadian hockey, and is classed as one of the stars of the team.

Big Game Promised.

If Fort William lives up to the name the team has established this season, both of the games scheduled for here should be remarkable exhibitions of the great winter sport. Bill Trepanier has all of the members of the Duluth team right for the two games and Linder is going to send his men out at the bell to travel at top speed, with the intention of playing the visitors off their feet, just as the Port Arthur players were driven beyond their pace in the concluding contest of last week.

From the record of Duluth and Fort William, the game of this evening should be very close. Joe Linder looks for the hardest game of the season. Manager Jacobi declared today that he was convinced that Fort William is the fastest team that has been scheduled for Duluth this year.

The line-up:

Duluth.		Fort William.
Nicholson	g	McTeigue
Linder	p	W. Adams
Rogan	cp	Colville
Barkell	c	Armstrong
Mahan	lw	J. Adams
Olson	rw	O'Neil
Mohon	r	Boll

Win Racquet Doubles.

SALARY CUT PROMISED FOR THE NORTHERN LEAGUE

War Time Conditions in Canada and Economic Reform Wave in All Leagues Expected to Cause a Material Reduction in Pay Envelopes of Players in Burmeister Circuit.

BY BRUCE.

Brother Pulford now steps under the limelight and fans around the Northern league circuit await the next move of the handsome auctioneer.

Will there be Northern league baseball in Winnipeg this coming season? Let the little bird do the merry prophesying.

A. H. Pulford has lost his case in the courts of organized baseball. The board of arbitration of the Association of Professional Baseball clubs was the body dealing Mons. Pulford the left hook to the solar plexus. As per promise, back some two months ago when the factional magnates of our little league were either threatening one another or holding secret meetings behind carefully guarded doors, Brother Pulford swore on the large tooth of the sacred ox that he would hale this baseball business into the law courts of the Dominion, should he get the gate in the councils of baseball—and the move is now up to A. H.

Canada Looks Bad.

On top of the threatened action of A. H. Pulford, is the drear prospect professional baseball faces in Canada. With the Western Canada league probably suspending operations for one year, because of the effects of the terrible struggle in Europe, and with amusements in general across the line receiving the worst patronage in years, there is more than the flimsy outlines of fancy to cause the belief that Winnipeg, the financial rock of Gibraltar of the Northern league in sea storms of the past, will not show a turnstile return during the course of coming season equal to the gross receipts of other years.

The effect of the war on baseball attendance was plainly shown at the latter end of last season. Winnipeg began the season with an average attendance of 2,000 persons per game. These are facts taken from the official figures of the league. With the outbreak of war the attendance dropped to the comparitively low level of 800 fans per game, even though Winnipeg was right in the very thick of the race and playing neck and neck with Duluth for the rag.

Salaries May Drop.

All down the line, from the majors to the lowest strata of professional baseball, an economic wave of reform is promised.

Connie Mack startled the world with several sensational trades and sweeping changes. The loss of the dear old dollar by the Philadelphia Athletics last year, a team that failed to draw despite the fact that it won the pennant in Ban Johnson's circuit and had previously won three world's championships, was the real cause of the trading of Eddie Collins.

From the majors, then, to the little league that represents the lowest rung of the ladder of organized baseball, is promised a cut in salaries.

Here and in Winnipeg last season the teams were paid on the basis of a class B league. This was why Burmeister and Blums and one or two others desired to have the league raised to class B. If class B salaries were being paid, large John and Lieut. Harry argued that the higher classification might as well follow.

This season there promises to be a hewing to the line in regard to the paying of class C salaries. The return of a contract, torn to bits, upon the part of James Esmond Collins, may be a straw showing the way the financial wind in the Northern league is blowing.

Horace Webb, the land man of Winnipeg, who is the owner of the franchise up there, and who is to build a new park, will possibly not be called upon to part with the salary money that last year's Winnipeg team pulled every two weeks, but conditions greeting the baseball debut of Mr. Webb promise not to be nearly so propitious as those marking the long reign of Pulford and associates.

Only about two Northern league teams made money last year—Duluth and Winnipeg. The little fellows, Grand Forks and some of the others, dropped a pile, Grand Forks $6,200, for instance. These buckos are calling for a reducing of salaries, and it is possible that with a bad season facing Winnipeg, the league bulwark, and St. Boniface and Fort William that the cut in salaries will meet with hearty and unanimous acclaim.

SOO HOCKEY MEN TROUNCE HOUGHTON

Portage Lake Aggregation No Match for Men From the Locks.

Houghton, Mich., Jan. 29.—The Soo took its third straight game and shut out Portage Lake last night with a score of 5 to 0.

Portage Lake was crippled with Chaput lame from the last Calumet game and early in the first half Exeley was disabled and replaced by Giesing. But it is doubtful if the result would have been much different with Portage Lake at top form.

The Soo team looks much stronger than anything in the league. It is expected that there will be a league meeting either at Calumet or Houghton Saturday to revise the schedule.

DOUBLE BILL IS ARRANGED

Two Harbors, Central, Bagleys and Northerns to Play.

Best Hockey Card of Season Arranged for French Rink.

Big doings are expected in the hockey double-header scheduled for this evening at the French rink in the West end.

The crack Two Harbors team, with Sullivan, who is rapidly gaining fame as a real star, and Central high will hook up. As the students have been playing some real hockey since the start of the season, the game is attracting an anticipatory thrill of interest.

In the second game of the evening the strong Northerns will meet the Bagleys. The Bagleys have been strengthened since their last game by the addition of some outside players.

Rosenwald will be at center for the Northerns and his presence is expected to strengthen that team. Crassweller will play with the Bagleys. He is in fairly good shape and his presence is expected to make the jewelers hard to beat.

Enthusiasm in the schedule of the league and the high class hockey that has been played in all of the games is high. The class of hockey is even better than the article played last year. All of the youngsters are coming along in fine form, while the few veterans are kept hustling to hold their own.

Duluth is sure developing a lot of great stick handlers, and this fact is more apparent each week of the Duluth Amateur league race.

SKI TROPHY IN THE CITY

Cup for Amateur Championship Sent to Local Directors.

The beautiful Nor club $300 trophy, to be competed for by the amateur ski riders of the national association, arrived in the city yesterday. This handsome trophy was won last year by Sigurd Bergerson of Virginia. Since then Bergerson has made his home in this city, and as a Duluth rider will defend the trophy.

Word was received by the directors of the Duluth Ski association today that the Glenwood Ski club band would come here Feb. 5. The band will be sent directly from the Glenwood meet to Duluth.

News was also received that a large entry list is to be received from the Norge club of Chicago. The Nor club of the same city is more of a social club. Its members have already chartered a special car and are going to attend the meet in a body. But the Norge club is planning to make a splurge at the Duluth meet. The world's champion is a member of the Norge outfit, and in addition to Ragnar Omtvedt, there will be a host of strong riders represented.

SIX-DAY RACE.

Chicago, Jan. 29.—Three teams—Iver Lawson and Eddie Root of Chicago and Boston, Oscar Egg and Etancesco Verri, the Swiss-Italian entry and Victor Linart and Marcel Dupuy, the Franco-Belgian team—apparently were singled out as favorites by the spectators last night when Mayor Harrison started the first six-day bicycle race held here in twenty years.

The entry of Iver Lawson was withdrawn, however, owing to his illness, and Gordon Walker was named as his substitute to ride with Root, Eddie Madden, Walker's team-mate, withdrawing.

The following teams were tied at twenty-five miles and six laps at the end of the first hour:

HEALTH TALKS

By William Brady, M.D.

The Moderate Drinker and His Hardened Liver

CIRRHOSIS of the liver is one of the several prospects the moderate drinker must bear in mind. Whiskey, gin and brandy are the most potent drinks wherewith to pickle a liver, but the purest brewed beer will do it, too.

In the development of a case of cirrhosis, or hardening, of the liver there are four distinct stages. First, the stage of hearty, almost tigerish appetite. Under the irritation of alcohol the appetite calls for all sorts of burdensome and indigestible things, and if they are not supplied on the free lunch counter the drinker will get them somewhere else. He eats like a horse at all hours of day and night and feels proud of his capacity; also of his fine flushed manly complexion, yes, and in a little while he finds a base pride in the little corporation which begins to grow out.

In the second stage the now seasoned, jolly, good natured fellow takes his social glass rather more frequently than he likes to admit; has a big circle of jovial, fun-loving acquaintances, and goes to lodge with unfailing regularity, having now married and settled down to quiet home life. He notices lots of gas comes off his stomach, and his clothes seem tighter and tighter. He is also likely to have trouble from hemorrhoids, and he gets the habit of taking somebody's cleansing salts once or twice a week. He feels a little relief after taking a few drinks; but a little worse after the temporary narcotic effect wears away.

The Period of Distress.

Insidiously, gradually, the victim begins to realize that he has got a stomach. He realizes it both in the vernacular and the anatomical sense; it sticks out and jiggles and grumbles when he moves about with anything resembling activity, and it reminds him of his sins on many a restless night.

Third stage. The doctor finds the liver enlarged. Prescribes teetotalism. Patient declares he'd just as soon never take another drink—doesn't really care for it that way. But nevertheless he continues drinking, purely in a social way. The fellows might make fun of him if he should really swear off for good and all. He doesn't care for beer, but he takes a glass or two occasionally with the fellows.

Doctor advises him to cut out breakfast, cut out meat, become a vegetarian. Doctor knows well enough that a non-meat diet tends to kill the craving for booze. Also he knows that over-eating stimulates the appetite for alcohol.

Up to this point it is possible for the fool to retrace his steps and recover his health. Will he do it? Well, it all depends on his heredity, his willpower—and the fellows.

The fourth stage is the stage of degeneration. The liver becomes as hard as rocks, and as useless. The legs incline to swell in the daytime; more or less dropsy accumulates in the abdomen; morning retching and vomiting become the rule, and at times a little blood is vomited. Now is the winter of his discontent. The fool becomes a patient in real earnest.

And curiouser and curiouser, his wife fails to see any harm in the little place around the corner.

Questions and Answers.

Elevator writes: I am 54 years old. For the past few months my ankles and feet swell a little every day and I find myself short of breath when I climb a flight of stairs or carry a load on the level. I have no backache, but my kidneys don't work very free. Would gin do me any good?

REPLY.

The symptoms you mention resemble those of a failing heart rather than those of kidney disease. Backache is a very rare symptom of kidney disease, in spite of the kidney cure advertisements. Gin would probably do you much harm. See your doctor, or as the next best thing, visit one of the free dispensaries.

* * *

L. D. writes: Is there any serum or antitoxin that cures hay fever? Is there any climate where one can get rid of hay fever for good?

REPLY.

There are specific antitoxins used for individual cases of hay fever, when the specific causative pollen can be determined; sometimes these give happy results. City residents may find relief at any mountain or seashore resort. Country residents may find relief in the city. So far as I am aware there is no curative climate.

COMMERCIAL LEAGUE TEAMS TO MEET.

CROWN PRINCE IS VERY DEMOCRATIC

Head of German Bakers Tells of His Reception.

(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)

Berlin, Jan. 2.—Though already known throughout Germany as a most democratic sort of young man, the German crown prince's reputation in that respect has become more general since the outbreak of the war.

The telegrams he has sent home to various newspapers, asking them to make collections of cigars, rum and many other things for "his" soldiers are scores in number, nor has he omitted in a single instance to thank the public and publisher for their efforts.

Fritz Schmidt, grand master of the Berlin Master Bakers' association, who has just returned from the western theater of war where he went to deliver three carloads of Christmas "stollen," which had been donated by the Berlin bakers, also presented the crown prince with six baskets of Christmas cakes and other products of the baker's oven. He tells how he was received by the crown prince shortly after his arrival at headquarters.

"I was taken to a large room, where I unpacked my baskets, putting their contents on a large table covered with a clean tablecloth," said the master baker.

"I was hardly through with this when the crown prince came in. There was nobody with him, and he looked quite healthy and fit. I conveyed to him the greetings of the Berlin master bakers, and thanked him for having accepted our present. I also told him that we had sent three carloads of 'stollen' to the army.

"The crown prince said he knew of that and was pleased to inform me that the three carloads had arrived on the day before.

"The crown prince was very pleasant, and we came to talk on some of the losses which certain regiments had sustained.

"'I know that,' remarked the crown prince. 'Some of them have lost heavily. But that can't be helped. We've got to win.'"

ELIMINATION TO BE RECOMMENDED

North Dakota Legislative Committee Opposes Demonstration Farms.

Bismarck, N. D., Jan. 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—Twenty-four demonstration farms and five agricultural substations will be eliminated in North Dakota as adjuncts of the North Dakota Agricultural college if the Lathrop investigating committee's recommendations are adopted.

The demonstration farms cost $12,000 and the sub-stations cost $50,000 during the last biennial period, and the Lathrop committee doesn't see where benefits have in any manner accrued to the state.

President Fred Smith of the Wahpeton School of Science appeared before the investigators yesterday.

President R. M. Black of the Ellendale Normal Industrial school, who gave extended evidence, defended the agricultural courses in the normal schools against which the Lathrop committee has about decided to make a fight, contending that all agricultural instructions should be in the agricultural college.

COLD CUTS SHIPMENTS

Near Embargo Placed on Vegetables and Fruit During Week.

Commission Houses Well Supplied; No Shortage Is Expected.

With the mercury nestling deep down in the bulb of the thermometer, a near-embargo was placed upon both the incoming and outgoing movement of fruits and vegetables during the present week. Railroads were compelled to refuse shipments of perishables from California and Florida for the reason that they did not feel safe in guaranteeing delivery without frost damage, and outside of produce handled by the two Steel corporation roads here that are able to boast of special refrigerator car equipment, stuff shipped out to points in this district off those lines was extremely limited.

The local commission houses were fairly well supplied with produce, so that consumers here did not suffer through the cutting off of receipts. With moderating in weather conditions as promised, arrivals of fresh supplies here are expected tomorrow and early next week.

Good Call For Apples.

Apples are still the feature in fruits, a steady sale being reported in them by the Fitzsimmons-Palmer company and the Culbertson Bros. company. Beyond the addition of storage charges, quotations in the fruit are practically unchanged from last fall. Supplies and their range are still good, but it is expected that box Jonathans will be cleaned up this week.

Cranberries are regarded as extremely cheap, due to the liberal supplies being carried. Grapefruit is also reasonable. A further reduction has been made in its price today. The movement in oranges has been especially affected by the cold weather. A slight frost was reported in Florida during the week, and if any damage has been sustained in the fruit orchards, quotations in oranges will probably be advanced almost immediately.

Potatoes Still Cheap.

There has been nothing noteworthy marketwise in the way of vegetables. Celery is the leading feature in green stuffs. It is pointed out that some of the commission houses here are now equipped to trim and wash celery in place of that being done at Chicago as has been the rule in the past. That has conduced to the marketing of the vegetable to the consumer here to better advantage.

The market in Minnesota-grown potatoes, cabbage and onions is unchanged. Potatoes at 47½@50c a bushel are unusually cheap for the season.

Butter Is Cheaper.

In the face of the cold having interfered with deliveries of cream from dairymen, butter is a cent cheaper today at 31 cents a pound in tubs or 32 cents in prints. Consumers here are regarded as more favorably situated than Eastern buyers, the barket down that way being firm. Beyond a cent or two either way no marked changes in butter figures are expected during the next few weeks.

Hens have been checked up in laying on account of the frigid conditions, fresh eggs are a cent higher at 36@38 cents a dozen. Supplies of storage eggs are reported to be liberal in the associated warehouses, and their market consequently remains at 27@29 cents.

It is reported by the Bridgeman-Russell company that receipts of fresh eggs are proving sufficient to meet the local demand, and that at the same time the storage article is moving out freely. With moderating temperatures over the Northwest larger receipts of fresh eggs are expected.

Poultry figures are unchanged through the list. Arrivals of live poultry have been negligible of late, but frozen stocks are liberal.

Outside of pork, which is off 1@1½ cents a pound, there have been no changes in the market.

CHINESE DROPPING ROBES AND QUEUES.

(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)

Pekin, Jan. 4.—The Manchu imperial family has agreed to lay aside its official robes and to assume instead the official dress of the republic—the frock coat and silk hat. The present empress dowager, who is to all intents regent for the disposed boy emperor, has also been persuaded by the government of President Yuan to permit any palace servant who prefers short hair to dispense with his queue. The Manchus of the palace are as a class the only people in Pekin who still wear the so-called pig-tail. Princes when serving at the court always appear in their robes and wearing a queue; but this queue in a number of cases is false, and when the princes appear elsewhere they are generally in ordinary Chinese dress or in foreign clothes with their hair cropped short. The servants, however, have been loath to change without sanction from the empress dowager.

DULUTH GAINS IN FREIGHT RULINGS

Distance Tariff in Force Also New Cement and Coke Rates.

The advanced freight rates between Duluth and the Twin Cities went into effect last Saturday and affect all lines of business here. These are local rates, working under the Minnesota maximum distance tariff ruling. The cement rates to Chicago, Mason City, Des Moines and other points went into effect last Monday. Duluth gains some advantage by the new rates.

The traffic commission of the Commercial club has received a copy of the decision of the coke rate case, in which Duluth was deeply interested, and G. Roy Hall of the commission says that Duluth has won at least a partial victory. The rate from Milwaukee was to have been raised to $2.25 a ton from $2, but Duluth protested and declared that it was already too much as compared with the $1.60 rate to the Twin Cities. The result is that the Duluth rate has been advanced to $2.15 and that to the Twin Cities to $1.85, which gives this city some advantage at least, as Duluth is at least 10 cents a ton better off than she was before.

In making its decision the interstate commerce commission makes the significant statement that it is not passing on the "lawfulness" of the matter, which the Duluth commission takes as an invitation to file a petition, which will likely be accepted later on.

To Open Fargo's Armory.

Fargo, N. D., Jan. 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—The new armory for Company B, the largest and probably the best equipped in the state, will be formally opened Feb. 4 with a grand ball. Governor Hanna, his staff, other state officials and all the militia people of the state have been invited to attend the function.

Blood Sufferers Want to Know

The Light is Turned on to a Subject of Darkness.

The mere fact that S. S. S., the famous blood purifier, drives out disease is a world's story, a topic of conversation wherever men get together.

They wonder why, simply because most remedies are mystified and put before them as "discoveries." The facts are that we pay too much attention to possibilities and not enough to real, homespun accomplishment. S. S. S. is a remedy of our fathers. It has a history that is written deeply in men's minds because it has done the work, driven out deep seated disease, revived hope, put the O. K. on appearance and clamped down tight any effort of germs to get the upper hand. Any sore spot on the skin is an immediate demand for S. S. S. since the first principle of this famous remedy is to strike out for places of trouble. This is a physiological fact and S. S. S. is true to the workings of our body.

Get a bottle of S. S. S. today at any druggist and begin blood health. It will master any blood disease and do it in a way to emphasize its influence. And if you would like definite advice write The Swift Specific Co., 56 Swift Bldg., Atlanta, Ga. Their medical department is where most people first seek advice that puts them on the straight road.

Creamettes

Builds Sturdy Bodies

SOME mothers feed their children Creamettes three times a day. This new more tender macaroni product is the ideal substitute for meat.

The ordinary macaroni, as you know, takes from 30 to 35 minutes to cook. Creamettes cooks to a delicious tenderness in from 5 to 8 minutes.

Creamettes is made from the creamy parts of Durum wheat and has a rich new flavor all its own.

Try it with cheese, with ham, with tomatoes, with bacon, or with nuts.

ARGUMENT COMPLETED IN ANTI-TRUST SUIT.

Chicago, Jan. 29.—Argument in the government anti-trust suit against the Chicago board of trade attacking the legality of the call committee, now abandoned by the board, was concluded today and the case was taken under advisement by Federal Judge Landis.

Authorities were cited to the court by District Attorney Clyne in support of his contention that the call committee arbitrarily established grain prices which governed the trading outside of the hours when the board of trade actually was in session.

In the hearing testimony was offered to prove that the call rule and its resulting prices were a benefit and not a detriment to farmers, shippers and grain dealers.

WITHOUT FOUNDATION.

Russians Say Rumors of Proposed Peace Are Austrian Canards.

Petrograd, Jan. 29.—The Vienna Allgemeine Zeitung has published an article which alleges that Russia has discussed the possibility of concluding a separate peace with Austria-Hungary, based on the cession of Eastern Galicia by Austria-Hungary and Russia's consent that Serbia be incorporated in the dual monarchy.

The Russian semi-official news agency has issued a categorical denial of this rumor. It is described as utterly without foundation and circulated by the newspapers of Austria with ulterior motives.

TROYER PREPARES NEW PENSION BILL

Measure Provides Council Shall Decide Levy Necessary.

Chief of Police Troyer yesterday prepared a new police pension bill, which he believes will meet the many objections that have been made by Commissioner Voss and the police department of St. Paul.

The new bill will be presented to the coty commission by Commissioner Hicken for indorsement, before State Senator Charles E. Adams is permitted to introduce it in the legislature during the present session.

The objection raised by Commissioner Voss that the fund is to be provided by a tax of one-seventh of a mill, monthly payments by all officers of the department and the dog tax would not be sufficient in future years, when the demands for pensions would be heavier, has been met with the most important change in the bill. This now provides that the city council shall decide on the levy necessary for each succeeding year, while the officers shall pay the same monthly installment. The dog tax is not included in the new bill.

The bill affects every city in the state having a population of 50,000 or more and operating under a home rule charter. It will take effect in Duluth and St. Paul only, as Minneapolis is not operating under a home rule charter. Chief Troyer also claims that the St. Paul police are working under the civil service and that no objection can be raised in this respect.

REVIVE FOURTH STREET CASE

City Will Try to Collect One-Third of Paving Cost.

With the announcement received here this morning that the Duluth Street Railway company won in the franchise fight against the city, in a decision handed down by the supreme court of the state, city officials immediately began preparations to bring suit against the company for one-third of the cost of paving East Fourth street.

When the pavement of the street was finished late in 1913, property owners objected to paying the entire assessment, claiming that as the street was widened for a distance of several blocks, because of the street car tracks, the company should bear one-third of the cost. A fund was started by the property owners to bring suit against the company, but the city commissioners, anxious to avoid a long delay in the final payment of the assessment, agreed to be responsible for one-third of the cost, if the owners would pay the other two-thirds. This plan was agreed to, and the city then decided to bring suit against the company for the remaining one-third of the paving assessment.

However, the franchise suit was started at about the same time, and the commissioners decided to postpone any further action. An opinion was given by the city attorney that if the company's franchise was held invalid, the money could never be collected. But now that the supreme court declares the franchise to be binding and valid, the commissioners plan to go ahead with the suit.

The Fourth street pavement extends from Sixth avenue east to Twenty-seventh avenue east, it having entailed a total cost of about $125,000. In 1912 the street was paved from Fourteenth to Twenty-third avenues at a cost of $50,000, while the remainder was paved during 1913.

House Favors Prohibition.

Columbia, S. C., Jan. 29.—The South Carolina house of representatives today passed a bill authorizing a referendum next September on state wide prohibition. The measure now goes to the senate.

Albert Lea Has $125,000 Fire.

Albert Lea, Minn., Jan. 29.—Fire destroyed the Albert Lea Hide & Fur company and the Hirsch Robe & Tanning company houses here early today. The loss to stock and buildings exceeds $125,000. Several other smaller structures burned.

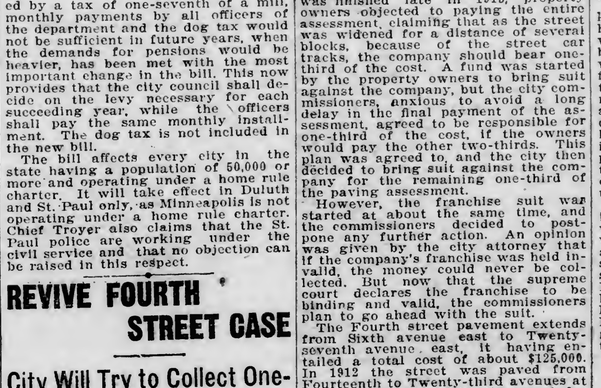

PUTS HIS AFFAIRS IN HANDS OF RECEIVERS

JOSIAH THOMPSON.

Josiah Thompson, head of a $100,000,000 corporation in Pennsylvania, has put his affairs in the hands of the three receivers voluntarily because of tight money. He was head of the First National Bank of Uniontown which closed its doors under orders from the treasury department recently after a run. He is also president of the Greene County Coal Land syndicate which is capitalized at $100,000,000. Thompson says his assets are $70,000,000 and his liabilities only $22,000,000 but he hasn't money to swing his affairs. Thompson started in life as a poor boy, inherited $100,000 from a relative and increased it to $100,000,000 by successful investments in coal lands.

The Industrial commission appointed by President Wilson is holding an inquiry at New York into the Rockefeller, Carnegie and other great foundations.

IN FAVOR OF SHIPPING BILL

Senator Morris Gives It First Support From Republican Side.

If His Amendments Pass He Will Vote for the Measure.

Washington, Jan. 29.—The government ship purchase bill, received its first support from the Republican side today when Senator Norris of Nebraska declared the plan appealed strongly to him and that if two amendments he had offered were adopted, he would vote for it. One amendment he proposed would continue the government in the shipping business even after the lines it established became profitable.

"We should let the taxpayers share the profits as well as bear the losses of any of these ventures," he added.

The second amendment Senator Norris said would provide that no belligerent nation vessel should be purchased unless a dipiomatic understanding with other belligerents had been reached, which would prevent the possibility of international complications.

Offers Two Amendments.

Senator Kenyon, another progressive Republican, offered two amendments, one to eliminate cabinet officers from the proposed shipping board. He also proposed an amendment to provide that "none of the ships to be purchased or chartered by the government should engage in transportation of any munitions of war from this country to any belligerent nation or citizens thereof."

Senator Gallinger followed and spoke of Democratic filibusters in previous congresses.

"To hear them exclaim now," he said, "one would imagine that if they met a filibuster in an alley they would call on the police to rescue them from it."

Then the senator picked up a morning newspaper and began commenting on the news of the day. He read the report of Gen. Carranza's forces entering Mexico City; a story of the White House conference of yesterday, relating to government revenues and an item about the president. Then he announced he felt it his duty to read the president's immigration bill veto.

THE "MEDAILLE MILITAIRE."

Baltimore American: The "Medaille Militaire," which was bestowed by the French government upon King Albert, in recognition of the manner in which he battled at the head of his army to prevent the Germans from invading France via Belgium, may be regarded as the Gallic equivalent of the congressional medal of the United States, of the German Order of the Iron Cross, of the St. George's Cross of Russia and of the Victoria Cross of England. Privates and non-commissioned officers predominate largely in its ranks. When it is worn by an officer it indicates that he has commanded an army in the field, and has rendered services so great that even the highest grade of the Legion of Honor would be an inadequate reward. Unlike the Order of the Legion of Honor, which was created by Napoleon I, the Medaille Militaire was brought into existence in January, 1852, by his nephew, Napoleon III. The insignia consists of a small silver medal, on which the feminine head of the republic appears, surrounded by a thick wreath of silver laurel. The medallion is surmounted by a small silver trophy, consisting of a cuirass, a couple of cannon, a couple of swords and an anchor, and is worn on the left breast, suspended by a piece of yellow ribbon bordered with green.

The only man whom I have ever known to wear this medal without having won it on the field of battle was the late King Edward. When a boy of 15 he had been present at Paris when Napoleon III was making his first distribution of the 'Medaille Militaire' to the wounded soldiers who had returned from the war in the Crimea, and who had been mentioned in the dispatches for exceptional feats of heroism under fire. The young British heir apparent was wonderfully impressed by the spectacle; so much so, that as a memento of the occasion the emperor bestowed one of the medals upon him.

Edward VII was very proud thereof, invariably wore it among his orders while in uniform, and whenever he visited France, made a point of always adorning his button hole with a rosette, partly red and partly yellow, such as is worn only by those rare French generals and admirals who have won both the Grand Cross of the Legion of Honor and the Medaille Militaire. Today King Albert of Belgium is the only monarch to possess this double distinction.

THE JAMAICAN MIND.

Joseph B. Bishop, secretary of the Isthmian canal commission, says in the Youth's Companion: During the early period of the work on the Panama canal many persons were injured by jumping on and off trains in motion on the Panama railroad. There were on the Zone force many West Indians who were trained and capable men, but incurably literal. An order was issued to the force to arrest any person found jumping on or off a train in motion, and the next day two West Indian policemen brought into a police station a white man who was struggling fiercely to break away from them.

"What have you arrested him for?" asked the police seargeant who was on duty.

"For jumping on and off the rear of a train, sah," one of the policemen replied.

"The blamed fools!" cried the arrested man. "I'm a brakeman!"

On one occasion a Jamaican boy who was a switch boy in Culebra cut was found asleep, with his head resting on the rails of the switch. "Dat's all right, boss," said the boy, when waked. "No train can get by here widout me knowin' it!"

Another boy who had been instructed to switch to a certain track all dirt trains that came out of the cut, let a log train of dump cars start by on the wrong track before he bethought himself and pulled the switch; the train was split in two and several of the cars were derailed. "Why," the boy protested sadly, when he was rebuked, "I saved half de train, anyway!"

Much trouble as well as much amusement was caused during the early stages of the canal work by the inability of the Jamaican negroes to take any except a strictly literal view of orders. In unloading a vessel at Colon a rope in a pulley at the head of a mast got jammed, and a Jamaican was ordered to climb up and release it. He did as ordered. Some minutes later the boss of the gang missed him, and asked with some impatience where he was. He was pointed out sitting calmly at the masthead.

"What are you doing up there?" roared the boss.

"You told me to come up here, sah," the man answered, "but you haven't told me to come down!"

The water in an old disused tin mine at Ponsanooth, Cornwall, has been discovered to possess strong radioactive properties, and bottles of it have been sold at $17.50 each.

Convict on Stand.

Alex La Plante, the star witness for the state last year, was on the stand all day yesterday, admitting that he set the fire, but that the defendant, Fred Simmons was the instigator. La Plante was brought up from the penitentiary where he is serving an indeterminate sentence, having confessed his guilt at the last term of court. The legal battle is one of the most bitter ever fought in Polk county, with the courtroom packed each day. FORGERS ARE BUSY IN NORTH DAKOTA

Much Spurious Paper Is Floated in Neighboring State.

Fargo, N. D., Jan. 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—North Dakota has proven a fertile field for forgers during the last six months. For a long time Dickinson was a favorite location for this class of offenders, but recently Fargo has been flooded with spurious paper. Because of the unusually large number of transients that come to North Dakota penmen have found it easier to circulate their forgeries in this than in most other states. There has been something in national conditions, or possibly in the activity of police officials elsewhere, that has driven a large number of forgers to North Dakota this winter.

Many Arrests Made.

A number of arrests have been made by local officials and through the activity of the detectives employed by the state bankers. Young Johnson, who was recently arrested here, may be deported, as he is said to be the son of a prominent official in Norway. William Norton, generally known as William Baker, has been sent to the state penitentiary after admitting passing a lot of spurious papers.

"TIZ" FOR SORE, TIRED FEET--AH!

"TIZ" is grand for aching, swollen, sweaty, calloused feet or corns.

Ah! what relief. No more tired feet; no more burning feet; no more swollen, bad smelling, sweaty feet. No more soreness in corns, callouses, bunions.

No matter what ails your feet or what under the sun you've tried without getting relief, just use "TIZ." "TIZ" is the only remedy that draws out all the poisonous exudations which puff up the feet. "TIZ" cures your foot trouble so you'll never limp or draw up your face in pain. Your shoes won't seem tight and your feet will never, never hurt or get sore and swollen. Think of it, no more foot misery, no more agony from corns, callouses or bunions.

Get a 25 cent box at any drug store or department store and get instant relief. Wear smaller shoes. Just once try "TIZ." Get a whole year's foot comfort for only 25 cents. Think of it.

I had asked several doctors if there was anything I could take to help me and they said there was nothing that they knew of. PEACE TALK BEARS WHEAT Market Unsettled on Rumors After Showing Strength at Start.

Flaxseed Weak on Selling and Light Demand From Crushers.

Duluth Board of Trade, Jan. 29.—The market was weaker at the close on renewed selling. May wheat closed 2¼ off and July 2¼c off. May durum closed 1½c off and July 1½c off. Oats closed ⅝c off; 55⅜c for on the track; rye unchanged at $1.22; barley unchanged at from 72c to 83c, and corn 1¼c off at 73⅜c.

At Winnipeg, May oats closed 1¼c off at 65⅞c bid, and July 1¼c off at 66⅜c bid.

Flax in Minneapolis May wheat closed at $1.39 bid, and calls at $1.44¾ asked.

The wheat market became unsettled today on the spreading of peace rumors involving both Austria and Russia. After showing marked strength at the opening on a further sharp advance in Liverpool cables, some easing off appeared on profit-taking sales, and then a break came on the peace talk. Apart from that the situation was regarded as bullish with the views of holders strengthened by the continued active export inquiry. More foreign business in Manitobas was put through by a Duluth house, and heavy sales of winter wheat were advised at Chicago and the seaboard.

Inquiry from Buffalo for No. 1 northern wheat to go forward at the opening of navigation was reported by a local operator, and from appearances it is thought that all the grain in the elevators at the Head of the Lakes will have been disposed of before the ice breaks up. The present call is on account of Eastern millers desirous of covering their requirements.

As showing the urgent export call, the seaboard was reported to be bidding 1c over May for No. 2 red hard wheat. Elevator men at points over the Northwest are complaining of a practical stoppage of farmers' deliveries, as growers generally are looking for higher prices, and they have concluded to hold their remaining stores for developments.

Trade in oats was a feature on all the markets today. At Chicago sales for export were reported at 1,250,000 bu, and Minneapolis operators were said to have put through foreign oats sales aggregating 1,000,000 bu. A large proportion of the buying was advised to be on account of the British government.

May wheat opened ½c up at $1.46 and at the noon hour its figure stood at $1.44¼, after having declined to $1.43⅝. July opened unchanged at $1.43½ and eased off 1⅜c.

Durum held firm at its yesterday's closing basis of $1.56 in the May future. Business in it was quiet.

Break in Flaxseed.

Quiet liquidation and light crushers' buying again led to weakness in flaxseed today. The market was off at the start and it sold down 2c shortly after the opening. Buenos was off ⅞c and London 2½c. The close locally was weak and there was no life in the trading.

May flax opened ½c off at $1.90, and closed 2½c off at $1.87¾.

At Winnipeg, May flax closed ¾c off at $1.66 bid. July closed at $1.67½ bid.

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool—"Strength in America yesterday and a strong closing in Buenos Aires again last night, light offers here and the advancing spot offers were light and the undertone was very firm. American winters are held at 3 to 4½d advance and buying was noted at these prices. The general undertone is very firm, but the market dull. Millers are showing more disposition to purchase after their inertia for a fortnight and Plate shipments are larger, but the percentage to the United Kingdom is small and it is expected that with the present inadequate tonnage in Argentina, competition for immediate shipments will remain keen. Spot wheat 1 to 2d higher and parcels are firmly held.

"Corn was supported but trading dull. The firmness was attributed to first Plate offers, and disappointing shipments from Argentina with stocks there decreasing. Spot market was firm with both American and Plate ½d higher."

C. E. Lewis & Co. had the following from Chicago: "Export sales of cash at the seaboard yesterday were 1,000,000 bu Manitoba wheat, and some domestic, quantity not given, and 250,000 oats. Chicago handlers sold 300,000 bu wheat, including 75,000 bu No. 2 red at the best premium on the cop, 50,000 bu corn and 600,000 bu oats to seaboard exporters. Newport News paying 2c over Chicago May track rates. Despite the highest bids for cash wheat in years the country still refuses to sell, with the result that export sales of domestic wheat in the last few days have declined.

"A mixed situation exists in the cash corn. Cash oats were in excellent demand throughout the west. Seaboard were heavy buyers at Chicago. Chicago was buying oats in the Northwest, while the South bought in Omaha and in Illinois."

CHICAGO MARKET.

Despite Higher Quotations Abroad, Wheat Meets Much Selling Pressure.

Chicago, Jan. 29.—Despite higher quotations at Liverpool and Paris, a good deal of selling pressure today was put on the market here. Many traders took the view that the recent steep advance had made something of a reaction, a natural thing to look for, and that the new upturns in Europe had merely reflected the course of prices in America. Buyers here, however, quickly took advantage of a break, and there was soon a rally. After opening unchanged to ⅝c higher, and then falling to more than a cent under last night, the market steadied with losses fully recovered.

Later there were numerous sages owing to peace rumors and to profit-taking by longs. The close was nervous at 1½c to 1¾c under last night.

Corn swayed with wheat. Longs were conspicuous sellers, but commission houses absorbed the offerings.

The start, which varied from ½c decline to ⅛c advance, was followed by a moderate setback all around and then a good upturn.

Realizing sales by holders led afterward to a weakening of prices. The close was steady, ⅞@1c to 1¼c net lower.

In oats, as in other grain, a rush of selling carried prices down. Demand, though, subsequently proved to have the greater force.

Provisions averaged higher. A rise in the value of hogs was the influence that received the most attention.

DECLINES IN STOCKS

Heavy Selling of Union Pacific and Reading—Close Weak.

New York, Jan. 29. — United States Steel common, whose minimum price was reduced from 43 to 40 after the close of yesterday's stock market session, opened today with one lot of 7,500 shares at 40½@40, immediately followed by two lots aggregating 2,700 shares at 40¼. Total sales in the first fifteen minutes exceeded 30,000 shares, the high quotation being 40½. The preferred stock declined a small fraction. Active stocks, as well as many specialties, improved over yesterday's close, there being substantial gains in leading railways and Amalgamated Copper. Sugar shares were again strong. Pressed Steel car lost 4 points.

Steel dominated the stock market throughout the early session today, contributing almost 40 per cent to total operations of that period and finally resting at its new low price. The weight of the selling, which came largely from foreign sources, according to reports, militated against further recovery elsewhere. The entire list was adversely affected by this liquidation, early gains giving way to numerous declines under yesterday's figures. Canadian Pacific and New Haven were weakest, losing 2 points. Outside the exchange Steel sold at 39½c.

Bonds were irregular, Steel 5s selling lower.

Renewed liquidation came after midday, Canadian Pacific then yielding over 5 points from yesterday's close. New Haven fell 4½ to 49, its minimum and new low record. Reading and other leaders were off 1 to 2 points.

Prices receded to the lowest point of the day in the final hour under heavy selling of Union Pacific and Reading. The close was weak.

G. N. MAKING ORE CONTRACTS

Output of Ore Properties Will Depend on Steel Trade.

Trustees Will Operate All But Three Tracts Under Lease.

A number of contracts for the supply of iron ore have been made by the Great Northern ore properties and it is said that the tonnage mined will depend altogether upon the condition of the steel trade this year. Strong hopes are now entertained that good activity will develop during the season and that the operations of the trustees will be upon a fairly extensive scale, entailing the employment of large forces at some of the mines.

Outside of the three properties leased to the Dean Iron company, it is intimated that all the holdings of ore lands will be operated directly by the trustees.

On the properties leased to the Dean Iron company, the Great Northern ore trustees have made extensive advances in the past for development work, to be reimbursed gradually, payments being made on a royalty basis on the ore mined. On the largest mine the trustees will be paid a royalty on every ton of ore taken out during the life of the lease in addition to being reimbursed for advances made. On the two other mines leased, payments will cease after the advances have been repaid.

It is expected that a good tonnage of ore will be taken out by the Keewatin Mining company, a corporation organized in the interests of the Sargent Land company. For developing these properties Great Northern ore has advanced about $3,500,000 to the Sargent Land company to be paid back in royalties on the ore mined.

Trustees Have Nine Million.

The Great Northern ore trustees are estimated to have had a cash surplus of approximately $9,000,000 in hand at the end of last year. This amount will be available as a nestegg for carrying through further development work on the various mining locations where deemed advisable.

Discussing the ore properties, past operations and prospects, the Wall Street Journal says:

"In 1914 the Steel corporation took out 6,000,000 tons of ore under its contract. Based on 59 per cent ore, the ore company received $11,328,000. But out of this freight charges of $3,600,000 had to be paid, royalties on properties held under leaseholds, outlay

LOWEST IN EIGHT YEARS

Assessor's Report Gives Summary of Tax Rates for Ten Years.

Would Amend Law Regulating Money and Credit Assessments.

Duluth's tax rate for 1914, payable this year, is the lowest in the last eight years, while the total rate for state, county, city and school purposes will be the lowest since 1908, according to the annual report of City Assessor J. A. Scott, who will tomorrow morning submit the statement of his department to the city commission. Real and personal property in Duluth is assessed at $53,755,533.

According to City Assessor Scott's summary on assessments for 1914, the city tax rate was $16.07 per $1,000, which is the lowest since 1906, when the tax rate for the city was $14.78. The school tax for 1914 was $10.63 per $1,000, which is also the lowest since 1906, when a rate of $10.12 was levied per $1,000. The total tax rate for 1914 for all purposes in the state, county and city of Duluth was $34.90 per $1,000, the lowest since 1908, when the rate was $33.70.

During 1914, the report shows, the city of Duluth spent a total of $636,065.02 for street improvements, sewer work, sidewalks and sprinkling. Of this amount the city paid $101,476.55, while the property owners were assessed for $534,588.17. The city assessor's office made a total of 33,978 descriptions of property to complete the necessary assessments covering costs of improvements. The total expense of the department was $19,062.17 for the entire year.

Money and Credits.

In his report to the commissioners, Mr. Scott urges an amendment to the state law affecting the schedule on money and credits, so that mine, timber and other stocks would also be included in this list. He adds that owners of these stocks would thus not have the same incentive to conceal their ownership and the city would as a result realize a considerable larger amount each year in assessments.

Under the present statute regulating stocks of companies outside this state, owners must pay $34.90 on 40 per cent of the valuation of each $1,000, while under money and credits the assessments would be $2 a thousand on the full value, Mr. Scott explained.

Mr. Scott's statement to the commissioners follows in part:

"To the City Council:

"I submit herewith the report of this department for the year 1914. The changes in the law classifying the different kinds of property has entailed a large amount of additional work for this department, but the results obtained undoubtedly justify the increased expense, particularly as far as the personal property schedule is concerned.

"The radical change of placing all platted property together with the improvements thereon, on the 40 per cent basis, necessitated an entire revaluation and readjustment of all properties in the city, and while the increase in the total assessed value has not been material, the tendency of the law has been to place an increase on buildings and a decrease in land values as compared with the results obtained under the former custom.

"In addition to the real and personal property assessments, I have completed ninety-three rolls for special improvements, affecting 33,078 parcels of property, the total cost of these improvements being $636,065.02.

"The assessment on money and credits has shown a very gratifying increase, having a little more than doubled during the past four years. The assessment on mining, timber and other stocks has also materially increased, but I am of the opinion that that class of property should be placed on the money and credit schedule, and I think that eventually as much money could be realized in that way as we are now obtaining, as people would not have the same incentive to conceal that class of property.

"Respectfully submitted,
"J. A. SCOTT.
"City Assessor."

DENIES CUDGELING HER FATHER-IN-LAW

Mrs. Maud Clementson Is Bound Over to the Grand Jury.

Mrs. Maud Clementson was bound over to the grand jury after being arraigned in the West Duluth branch of the municipal court yesterday afternoon. She was arrested on a charge of assault in the second degree on the complaint of her father-in-law, Gabriel Clementson.

The complainant stated in court that the woman had assaulted him by "beating him over the head with a billet of wood." He claimed the assault had taken place early last week at the corner of Elinor street and Sixtieth avenue. Mrs. Clementson denied using a stick. She said she had met her father-in-law at the corner, and that he had begun to abuse her by calling her names and that she had remonstrated by slapping him once with the hand. Judge Canners held the woman for the grand jury, but allowed her to be released on her own recognizance for the present. The woman's husband, Clement Clementson, 35, is serving a thirty-day sentence at the county work farm on a non-support charge. He recently filed papers asking for a divorce.

SUPERIOR

JENKS MADE MANAGER OF G. N. BRANCH ROAD.

C. O. Jenks, general superintendent for the lake district of the Great Northern railroad, with headquarters in Superior, has been appointed general manager of the Spokane & Seattle railroad, a subsidiary of the Great Northern.

Notice of the appointment was received by Mr. Jenks yesterday. He will succeed the late W. D. Scott, who died some time ago. Officials of the road have not decided upon a successor for Mr. Jenks.

Books Are Found.

A collection of fifteen books was picked up yesterday on the right-of-way of the South Shore railroad near Allouez and has been turned over to the police. In case there is no claimant for the books, they will be turned over to the police library. It is thought that some passenger dropped them from the train.

Organize Commercial Club.

The South Superior Commercial club was organized at a meeting of leading residents of the district last night. Frank Kenyon was elected president; Hans Rasmusson, vice president; H. L. Hagerman, secretary; and Ford Caldwell, treasurer. The members of the board of trustees are Henry Rasmusson, Robert Stewart, Benjamin Swanlund, Fred Voss, Dr. L. A. Potter and Harry Gallinger.

THE DARE.

The Youth's Companion: Before she had been two weeks at college Penelope Brewster was called Miss Primrose. There was a certain gentle preciseness about the girl, a delicate austerity in dress, and manners, and speech, the heritage from the little country parsonage, with its old-fashioned ideals and simplicity, where she had been reared. There were many to whom Penelope's reserve was a distinct charm, but Penelope herself found it a heavy trial. She longed to have the girls at ease with her as they were with Hilda Davidson and Sue Compton. As for Marjory Austin, she was the most popular girl in the class —yet she could not speak three sentences without falling into slang. Penelope did not realize that it was Marjory's bubbling spirits and sweet temper that made the girls flock about her, and that the slang was merely incidental, caught from half a dozen brothers and cousins.

One afternoon a group of the girls was in Sue's room, and Marjory as usual was the life of the party.

"Careful, Madge," Sue teased, "you'll shock Miss Primrose."

Penelope flushed. "I'm not so easily shocked," she protested. "I can use slang myself upon occasion."

"Listen, girls!" Sue cried. "Miss Primrose and slang. I dare you, Penelope Brewster! I dare you to use it all day tomorrow to everyone you meet!"

"I'll do it!" Penelope declared.

True to her word, she began with Martha Anderson, whom she met as she started for breakfast. It did not sound funny—it did not come with a bubble of laughter like Marjory's slang, but she kept at it. The worst was when Prof. Armstrong happened to overhear her on her way from the history recitation. With Sue's dancing eyes upon her Penelope would not flinch; she flung off bits of slang as she had heard Marjory do a hundred times, but when she saw the grave glance with which the professor bade her good morning, she ran to her room with her face flaming.

That night Penelope could not sleep. She saw herself envious, unable to endure a little ridicule, disloyal to the fine traditions of her home. The next afternoon she knocked at Prof. Armstrong's door.

"Thank you, I can't sit down," she said, in response to Miss Armstrong's invitation. "I just came to explain yesterday. I had a dare from one of the girls to use slang all day long. I was a coward and took it. I knew I was doing a cheap thing, but I didn't realize until you looked at me how disloyal I was to my home."

Miss Armstrong held out her hand. "I congratulate you on your home, Miss Brewster," she said.

TOUGH ON THE ACTORS.

Pittsburg Chronicle-Telegraph: Nat Goodwin told of an experience he had with a juvenile deadhead in a Western town. Standing outside the theater a little time before the performance was due to begin, he observed a small boy with an anxious, forlorn look on his face and a weedy-looking pup in his arms.

Goodwin inquired what was the matter, and was told that the boy wished to sell the dog so as to raise the price of a seat in the gallery. The actor suspected at once a dodge to secure a pass on the "sympathy racket," but allowing himself to be taken in, he gave the boy a pass. The dog was deposited in a safe place and the boy was able to watch Goodwin as the "Gilded Fool" from a good seat in the gallery. Next day Goodwin saw the boy again near the theater, so he asked:

"Well, sonny, how did you like the show?"

"I'm glad I didn't sell my dog," was the reply.

SENTENCE NOT CORRECT.

Boston Advertiser: Reference to the good old school days at a recent social session led William Gillette to tell this story.

Some time ago the teacher of a country school went to the blackboard and wrote: "James can ride the mule if he wants to." Then she turned to the class before her and bent her eyes on little Johnny Jones.

"Johnny," said she, pointing to the blackboard, "is that sentence correct?"

"No, ma'am!" answered the youngster, emphatically.

"Indeed!" responded the teacher, considerably surprised. "Can you tell me how it should read?"

"Yes, ma'am" confidently returned Johnny. "It should be: 'James can ride the mule if the mule wants him to.'"

STATE'S RIGHT TO IRON ORE UNDER WATERS OF LAKES AND STREAMS

Amendment for Reclamation Revolving Fund Favored for Passage.

Bill Making Blacklist Unlawful Held to Be Unconstitutional.

By a Staff Correspondent.

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 30.—(Special to The Herald.)—The question of the state's right to the iron ore underlying the waters of meandered lakes and streams was up before the senate committee on public domain, Senator O. H. Griggs of Virginia, chairman, yesterday afternoon, when the committee considered two bills by Senator R. C. Dunn of Princeton, asserting the state's ownership of such ores.

Those interested in riparian rights on waters supposed to overlie submerged ore bodies were represented before the committee by John R. Vanderlip of Minneapolis, representing the Longyear & Bennett interests; Fred B. Snyder of Minneapolis; and F. B. Spelman of Duluth, one of the fee-owners of the Syracuse mine.

The hearing developed the fact that the point at issue is a very interesting one, and the arguments were mainly legal.

The bills before the committee are two in number. One, a proposed constitutional amendment, authorizes the legislature to provide by law to protect and regulate all public waters and rivers and to provide for the mining and sale of any iron ore under such waters. The other, a proposed statute, prohibits the draining of any public lake or stream and the mining of any submerged ore without the consent of the state officials.

Argument Against the Bills.

Those who appeared against the bills declared that the ore underlying lakes and streams does not belong to the state, and that there is no possible law or constitutional amendment that will give the state title to it. They asserted that the ore deposits belong to the shore owners. The state's sovereignty over the waters, they said, does not give it any title to the ground beneath, but only the right to protect the public in the use of the waters. They went so far as to assert that the shore owners are restrained from mining this submerged ore only by the public's right to the waters, and that if this right is protected there is nothing to prevent the ore from being taken out by the shore-owners.

They declared that the proposed con-

TO SETTLE STRIKE BY ARBITRATION

Agreement Made Between Miners' Officials and Federal Conciliators.

Cleveland, Jan. 30.—Details of a plan of arbitration, which will result in a settlement of the ten months' strike of 15,000 miners in Eastern Ohio, were expected to be worked out at a joint conference of miners' officials, mine owners and Federal conciliators, according to admissions by both sides to the controversy before they went into session at 10 o'clock today. Proposals to this end were discussed at a conference which lasted until nearly last midnight.

William Greene, international secretary of the miners' organization, said plans of arbitration and a wage scale were both under consideration when last night's conference adjourned, but he declined to say what these plans were.

KRAG-JORGENSONS ARE FOR CARRANZA

Shipment of Rifles and Ammunition Held Up at San Diego.

San Diego, Cal., Jan. 30.—The 4,000 Krag-Jorgenson rifles and 4,000,000 rounds of ammunition which arrived here Wednesday from New York for reported shipment to Topolobampo on the schooner Annie Larsen, were intended for a Carranza army which planned an invasion of the state of Sonora, according to information obtained by secret service agents.

Shipment Held Up.

Los Angeles, Jan. 30.—Pending investigation of the destination of fifteen carloads of rifles and ammunition now at San Diego, Cal., John B. Elliott, collector of customs, ordered that the shipment be held by the government.

Ostensibly the munitions are consigned from W. C. Hughes, 103 Duane street, New York city to John Bowen, said to be a former secret service official. Their reported destination is Topolobampo, Mexico, for use by the Carranza forces.

Rumors have been current of the presence of a German ship off the San Diego coast and a report of the chartering of the schooner Annie Larsen from Tolopobampo to the Island Tres Marias, off Acapulco, led to the order for an investigation.

NO SIGNS OF LIFE AT SUNKEN YACHT.

Norfolk, Jan. 30.—Life savers who yesterday reached the yacht believed to be the Idler, a wreck off Diamond Shoals, found no signs of life. The vessel had settled until only the masts were visible. It was impossible to identify the yacht, they said.

Heavy seas heretofore have defeated all attempts to get to the vessel.

BUSY WEEK FOR SENATE

Woman Suffrage and County Option Scheduled for Debate.

St. Louis County Division Bill to Be Introduced Monday.

By a Staff Correspondent.

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 30.—(Special to The Herald.)—With the interest of the members of the senate already raised to a high pitch by the county option and woman suffrage bills, scheduled for debate next week, the introduction of the St. Louis county division bill by Senator O. H. Griggs of Virginia, when the senate resumes business on Monday, will provide the solons with one of the busiest weeks that has been experienced so far this session.

Senator Griggs stated today that he will leave for the range country this evening, and when he returns the beginning of the week he will be ready to introduce his bill. While not thoroughly familiar with the details of the bill, he outlined some of its principal features today.

Argument for Division.

"At the present time," he said, "St. Louis county is represented in the legislature by five senators and ten representatives. Of these three senators and five representatives come from the city of Duluth. Duluth and its environs has approximately a population of 100,000, while the range country has about the same amount. Of all the counties in the state, St. Louis county pays approximately 50 per cent of the total taxes, and of this amount fully half is derived from the range. The people there, all of whom live more than seventy-five miles from Duluth, the present county seat, feel that there should be a division of the county so that a county seat for the new county will be established in their district. Hibbing has been tentatively settled upon as the temporary county seat, should the bill become law. The proposed dividing line will separate the county north and south, about the middle of what is now St. Louis county."

GERMAN AIRCRAFT BOMBARD DUNKIRK

Raid Said to Have Been Failure From Military Standpoint.

Dunkirk, France, Jan. 29, via Paris, Jan. 30.—The bombardment from the air carried out by the Germans last night came from six aeroplanes. It was a clear moonlight night, but the machines could not be seen except when lit up now and then by the beam of a whirling searchlight by which the three-inch anti-aircraft guns directed their fire.

The droning of their propellers, however, was heard some time before the aeroplanes arrived. This was sufficient notice and the tocsin was rung for the inhabitants to seek shelter, according to a plan arranged by the authorities.

In all fifty bombs were thrown, ten of which were incendiary ones. A number of private houses were damaged, but the raid from a military point of view was a failure.

VOTERS ASK HICKEN TO RUN AGAIN

Petitions Containing More Than 2,000 Signatures Presented to Him.

Delegations of Citizens Will Also Call on Him Soon.

Commissioner Refuses to Announce Decision—Has Other Openings.

At noon today W. A. Hicken, commissioner of public safety, was presented with thirty-one petitions urging him to make the run in the April city election to succeed himself.

The petitions contain more than 2,000 names. It is claimed that many more signatures would have been obtained could those passing them have had more time. In a number of buildings several floors were wholly neglected because of the fact that those who had formed themselves into a kind of central committee called the petitions in, in order that they might be assembled and presented to the commissioner today.

The board of trade petition was the first and it was signed with enthusiasm by about 200 occupants of the Board of Trade building. Then others who wish to see the commissioner retain his office started out with petitions. They went through the business blocks of the city and through the wholesale houses. In the latter places, for the most part, only the heads of departments were accosted and there was not a single turn-down.

On a number of petitions circulated in several buildings last Thursday, more than 1,000 names were obtained in part of one day. It is claimed that scarcely a man who can be called a business leader in the city refused to sign the petition and to express himself as wholly in favor of Mr. Hicken remaining in office.

Withholds Decision.

Today Mr. Hicken refused to say whether or not he would make the run. He declared that other interests are to be considered and that he will

BRITISH AIRCRAFT CHASED INTO SEA

Would Indicate That Another Raid Has Been Made.

London, Jan. 30.—Wireless advices from Berlin bring a report that of seven English aeroplanes which have bombarded Ostend and Zeebrugge, three failed to return. It is stated that these three machines were surrounded by German aircraft and chased into the open sea.

The above dispatch may indicate a new British air raid on the Belgian coast towns. The last British air raid reported in that direction occurred at Zeebrugge on Jan. 22. Two British aviators took part in this attack and it was stated that their bombs damaged a submarine and killed or wounded the crews of the guns mounted on the Mole. The German report of this raid said that no damage was done.

GREAT ARMIES MANEUVERING FOR POSITIONS FOR BATTLES

RELIEVES SMOOT IN SENATE FILIBUSTER

SENATOR SUTHERLAND
Of Utah.

Senator Smoot Speaks Continuously for Eleven Hours.

Sutherland Relieves Him in Fight Against Ship Purchase Bill.

Democrats Await Slightest Slip to Pass the Measure.

Washington, Jan. 30.—Locked in the most spectacular legislative battle the halls of congress have seen since the celebrated fight on the Cannon rules, senate Democrats and Republicans were arrayed today in the final stages of a historic contest over the administration ship bill.

After an all-night session, in which Senator Smoot has led the Republican filibuster by speaking continuously for eleven hours and thirty-five minutes and the Democrats' parliamentary sharps kept a vigil in vain for an opportunity to drop the gavel and order a roll call, fresh Republican forces trooped into the chamber early today and Senator Sutherland took up the fight.

Held Battle Line All Night.

Senators of both parties, called from beds and banquets had held the battle line all night, two little armies unformed in full dress suits. Through the long hours while Senator Smoot held the floor without signs of fatigue until the daylight came streaming down through the glass top of the senate chamber, the reserves of both sides snatched naps in the cloak rooms, on sofas in the chamber or at their desks. An army of drooping-eyed senators, with rumpled clothing and crumpled linen held their lines until fresh forces relieved them.

Just before Senator Smoot gave way to his colleague, Mr. Sutherland, he forced a roll call. It disclosed a quorum and it was evident that the Republican reserves were prepared to carry their fight through another all-night session if necessary and that the Democrats were holding a majority either in the chamber or within call of the bells for the first opportunity to take a vote.

Have Votes Ready.

The slightest relaxation or a parliamentary slip on the part of the Republicans might give the Democrats their eagerly hoped for opportunity of dropping the gavel. They claim to have the votes ready to pass the bill. The Republicans say they intend, by all means at their command, to prevent that and the sharpest experts of practice on both sides were ranged in what was a battle of endurance and wits.

Senator Kern, the Democratic floor leader, declared that the session would London Trades Unions Charge British Government With Negligence.

London, Jan. 30.—A committee of the Federation of Trades Unions, in a manifesto given out today concerning the high prices of food, charges the government with failure to anticipate and organize against certain consequences of the war, and urges quick and drastic remedial action to avert a situation which is "becoming desperate."

The committee suggests a better distribution of incoming ships at ports other than London and Liverpool. Continuing, it says:

"Now that troubles have developed, the government must move not tentatively, as if the next century would do, but immediately. The procedure of prize courts must be expedited and all captured ships must be valued, manned and utilized by the state for the purpose of transporting supplies purchased directly from the producer, and such supplies must be placed on the market at prices to cover only the costs and distributive charges."

New York, Jan. 30.—John R. Lawson, executive board member for Colorado of the United Mine Workers of America, who yesterday denounced conditions in the Colorado mining camps in his testimony before the Federal industrial relations commission, and sharply arraigned John D. Rockefeller, Jr., for his alleged failure to inform himself as to conditions there, continued his testimony today.

"There is no social life in the camps," Mr. Lawson said. "The companies own all the houses, ground, schools, churches and stores. Complete despotism exists in the mining camps."

Mr. Lawson read into the record a long list of the various accidents in coal mines and a list of the men killed by violence in the Colorado mining camps in 1913. This was done, he said, so that the commission might know how many widows and fatherless children there were in Colorado.

"And they get an average of $305.40 if the father and husband is killed," he said. "What can they do in life with $305.40? What chance have they got?"

Forced to Work in Mines.

Men worked in the mines, the witness said, because they were forced, not because they wanted to.

"If they complain, it is down the canyon for theirs," he said. "And if the man who does work is hurt he is taken to a company hospital. If he dies, a company coroner conducts the inquest over the body. As long as I can remember, only two verdicts unfavorable to the Colorado Fuel & Iron company have been found—and I

ACTIVITY IN CARPATHIANS DEVELOPING

Austro-German Concentration Considered Menace to Russians.

Another Big Battle in Vicinity of Soissons Expected Soon.

London, Jan. 30.—Two conditions call particularly for comment today by British observers of the war: The Austro-German concentration in the Carpathians, which is regarded as a menace to the Russian armies in Bukowina, and the Russian activities in East Prussia, which have been characterized as a threat to the German forces in this territory. Thus at the extreme ends of the immense eastern front military operations of the greatest importance are now developing.

As for the western battle front, another big battle in the vicinity of Soissons is confidently expected as is a bitter conflict near La Bassee, where for some time the Germans have been piling up reinforcements.

Russia's new invasion of East Prussia is becoming well defined in British eyes as an outflanking movement. For some time past this frontier district has been in Russian hands without attracting much attention, but now the invaders have begun a series of slight western advances along the 50-mile front from Tilsit southward almost as far as Angerburg. This front is only about fifty miles to the east of the Prussian fortress of Koenigsberg.

Battling in Snow.

Many miles to the south, the combined Austro-German armies and the forces of Russia are battling in the snow in the Carpathian mountain passes, but as is usual with mountain fighting the situation is confused, each side maintaining that the tide of battle is running in its favor. It will be hard to form a clear picture of the situation until either the Russians emerge in force on the Hungarian plains or the Austro-Germans hammer them back to the mountain passes, perhaps causing at the same time a Russian retreat in Bukowina. One effect of this struggle has been to bring the Austro-German troops so near the Roumanian frontier as to fan the war flame in that country, a fact which may have an important bearing on deciding when Roumania will enter the conflict.

Little reliable information has come to hand concerning the fight in the Caucasus. A roundabout rumor credits

ROBBERS MAKE A HAUL IN DIAMONDS

Secure Over $15,000 Worth of Gems From N. Y. Pawnbroker.

New York, Jan. 30.—Between $15,000 by three men who drove up to the store and $20,000 worth of diamonds were stolen today from the pawnshop of Adolph Stern on the upper East Side by four men who drove up to the store in an automobile, held up the three clerks with revolvers, bound and gagged them, threw the jewels into three suit cases and escaped in the waiting car.

In addition to the jewels the highwaymen took $170 in cash, but overlooked other money in the safe.

About a quarter of an hour elapsed before one of the clerks freed himself, released the others and gave the alarm.

The proprietor of the place, after a rough inventory, estimated his loss at $15,000.

The estimate made of the loss covered the amounts for which the jewels were pawned, the proprietor said, and did not cover the full value of the gems. This, he thought, was much higher.

WHY IS IT?

SUMMARY OF THE WAR NEWS

Sweeping claims of military successes along virtually the entire eastern front except in the extreme north, remained in an official report today from the Austrian war office. It is asserted that in Poland, on the Warsaw front; in Galicia, Bukovina and Northern Hungary, the Austro-German allies are battering down the Russian resistance.

The rearward communications of the Russians in Galacia are threatened, the report says, by the Austrians, while the Russian forces which invaded Bukovina and Northern Hungary have been unsuccessful, and in Poland the trenches of the Austro-German armies are approaching the Warsaw forts. No mention is made of East Prussia, which, according to Petrograd reports, now is menaced by a new offensive movement on the part of the Russian army of invasion. Reports from the Russian war office recently have indicated that the Austrians have gained some advantage in the fighting in the Carpathians, but neither the Petrograd nor Berlin statements has shown important changes on the Warsaw front.

Dispatches from London and Paris state that the Russians have inflicted a defeat on the Turkish army which invaded Persia and have reoccupied Tabriz. An official communication from the commander of the Russian army of the Caucusus says that the Turks were defeated and put to flight in an engagement near Tabriz, but makes no mention of the reoccupation of that city by the Russians.

Berlin advices tell of a raid on Ostend and Zeebrugge in Belgium by British aeroplanes. It is said that three of these aeroplanes failed to return, having been surrounded by German aircrift and driven out to sea.

The German war office, in its announcement of today asserts that the Russians have been defeated in two minor engagements in East Prussia, as well as in a right attack near Borjimow, in Poland.

In France the heaviest fighting is toward the eastern end of the line. The German communication says that further ground was won in the Argonne, where the French suffered heavy losses. Near Nieuport, in Belgium, and south of Verdun, infantry engagements occurred in which the French are said to have been defeated. Over the greater part of the line, however, there is little activity.

Amendment for Reclamation Revolving Fund Favored for Passage.

Bill Making Blacklist Unlawful Held to Be Unconstitutional.

By a Staff Correspondent.

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 30.—(Special to The Herald.)—The question of the state's right to the iron ore underlying the waters of meandered lakes and streams was up before the senate committee on public domain, Senator O. H. Griggs of Virginia, chairman, yesterday afternoon, when the committee considered two bills by Senator R. C. Dunn of Princeton, asserting the state's ownership of such ores.

Those interested in riparian rights on waters supposed to overlie submerged ore bodies were represented before the committee by John R. Vanderlip of Minneapolis, representing the Longyear & Bennett interests; Fred B. Snyder of Minneapolis; and F. B. Spelman of Duluth, one of the fee-owners of the Syracuse mine.

The hearing developed the fact that the point at issue is a very interesting one, and the arguments were mainly legal.

The bills before the committee are two in number. One, a proposed constitutional amendment, authorizes the legislature to provide by law to protect and regulate all public waters and rivers and to provide for the mining and sale of any iron ore under such waters. The other, a proposed statute, prohibits the draining of any public lake or stream and the mining of any submerged ore without the consent of the state officials.

Argument Against the Bills.

Those who appeared against the bills declared that the ore underlying lakes and streams does not belong to the state, and that there is no possible law or constitutional amendment that will give the state title to it. They asserted that the ore deposits belong to the shore owners. The state's sovereignty over the waters, they said, does not give it any title to the ground beneath, but only the right to protect the public in the use of the waters. They went so far as to assert that the shore owners are restrained from mining this submerged ore only by the public's right to the waters, and that if this right is protected there is nothing to prevent the ore from being taken out by the shore-owners.

They declared that the proposed con-

San Diego, Cal., Jan. 30.—The 4,000 Krag-Jorgenson rifles and 4,000,000 rounds of ammunition which arrived here Wednesday from New York for reported shipment to Topolobampo on the schooner Annie Larsen, were intended for a Carranza army which planned an invasion of the state of Sonora, according to information obtained by secret service agents.

Shipment Held Up.

Los Angeles, Jan. 30.—Pending investigation of the destination of fifteen carloads of rifles and ammunition now at San Diego, Cal., John B. Elliott, collector of customs, ordered that the shipment be held by the government.

Ostensibly the munitions are consigned from W. C. Hughes, 103 Duane street, New York city to John Bowen, said to be a former secret service official. Their reported destination is Topolobampo, Mexico, for use by the Carranza forces.

Rumors have been current of the presence of a German ship off the San Diego coast and a report of the chartering of the schooner Annie Larsen from Topolobampo to the Island Tres Marias, off Acapulco, led to the order for an investigation.

Battling in Snow.

Many miles to the south, the combined Austro-German armies and the forces of Russia are battling in the snow in the Carpathian mountain passes, but as is usual with mountain fighting the situation is confused, each side maintaining that the tide of battle is running in its favor. It will be hard to form a clear picture of the situation until either the Russians emerge in force on the Hungarian plains or the Austro-Germans hammer them back to the mountain passes, perhaps causing at the same time a Russian retreat in Bukowina. One effect of this struggle has been to bring the Austro-German troops so near the Roumanian frontier as to fan the war flame in that country, a fact which may have an important bearing on deciding when Roumania will enter the conflict.

Little reliable information has come to hand concerning the fight in the Caucasus. A roundabout rumor credits

ROBBERS MAKE A HAUL IN DIAMONDS

Secure Over $15,000 Worth of Gems From N. Y. Pawnbroker.

New York, Jan. 30.—Between $15,000 by three men who drove up to the store and $20,000 worth of diamonds were stolen today from the pawnshop of Adolph Stern on the upper East Side by four men who drove up to the store in an automobile, held up the three clerks with revolvers, bound and gagged them, threw the jewels into three suit cases and escaped in the waiting car.

In addition to the jewels the highwaymen took $170 in cash, but overlooked other money in the safe.

About a quarter of an hour elapsed before one of the clerks freed himself, released the others and gave the alarm.

The proprietor of the place, after a rough inventory, estimated his loss at $15,000.

The estimate made of the loss covered the amounts for which the jewels were pawned, the proprietor said, and did not cover the full value of the gems. This, he thought, was much higher.

WHY IS IT?

SUMMARY OF THE WAR NEWS

Sweeping claims of military successes along virtually the entire eastern front except in the extreme north, remained in an official report today from the Austrian war office. It is asserted that in Poland, on the Warsaw front; in Galicia, Bukowina and Northern Hungary, the Austro-German allies are battering down the Russian resistance.

The rearward communications of the Russians in Galacia are threatened, the report says, by the Austrians, while the Russian forces which invaded Bukowina and Northern Hungary have been unsuccessful, and in Poland the trenches of the Austro-German armies are approaching the Warsaw forts. No mention is made of East Prussia, which, according to Petrograd reports, now is menaced by a new offensive movement on the part of the Russian army of invasion. Reports from the Russian war office recently have indicated that the Austrians have gained some advantage in the fighting in the Carpathians, but neither the Petrograd nor Berlin statements has shown important changes on the Warsaw front.

Dispatches from London and Paris state that the Russians have inflicted a defeat on the Turkish army which invaded Persia and have reoccupied Tabriz. An official communication from the commander of the Russian army of the Caucasus says that the Turks were defeated and put to flight in an engagement near Tabriz, but makes no mention of the reoccupation of that city by the Russians.

Berlin advices tell of a raid on Ostend and Zeebrugge in Belgium by British aeroplanes. It is said that three of these aeroplanes failed to return, having been surrounded by German aircraft and driven out to sea.

The German war office, in its announcement of today asserts that the Russians have been defeated in two minor engagements in East Prussia, as well as in a right attack near Borjimow, in Poland.

In France the heaviest fighting is toward the eastern end of the line. The German communication says that further ground was won in the Argonne, where the French suffered heavy losses. Near Nieuport, in Belgium, and south of Verdun, infantry engagements occurred in which the French are said to have been defeated. Over the greater part of the line, however, there is little activity.

INTENTIONAL DUPLICATE EXPOSURE

PUPILS BUSY WITH TESTS

Central Students Will Soon Learn Results of Half Year's Work.

Second Creamery Urged By "Aggies;" Many Activities Planned.

Semester examinations held sway during the last week at Central high school, and other activities were left temporarily in the background. Beginning with English on Wednesday and concluding with agriculture and commercial geography late yesterday afternoon, the "quizzes" were the all-important subject of discussion, and in many cases determined whether the student's work during the semester was in vain or not. The teachers will be busy correcting the papers and preparing the final reports, which will be made early next week.

To many of the freshmen it has taken the whole first semester to "settle down" and become acquainted with the "whys and wherefores" of high school life. Some have been unfortunate in not being able to get a satisfactory start and will have to work during the final semester in order to get through with the year's work.

If present plans of Supt. Denfeld materialize, there is a possibility that the freshmen class will be eliminated next year, or at least within the next few years. The junior high school idea has become very popular, and this would relieve the congested conditions now prevalent at the Central school. When a pupil has completed the sixth year of work in the grammar schools, he will enter the first year of the junior high school, and after three years of this, he will have been prepared to come into the senior high school. The first year at the latter place will be equivalent to the sophomore or second year now maintained. In the junior high school the first year work will be the same as that of the present seventh grade course of study, while in the second year the work will be changed somewhat. Latin or German will probably be introduced in the eighth grade, to be taken with English. The choice of language will be optional, as the pupil may take either one. In the B eighth grade there will be two periods of Latin or German and three periods of English, while in the A eighth grade there will be given two periods of English and three of Latin or German. There is also a possibility that algebra will be introduced in the eighth grade, and scientific and business courses may be given.

A program of Scotch songs and recitations was given in chapel Monday morning in honor of the one hundred and fifty-sixth anniversary of Robert Burns. Carlyle Thomas read an interesting paper on the life of the great poet; Lucile Elder explained the songs and their histories, and Katherine Birch recited "A Man's a Man for A' That."

The Gazette did not make it's appearance on Wednesday, but will be out and ready for sale on Monday morning. The circulation is ever increasing and the copies are always readily "gobbled" up by the students. Those who won prizes in the contributors' number have finally been announced and have received their rewards. Three prizes of $1 each were offered for the best poem, story and general article, and the stories were worth much more than the prizes given. Clara Tracey was awarded the prize for the best poem, the name of her selection being "Duluth." "Why Johnnie Doesn't Believe," an interesting Christmas story by Florence Olson, was the first prize story. Evelyn Ahlen won first in the general article contest.

The "Aggie" club sleighride was to have taken place last night, but the members were too backward about deciding and it was called off. There will probably be one very soon, as the idea is not dead yet by any means. Social Chairman Ben Gingold has been working hard to have one and his wish will probably be granted in the near future.

On next Tuesday the Agricultural club will hold its semi-annual election of officers. Officers are chosen for one semester and new ones elected at the beginning of the next. Several names have been mntiond as possible candidates, and the election will surely be hot, as well as exciting. The retiring officers have all been exceedingly efficient, and their passing will be regretted by all. There is a possibility, of course, that some of the old ones will be re-elected. The present officers are: Stuart Taylor, president; Phillip Seymore, vice president; Ben McCabe, recording secretary; Marc Troyer, corresponding secretary; Carlyle Burgess, treasurer. The president has the power to appoint committee chairmen. The present chairmen of the various committees are: Membership, Marc Troyer; library, Sidney Jensen; lectures, E. P. Gibson; cow testing, Frank Cox; buttermaking, Raymond Szymanski; extension work, Victor Eva; inquiries, Marc Troyer; social, Ben Gingold; horticultural, Charles Staake; excursions, Walter Mauseau.

Buttermakers Are Active.

The creamery department is becoming more and more popular and butter is being turned out in large quantities. Even as early as 6 a. m. and as late as 9 p. m. the little creamery is a scene of active and enthusiastic buttermakers. So popular is the work that the students have to make appointments for periods almost a week ahead and three or four and sometimes five churnings are made each day. Real practical results are appearing, as is shown by the amount of butter that has been turned out. Up to yesterday there had been 1,088½ pounds of pure butter churned at the creamery, representing an investment of about $20 for cream. Some difficulty has been met in obtaining the cream because such great quantities are demanded at each churning. Although agricultural and creamery work is in its infancy at Central high school yet, the present splendid equipment is rapidly becoming unable to supply the popular demand and it is possible that another creamery will be built. Some have even hinted the purchasing of a small dairy. This would greatly increase the scope of agricultural activity and would furnish a sure and constant supply of milk and cream for butter making and other purposes. It could be used also as an experimental farm and would certainly prove very popular.

Work in the greenhouse has been going on very well during the last week, and rapid strides have been taken in all the planting. Another crop of lettuce is ready for eating and many of the students have taken advantage of the fact. The string beans are about ripe, and the tomatoes are coming nicely. To fill the vacant spaces Prof. Gibson has been planting cucumbers, muskmelons and radishes and will soon begin to make the preliminary arrangements for the transplanting of the celery and tomatoes. It is mainly through the untiring efforts of Mr. Gibson, the head of the agricultural department, that this division has come to be regarded as the most popular in the entire school.

The senior party committee is busily preparing for the big senior "closed" party, to be held next Saturday evening in the corridors of the main building. Supper will be served on the second floor, after which toasts will be given. An informal program of dances and entertainments will be held in the lower corridors. Mary Middlecoff and Townsend Hoopes are the chairman of the girls and boys committees and they assure every one a splendid time. The same popular scheme will be followed out again this year which proved so popular last season, and it is expected that last year's attendance record of 200 will be shattered next Saturday evening.

The athletic board of control has made the definite statement that no more jerseys or sweaters of any kind will be awarded to the winning class athletic teams in the future. The expense of buying such awards for every winning team is too much and as it was thought no more fair to give one team jerseys than another, the board decided that the idea would be discontinued in the future. The senior basket ball team, therefore, was the last victorious class team to receive awards. Incidentally "Locky" Taylor has not yet thanked the Athletic association for them, but he is planning on a big speech to be delivered in chapel some time in the near future.

The mechanics' club will meet some time next week at which time the constitution will be submitted by the committee for ratification by the members. K. Hoopes, the president of the organization, has several novel ideas in mind which he thinks will make the club one of the most popular and most active in the school.

The girls basket ball team has jumped into the limelight and occupies a place of considerable importance among the new activities. Some time ago, they defeated the Proctor Y. W. C. A. team on the latter club's own floor and this evening they will tackle the local Y. W. C. A. aggregation at the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium. Of course there will be a large crowd, not all girls, out to see the game. The Central team is composed of Harriet Kugler and Edna Morterud, forwards; Marion Lutes, center; Ila Whitesides, Beatrice Henley and Ruth Fisher, guards. Miss Armstrong coaches the team.

CARRANZA TAKES SAN LUIS POTOSI

Turned Over to His Forces Without Any Fighting.

Laredo, Tex., Jan. 30.—San Luis Potosi is again in the hands of Carranza forces. It was turned over yesterday without a battle, and the fall of Monterey, now held by Villa troops, is reported imminent.

Mexico City Quiet.

Washington, Jan. 30.—Mexico City was reported quiet, with Gen. Obregon in command, in a dispatch received today from American Consul Silliman. It was dated last night.

Obregon denies making any agreement with Gen. Gutierrez, who was reported to have sent commissioners to propose terms upon which he might form alliance with Carranza against Villa. The Zapata forces have abandoned the siege of Puebla, the dispatch said.

Move Into New Quarters.

One of the newer concerns of Duluth that gives promise of developing into a business of considerable magnitude is the Duluth Manufacturing & Welding company, who have just moved into larger quarters at 310-312 East Superior street. They are now prepared to do expert work in Oxy-Acetylene Welding and cutting and they are installing a complete galvanizing and plating plant which will be the only commercial one of its kind west of Chicago. In addition to this they are going to manufacture a new water heater for domestic purposes, which is to be built entirely on scientific principles and radically different from anything that is now on the market. One of the principal features of this new "Geyser" water heater that have named it is that it is a great saving on gas and they have already received orders from New York, New Jersey and points on the range. They are also going to manufacture what is known as the "Surman Automatic" blow-off valve that is a patent of Mr. Surman, who is the mechanical expert of the concern. This valve is designed for locomotive, marine and stationary engines.

HEREDITY

By DR. SAMUEL G. DIXON, Commissioner of Health for Pennsylvania.

The influence of heredity upon the mental and physical health of the individual has been a deeply discussed question and one on which there is much to say both pro and con.

Almost every physician who has practiced for any length of time can cite instances of individuals who, by rigid adherence to the rules of right living and hygiene have triumphed over serious physical handicaps due to heredity.

If you have an individual weakness, whether inherited or not, it is always worth while to try and overcome it. In many cases they can be favorably modified by a continued and faithful effort.

Where the parents have suffered from organic or certain forms of communicable disease children may be unfortunate enough to be physically marred beyond any hope of recovery. Fortunately laws are being enacted to prevent such marriages and stronger than any law is the growing sentiment against these unions to prevent the intensifying of defects. Unfortunately people too often believe them insurmountable.

We are all familiar with the story of how Demosthenes overcame the physical handicaps which seemed to threaten his career as an orator.

For many years it was the general belief that tuberculosis was an hereditary disease. It has been demonstrated that this is the rare exception. However, when the parents are suffering from tuberculosis there is always a chance of the direct infection of the children and this led to the belief that the disease was inherited. It is true that the children of tuberculosis parents may inherit physical conformations that will reduce their resitance to the tubercle bacillus. Therefore, every effort should be made to develop whatever weakness may be inherited, such as narrow chest, etc.

Care, training and perseverence will work wonders in correcting physical or mental defects, whether inherited or the result of individual weakness.

NEARLY 20,000,000 FARES PAID BY DULUTHIANS IN 1914

Paid $549,061 for Operating Expenses and $47,752 in Taxes.

Duluth citizens paid 19,824,412 nickels to the Duluth Street Railway company during 1914, according to the annual report of the company filed this noon with City Auditor B. J. Campbell, as required by the city charter of franchise holding corporations.

According to the report, passenger revenues netted the company a total of $991,420.60 during 1914, this amount being slightly behind the figures for 1913.

The report prepared by Herbert Warren, vice president and manager of the company, and S. L. Reichert, secretary-treasurer, shows that in 1914 the net surplus after dividends was $7,604.85.

Cost of Plant.

The cost of the plant up to Jan. 1, 1914, the report states, was $4,672,414.76. During the year $28,006.87 was spent for new equipment, bringing the total cost to $4,700,421.63 at the opening of business on Jan. 1. The debts and obligations of the company include a bond issue amounting to $2,868,558.92, capital stock valued at $1,200,000 and total current debts amounting to $309,829.23, making a sum total of $4,378,388.15.

Out of the total passenger revenue of $991,420.60, the company will have to pay a toll charge of $16,250 for the use of the Duluth-Superior bridge. In addition the revenue was increased by the renting of chartered cars, bringing the total to $994,747.52. The operating expenses for the year amounted to $549,061.19, while the other expenses follow:

Taxes	$ 47,752.71
Interest on stocks	153,521.63
Depreciation	79,901.14
Dividends on stock	156,906.00
Total	$438,081.48

The total expenses for 1914 including dividends amounted to $987,142.67, leaving a net surplus of $7,694.85 for the year's business.

BEST POULTRY SHOW IN STATE

More Than 700 Prize Birds Entered for Duluth Display.

Judging Will Begin at the Armory Tuesday Morning, Feb. 2.

With an entry list larger than for any poultry show ever staged in Duluth and larger than any show held in the state during the year just ended, the nineteenth annual show of the Duluth Poultry association will open at the Armory Feb. 2, and continue until Feb. 6.

More than 700 prize birds have been entered by various contestants, who represent towns in Minnesota, Michigan and Wisconsin. Prizes in the various classes will be hotly contested for, as many fine birds have been entered.

Best Show in State.

"We have the finest show that will be given in Minnesota this year," said J. W. Nelson, secretary, "due to lack of harmony in the Twin Cities organizations. Our entry list is larger than that of either the Minneapolis or St. Paul show, and with the Armory for our displays, we expect the show to be far more successful than any other in the history of the Duluth association."

Judging, under the direction of James A. Tucker, will begin Tuesday morning, Feb. 2, officially opening the show. All birds are required to be in the show room by Monday noon.

In addition to a long list of cash prizes, special prizes, ribbons, etc., will be awarded for all exhibits. Blue ribbons will be awarded for the first prize, red for the second, white for third, green for fourth, and orange for fifth. Awards will be made for cock, hen cockerel, pullet and pen in each class.

LACE TRADE WAS BRISK

"Bargains in Hand-Made" Found Eager Buyers Among Women.

Sellers Arrested and Victims Get Their Money Back.

Duluth women who succeeded in securing rare "bargains" in "hand-made" lace yesterday through the offices of Mrs. Mary Smith, aged 66, and her daughter, Maria Smith, aged 30, besieged police headquarters this morning.

Shortly after 9 o'clock the lace sellers visited the residence of one Duluth woman on East Third street and she, having been forewarned, telephoned the police. She then showed such an interest in their wares that she succeeded in keeping her visitors until Lieut. F. A. Schulte, with Detective Irvine, arrived and took the pair into custody.

Almost simultaneously the various matrons who had purchased lace learned that they had been duped or began to suspect that their bargains were not such bargains after all.

Before long Capt. A. G. Fiskett was compelled to turn Chief Troyer's office into a reception room to accommodate the many callers, all of whom were interested in the lace market.

When a small group of aggrieved matrons had gathered one of them asked that Mrs. Smith and her daughter be allowed to talk to them.

An executive session behind locked doors lasted nearly half an hour and then the matron reappeared, smiling, and said: "Everything is all fixed. The women who bought lace have secured their money and there is no more to it."

Then court adjourned and the women left, each with her money and all evidently satisfied. Most of those present at the meeting knew nothing about the affair, as they said: "But had been asked to tend to it by a close friend who had bought some lace. Of course I didn't buy any."

Aside from those who were present at the meeting it is not known how many were victimized by the lace sellers.

When arraigned before Judge F. H. Cutting in municipal court late this morning the pair pleaded guilty to peddling without a license. Sentence was suspended. Complaints of similar "bargain sales" in the resident district of Minneapolis have caused police to believe that the same pair have been operating there. They gave Minneapolis as their home.

MECCA FOR LAND HUNGRY

Inquiries for Farms Near Duluth Never So Numerous.

Commercial Club Gets Letters From All Parts of Country.

The Duluth Commercial club, it was announced today, has received more spontaneous requests for information as to agricultural and dairy possibilities in this part of the state by would-be settlers during the last few weeks than ever before in the existence of the club.

These applications seek information as to the value of the land, the name of some land agent, and other things in connection with the matter of getting land to settle upon. They come from all points of the compass, and it is asserted that the letters bear the stamp of sincerity and do not appear to be from men who are writing in a half-hearted way or out of mere curiosity. These people want to settle on land here.

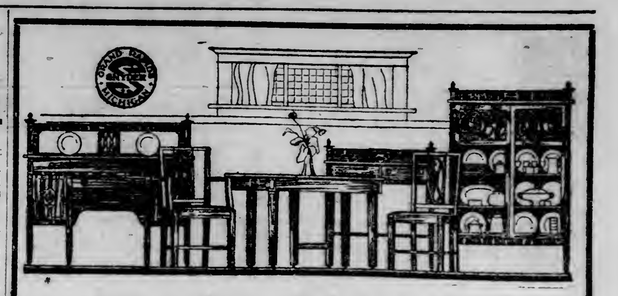

Come Unsolicited.

"These are people," said one of the officers of the club today, "who have not been solicited, and in whose hands, so far as we know, none of our literature has fallen. At least none of them is on our mailing list. They have either been sent the literature by friends who have received it, or have been reading some of the articles about Duluth and the dairy country surrounding that have been published in various trade or association journals and in some magazines. At any rate they are interested and we are endeavoring to direct them aright, for people like these, who have the initiative enough to start out and seek the location are just the people we want. They will make good sturdy citizens of this part of the country and are of the type that will help clear up and improve the land hereabouts. They have all, evidently, heard about the rich dairy country around this part of the state, for most of them are showing interest in this phase of agricultural life. I believe we will get most of these into this country within the next year."

As an indication of the various directions from which these inquiries come, letters were shown this morning—and these are only a few of the total from the Twin Cities, Schoenakersville, Pa.; Fort Wayne, Ind.; Chicago (where one man figures on a 320-acre dairy farm); Galeboro, Ind.; Cedar Rapids and Waterloo, Iowa; Hoboken, N. J.; Pittsfield, Mass.; Kalama, Wash., and Mt. Gilead, Ohio.

HAIR COMING OUT?

Dandruff causes a feverish irritation of the scalp, the hair roots shrink, loosen and then the hair comes out fast. To stop falling hair at once and rid the scalp of every particle of dandruff, get a 25-cent bottle of Danderine at any drug store, pour a little in your hand and rub it into the scalp. Why pay exorbitant prices for Coffee and Tea at the Tea and Coffee stores? Some people think that the more money they pay the better value they get. A proprietor of a big New York store says he puts up the same grade of Tea in three packages for the millionaires; for one he gets $1 per lb; for another, $2 per lb, and for the third, $3 per lb, and he claims that he sells ten times as much of the $3 Tea as he does of the $1 Tea. He also says the Tea costs but 30c per lb and the fancy package it is put up in 15c.

MERCURY IS ABOVE ZERO

Milder Weather Is Prospect for Sunday—Cold in Michigan.

The above-zero weather has begun. It started between 9 and 10 o'clock this morning, and when Weather Forecaster Richardson talked to The Herald at 10:30 this morning the thermometer was 1 deg. above zero and slowly rising.

The milder brand of weather set in late yesterday afternoon, and last night was quite agreeable. The lowest the mercury got during the night was 7 deg. below zero, and at 7 o'clock this morning it was 4 deg. below zero. Mr. Richardson looks for a temperature by tonight of from 5 to 10 deg. above zero, with the prospects for tonight or tomorrow of northeast winds and snow—with, perhaps, blowy accompaniments.

He says, however, that the weather may turn slightly colder again tomorrow night or Monday, but it will be comparatively warm as compared to what has been the rule.

Strangely enough, with the milder weather setting in here, neighboring cities have been "getting theirs." Houghton, this morning, was shivering in an atmosphere of 24 deg. below zero, and Port Arthur had a level of 16 deg. below, the cold seeming to have centered over that belt.

Warmer weather prevails over the Central states and the Northwest, except the extreme Northwest, such as Saskatchewan, where the weather is growing colder again.

SENATORS ARE LOCKED IN MOST SPECTACULAR LEGISLATIVE BATTLE

be continued throughout the day and that a decision would be reached this evening as to holding another night session.

Senator Sutherland contended that so far no filibuster had been carried on against the bill but he added that, in his judgment, any parliamentary power the Republicans might exert to prevent its passage would be of immeasurable value to the country.

Battle Against Time.

Washington, Jan. 30.—Daylight found the United State senate still in session today and the minority waging a desperate battle against time and physical weakness to prevent the passage of the government ship purchase bill which the majority has decreed shall be voted upon before any other business is transacted.

At 9 o'clock Senator Smoot had finished his eleventh hour of continuous speaking and was declining offers of Republican arrivals for a rest. His colleague, Senator Sutherland, entered the chamber armed with twelve heavy tomes from the congressional library, from which he was prepared to make a long legal argument which would require much reading from decisions.

Eats While Talking.

Between sentences, Senator Smoot took a breakfast of milk brought by colleagues from the senate cafe, and said he was not yet tired of speaking.

In the vice president's chair sat Senator Hollis, watching for the opportunity to drop the gavel and order the hard-fought-for roll call, but down in the seats of the chamber new Republican sentinels began arriving fresh and keen from a night of sleep, their drooping-eyed colleagues began retiring, the full dress suits began to disappear and at the same time fresh forces of Democrats came on to replace those who had kept the battle going through the night.

Fresh Men for Speakers.

Thus the contest became again one between men fresh in mind and body. Senator La Follette, who holds a long distance talking record of eighteen hours and twenty minutes, was an early arrival. Senator Oliver, acting as the Republican whip, declared he had two weeks' continuous talking material within call.

Things began to freshen up on the floor and the galleries as the contest took on new vigor with the beginning of a new day, but Senator Smoot, showing no signs of fatigue, continued, telling the Democrats that a permanent and not a temporary policy for upbuilding the merchant marine was needed.

At 9:25 Senator Smoot yielded to Senator Sutherland after having spoken continuously for eleven hours and thirty-five minutes. His colleague at once plunged into a speech that promised to continue all day if necessary.

The length of Senator Smoot's speech recalled other notable speeches in the senate. In 1891 Senator Charles J. Faulkner spoke thirteen hours on the "force" bill; in 1893 Senator William V. Allen spoke fourteen hours on the repeal of the silver purchase clause in the Sherman law; in 1901, Senator Thomas H. Carter spoke fourteen hours on a river and harbor bill; in 1905, Senator La Follette spoke eighteen hours and twenty minutes on the Vreeland-Aldrich emergency currency bill, and in 1914, Senator Burton twelve hours and ten minutes on a river and harbor bill. Senator Edward W. Carmack, in 1907, made a notably long speech on the ship subsidy measure, and Senator Owen in 1908, another long speech on the admission of Arizona to the Union.

stitutional amendment could accomplish nothing whatever, or give the state any right it does not now possess, and that the proposed statute would simply retard the settlement of the question.

Claim State Has No Title.

The shore-owners suggested that the committee frame a bill making arrangements whereby they could negotiate with the state for the use of submerged ore bodies under conditions fully protecting the public's right; and they intimated that this was as far as the state could go. They declared that the supreme court of this state has fully decided the question, and that the state has no title to submerged ore, and can get no such title by any act of the legislature or of the people.

Another hearing will be held before the committee later, when the proponents of the measure will have another inning. It is understood that they will claim that the state has the right to submerged ore, that the shore-owners have no right to it, and that legislation is necessary to assert and protect the state's ownership in the valuable mineral deposits that are said to lie under lakes and streams in Northern Minnesota. It is known that there are such subbmerged deposits under Longyear lake at Chisholm.

Reclamation Revolving Fund.

The proposed constitutional amendment by Senators P. H. McGarry of Walker and Daniel P. O'Neill of Thief River Falls, providing for the setting apart of a reclamation revolving fund of $250,000 from the permanent school funds, was unanimously recommended to pass yesterday afternoon by the senate commitee on public domain.

This is the same amendment which was introduced in the house last session by Messrs. McGarry and O'Neill, who were then house members, together with Representative Charles H. Warner of Aitkin. A similar measure has been offered in the house by Representative Warner and other members from Northern Minnesota.

The amendment was submitted to the people last fall, being No. 3 on the amendment ballot, but failed of adoption along with all but one of the ten amendments submitted.

The only change in the amendment is the insertion of a clause permitting the use of the fund for the partial clearing of state land before it is offered for sale. The plan is to use the fund for road building on state land, for firebreaks to protect state timber, and for partial land clearing. All the money used out of it will be added to the price of the land, and recovered into the fund when the land is sold. When the need of the fund ceases, it will be returned to the permanent funds; but in the meantime it will have vastly increased that fund by hastening the sale of state lands and by increasing the price for which the land can be sold.

Railroad Bill Favored.

The house committee on labor and labor legislation yesterday afternoon voted to recommend for passage the bill requiring railroads to pay their employes twice a month. The measure is a copy of the bill which has been introduced in the senate by Senator George H. Gardiner of Brainerd.

The railroads have strongly opposed the bill, and have defeated it at three previous sessions. At the hearing on the bill last Tuesday railroad representatives declared that it would add from $10,000 to $40,000 annually to the cost of conducting the various railroads in this state because of the additional clerical labor it would entail.

Representative Andrew Devold of Minneapolis, Socialist, declared at yesterday's meeting of the committee that the railroads had coerced employes to appear at the public hearing against the bill.

"I have been informed," he said, "that the Milwaukee road paid each employe appearing before the committee $14. Not only the Milwaukee but other roads threatened employes with dismissal if they openly favored the bill."

The committee voted to recommend for indefinite postponement the bill introduced yesterday by Representative J. W. Woodfill of Two Harbors, making it unlawful to blacklist workers. It was declared that it would be unconstitutional if it was enacted.

The committee recommended for passage the joint resolution asking congress to free postoffice employes from the rule against taking joint action to better their condition, on the ground that it destroys their political freedom.

Efficiency Bill Hearing.

The first public hearing on the efficiency and economy bills will be held in the house chamber Monday afternoon, when representatives of the commission, headed by Chairman Charles P. Craig of Duluth, will present the general outlines of the measures. Later, at hearings held on Tuesdays and Thursdays, the various subdivisions of the proposed plan will be examined in detail.

The senate committee on civil administration, which has charge of the bill in the senate, will sit with the house committee, and all the members of both senate and house have been asked to attend the hearings.

The house committee on education yesterday afternoon voted unanimously to recommend for undefinite postponement a bill by Representative John Schrooten requiring high schools, graded schools and consolidated schools to give free tuition in agriculture and industrial work to children from rural districts. The law now permits this, but requires the rural districts from which the pupils come to pay a nominal tuition charge of $2.50 per month. The reason for offering the bill, it is said, is that some rural school districts have refused to pay this bill, and it has been necessary to sue them.

The proposal was objected to by every member of the committee on the ground that it would impose an unfair burden on the city and village schools.

The committee recommended for passage a bill enlarging the powers of school boards to enable them to extend existing school sites by condemnation. The purpose is to clear up any possible doubt about whether school boards have this right.

State Fire Insurance.

Senator W. A. Campbell's bill extending the state fire insurance system to counties was unanimously recommended for passage yesterday afternoon by the senate committee on insurance.

The state two years ago was authorized to carry its own fire insurance on state property, and it is said that it has saved $57,000 by this plan in a year and a half. The purpose of the bill is to allow counties to take advantage of the same system if they wish to.

The house yesterday considered the Borgen bill changing the primary election date from June back to September, but took no action because the discussion had become badly involved just when the members were anxious to adjourn so as to get home for the week-end rest.

An amendment by Representative Edward E. Syverson of Ironton fixing the primary election day for Monday instead of Tuesday, was adopted. This is for the convenience of commercial travelers and railroad men who are home over Sunday, and who want a chance to vote Monday morning before they go out on their runs.

The bill as it stands now provides for holding the primary election fifty days before the general election day. Some of the members thought this too short a time, and it was proposed to make the interval eight or nine weeks. This, however, conflicted with state fair time and with Labor day; so nothing was done about it.

Some opposition to the abolition of the June primary developed, some of the representatives of rural districts declaring that the farmer has more time to vote in June than in September. However, it developed that other rural representatives thought the farmers of their sections preferred September to June, and that all the city members were for the later date. The bill is virtually certain to pass.

The Bessette bill extending the terms of town clerks from one to four years was recommended to pass yesterday afternoon by the house committee on towns and counties.

not be prepared for some little time to announce his decision. He expressed himself as highly complimented at the interest taken in him and at the apparently wide-spread sentiment in favor of his again occupying the office.

It is understood that the reason for Mr. Hicken's reluctance to decide the matter is that another opening has been offered him. In fact the commissioner has received a number of flattering offers, but a local one appeals to him as the most attractive.

It is also understood that the pressure to be brought upon the commissioner to run again will not cease with the matter of petitions, but that business men will call on him and demand that he remain in office as a duty he owes the city.

W. A. HICKEN,
Commissioner of Public Safety.

The preamble of the petition reads as follows:

"We, the undersigned, duly qualified voters, appreciating your efforts as commissioner in making this city a better and cleaner city to live in and the efficiency of your administration as commissioner of public safety, hereby request you to again file for the office of city commissioner, and promise that we will use our best efforts to elect you."

CONDITIONS AT CAMPS BAD, SAYS WITNESS

think the company furnishes the cemeteries. The coroners have a habit of giving a verdict of suicide or death due to carelessness. One coroner wrote, in a certain case, that the victim of an accident had 'no relatives and damned few friends.'

Never Shirk Duty.

"No coal miner, Mr. Lawson said, has ever shirked his duty in protecting life and the interests of the operators. Company detectives and gunmen constantly spied on the men to see that they did not get together. This applied to the camps where there were no unions. In union camps, Mr. Lawson testified, conditions were entirely different.

The University of Colorado, he said, had promised the United Mine Workers of America that it would extend its work into the coal camps so that the men might have an opportunity to educate themselves. In the nonunion camps there was occasionally a dance, the witness said, but no other amusements or recreation.

Mr. Lawson called the commission's attention to a statement which he said was made by John D. Rockefeller, Jr., April 6, 1914, in which Mr. Rockefeller was quoted as saying that the Colorado Fuel & Iron company would never recognize the United Mine Workers of America and that it was a fight to the finish.

Ludlow Followed.

"Two weeks after that, to the day, came Ludlow," Mr. Lawson said. "I do not know whether there was any connection between these two things. I hope not. A man like Mr. Rockefeller should be careful of the things he says, however."

The witness discussed the payment of workmen in scrip, redeemable for merchandise at company stores, and the employment of check weighmen who are paid by the miners to see that the company does not cheat the men in weighing coal on the tipple. There was a law in Colorado, Mr. Lawson said, providing for check weighmen; in spite of that, the law was frequently violated by the operators. When weighmen are selected, he continued, the companies "see to it that safe men" from their viewpoint, are chosen.

Mr. Lawson thought it was a mistake on the part of organized labor to re-elect union officials who had been convicted of violence or the use of dynamite.

Law Violated.

The witness read a list of the laws of Colorado, which he said the corporations in that state had violated. The list included laws providing for weighmen, an eight-hour day and the right to join labor organizations. Commissioner Weinstock asked if it were a fact that the Colorado Fuel & Iron company had refused to treat with the United Mine Workers of America on the grounds that the mine workers were law breakers.

"That was one of the charges," replied the witness.

Commissioner Weinstock read a notice distributed by the United Mine workers of America calling upon the mine workers to form into companies and arm themselves. He asked the witness if that action did not constitute a defiance of the laws of Colorado, or, being a call to arms, a rebellion.

"That is no violation of the law," Mr. Lawson replied. "I defy any one to prove that we violated the law. If my neighbor called to me and asked me to get my rifle or revolver and help him defend his property and the lives of his family, would that be a violation of the law?"

"It would if I got a thousand men together that way," replied Mr. Weinstock.

"Yes, you would be violating the law against blocking traffic," the witness replied.

When questioned by Mrs. J. Borden Harriman, a member of the commission, as to the details of the arming of the men, Mr. Lawson asked to be excused from replying, as he was one of those indicted in connection with the trouble in Colorado. The so-called "call to arms," he said, "was issued to the miners two days after the shooting at Ludlow."

Philanthropy for Justice.

Among other things Mr. Lawson asserted in his testimony yesterday, "a skillful attempt is being made to substitute philanthropy for justice."

To the philanthropy of the Rockefellers he referred as follows:

"Health for China, a refuge for birds, food for the Belgains, pensions for New York widows, university training for the elect—and never a thought or a dollar for the many thousands of men, women and children who starved in Colorado, for the widows robbed of husbands, children, of fathers. There are thousands of Mr. Rockefeller's former employes in Colorado today who wish to God they were in Belgium to be fed, or a bird to be tenderly cared for."

Mr. Lawson criticized John D. Rockefeller, Jr., for his lack of knowledge of conditions and he was "equally as ignorant and indifferent as his trusted executives."

The witness told of striking miners in Colorado being shot down by militia "in the pay of the Colorado Fuel & Iron company," and hundreds of persons being dumped into the desert without food or water, while others were driven over the snow of the mountain ranges.

Due to Stupidity.

"If any appearance of poverty clings to the Colorado Fuel & Iron company," Mr. Lawson declared, "it is due to its own stupidity and corrupt policy. Had it taken the money it has spent in controlling officials and electorate, in purchasing machine guns, the employment of gunmen and in crushing the aspirations of human beings, and spent it in wages and the improvement of working conditions, they would have had rich returns."

The manner in which the directing forces of the Colorado Fuel & Iron company "handed down power from man to man" Mr. Lawson characterized as "a chain that no individual can climb."

The Rockefeller foundation's investigation into industrial unrest, Mr. Lawson said, is to be conducted by "Mackenzie King, an alien, whose chief contribution to the industrial problem is a law that prescribes a jail sentence for the worker who dares to lay down his tools."

"Your body can well afford to let the testimony of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., bring your investigation to an end," Mr. Lawson told the commission. "Out of his mouth came a reason for every discontent that agitates the laboring class in the United States today, and if remedies are provided for the injustices that he disclosed, a long step will be taken away from industrial disturbance.

Son of Father.

"For more than ten years he has been a director of the Colorado Fuel & Iron company, vested with what is virtually the power of life and death over 12,000 men and their families. This power, let it be pointed out, came to him by no healthful process of struggle and achievement, but entirely through the fact that he was the son of his father. His huge control of men and money was, in fact, a gift that marked the attainment of his maturity.

"In those first days when he might have been expected to possess a certain enthusiasm in his vast responsibilities, Colorado was shaken by the coal strikes of 1903-4. It is a matter of undisputed record that a mercenary militia, paid openly by the mine operators, crushed this strike by the bold violation of every constitutional right that the citizen was thought to possess.

"Men were herded in bull pens like cattle; homes were shattered; the writ of habeas corpus suspended; hundreds were loaded on cars and dumped into the desert without food or water; others were driven over the snow of the mountain ranges; a governor elected by 15,000 majority was unseated; a man never voted for on the ticket was made governor, and then there came a thing called peace, the blacklist gave 6,000 miners the choice between starvation or exile.

Attack on Liberties.

"The Colorado Fuel & Iron company, organized and led that attack on the liberties of the free men, and you heard from Mr. Rockefeller's own lips that he never inquired into the causes of the strike, the conduct of his executives or the fate of those who lost. So little interest did he take in the affair, so faint was the impression made upon him, that he could not even answer your questions as to its larger facts.

"To take the place of the banished workers," Mr. Lawson continued, "thousands were imported, and the extent of the company's dragnet for new material may be judged from the fact that over thirty languages and dialects have been spoken in the mines since 1904."

Rockefeller donations to educational institutions have influenced the policies of presidents of universities and colleges in many instances, but the influence has always been good, Charles W. Eliot, president emeritus of Harvard university, told the commission.

These donations, Mr. Eliot said, were made by the general education board. As an instance, he cited John D. Rockefeller's offer in 1903 to furnish $1,000,000 to Harvard university if the university would raise $875,000 additional.

Dr. Eliot said he had not hoped to obtain so large a sum. His estimate of what was needed was much lower than the estimate submitted by Mr. Rockefeller's investigator.

Dr. Eliot said that he was connected with the general education board and other philanthropic foundations established by Andrew Carnegie and Mr. Rockefeller. He thought the practice of interlocking the directorates of such foundations was a good one.

Wealthy Farmer Sued.

Sheboygan, Wis., Jan. 30. — Paul Knauer, 56, a wealthy farmer, living near Plymouth, has been sued for $3,000 for alleged breach of promise by Miss Nora Schockmel, 28, formerly his housekeeper. Knauer was married to Miss Martha Eberle, 21, of Sheboygan, on Jan. 14.

SEVERE RHEUMATIC PAINS DISAPPEAR

Rheumatism depends on an acid which flows in the blood, affecting the muscles and joints, producing inflammation, stiffness and pain. This acid gets into the blood through some defect in the digestive processes, and remains there because the liver, kidneys and skin are too torpid to carry it off.

Hood's Sarsaparilla, the old-time blood tonic, is very successful in the treatment of rheumatism. It acts directly, with purifying effect, on the blood, and through the blood on the liver, kidneys and skin, which it stimulates, and at the same time it improves the digestion.

Get Hood's Sarsaparilla today. Sold by all druggists.

GREAT ARMIES MANEUVERING FOR POSITIONS

Russia with the reoccupation of Tabriz. The London newspapers which hailed the fighting to the east of El Kantara as the real beginning of the Turkish invasion of Egypt, now seem inclined to qualify that assertion. While there has been more unimportant skirmishing to the east of the Suez canal, there is little proof that the Turks are advancing in force.

French Statement.

Paris, Jan. 30, 2:45 p. m.—The French war office today gave out a report on the progress of the war, reading as follows:

"Generally speaking, the day of Jan. 29 passed quietly. In Belgium there were artillery engagements. In front of Guinchy, near La Bassee, the British army drove back an attack delivered by three German battalions. The Germans in this case suffered heavy losses.

"To the north of Arras, near Neuville-St. Vaast, our heavy artillery brought a German battery under its fire and caused the caissons of the enemy to explode.

"In the sectors of Albert, Roye, Soissons, Craonne, Reims and Perthes there were yesterday artillery engagements at times rather severe. Our batteries acquitted themselves efficiently.

"In the Woevre district near Flirey, the Germans exploded a mine, the object of which was to blow up our trenches. As a matter of fact all they did was to destroy theirs.

"There is nothing to report from the remainder of the front."

German Statement.

Berlin, Jan. 30.—By wireless to London, 3:05 p. m.—German troops captured 745 French soldiers and twelve machine guns in the western part of the Argonne forest yesterday, according to an official announcement made by the German war office today.

Of these men twelve were officers, the statement says. The Germans captured also ten smaller guns. The enemy's losses were heavy, from 400 to 500 dead men having been left on the field of battle. The French infantry regiment No. 155 seems to have been annihilated. The German losses were comparatively slight. The text of the communication follows:

"The French losses in the fighting to the north of Nieuport, Jan. 28, were heavy. Over 300 Moroccans and Algerians were found dead in the sand dunes. German artillery yesterday hampered the enemy in his efforts to make his way by sapping operations in the direction of the sand hill which is to the east of the lighthouse. To the south of La Basee canal last night the Germans captured from the French at this point two more trenches which are connected with the positions occupied by us Jan. 25. In this operation we made sixty prisoners.

"In the western part of the Argonne forest a German attack delivered yesterday resulted in a considerable advance. Twelve officers and 733 soldiers were taken prisoners. We captured also twelve machine guns and ten smaller guns. The losses of the enemy were heavy, from 400 to 500 dead having been left on the field of battle. The French infantry regiment No. 155 seems to have been annihilated. The German losses were comparatively small.

"French night attacks to the southeast of Verdun were repulsed with heavy losses to the enemy. To the northeast of Badonviller the French forces were driven from the village of Angomont as far back as the village of Dremenil and Angomont was occupied by our troops.

"In East Prussia a Russian attack against the German force protecting a bridge head to the east of Darkehmen, was without result. Some of our fortifications to the east of the lake were shelled by the enemy. A Russian attack to the southeast of Lake Loewenstein broke down under the German fire and a Russian night attack near Borjimow, east of Lowicz, was repulsed with very heavy losses to the enemy."

Russian Statement.

Petrograd, Jan. 30.—Success by the Russians in the vicinity of Tabriz, Persia, is indicated in the official communication issued by the general staff of the army in the Caucasus today. The statement says:

"In the valley of Alashkert we came in contact with the enemy and after a stubborn battle captured their colors, guns and military supplies. The enemy in disorder retired toward Tabriz, abandoning on the battlefield many hundreds of killed."

Speaking of other fighting in the Caucasus, the statement says:

"In the region around Tchorokh, south of Batum, a column of troops of the enemy were repulsed in the village of Baschkioi. They retreated precipitately.

"On the front near Sari Kamysh there has been no change of importance. On Jan. 28, the Turkish artillery cannonaded energetically a part of our front, but without success."

Austrian Statement.

Vienna, via Amsterdam and London, Jan. 30, 9:52 a. m.—An official communication issued by the Austrian general staff says:

"The present phase of the war in Galicia is proceeding favorably for us. The attempts of the Russian Galician army to outflank Archduke Joseph Ferdinand's army near Nowy Sandec and attack Cracow via Tarnow have led to a counter offensive by the archduke against Tarnow, which threatens the rearward communications of the Russians in Galicia and the Carpathians.

"Equally ineffective was the Russian invasion of Hungary and the attempt to invade Transylvania from Bukowina in order to isolate General Fischer's army and outflank our Carpathian forces.

"In the north the German trenches are approaching the forts of Warsaw and we are also gaining ground in the Carpathians.

"In Bukowina the enemy retreated to Kimpolang after General Fischer's victory near Kirlibaba."

KAISER EXPOSED TO DANGER OF BATTLE

Berlin, via London, Jan. 30.—The Correspondence Agency of this city asserts that it learns from a dependable source that Emperor William stood in a heavy fire at the battle of Soissons and that it was only after insistent representations from his entourage that he consented, after a long while, to leave the exposed position.

WILLISTON STATION MAY BE RETAINED

North Dakota Legislative Committee May Not Abolish It.

Bismarck, N. D., Jan. 30.—(Special to The Herald.)—An effort will be made to save the Williston experimental sub-station out of the wreckage of the system proposed by the joint investigating committee of the legislature. The committee will recommend the abolishment of the Langdon, Edgeley, Dickinson and Hettinger sub-stations at least, maintaining that work at those stations is being duplicated, and that an unnecessary expense has been created.

At Williston, however, different conditions prevail, that station operating under the Williston irrigation project, working out a plan of farming for the only irrigated tract of land in North Dakota. It is because of that fact that the movement to save the station has been launched.

University Affairs.

The Lathrop committee spent all of yesterday and most of today engaged in an examination of university affairs. They found the business organization of that institution on a very good basis. President McVey explained every detail of the institution's organization in a very concise manner.

The agricultural college organization was discussed before the committee also, and one of the finds made by the committee was that the president of that institution is practically without authority over the faculty. The law creating the agricultural college simply gives the president authority over subordinate officers and employes, and makes the faculty responsible directly to the board of trustees.

Commissioner of Education.

One plan for the proposed board of regents of educational institutions that is being worked out by the educational committee of the house will provide for the appointment of an expert educational commissioner, who will be charged with the work of inspecting the organization of each institution, and make reports to the central board. There is some question whether the board should be made up of three or five members.

Plans for reappointment are being worked out rapidly. Two plans, one for 31 senators and 63 representatives, and one for 38 senators and 86 representatives, have been outlined.

WEST END WOMEN ASK RIGHT TO VOTE

Seven West end women have written to State Senator George M. Peterson, urging him to align himself with those supporting equal suffrage for women. Their letter follows:

"Among the many questions that will come up before your honorable body in the near future will be the question of women's suffrage in the state of Minnesota. Women's suffrage is looked upon by many as being something desired only by women who spend most of their time in clubs and society and often neglect their homes. This is an absolutely wrong impression. The appeal for women's suffrage does not come from thoughtless women—it comes from wives and mothers whose hearts and minds are vitally interested in the welfare of their own homes as well as of the community and state. Fortunately women's suffrage has many a warm friend and defender among statesmen and other men who understand and appreciate the fact that this cause is not only a 'women's cause' but one which is fully justified and that women ought to have influence as well as responsibility in political questions.

"As we are taking the liberty of addressing you, Mr. Senator, on the above important subject, it is our hope that you will give your hearty support to equal suffrage to women in Minnesota when the question is brought up before the senate.

Very respectfully yours,
MRS. J. J. MOE.

WORK DOUBLED; EXPENSE LOW

City Engineer's Office Reports Fine Results for Last Year.

Accomplishes $100,000 Worth of Work at Cost of But $28,000.

In 1914 the city engineering office did almost twice as much work as it has ever done in any previous year, according to the annual report submitted to Commissioner Murchison this morning by John Wilson, city engineer.

Although the work has practically doubled, City Engineer Wilson states in his report, the department is being operated at a minimum expense. During the year supervision was made of city work totalling an expense of $550,000, while estimates were made for improvements totaling an expense of $4,829,263.77. At the usual rate charged by engineers, this would bring the fee up to $106,000, while the engineering office is operating at an annual appropriation of $28,000, states the report.

Mr. Wilson also urges the purchase of more laboratory apparatus for the testing of sample rocks and cements used in pavements. The department made 563 drawings and plats during the year.

With regard to the paving work and improvements, City Engineer Wilson states that of all the miles of pavement in the city of Duluth, 37.7 per cent were laid during the last three years and 51.2 in the last five years, while of all the miles of sanitary sewers constructed 27.4 per cent were built since 1911 and 42.6 per cent since 1909.

In 1913 the work done by the city on streets and highways cost $414,204.69, while in 1914 the expense was $596,721.37, according to the report. Including the construction work for last year, Duluth now has a total of 40 miles of paved streets, 219 miles of graded, graveled and macadamized roads, 133.9 miles of sanitary sewers, 23 miles of storm sewers, 305 miles of plank sidewalks and 122 miles of cement sidewalks.

COURT GRANTS TWO DIVORCES

Wives Win Petition for Release; Cruelty and Desertion Charged.

Judge Cant in district court today granted to Anna Olivia Peterson, 48, a divorce from Nels Peterson, 62, on the grounds of cruelty. The case was tried nearly two years ago, but the court made no final disposition of it at that time.

Mrs. Peterson, by the court's decree, will become the owner of an undivided one-half interest in her husband's homestead located in section 20, 54-16. The Petersons were married Nov. 7, 1906. There are no children.

Annie C. Plummer, 32, was granted a divorce from Harold E. Plummer, 41, this morning by Judge Fesler. Testimony in the case was taken on Jan. 7 last, since which time the court has had his decision under advisement. The decree was granted on the grounds of desertion. The Plummers were married June 22, 1907, in Itasca county. Plummer left his wife on Feb. 10, 1913, while they were living at Floodwood. He is a telegraph operator. There are no children.

SUCCESSFUL BOYS' FARMING SHORT COURSE HELD THIS WEEK AT MINOT, N. D.

BOYS ATTENDING SHORT COURSE IN AGRICULTURE AT MINOT NORMAL SCHOOL.

Minot, N. D., Jan. 30.—(Special to The Herald.)—The most successful short course for farm boys of this state has been held here this week. W. A. Peck, the better-farming agent for Ward county, is the father of the movement. Three years ago he had 56 boys at the short course, last year 76, and this year 130. He insists there will be from 200 to 250 next season. The participants were for the most part winners in the corn, wheat or pork production contests held in the county during 1914 and the expenses of many of them were paid by the bankers of their respective localities.

Some boys got as high as 33 bushels and a number over 30 bushels per acre.

The plan has scored such a success here it will be tried in other counties of the state this year.

Have Organization.

These boys have their organization. Bert Alberts of Aurelia is president, Jim Clarke of Donnybrook secretary-treasurer, and Jacob Frank vice president. They are holding meetings in which they are discussing their affairs and laying plans for the future.

The forenoon of the first day was given up to registration and addresses of welcome by Ex-Governor Devine and A. G. Crane, president of the Minot normal. Horses was the topic for study in the afternoon. Tuesday was cow day, the forenoon being devoted to discussions on types, breeds, feeding and care, and in the afternoon the work was on judging. The boys also selected a team from among their own number for judging the stock exhibited at the Minot mid-winter fair. The team did very satisfactory work in placing the ribbons on the bossies and their consorts. This team also judged the corn. There were over 200 entries which will give some idea of the task the boys undertook. Many of them have been in corn contests three years and have become expert corn judges. The boys were proud of their team.

One day was devoted to studying hogs—the types, breeds, feeding, care and judging were the divisions of the subject. The boys are very much interested in hog raising, many of them having made a good deal of money in hog raising and are anxious to learn how to increase their profits.

The instruction was quite varied, the stereopticon was used, also charts and the animals in the judging work.

W. A. Peck, the Ward county agricultural agent, was assisted in the instructional work by A. P. Henderson and W. E. Wied, county agricultural agents of Bottineau county, A. G. Gaumnitz, county agricultural agent of Wells county, J. G. Haney and W. C. Palmer. Mr. Cooper, director of the North Dakota experiment station, visited the short course and gave a talk on the contest work. The sessions of the short course were held at the Minot normal school. The short course students and the normal students held a joint chapel each day.

Corn Contest.

The corn contest has been the most generally entered into. One hundred and fifty-one boys entered it in 1914. Henry Grey of Kenmare won first place with a yield of 59.6 bushels of mature corn on an acre. Second place went to Clarence Norgaard of Hartland on 48.8 bushels, and third to Tolmar Erickson of Carpio on 47.3 bushels. Thirty-one of the boys in the corn contest had all their expenses to the short course paid in recognition of the good work they had done. Corn is making rapid strides in Ward county. At the midwinter fair, Kenmare had eighteen entries, Donnybrook 12, Carpio 14, Sawyer 20, Hartland 7, Minot 50 and the boys 75, and most of it was fine and well matured.

A wheat contest was also held for the boys. One of the elevator men offered to loan any boy who was in last year's corn contest a bushel of marquis wheat to be planted on his last year's corn ground. He also put up $40.00 in prizes to go to those who secured the highest yields. Arthur Olson of Berthold won first place with a yield of 33¾ bu on his acre, which entitled him to a ten dollar cash prize. Merle Craig of Berthold won second on a 32½ bushel, and third place went to Hommy Ritter of Lone Tree, who raised 32½ bushel from his one bushel. Twenty-three boys entered this contest.

The pork production contest was given quite a boost by one of the banks that loaned out to boys thirty-five pure bred sows that were bred; the boy to care for the sow and return her in the fall and the litter to become his without any charge for the use of the sow. Many of the boys realized as high as $150 from the litters that they raised and all but three boys did very well. The sows were all returned in good condition. This has put a lot of pure bred hogs into the county and will prove a valuable addition to the stock already on the farms.

WERE "BROKE" BUT HONEST

Men to Whom Railroad Fare Was Advanced Pay Back Money.

Of 231 Aided, Forty Have Already "Made Good."

"Do unto others as you would have others do unto you."

Repeaters at police headquarters, men who are continually being arrested for vagrancy, drunkenness, petty larceny, and the one hundred and one other misdemeanors on the calendar, observe this rule almost as well as the average citizen, in the belief of Municipal Judge W. L. Windom.

Several weeks ago Judge Windom, discussing the case of men who reappeared in court as fast as they got out, stated that if given a chance, most of them would "go straight."

Acting on his suggestion, members of the Duluth Board of Trade collected $294.09 and turned it over to Probation Officer Frank Hicks, to be used in getting employment for men, buying them shoes or needed clothes, and sending them some place where they could work.

Up to yesterday, forty such men had reported to Mr. Hicks, returning the money they were loaned, an aggregate of $98.21. In all, 231 men were cared for, part of the money being used twice, so that a total of $342.54 was distributed.

Many of the men have not had time to report back yet, as they are employed in lumber camps, where it is "a long time between pay days," but within the next few weeks Officer Hicks expects to have nearly all of the money returned.

"Human nature is a good deal the same wherever you find it," in the belief of Judge Windom, "and when you befriend a man you will very seldom receive in return anything but good treatment."

His suggestion, and the excellent showing made by the men in this first trial case, have paved the way for the establishment of a fund to be used in this manner. This would care for many cases and save the city a great deal of expense, in a short time.

GARBAGE COLLECTING SHOWS A LOSS

Annual Report Asserts, However, That Last Year Was One of Best.

Although the city garbage department lost money during 1914, it enjoyed one of the best years in its history, according to Mrs. Jeanette Baldwin, director, who submitted her annual report to Health Director Webster this morning.

In her report Mrs. Baldwin explains that the loss of $538.80 incurred in operating the department was caused by ordering the payment of her salary from the receipts taken in during the year. She asks that in 1915 her salary be paid out of one of the other funds, so that a loss can be avoided in the future. In addition, a horse died last summer and $125 was expended in buying another one, the report states.

Receipts for the collection of garbage and ashes totaled $2,370.65 for the entire year, while collections from other sources brought the revenues up to $3,528.90. The total expense, including the director's salary and the purchase of a horse, amounted to $4,067.70, causing the loss mentioned.

Mrs. Baldwin further explains that garbage is hauled away free of charge from the Gospel Mission, at a loss of about $87 to the department.

INCINERATOR INADEQUATE

Health Department Secretary Urges Systematic Collection of Garbage.

Would Have "Unit Plant" System for Disposing of It.

Municipal collection and disposal of the city's waste is strongly urged by Ruben Johnson, secretary of the health department, in his annual report to Director H. E. Webster, submitted today, as the next step towards a cleaner and better city.

The incinerator plant now used by the city in disposing of waste collected is called inadequate by Secretary Johnson, who says there is no way to determine its efficiency, because there is no way of judging the tonnage consumed.

"The systematic collection of this waste is very important from a public health standpoint," says the report, "particularly in the summer on account of the breeding place it affords the fly."

In elaborating on his recommendation, Secretary Johnson speaks of two systems which might be installed. One would call for a central incinerator, with a number of receiving stations throughout the city, where collectors could bring their loaded tanks and exchange them for empty ones. The full tanks then could be transferred to the incinerator by an auto truck.

The second plan calls for the construction of several units of an incinerator system, as in the proposed municipal electric lighting system. Each unit would take care of the waste from a given number of districts. The second plan is indorsed as being less expensive in the long run, as the operating expense is always the largest item with such a plant.

"The sanitary work of the department will be facilitated greatly when such a system is installed, and it is hoped," says Secretary Johnson, that the time is not far off when Duluth again will take its place at the top of the list in this respect."

The Year's Record.

Details of the report show that this department of municipal government has made an excellent record during the year, with a comparatively small amount of expenditure.

During the year $22,821.15 was spent from the health department fund, an increase of $1,030.04 over the 1913 total. This is despite the fact that nurses in the child welfare division were paid $1,241 in salaries, as compared with $318.39 in 1913.

"For the preservation of health in Duluth during the year," continues the report, "there was spent per capita the sum of $.508 as compared with $.526 for the year 1913."

Efficiency in the municipal institutions directed by the health department is shown by the statement that the daily per capita cost of caring for patients at the contagious hospital was $1.41 as compared with $2.54 during the previous year. Cost of serving meals at the contagious hospital was 12½ cents as compared with 14 cents for the year 1913.

Inspection of premises to insure sanitation was carried on in an efficient manner during the year, according to the report. There were 617 registered complaints cared for, an increase of 123 from the previous year, showing that citizens have more confidence in the inspectors and are being educated into availing themselves of the advantages afforded by the department.

Secretary Johnson lauds the work of the purchasing agent, whose office was created last year, and also the licensing of all persons in garbage collection businesses. This was started May 1, 1914.

SUPERIOR ADMITS BIG DEAL BOGUS

Hirsch Friedman Confesses to Forging Checks and Drafts.

False Papers Amount to $13,500; Flight Is Prevented.

Hirsch Friedman, 23, who operated under the name of Edward A. Shaw, Jr., among real estate dealers of the city for a couple of days under pretense of purchasing a site for a factory where raw cotton would be manufactured into whole cloth, was arrested yesterday afternoon following an attempt to cash a draft with an alleged indorsement. The draft for $2,500 was presented at the First National bank, and had the name of E. F. McCausland indorsing it. The latter name looked suspicious to the cashier, and after a telephone conversation with Mr. McCausland, the latter arrived at the bank. Friedman attempted a spectacular get-away but was captured following a chase down Tower avenue by police in a cutter.

Friedman claimed to be the son of Edward A. Shaw, a cotton broker of Boston, Mass. During his stay in Superior he had deposited drafts amounting to $11,000 on Eastern banks, which are now believed to be forgeries, and a bay front property for a site had been selected and option paid for out of checks drawn against these drafts.

Friedman broke down this morning and confessed that his operations had been bogus. He gave his right name, and said he had been married in October in Brooklyn. Later he had gone to Memphis and then to Minneapolis. At the latter city he had a position at $75 per month and at the first of this year, he said, the firm had decided to cut his salary to $65. The cut in wages, he declared, had been such that he was unable to support his wife, and he decided to try something else. He told the police that he intended pleading guilty before the superior court at 2 o'clock this afternoon to the charge of issuing forged checks and papers. The crime is punishable by a penitentiary term of from one to five years. During the forenoon today Friedman has been trying to get in touch with his wife, who is now in Minneapolis.

BODY NOT IDENTIFIED.

Was Taken From Box Car; Will Be Held By Coroner.

Efforts to identify the body of the man who was found dead in a boxcar in Superior on Thursday have failed so far. The car, which was loaded with lumber, was shipped from Heybrook Spur, Wash., on Jan. 7. The authorities are of the opinion that the man may have been thrown into the car at some station along the way and every effort to locate a man missing from towns along the Great Northern railway between there and Superior will be made. The body will be held by Coroner Downs for a few days in hope of gleaning some information as to the man's identity.

RECALL ACTION DELAYED.

Worker Tears Up List of Signers; Petition Now Short of Names.

The filing of the recall petition for the recall of Mayor J. S. Konkel of Superior has had to be postponed. The postponement is on account of the "change of heart" on the part of one of the men who has been circulating the petition. A list in his possession, said to have contained 125 names, was torn into bits, leaving the necessary petition more than 100 names short. It had been planned to file the petitions yesterday, but when it came to bring all of the lists together it was found that the missing signatures had been destroyed. Leaders of the movement claim to have had 1,200 signers.

IRON DIRECTORS ARE RE-ELECTED

Officers of American Manganese Company Hold Hopeful Views.

At the recent annual meeting of the American Manganese Manufacturing company, held in Philadelphia, hopeful views were expressed by those in attendance regarding the iron and steel trade prospects for the present year.

E. E. Marshall of Philadelphia was re-elected president and all the old officers were re-elected. The Western directors comprise four Duluth men; E. J. Donahue, Otto J. Wendlandt, Reiner Hoch and W. H. Locker. The Eastern directors are: E. E. Marshall, W. E. Arnold, W. A. Powell, William Selfridge and A. J. Dickson.

W. H. Locker, who returned yesterday after attending the meeting, said that the directors were gratified over the progress made by the company during the year, considering the unsettled conditions that had prevailed. During the last ten days an active demand for iron and manganiferous products had been met with, and it has been arranged, he averred, to resume operations shortly at the Cuyuna-Mille Lacs mine. The manganiferous ores of that mine had been treated with perfect success. All the ferro-manganese produced has been sold at a good price and there is a demond for all the company can turn out. The furnace at Dunbar, Pa., is at present producing spiegel for which there is also a good inquiry. The placing by England of an embargo against exports of manganiferous ores from that country, and the high freight rates on ore from Brazil to this country have tended to greatly improve the prospects of the American Manganese Manufacturing company, Mr. Locker said.

MORTGAGE CANCELLED

Mrs. Anschutz Will Not Suffer From O'Donnell's Operations.

E. P. Towne and A. O. U. W. Now Only Parties to Suit.

Another chapter in the history of the affairs of C. J. O'Donnell, who has been missing since the Hartman-O'Donnell real estate and insurance agency went to the wall, was concluded today when Judge Cant ordered judgment in favor of Mrs. Emma M. Anschutz and against the grand lodge of the Ancient Order of United Workmen of the state of Minnesota.

The court ordered that a certain bonus mortgage which had been executed by O'Donnell to the grand lodge as security for a $5,000 loan obtained, supposedly for Mrs. Anschutz, be canceled of record. The mortgage stood as a cloud to the title of a piece of Duluth real estate owned by Mrs. Anschutz. A history of the transaction is substantially as follows:

Mrs. Anschutz, a resident of Michigan, secured the services of the Hartman-O'Donnell agency, of which C. J. O'Donnell was manager, to look after her affairs in Duluth. Sometime prior to June 26, 1911, unknown to her, O'Donnell, purporting to act in her behalf, made application to the grand lodge of the Ancient Order of United Workmen for a loan of $5,000.

Prior to this transaction, the Hartman-O'Donnell agency, through O'Donnell, who was representing himself as agent for Mrs. Anschutz, had borrowed $2,500, and a mortgage purporting to come from Mrs. Anschutz was given. This mortgage was later purchased by E. P. Towne.

When the grand lodge advanced the $5,000 and accepted a mortgage on the Anschutz real estate in question, half of the amount was repaid to Mr. Towne and the first forged mortgage was satisfied and canceled of record. The grand lodge was then given a first mortgage on the property.

After O'Donnell had disappeared from the city it became known that the affairs of the Hartman-O'Donnell agency were badly involved, the transaction came to light. Mrs. Anschutz, the owner of the real estate, knew nothing about what had transpired and it developed that she had never authorized any mortgage whatever on the property.

The grand lodge is $5,000 out. Mr. Towne got his $2,500 back and is nothing out. And somebody is $5,000 ahead. A suit is now pending between the grand lodge and Mr. Towne to determine which one is to be the "goat" in the matter.

Three Lake Lines Report Results During Last Season.

Last summer the three lake lines that carry merchandise and package freight on the Great Lakes between Duluth and Buffalo, were compelled by the interstate commerce commission to equip at least one boat of their respective lines with refrigerating apparatus in order that butter, eggs, cheese and poultry might be shipped to the east by lake without danger of spoiling.

The three lines, which are the Western Transit, the Anchor, and the Mutual Transit, have just reported on the business they did in this department last year. The business is less than was hoped for, but it is declared that the beginning of the war Aug. 1, right at the beginning of that part of the season which is usually considered the best, cut into the business and greatly reduced what would otherwise have been a very satisfactory year.

A grand total of 1,909 tons of this perishable freight was carried, the three lines reporting as follows:

	Butter.	Eggs.	Cheese.	Poultry.
West. Transit	327	477	23	20
Anchor Line	323	194	34	23
Mutual Transit	347	133	..	8
Totals	997	804	57	51

Young Teamster Dies in His Room—Autopsy to Be Held.

Coroner C. F. McComb will hold an autopsy this afternoon over the body of Edward Schunard, aged 30, a teamster, who died shortly after 11 o'clock last night in a hotel room at 10 First avenue west.

Schunard was stricken very suddenly. Police were notified by an attendant who heard the man's death struggle but before Police Surgeon I. J. Murphy reached the room he was dead. Little is known of Schunard, who is believed to be unmarried. A search today failed to locate any relatives. The remains were removed to the Crawford undertaking rooms.

THREE CHARTER AMENDMENTS

Proposed Changes May Be Submitted to Voters at April Election.

City Commissioners Will Confer With Charter Commission First.

Voters of Duluth may be called upon to pass upon three charter amendments at the spring election next April. At a conference between the city commissioners, and the members of the city charter commission to be held in a short time the three proposed amendments will be passed upon before being submitted to the voters.

The amendments are being drafted by City Attorney Harvey Clapp. The first is one suggested by City Clerk C. S. Palmer which would give the city the power to make purchases limited to $500 instead of $100 to be made without the necessary delay of thirty days, now taken up by the reading of an ordinance at three successive times. The limit provision, says Mr. Palmer handicaps the city in making numerous purchases.

The second amendment would give the city commissioners the power to make appraisals of benefits and damages in easements and other condemnation proceedings, and the commissioners are of the opinion that such an amendment would save the city considerable money.

The third amendment would give the commissioners power to levy an advance assessment against property where street improvements are to be made. The advance assessment would amount to 80 per cent. This is now provided for in a resolution of the council, but the commission is of the opinion that theor work will be greatly simplified if itis embodied in the charter.

The members of the charter commission who will meet with the city commission and the city attorney to go over the proposed amendments are:

Edward Silberstein, Thomas Olafson, S. A. Foster, T. W. Hugo, John G. Williams, Judge Bert Fesler, T. T. Hudson, City Attorney Clapp, W. E. McEwen, H. H. Phelps, Harry C. Armstrong, C. R. Haines, J. H. Crowley, C. F. Macdonald and M. B. Cullum.

SALOON MAN'S WIFE SUES FOR DIVORCE

Charles Peterson Defendant on Cruelty Grounds; Denies Charge.

Charles Peterson, a well known Duluth saloonkeeper, is defendant in a divorce action which was started today in district court by Buelah Peterson, his wife, who asks for a decree and alimony on the grounds of cruelty. Peterson is contesting the action.

The Petersons were married in this city on Feb. 16, 1905. He is 35 years old and she is ten years his junior. Peterson is engaged in the saloon business at 534 and 631 West Superior street, and according to his wife, is well able to liberally provide for her in the matter of alimony.

In her complaint, she charges that he has been cruel in his treatment of her and that he has continually subjected her to personal indignities, bodily harm and injury. This Peterson denies. He asserts that he has been attentive to her.

In an affidavit filed in court today in opposition to a motion for permanent alimony and suit money, Peterson states that in May, 1914, he sent his wife to Chicago to stay for a short time with her parents, as she complained of being ill. She was supposed, he said, to go into a hospital for an operater later.

Since she has been in Chicago, he says, he has been sending her money and paying her bills but that she has not been near a hospital. He claims that her parents wrote him that she had absconded from their home and she was living apart from them in Chicago. He claims that she refuses to return to Duluth to live with him.

TRADE REVIEW

New York, Jan. 30.—Bradstreet's Weekly Review says: The pendulum of trade continues to swing in the direction of improvement. Starting at a very slow pace three weeks ago, it is now moving at a more satisfactory rate, though even yet the movement is but conservatively steady.

Almost everywhere the disposition is to look on the bright side of things; evidence of spring buying, especially of textiles, continues to multiply; the labor situation, while far from normal, is such that idleness is decreasing; winter weather over a wide area has helped reduce stocks of heavy goods; money is cheaper, commodity prices are higher, funds are plentiful in the cereal-growing regions, winter wheat is in good shape, the South is more optimistic because of the free sales of cotton from warehouses; copper is higher and steel mill operations are being increased.

Bank clearings for the week were $2,978,817,000, a decrease of 21.3 per cent from last year.

Wheat exports aggregated 8,619,869 bushels against 3,717,678 bushels a year ago.

Failures in the United States were 552, compared with 453 in 1914; in Canada, 54 compared with 61 in 1914.

NO REPORT, NO PAY.

But Ghost Will Walk as Usual in All City Departments.

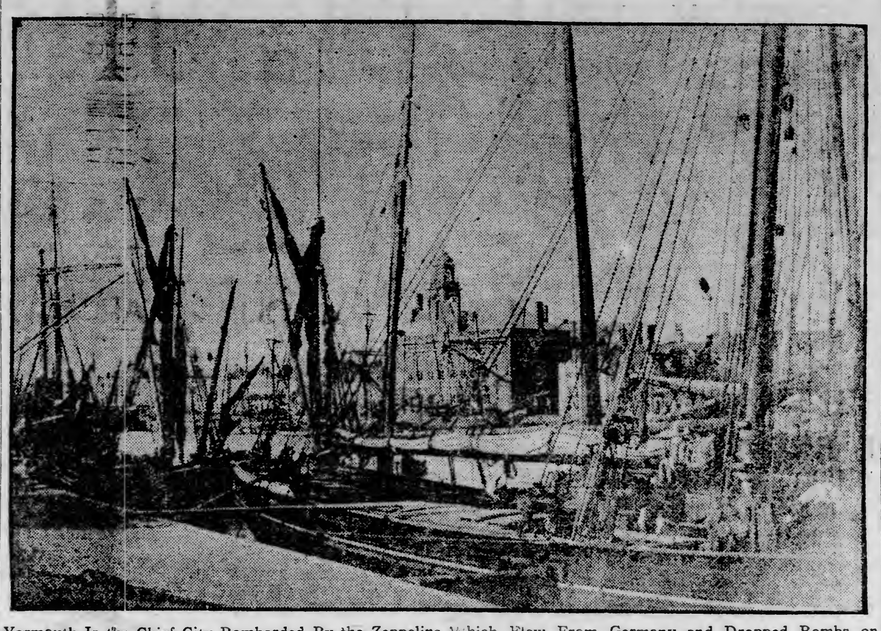

There is joy abundant at the city hall. The joy is caused by the statement made this afternoon that every one of the department reports will be turned over to B. J. Campbell, city auditor before Monday afternoon. Only one or two of the reports are still outstanding and as a result the January "ghost" will walk on the usual day next week.

According to the city charter every department of the city must have its annual report handed to the city auditor on or before the last day of January. The pay of those who fail must be held up. Jan. 31 coming this year on a Sunday will give the belated ones one day additional to complete the delayed instruments.

Corporations holding franchises from the municipality are also compelled by the charter to turn in their annual report before this date. This requirement has been lived up to by practically all of them. The companies have also until Monday afternoon to file their reports.

Exports Prohibited.

THREE PAVING JOBS LIKELY

Council Expected to Act on Them at Meeting Next Monday.

Park Point, Woodland Avenue and East Ninth To Benefit.

Three pavements, the work on them to be started this spring, will be ordered at the meeting of the city commission next Monday afternoon, Commissioner Murchison said this morning.

Resolutions ordering pavements on Minnesota avenue, Park Point, Woodland avenue and East Ninth street are now being prepared, Mr. Murchison said, and these will be introduced at the commission meeting Monday. In addition, a resolution will be introduced urging the construction of a connection to the Commonwealth street sewer at Gary, so that it will not be necessary to break up the proposed pavement when property owners want connections made with their dwellings.

This morning a committee from the Park Point Improvement club met with Commissioner Murchison, and after a consultation, the latter announced that the pavement would be ordered constructed early this spring.

The pavement on Park Point will be a continuation of the roadway built last year on Lake avenue from the bridge to Twelfth street. It will run from Twelfth street across to Minnesota avenue and then down to Thirty-eighth street. It will be of a two-course concrete, forty feet wide, and will cost about $85,000.

The Woodland avenue pavement will be built from Fourth street to the Kent road, a distance of about eight blocks. The roadway will be thirty feet wide, and estimates for its construction have been prepared by the city engineer's office as follows:

Sandstone, $30,848; asphalt, $25,000; bitullithic, $24,800; concrete, $22,840; macadam, $14,865, and bituminous concrete, $23,500.

The pavement in Ninth street, from Seventh avenue to Fourteenth avenue east, will be of crushed rock macadam, and will cost $31,434, according to the estimate.

A sanitary sewer in the alley between Leicester and Kenilworth avenues will also be ordered Monday.

The ordinance appropriating $9,000 for the purchase of road oil during 1914 will receive its second reading.

BROKEN WHEEL WRECKS TRAIN

Cars on C. M. & St. P. Railroad Turn Turtle; None Killed.

Milwaukee, Jan. 30.—Train No. 5 on the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railroad northbound from Chicago to Minneapolis, left the track near Oakwood, about ten miles south of Milwaukee this forenoon, engine and some of the cars turning turtle, resulting in a number of passengers being injured.

It is said no one was killed. Several of the injured were brought to a Milwaukee hospital.

The wreck is said to have been caused by a broken wheel.

Among the injured are: Rev. F. A. Steven, London, Canada; Paul Ballwanz, Portage, Wis., and Mrs. Charles Felges, residence not known; Alvin Stops, St. Paul, Minn., arm broken; Mrs. Alvin Stops, badly bruised; Mrs. Carl Sverzes, Milwaukee, injured internally.

The most seriously injured were rushed to a Milwaukee hospital as soon as possible on a special car.

Railway officials this afternoon say no fatalities among those injured will result.

Later reports say the engine and baggage car remained on the track and that seven other cars were torn from their couplings.

The train is said to have been running at a high speed at the time of the accident.

NO NAVAL CHIEF.

Provision to Create One With Staff Eliminated From Naval Bill.

Washington, Jan. 30.—The real fight over the navel building program began with the reading of the naval appropriation bill at the outset of today's session of the house. General debate had closed and the house met early to expedite the measure without any agreement for a final vote.

The first vote eliminated the provisions to create a chief of naval operations, with a staff of fifteen officers, on a point of order by Republican Leader Mann.

ARGUMENTS MADE IN THEFT CASE

Two Charged With Theft of $3,000 Worth of Copper Anodes.

Taking of testimony in behalf of the defense in the case of the state against George K. Robertson, Northern Pacific switchman, charged with the theft of $3,000 worth of copper anodes from a car of the Northern Pacific Railway company a year ago last November, was begun yesterday. Robertson, and an alleged accomplice, Joseph Regali, who was also indicted on the same charge, are accused of having "spotted" the car at the yard of the Duluth Iron & Metal company Nov. 5, 1913, where, during the same night, the copper was removed by Zigmund Zalk, who claims to have bought the plates from Robertson and Regali. Zalk was a foreman in the employ of the metal company. The copper was hid in the yards and not discovered until about two months ago. Zalk was indicted also but testified for the state.

Two character witnesses took the stand yesterday afternoon to testify as to the good reputation of the defendant, Robertson. They were John Murphy, Northern Pacific yardmaster, and E. C. Chapman. Murphy also testified as a state's witness. Further testimony will be introduced Monday, when it is expected that the case will go to the jury. Robertson denies having had any "deal" with Zalk, such as the latter had testified to, or to have any knowledge of the car in question.

COST OF WORK IS GREATLY REDUCED

In 1913 it cost the city of Duluth $2.27 a cubic yard in its operation at the Point of Rocks, while last year the cost was reduced to $1.84 per cubic yard, according to C. G. Futter, secretary to Commissioner Murchison, in his annual report on the work done during 1914.

The sales for 1914 amounted to $10,071.83, including 1,945 cubic yards sold to the maintenance department for $2,917.89, 727 yards to the Duluth Street Railway company for $982.88, 385 yards on hand, valued at $508.27, and the value of $4,426.05 placed on the work done to open Superior street.

During the year the department spent $7,133.79 for the laborers on the rock pile and for equipment. A total of 3,794.32 cubic yards of rock was crushed during the year, bringing the cost per cubic yard at $1.48.

In an inventory of the equipment and tools owned by the department of public works, Mr. Futter estimates the value at $35,182.74, and the material on hand at $2,659.13.

RUSS RULER ON THE WAR

Emperor Nicholas Gives Expression of His Attitude on Hostilities.

Replies to Telegram From Marshal of Nobility at Moscow.

Petrograd, Jan. 30, via London.—In a telegram to Alexander Samarin, marshal of nobility of Moscow, Emperor Nicholas today gave expression of his attitude toward the war for the first time since his declaration to the assemblage of nobles and military chiefs in the winter palace at the outbreak of hostilities. At that time the emperor declared there could be no peace until every hostile soldier had been driven from Russian territory.

The telegram to M. Samarin, as a member of the Moscow emstvo, was in reply to a message from that body expressing loyalty to the emperor and the fatherland. The telegram in part follows:

"I sincerely thank the Moscow government for its attitude toward me, which to me is a source of deep gratification. Let all sincere sons of the fatherland be united, as were our glorious ancestors, wholly believing that the Almighty will bless the efforts of our heroic warriors and the sufferings of all true sons of the fatherland and give to the powerful fatherland and to the peoples protected by us a brilliant future, destroying at one blow all the enemies of our related Slavs."

One From Grand Duke.

M. Samarin's message to the emperor said:

"We hail your majesty's determination to carry on the war to a full victory, until your majesty's mighty will shall dictate the definite conditions which for Russia in her position as a great world power shall secure peace, which will guarantee her economic independence. The outcome of the war should revive Slavdom and keep for Russia her place in history as the liberator of downtrodden peoples."

Emperor Nicholas has never expressed definitely a leaning towards Pan-Slavism and his telegram to M. Samarin, who is a son of the founder of the Pan-Slavist doctrine, is regarded here as of especial significance. Teutonic influences at the court are quite naturally opposed to Pan-Slavism and contest the idea that this doctrine should be made to any extent one of the bases of the future peace negotiations.

Many Russian liberals heretofore have believed that Pan-Slavism diminished the influence of Russia in western European affairs and that it should not be permitted to influence the foreign policy of the country. Of late these liberals appear to have abandoned this view to some extent, making common cause with the Pan-Slavists in holding that the war should be continued to the end.

NEW RATES PROFITABLE

Water Department Shows An Increase in Earnings, Says Reed.

Tells of Construction Work Planned for Year 1915.

Showing an increase of 7.4 per cent in gross earnings despite a 2½-cent reduction in water rates, the sixteenth annual report of the municipal water and light department, submitted to Leonidas Merritt, commissioner of public utilities, by Manager D. A. Reed, this morning, states that the department is in excellent condition.

"A net surplus of $98,796.46 was realized during the year," reads the report, "after allowing for all expenses, including interest on bonds. This yearly surplus, if continued for a period of twenty-three years, and invested at 4 per cent interest, will completely retire all present indebtedness of the department.

On Jan. 1, 1914, the maximum meter rate charged for water of 17½ cents per 100 cubic feet was reduced to 15 cents, and the minimum rate of 2½ cents for water used in excess of 172,000 cubic feet was raised to 8 cents for all water used in excess of 20,000 cubic feet. During the year, 743 customers have been added to the service, being an increase of 6.6 per cent in the total number. The total pumpage has been reduced from 2,919,194,591 gallons in 1913 to 2,745,050,000 gallons for the year 1914, a reduction of 6 per cent. The total gross revenues for water have been increased from $299,953.00 to $322,041.75, or an increase of 7.4 per cent.

The decreased pumpage of 174,144,591 gallons is due principally to three causes: First, the decreased use of water by the larger customers on account of the raise in rates. Second, a wet summer season during which but little water was used for sprinkling lawns, and third, the effort on the part of the department to decrease the loss from leakage. It is believed that the larger part of this decrease in consumption has been due to the latter reason.

New Work Planned.
Telling of new construction work, the report says:

"Seventeen hundred lineal feet of the present force main leading from the main pumping station to the city's reservoirs has been duplicated the past season. After very careful examination it has been ascertained that all of this force main is in excellent condition, with the exception of that portion which has been duplicated, and another portion on Thirty-fourth avenue east and Fourth street, which has been bypassed by the laying of a 36 inch main on First street connecting the force main on Thirty-fourth avenue east with a distributing main on Thirty-third avenue east.

"The present consumption of the city taxes this force main to the extent of only about one-third of its economic capacity, and undoubtedly it will be many years before the necessity arises for another main for capacity reasons. Being constructed of steel, it is practically impossible for any part or portion to give way suddenly and cut off the entire supply, such as might happen in the case of cast iron pipe. Pits or holes through the pipe will come gradually and will be manifested by a small leak, causing a small amount of moisture or water upon the surface. This, of course, can be easily stopped without shutting off the supply.

Reservoir Capacity.
"The present reservoir capacity of the city is approximately 32,665,000 gallons, sufficient to supply the city continuously for four days, a period of time largely in excess of what would be necessary to make any possible repairs that can be imagined.

"Objection to the duplication of this force main is that it would mean a large increase in the investment of the plant from which no direct revenue would be derived, and from which the increased factor of safety in the operation of the plant would be exceedingly slight. Annual operating expenses would be increased by interest, sinking fund and depreciation charges on the capital invested in the work of duplication in addition to the ordinary repairs and upkeep."

Emergency Reservoir.
Recommendations of the manager for new work are referred to as follows:

"The department has in charge the question of the location and construction of a large reserve reservoir situated at some favorable point that can be drawn upon for water not necessarily of a portable quality, for emergency use in case of large fires or possible interruption of the supply. This would practically serve the same purpose as a duplicate force main and would also furnish pressure two to three times the present pressures in the lower system, and would also serve as a source of supply in case a high pressure fire protection system should be installed at any subsequent date.

"Work contemplated for the coming year consists of a new 1,000,000 gallon reinforced, concrete reservoir for the Woodland system, a new reinforced, concrete bridge to carry the supply main across Tischer's creek, a low pressure gas main on Thirty-ninth avenue west with governor sets, a high pressure gas main to supply the Woodland district, and the installation of a temporary pumping unit to supply a portion of the Woodland water system located in and above Eighth avenue east.

"There has been installed up to Jan. 1, 1915, 8,546 meters covering at the present time about 73 per cent of the total number of services."

THE SATURDAY HERALD YOUR SUNDAY PAPER

SHURICK & SOLHEIM ·· ARCHITECTS ·· 403 TORREY

ATTRACTIVE HOME FOR $3,000.00

We present in the above design a house that will appear attractive on almost any lot. It is a home that possesses many original features in its outside construction, such as flower boxes, etc. The floor plan is ample in size and all the rooms are large and well lighted. The exterior color scheme is a dark brown body with light cream trimmings. The first floor is finished in fir and the second floor in yellow pine. The building could be erected in Duluth for $3,000.00.

HOME BUILDING OUTLOOK IS GOOD

Many Beautiful Homes to Be Erected During the Coming Spring.

The designs which THE HERALD has presented to its readers during the last year, on the Home Beautiful page, have been instrumental, to a certain degree, in creating a demand for homes of originality that can be erected by the average man of moderate means.

Shurick & Solheim, the architects of the homes which have appeared, have endeavored to present numerous different types of buildings, to the Herald's readers—buildings that have a marked degree of individuality in their construction. It is just as cheap and just as easy to erect a home that is attractive as it is to build one that is not.

In a recent interview with the architects, in which the work of the past year was taken up and also the prospective work for the coming spring, Mr. Shurick said, "the past year has been very successful and would have been far better if the war scare had not tied up the money market in the way it did. It left many people without the necessary amount of cash to complete their building. But now that the money loan companies are making loans in the normal manner there should be no reason why the coming year should not be the best time to build. I think that this is the general feeling, and I know that our office has over thirty prospects who have signified their intentions to build their home this year. Being exclusive residence architects I feel that we are in a position to predict conditions along this line for the coming year."

Mr. Solheim, in speaking of the different buildings erected by his firm during the last year, says, "it has been proven to me, conclusively, that the public of Duluth want something different than the old stereotyped class of homes, and we have endeavored to create designs that possess originality. We have just completed a home at Lakeside, 5411 Glenwood street, which has been classed as being the most complete and most attractive house of its kind in the city. During the past week the house has been opened to the public and during that time over 150 people have been out to look it over. This goes to prove that the prospective home builder is becoming educated in architecture and that he now demands a home that he can point to with pride."

Summing up the situation after close study we are convinced that the coming year is going to prove a banner one and that many homes will be added to those already erected in the past.

If This Home Suits You

FIRE AT MISSION ROUTS LODGERS

About 100 Are Driven to Street; Cause of Blaze Unknown.

Fire starting in a pile of rubbish in the basement of the Duluth Gospel Mission building, 17 Lake avenue south, drove nearly 100 lodgers into the street shortly before 8 o'clock last night. The origin of the blaze was not determined, damage being confined to the basement and not totaling more than $30.

Pedestrians were attracted in large numbers, and East Superior street cars were delayed for a few minutes. Apparatus from engine houses No. 1 and 3, with Chief Randall and Assistant Chief Wilson, responded to the alarm.

TWO DYNAMITERS ARE PAROLED FROM PRISON.

Washington, Jan. 30.—J. T. Butler and H. W. Legleitner, two of the men convicted in the Indianapolis dynamite case, have been tentatively paroled from Leavenworth penitentiary by the Federal parole board. Both men were said at the department of justice here to be ill. Paroles for Edward Smarthe and P. P. Morrill, two others convicted in the same case, are under consideration.

Paroles have been refused in all other dynamite cases where applications were made.

CZAR IS ABSOLUTE.

Russian Duma Has Little Authority, Says Rabbi Lefkovits.

The Russian czar is absolute in his country, said Dr. Maurice Lefkovits at Temple Emanuel last evening during his lecture on "Russia, Its People and Institutions." The lecture was the fourth in the series on "Nations at War."

"In spite of the duma, the Russian congress, that country is today an absolute autocracy," said Dr. Lefkovits. "The duma is powerless to introduce legislation which conflicts with the czar's wishes, and he can at any time issue and enforce any decree without the duma's permission or approval.

"The czar as head of the church can invoke both military and priestly power to enforce his decrees. This condition is reflected in a note of melancholy and pessimism which is dominant in the literature, music and all the arts of the Russians.

"Yet there is hope for Russia and it is coming from her own people, the increasing number of 'intellectuals' or so-called revolutionaries, who are waking the people to their rights and to a sense of liberty."

CHILD ACTRESS HAS CIRCLED THE GLOBE

MURIEL COLE.

In Duluth this week is a little 12-year-old girl who has played a score of parts on the stage, and who has circled the globe with theatrical companies.

The little girl is Muriel Cole, who is staying at the Lenox with her mother, and who is here to appear with the Baldwin Players next week.

Although this 12-year-old actress has been in many plays, she says "The Littlest Rebel" is her favorite and that she would like to play it all her life. Perhaps it is the heaviest child's part there is, as "the littlest rebel" is the leading character and is in the play from the first rise of the curtain to the last drop of it, but little Miss Cole learned the part in three days.

Muriel Cole, whose home is in St. Paul, is a member of the Wright-Huntington Stock company that plays in St. Paul and Minneapolis. She attends school, but as the mid-year examinations are over, she is able to fill an engagement in Duluth. She has her school books with her and studies between rehearsals and performances. Her brother is also a member of the Wright-Huntington company.

The little actress played for the motion picture of "The Night Before Christmas" that was taken in Minneapolis recently. This is said to be the first motion picture play made in Minnesota. She has played the part of a 14-year-old girl, Zaza, the shoplifter, in "Maggie Pepper." A few appearances as Australia in "Mrs. Wiggs" were more than enough to satisfy little Miss Cole and she says she does not care to have the experience repeated.

Other plays in which she has taken parts are "Zaza and "Sappho" with Florence Roberts, "The Squaw Man," "Shore Acres," "Snow White," "Salomy Jane" and "Alias Jimmy Valentine."

THIRD PLAY AT LITTLE THEATER

"Op O' Me Thumb" Is Charmingly Presented By Members of the Drama League.

The stage of the Little theater of the Drama league that was a palace terrace in the first play presented on it, and a drawing room in the second play, showed its versatility by becoming a laundry for last evening's performance. A table and chairs and shelves stacked with bundles and boxes of laundry formed an excellent background for the amusing, yet pathetic, little story of poor little "Op o' Me Thumb," a character that was well taken by Mrs. William Pitt Abbott, who lived in a dream world of riches and who, like all dreamers, was misunderstood.

Miss Frances Swift was Madame Didier, in charge of the laundry; Miss Amy Walker was Rose Jordan, who had no patience with the dreams and pretentions of Op o' Me Thumb, or Amanda; Miss Esther Coffin was Clem, who lorded it over the others because of the elegant and numerous funerals she had attended and because she was married, even if her husband did drink; and Miss Marjorie Morrow was Celeste, who demanded to see a "hair-loom," "tarara," or some piece of jewelry before she would believe the wonderful stories told by Amanda of her wealthy suitor.

J. B. Crane was the burly owner of the purple shirt that was the special care of Amanda, who washed it every week during its stay of almost a year at the laundry, and who changed the color of the paper band around it and the tissue paper in the neck. Only an imaginative person like Amanda could call 'Orace Greensmith a 'ero or 'andsome, but to her he was both.

The audience that filled the Little theater thoroughly enjoyed the play with its humor and pathos, and the work of the members of the cast showed genuine ability and careful training.

Mrs. George Morgan rehearsed the play.

Mrs. S. R. Holden announced that Lady Gregory will lecture in Duluth Feb. 11 under the auspices of the Drama league on "Ireland and Worlds Unseen."

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Crane entertained the members of the cast at dinner at the Kitchi Gammi club last evening.

PASS THE FIFTY-FIFTH YEAR OF THEIR MARRIED LIFE

MR. AND MRS. BARTHOLDI HEIMAN.

Last Monday evening relatives and friends of Mr. and Mrs. Bartholdi Heiman gathered at the home of their daughter, Mrs. Louis Hammel, 1423 East Third street, and in an informal way tendered them a reception in honor of the fifty-fifth anniversary of their marriage. Five years ago quite an elaborate observance of the golden wedding of the aged couple was held, but this time, because of their advanced years and their inability to endure too much excitement, the affair was a very quiet one and participated in by only the closest friends.

Mrs. Heimann, nee Loeb, became the bride of Mr. Heiman in Germany five years more than a half century ago, the marriage taking place at a small town, Bingen-on-the-Rhine. They came to the United States in 1854 and settled at Appleton, Wis., where they resided for eighteen years, at the end of that time coming to Duluth, where they have since made their home. They are the parents of two children, Mrs. Louis Hammel of Duluth and Herman Heiman of Los Gatos, Cal.

Mr. Heiman was born at Braunfels, Germany, on Nov. 25, 1832, and is now 82 years of age. His wife is a native of Gennunden, Germany, having been born there on Aug. 26, 1838. She is now 76 years of age. For their years they are quite active and enjoy good health.

OBSERVATIONS

By PEGGY PEABODY

Dancing Has Its Good Points.

Dancing has lately had meted out to it, from the pulpit, a surprising amount of censure. It is a sin, if we are to believe the words of many clergymen, and one that is far-reaching in its effects.

Many of us had forgotten that there ever was a time when dancing was considered wicked by a greater part of the community until the vigorous attacks made by the clergy and others who are constant in their efforts to destroy an innocent pastime. Clergymen of certain denominations view dancing as an invention of Satan.

But there is another side to the question, for, of course, dancing has its good, which more than offsets the evils of the dance halls and socials that are socials in name only. At some of the affairs held at public dance halls, and in higher walks of life, as well, the examples set are enough to cause the reformers to claim that the young are entrapped and are hurried helter-skelter into the very jaws of iniquity.

There are people, however, who prefer sending their children to the dancing school than to the gymnasium. At the dancing school department comes in for a large share of attention, and one of its first rules is that the chaperone is omnipotent and that an introduction entails responsibility. Promiscuous dancing or the attendance of public dances is not thought a matter of good taste and the unwritten conventional law is as binding on the poorer as upon the richer circles of society.

The retarding feature about the teaching of dancing lies in the fact that people of means most often teach their children only such graceful accomplishments, forgetting the lesson of modern American business methods and the inevitable crash that must follow them. Consequently, rich young women, brought up in a sphere of constant adoration, turn most easily when reverses come, to the stage for the wherewithal to earn their daily bread. Their careless educational training has not fitted them for any successful work in the world.

On its worst side we have dance halls in our large cities and towns where drunkenness, profanity and immodesty flourish, but even here the dance is the most innocent attribute of the evening, for even here public opinion or the fear of ridicule keeps a certain code of decorum.

Into the woods my Master came forspent with love and shame.
But the olives they were not blind to Him,
The little gray leaves were kind to Him,
The thorn tree had a mind to Him,
When into the woods He came.

"Into the woods my Master went,
And He was well content.
Out of the woods my Master came,
Content with grief and shame.
When death and shame woo Him last
From under the trees they drew Him last,
'Twas on a tree they slew Him last
When out of the woods He came."

The National Federation of Musical clubs, through its student department, makes an announcement that will interest every musician in America. The plan was evolved at a recent board meeting in Chicago, whereby twelve young American-taught musicians by establishing themselves as capable candidates, may have the privilege of appearing on a program as soloists at the great biennial festival to be held in Los Angeles next June. The selection of such candidates will be made by means of elimination through a series of contests. Judges of local and national reputation will pronounce upon the merits of the contestants.

The three branches of music to be represented are, piano, violin and voice. The candidate must be under 30 years old, and entirely American taught.

The first contest will be held in each state before March 15. The winners in this contest will meet the successful candidates from the other states in the district at a central place for a second contest. The successful candidates in this contest, one in piano, one in violin and one in voice, will have the opportunity of a hearing at Los Angeles.

As the country is divided into four districts, twelve young artists should have not only a chance of a splendid hearing, but also of future engagements, as the federation asks that each club instruct its delegates to select one of the soloists for a recital next year.

The contest in this state will be held in St. Paul. The state vice president, Mrs. George S. Richards of 212 South Sixteenth avenue, Duluth, will furnish more detailed information to any who wish to grasp this opportunity.

LADY GREGORY AND HER PART IN THE CELTIC REVIVAL

LADY GREGORY.

IN LADY GREGORY is found one of the most vivid and interesting personalities that has swung into the world's ken since the Celtic revival that has been so marked a world interest in the first decade of the Twentieth century. This gentlewoman, although she had reached the half century mark in her life's travel before she came into contact with the technicalities and intricacies of the theater, has within twelve years established herself as a talented playwright of Irish plays, has been coach of the Abbey Theater of Dublin and director of the Irish players in their American tour. She it was who made possible the establishment of the Abbey theater in Dublin.

"Mr. Yeats had the vision: I had only the practicality." Thus speaks Lady Augusta Gregory of her part in this great accomplishment. In 1900 there was in Ireland no theater where Irish plays were produced, no actors except those imported from London for short engagements, no home opportunities for training actors, almost no national drama. Now there are all of these and a company of local players so well established in its home theater at Dublin, that it can afford to take a long foreign tour, playing exclusively the product of this recent dramatic movement. It was Lady Gregory who faced the unknown perils of a foreign tour and brought her little company to America two years ago. The work of these home trained actors was marked with a dignity and simplicity and naturalness that made their work one of the rare artistic delights of that year.

Social Experience.

Lady Gregory had wide social experience before she undertook public work on her own account. Her husband, Sir William Gregory, was a favorite in many circles, artistic, literary, social and political. After his death she maintained little salons which enjoyed no small fame of their own.

It was when it came time for her son to go away to school that she returned to Coole Park, County Galway, Ireland, to live. She interested herself in the study of the old Gaelic literature. She translated many of the old epics into English and published many of them. She was the first to write in the Irish dialect, Gaelic descended to English. In speaking of the founding of the Abbey theater at least one of the most important and many loyal Irishmen think the most important advance for Ireland this century, Lady Gregory has said, "It was in 1898 that W. Butler Yeats and I started the National Theater Society. Mr. Yeats had long seen the need of such an enterprise. Ireland had no drama, no actors.

"At first we had to be content with seeing Irish plays, written by Irish writers, performed by alien actors.

"For three years we tried this experiment; then, in 1901, we started with the Irish players, our own actors and actresses, who would always be with us, who would love the work they were doing. The players were recruited from various circles in Dublin, all very young and with the enthusiasm of youth. It was well; for a long time the Abbey theater was not a paying institution, and they received no salaries, acting as a side issue and supporting themselves by other means. But they kept their zest, even when playing to an audience of but ten persons; and later when a bit of prosperity came, we organized the regular company, paying salaries and requiring the whole time of the members.

"Some of the first recruits dropped out, when it came to a choice of the stage as a regular occupation. But the interest was awakened and others came to be trained."

Lady Gregory is in America for a lecture tour this year and her appearance in Duluth will most fittingly be under the auspices of the Duluth Center of the Drama League and her lecture, "Ireland and Worlds Unseen," will be given next month at the recently established Little theater.

It is not necessary to be a member of the Drama league to obtain tickets to Lady Gregory's lecture.

Miss Shesgreen Will Read From Yeats and Hyde Plays.

At the dramatic afternoon of the literature department of the Twentieth Century club, to be held Friday at 2:30 o'clock at the home of Mrs. William Carlson, 6905 London road, Miss Mary Shesgreen will give readings from "The Land of Heart's Desire," by William Butler Yeats, and "The Twisting of the Rope," by Douglas Hyde, and Mrs. Edward C. Kreimer, accompanied by Mr. Kreimer, will give a group of old Irish songs.

"The Land of Heart's Desire" is said to be founded upon stories common among Irish peasantry of brides being stolen by the fairies, or "children of the field," as Yeats calls them. In a fit of anger the unhappy bride in the play wishes for the freedom she has lost and, although she hears the call of home and love, she yields to the luring voice that calls her to the place where "The fairies dance in a place apart, Shaking their milk-white feet in a ring, Tossing their milk-white arms in the air."

"The Twisting of the Rope" is a comedy from the Gaelic. The scene is a farmer's home in Munster, the hero a vagabond bard, who makes use of his gift of song to win a girl from her worthy sweetheart. The lover is driven to desperation in his efforts to rid the house of his egotistical rival. He resorts to stratagem and proves the saying that "he who laughs last laughs best."

INFLUENCE OF BIG AUTO SHOWS

They Are a Clearing House for Designers, Says Turner.

"The influence of the annual national automobile shows is farther reaching than is commonly believed or even admitted throughout the industry," stated M. W. Turner, distributer in this territory for the Haynes, America's first car, in answer to the inquiry of why the automobile and accessory manufacturers go to the enormous expense of exhibiting and supporting the national shows held in New York and Chicago each year. "The individual dealer is affected as much as is the single designer and manufacturer. In a general way the two shows are a veritable clearing house for designers. The shows have a very decided tendency to dictate the designs for the coming season, and they are accepted as authoritative even as are the creations of the Parisian designers of gowns.

"The comparison of the various models on exhibit means much to the far-sighted engineer. It takes but little study to grasp the full importance of the prevailing undercurrent. The tendency of the industry is toward standardization of parts in so far as actual measurements are concerned. Even with such standardization, there is ample room for individual designing as is evidenced in the outward appearance of motors and bodies.

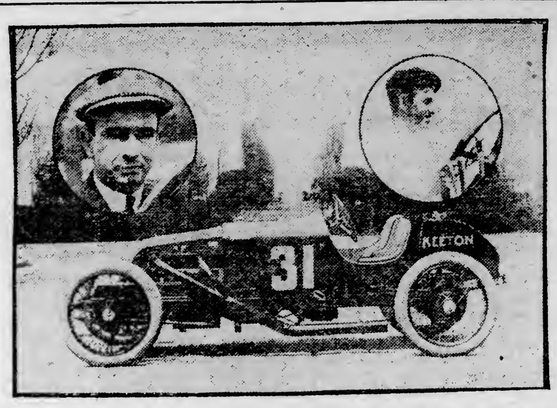

"Since the automobile is no longer regarded as a mere luxury, the business of selling an automobile is being reduced to a logical basis. Time was when all cars were sold more or less during a man's enthusiasm of desire for a car.

"Competition is now playing a more important part in sales and it is far better for everyone concerned that such is the condition. If a car must sell upon a competitive basis it is an assured fact that some careful thought has gone into the building of that car. Putting the sales of a car upon a strictly competitive basis with other cars means that much real engineering skill must be incorporated in the car design and construction.

"Knowing that competition of the keenest sort must be encountered at the national shows, the exhibitor is going to exert himself to the utmost in placing his car before the public eye with the embodiment of such features of intrinsic value that the car may stand the critical comparative inspections of scrutinizing dealers and intending purchasers. Knowing that he cannot afford to miss exhibiting at the national shows without losing prestige and much valuable national attention, the manufacturer must appear with his product.

"In this manner the public is immeasureably benefited and the cause lies entirely within the friendly competition developed by the national shows."

"BOB" BURMAN CHOOSES KNIPPER TO DRIVE KEETON CAR IN BIG RACE

Keeton Car Entered in the Indianapolis Speedway Races Next May—Billy Knipper in Left Insert; "Bob" Burman on Right.

When "Bob" Burman selected Billy Knipper to pilot the Keeton car in the 500-mile race on the Indianapolis speedway, it occasioned very little surprise in the profession as the "speed king" has always regarded Knipper as one of the world's foremost drivers.

Knipper was Burman's team mate when "Wild Bob" drove the Benz in the big speedway classic and when the "monarch of the speedway" decided to enter the Keeton car on his own hook, Knipper was his first choice.

Many will recall Knipper as the winner of the International light car race at Savannah in which he pushed a Lancia car across the line in record time for the event. His performances in the 200-horse power Mercedes and 120-horse power Benz are also well known to followers of the gasoline sport. Knipper also sponsors the best time ever made at the Indianapolis classic for 100 miles for cars of 161 to 230 cubic inches, while his road work in the Chalmers "Blue Bird" will always be remembered.

OVERLAND COUPE ATTRACTS ATTENTION.

A feature of the New York and Chicago automobile shows which proved of particular interest to the fair sex was the attractive new Overland four-passenger coupe. Electrically lighted and started and with easily depressed clutch pedal, adjustable for length, the car has been especially designed to be driven by women.

The coupe offers very simple and convenient control. It has the new Overland switch box located on the steering column just below the wheel, which places the controls for ignition, front, side, tail and interior lights and electric horn within easy reach of the driver's hand. Provision has been made whereby the switches may be locked either on or off. With this construction, the steering column is anchored at two separate points—the frame and the instrument board. The latter fastening, placed so close to the wheel, holds it securely and eliminates all vibration. This feature, with left drive and center control, adds materially to the ease of driving.

The indicating devices including the oil sight-feed, ammeter, speedometer and the carburetor priming button are neately and conveniently arranged on the cowl dash instrument board.

With its long, sweeping curves leading in an unbroken line from the one-piece radiator shell to the beautifully curved cowl, and an entire absence of abrupt angles, the coupe carries out the stream line effect so noticeable in all of this season's Overland models. Curved front windows serve the dual purpose of enhancing the appearance of the car and providing an unobstructed view of the road ahead.

The wide doors are of the non-rattling, weather and dust-proof type and can be locked either from the inside or outside, the idea being to make it perfectly safe for a woman to drive unaccompanied at any time or place. Large seamless windows in the doors can be easily lowered to any point by a convenient device and the large rear window may also be dropped, making the car equally serviceable for summer or winter weather. The windshield, which is adjustable to various positions, is protected from the obscuring effect of rain or snow by a stationary glass visor.

RECORD ORDER.

Twenty Kissels Bought for Los Angeles Taxicab Service.

Among the largest motor car orders ever placed on the Pacific coast is the deal for twenty Kissel Kars for the Los Angeles Transfer company, closed last week by O. B. Henderson, vice president of the Pacific Kissel Kar branch.

The order consisted of fifteen special Kissel limousines and five full touring cars especially equipped for the transfer company by the Kissel Kar factory.

The twenty machines are the first to be put into service by the transfer company in the new taxicab service de luxe, which was inaugurated yesterday. With the twenty cars, Los Angeles now has the finest taxicab service west of Chicago. There is one club in the Windy City which operates six or eight cars, which will compare favorably with the Los Angeles company's machines, but there is nothing else to be compared to the Los Angeles equipment in the entire country, it is claimed, figuring both class of equipment and number of cars in service.

The twenty machines are to be added to as soon as the business warrants it and it is claimed that there will be from thirty to fifty of the de luxe taxies in service before the end of the season.

According to O. B. Henderson, the order established a record on the Pacific coast, as did also the shipment from the factory. Seven freight cars were required for the shipment, which was rushed across the continent from Hartford in ten days.

Henderson claims the Los Angeles service to be the most elegant and complete in the United States. The deal involved almost $60,000, which gives it first place among touring car orders placed on the Pacific coast.

E. H. Barmour, Jr., superintendent of the passengar service department of the company, stated that even to the drivers, the company had gone to the limit to secure the best to be had.

Out of about 250 applicants, thirty were selected to drive the cars and the appearance of the men, their past records five and six years back and their mechanical fitness were all taken into consideration.

Each driver was taken out on the roads and put through a driving test by Barmour and was required to pass an examination before being allowed to drive one of the new Kissel Kars.

EXHIBITS WILL BE BROUGHT HERE

New York and Chicago Auto Displays to Be Seen in Duluth.

Exhibits of the New York and Chicago auto shows during the last two weeks are to be brought to Duluth for the show to be held at the Auditorium during the week of Feb. 22.

W. F. Daly, manager of the local show, announced this morning that several manufacturers have already wired their desire to send special exhibits to the Duluth show and that these will come intact and will be shown in the same manner as at the New York and Chicago shows. number of exhibits to be seen at the show in Minneapolis next week will will also be brought to Duluth, Mr. Daly said.

The show has already received the approval of the Duluth Auto club, and Dr. J. D. Park, president of that organization, announced yesterday that all of the members are enthusiastically supporting those in charge. Mayor Prince has also approved of the week's entertainment at the Auditorium.

The large hall is now being renovated and painted for the automobile show, and next week decorators will start making active preparations. There will be about forty exhibitors, including practically every automobile dealer in the city.

The show will be open every day from 10:30 o'clock in the morning until 10:30 in the evening. A concert orchestra will play throughout the week.

DECORATIONS FOR TWIN CITY SHOW.

Visitors to the Twin Cities' automobile show, which opens today and closes Feb. 6, will have revealed to them decorations designed not so much with the intention of producing an extravagant and pretentious Oriental effect, but rather to produce a setting which will show to advantage the cars exhibited. There will be several novel light effects, and the Armory and annex, where the show will be held, will be transformed into a brilliantly lighted and beautifully decorated Oriental garden scene, with booths lining one side of the promenades.

Dealers have been busy preparing their exhibits, which, it is expected, will be on a more elaborate scale than ever before. Every foot of space has been taken, and many local dealers, in their desire to make the show a success, gave up some of their space to outside concerns which asked permission to be represented.

With the closing of the Chicago show tonight, many exhibits will be shipped by special train and installed in Minneapolis tomorrow.

Officials of the Twin Cities' show predict a record-breaking attendance. "The show is an annual tonic," said one of the officials. "It takes place at the time of year when the buyer is in a receptive mood—when he is beginning to make up his mind regarding the purchase of a first car. The show is of greater value because it gets enthusiasm, resulting in the prospect's determination to buy. At the show the maker displays his car to upwards of a quarter of a million people. Everyone who has seen the maker's published advertisement is interested in seeing the product itself. Furthermore, the goods are displayed to the buyer in the most favorable light, for the buyer is naturally enthused by the number of interested persons around him, who are also intent on purchasing cars. There is always enthusiasm in numbers."

GRANDFATHER OF MOTOR CARS TO NATIONAL MUSEUM.

Probably the best known historic object connected with the automobile industry, the original model Oldsmobile which was constructed several years before the earliest types of motor carriages made their appearance, has been presented by the Olds Motor works to the Smithsonian Institution and will be relinquished to the National museum sometime during the month of February, 1915.

This car is commonly looked upon as being the grandsire of the motor car business. It was designed and built, or laboriously hammered and moulded out of metals in Lansing, Mich., in 1894 and 1895. About the aged relic is woven the romance of more than a quarter of a century of struggles, tragedies and successes which marked the formative period of this great industry. Plans laid as far back as 1885 for building the vehicle, which originally was to have been propelled by steam, did not materialize until the spring of 1894, and experiments during this lapse of time proved to the builders the efficacy of the gasoline motor.

OFFERS SECLUSION OF DRAWING ROOM.

"The Chalmers limousine offers the luxurious seclusion of your own drawing room or study," said E. J. Filiatrault of the Mutual Auto company in explaining his new 1915 model just received. "By mounting the limousine on a special chassis of extra length, the interior is made unusually roomy. The roof is high, giving ample head room. The seats are wide and deep with comfortable auxiliary seats, easily operated.

"The convenience of the Chalmers limousine is one of its distinguishing features. Windows are fitted with French plate glass and are easily opened or closed. Door glasses may be raised or lowered simply by turning a readily accessible handle. A speaking tube of ample length makes easy the transmission of orders to your driver.

"The upholstery and interior trimming are of the finest imported cloths. Two rich finishings are optional—English Bedford cord in a rich shade of brown, or the finest German wolfing cloth in deep blue.

"Appointments include electric dome and shoulder lights, capacious pockets, arm rests, floor cushions to match the interior finish, disappearing auxiliary seats, silk roller curtains on all windows, flower vase, woven silk grabcords and imported toilet case completely equipped.

"All enclosed cars are provided with automatic step lights which illuminate the running board when the door is open. Doors are equipped with Yale locks.

"The driving compartment of the limousine is unusually roomy and finished in the best grade of leather. The driving compartment is epuipped with special heavy leather curtains which are quickly raised or lowered; or which may be removed from the car entirely in pleasant weather. The windshield is a special ventilating and storm-vision type with double glass in the upper half, insuring absolutely clear vision in all kinds of weather."

EIGHT-CYLINDER CAR IN BIG RACE.

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 30.—An eight-cylinder racing car, the first of its kind, will be entered in the next Indianapolis 500-mile race, May 29, if the plans of Arthur Klein, America's youngest registered driver, go through as scheduled. The car is a King, of 270 cubic inches piston displacement, and only 1,750 pounds weight. Its estimated speed is over 110 miles an hour. A similar car, the twelve-cylinder Sunbeam of Jean Chassagne, holds the world's record of 107.95 miles an hour, so that with an experienced driver like Klein, who scored second and third in the Tacoma Potlatch and Montamarathon contests respectively, the King may be expected to make an excellent showing.

THESE CARS CAN BACK AS FAST AS THEY GO AHEAD

It has been proved in the present European conflict that on touring cars serving for reconnoitering purposes a highly geared reverse and a duplicate steering set, allowing the car to be driven stern first, are most valuable adjunsts. On this type of car there are two reverses, a low and a high, and a duplicate set of spark and throttle controls on the emergency reverse steering wheel. For raiding purposes this type of vehicle is invaluable. It can run into positions which the driver of an ordinary car would consider extremely dangerous, and can get away again with ease. The amazement of the attached troops is great on finding that the attacking car can move astern as fast as it has came ahead.

WHAT FORMER PRESIDENT TAFT THINKS OF THE FORD FACTORY

William Livingston, President Dime Savings Bank, Detroit; William Howard Taft, Ex-President of the United States, and Henry Ford, Photographed in Mr. Ford's Office.

"The Ford factory was a revelation to me. It's wonderful, wonderful—but no more wonderful than Mr. Ford himself," declared William Howard Taft, former president of the United States, on his return from a visit through the Ford automobile plant.

"I was amazed at the magnitude of the establishment; I can almost hear the wheels buzz and machinery hum now," he added. "What a splendid organization this is that has developed in a decade."

STAGELAND

IN A RECENT interview, Miss Bertha Kalich, the actress, expressed the belief that the motion picture craze would ultimately bring a great revival in interest in the drama. She took the ground that the "movies" reach millions who have never before come within the reach of the theater, and argued that after seeing good plays enacted on the screen the spectators would become discriminating judges, and would ultimately demand to see the same plays produced on a stage and hear the actors speak.

The motion picture theaters, she claimed, would become the field from which the drama would draw, instead of vice versa. Up to the present, the "movies" have taken their pick of the plays of the speaking stage and filmed them. The photoplay has great advantages in staging, and it not restricted in any way as to settings or scenery. It has all of Nature to choose from. On the other hand it can appeal only through the eye, and not through the ear. Miss Kalich's belief was that the motion picture patrons would ultimately demand to hear their favorites speak, and that from the best of the motion picture scenarios, dramas would be written.

But meanwhile the "movies" continue their way, with no sign of the craze abating. Some of the old, established playhouses of New York are turned into picture houses this season, and while their owners are not finding fortunes in the pictures, it at least serves to keep them from remaining "dark" and piling up rental and interest charges.

The stagnation that struck the theatrical world as a result of the war, at least had the effect of puncturing the inflated salaries of vaudeville performers.

The cost of vaudeville acts to managers has been cut from 30 to 50 per cent. Acts that were formerly paid $1,000 a week, are glad to book now for $600. The old $500 acts are not hard to find at $250 and $300. Those performers who had long time contracts may be still drawing their old time salaries, but a vaudeville bill that would have cost a manager $1,800 or $2,000 a week, six months ago, can be booked now for $1,200 to $1,400.

The necessity of bidding for the services of recognized dramatic and musical comedy stars, drove vaudeville salaries to a figure that was ruinous to many managers. Whether they will return to such figures when conditions improve, remains to be seen.

The most important event of the week theatrically in New York was the advent of Granville Barker, the English manager and producer, who was at one time offered the directorship of the New Theater and refused it. Mr. Barker is looked upon as a very capable man, of high ideals, and of very decided opinions regarding what the drama should stand for. He brought with him his English company, and the first bill consisted of George Bernard Shaw's comedy "Androcles and The Lion," and Anatole France's play, "The Man Who Married a Dumb Wife." This was the first presentation in English of the Anatole France play.

Many towns and cities are anxiously awaiting a decision what is to be the ultimate fate of certain theaters which have been fighting each other for patronage in each place under the late conditions, now about to find a solution in the reconciliation of the two big booking offices. As near as can be determined, the high-class attractions will be allotted to the playhouse which has been making the best record for receipts during the fight, the theater to which the public of each town has gravitated more or less by natural preference. It now looks as though there would be a return to the double circuit plan of bookings. In a town with, say two theaters, one will get the $2 attractions and a new circuit will be established for the second houses, where the prices will be probably one-half and where the less expensive attractions will be booked. Where there is a surplus of theaters beyond this, some houses doubtless will be converted to vaudeville and motion picture places for the exhibition of feature films. Negotiations are still going on between the Shubert and Klaw & Erlanger interests, and it is claimed that nothing definite has been decided on. But inside indications point to the scheme outlined here.

Duluth is not directly affected.

The third attraction at Duluth's Little theater was successfully presented last evening. During the coming spring a more ambitious offering will be attempted. Hitherto only one-act plays have been offered, but a full length drama will be given, and a larger theater secured for its presentation. The play has not yet been chosen, but several are being considered, any one of which would be interesting.

SCENE FROM "MARY JANE'S PA,"
To Be Presented By the Baldwin Players All Next Week at the Lyceum.

"HE IS COMING"

Being An Unusual Little Story of a Theatrical Grafter Who Nearly "Got Away With It."

(By Homer Barton.)

The night is black and very hot.

The sleeping station agent coughs and looks at the clock. "She's due," he mutters, and a moment later hears the whistle of a distant locomotive.

The rumble of a train coming out of the sultry distance grows louder, the glitter along the rails—from the headlight—and local No. 13 stands panting before the Rosedale depot.

A rattle of milk cans being loaded, a cry of "All aboard!" and amid clouds of steam No. 13 plows on into the darkness—leaving behind two things—a man and a trunk.

The next morning dawned with a beautiful sun, which gleamed for a while upon the dew-covered hills to the east. The landlord of the Rosedale hotel arose, dressed and opened the front door to get a breath of the life-giving summer air. He stared at a yellow bill pasted on the pump:

"He Is Coming."

"Huh!" muttered the landlord, and closed the door.

Farmer Jones went to feed his horses and upon his barn door was a bill that read:

"He Is Coming."

"Funny," grunted Farmer Jones.

When the good folk of Rosedale sallied forth that day they found the courthouse, the postoffice and nearly all the stores simply plastered with yellow bills which read:

"He Is Coming."

"Darn it! Who's a-comin'?" growled Bill Squagpole, the marshal. "I'll hev to keep my weather eye open, I reckon."

When the deacon of the Baptist church found "He is Coming" pasted on the pulpit, excitement reached fever heat.

Men lounging about the public places tried to solve the mystery.

Bill Squagpole swore before a crowd at the Rosedale hotel that as he is marshal they could all look to him for protection from any swindle.

"It's some durn show feller," says Bill.

A week has passed.

That night is very black and very hot.

No. 13 pulls in and pulls out, leaving behind them a man—but no trunk.

It is a small man in a flannel suit. He carries a bundle of paper under his arm. He hurries up the street.

The stranger took supper at Rosedale hotel, but no one seemed to notice him. He was in earnest conversation with the man who owned the town hall later on. Then he vanished.

The next morning dawned with a beautiful sun.

There where the old bills had been were new ones, which read:

"He Is Here—Opera House Tonight."

Once more the town was thrown into a fever of curiosity. Everybody asked the same question a thousand times: "Who is HE?"

The opera house owner was plied with questions, but he only knew that his hall had been rented for that night by a little man in a flannel suit.

At 7 o'clock the Rosedale opera house was besieged by a mob of curious people.

The doors were thrown open at 7:30 and the crowd rushed in.

"At last!" they murmured, when they saw the little nervous man go back on the stage.

"Ah!" The curtain rose slowly, propelled by the small boy.

Eager necks were stretched; eyes bulged and then—a mighty hush!

There in the center of the stage was a yellow card which read:

"He Is Gone."

All were thunderstruck except Bill Squagpole. He made a dash out at the door and down the street as fast as his legs would carry him. He heard the whistle of No. 13. She was pulling in. On flew Bill. The train stopped and started on again.

Bill saw a little man in a flannel suit standing on the back platform as the train pulled out.

"Stop! Darn ye! Stop, in the name of the law!" yelled Bill.

"Go to grass, you big rube!" shouted the little man, and he laughed in glee.

Just then the train stopped and began to back in on the siding to let a special go by.

There was a fight in the dust.

The next morning dawned with a beautiful summer sun, which gleamed upon the dew-covered hills to the east and then sent a brilliant ray of sunshine upon the front door of the jail.

A crowd of Rosedaleites stopped and looked, rubbed their eyes and looked again. There upon the jail door was a yellow card on which was scrawled:

"He Has Come Back—Bill."

PROMISES OF PRESS AGENTS

"MARY JANE'S PA" AT THE LYCEUM

Baldwin Players Choose Comedy in Which Figman and Dixey Starred.

"Mary Jane's Pa" will be the attraction at the Lyceum theater all next week.

Duluth got its first glimpse of Mary Jane and her "Pa" two or three years ago when Max Figman and his company opened their tour in that delightful comedy at the Lyceum theater.

The play had been successfully used by Henry E. Dixey for one season when Mr. Figman secured the rights to it, and Duluth saw the first performance with Mr. Figman in the title role. It was a "big night" at the Lyceum theater, being one of the few "first nights" Duluth has enjoyed, for while the play was not new, the company was.

This is the play that the Baldwin Players have chosen for next week at the Lyceum. It is a light comedy drama of the type of "The Fortune Hunter" or "The Traveling Salesman," although widely different from them in plot. The plot is a simple one, without any "problem" and an effort has been made to retain a simple, wholesome, atmosphere. The play is generously supplied with comedy situations, and there is a human touch to it that has made it one of the big sucesses of recent years. It has just been released for stock purposes, and the Baldwin Players are among the first to secure stock company rights to it. It has been seen in Duluth but once before and then at the usual road company prices.

The story, in brief, deals with a young wife in a small country town. Her husband is a lovable type of man, but wholly impractical and totally unable to cope with the problem of making a living for himself, his wife and his little daughter. He has been the publisher of a small country newspaper, but faced with a load of debt, and feeling the struggle to be hopeless, he runs away in a moment of weakness, leaving his wife to take up the struggle alone.

The wife is a heroic soul, and falls to in a most businesslike and efficient manner. She takes charge of the newspaper and pulls it out of bankruptcy. She establishes it as a paying business. The husband returns after several years, chastened in spirit, but still "broke." He applies to his wife for work, and is given a position on the paper. What follows forms a most interesting, absorbing and appealing story. Tears and laughter are closely intermingled in "Mary Jane's Pa" and the sentiment is so wholesome and rings so true that it has left audiences everywhere smiling through rather misty eyes.

The Baldwin Players will have a notable addition to their ranks next week. Little Muriel Cole, a clever child actress from Minneapolis, will be here to play the part of Mary Jane. This little miss was seen with the Baldwin company during their fall engagement in "The Littlest Rebel" and scored an emphatic hit at that time. She is immensely popular with the patrons of the Minneapolis stock company, but Mr. Baldwin was able to secure her services by choosing a week when the Minneapolis company was presenting a play with no child's part in it. Miss Dorothy Shoemaker will be seen as the wife, and Homer Barton as Mary Jane's Pa.

The usual performances will be given next week, with matinees Sunday, Wednesday and Saturday. Monday night the performance will be under the auspices of the Samaritans who have bought all the seats for the evening.

NOTED HYPNOTIST TO BE AT ORPHEUM

Pauline Will Head New Bill of Vaudeville Next Week.

Pauline, sensational demonstrator of hypnotic suggestions, who has been creating a sensation with his remarkable exhibitions of hypnotic power in almost every part of the world during the last two seasons, is to be the special feature of the coming week's bill at the Orpheum. To name all the things that Pauline does on the stage in the way of hypnotic suggestions, would require a column. Some of the feats have been performed by other hypnotists, but the majority of the things he does are entirely original and of the most sensational nature. His act on the stage causes either amusement or profound wonderment, as along with his various experiments he makes his subjects, which he chooses from the audience, perform many amusing things. As an example of the many extraordinary things he does, it is said he can control the flow of blood in the arm of a subject, causing the blood to recede from the hand, leaving the hand as white as paper, then at word of command cause it to flow back again. Pauline states that some call his demonstrations science, while others call it fake, but claims he does not care what they call it. But one fact they all agree upon is that the act is exceedingly interesting from start to finish and one of the most extraordinary acts in vaudeville..

Another feature of the bill of more than ordinary importance will be Lamberti, "The Master Musician," presenting living portraits of Liszt, Hollman, Louchin, Strauss, Gounod and several other well-known composers. Lamberti possesses two distinct talents, he is a musician of the highest type, playing several different kinds of instruments, and is also one of the best-known protean artists. In his musical offerings he makes up as the exact counterpart of the composer whose music he plays, using the instrument commonly used by the composer. As Liszt, Lamberti plays the piano, as Hollman the instrument is the cello, as Joachim he plays the violin.

Mindell Kingston, deemed one of the most attractive and talented women in vaudeville, now appearing in a comedy skit with George Ebner, a comedian of recognized ability, will add another delightful number consisting of songs, dances and comedy.

A miniature Wild West show will be the offering of Prelle's troupe of canine actors, who introduce a little playlet entitled "The Robbery of the Overland Mail," going through the entire act in true wild-West style without the aid of their trainer.

Bill Dooley and Evelyn in an offering entitled "Vaudeville of Today," introduces a varied assortment of accomplishments, singing, dancing, character impersonating, lasso spinning bicycle riding, in fact they are almost a whole show themselves.

The "Jaunts and Journeys" pictures will depict a new series of adventures and travel.

KEOUGH SISTERS
NOW AT THE NEW GRAND.

COMEDY PLEASES GRAND PATRONS

Venetian Four in "A Night in Venice" Will Head New Bill.

Not in many moons has the caprice of booking and arranging acts at the Grand resulted in such a satisfactory vaudeville entertainment as the present excellent bill now current at that playhouse.

Al Lawrence is corralling laughs by the score with his stories, impersonations, travesties and monologues. He possesses a wonderful talent for mimicry and his impersonations and characterizations make a strong appeal to all classes of vaudeville patrons.

Dainty, pretty and witty are the Keough sisters. Gowned in masterpieces of the modiste's art, they offer a repertoire of new songs and clever dances interspersed with plenty of witty chatter.

Davitt and Duvall in their comedy skit, "Holding Out," a travesty of the stage, fill twenty minutes to the brim with fun and hearty laughs. Their material is fresh and of a diverting nature, that is a sure gloom-dispeller.

Daring and thrilling are the hazardous feats of the four Castrillions, who accomplish many hair-raising stunts with a grace and ease and utter indifference to consequences.

The Hearst-Selig News contains many interesting scenes, chief among which are views of Harry K. Thaw at his New Hampshire residence, where he has been making his home most of the time since his sensational departure from Matteawan. Scenes from the war zone of both Mexico and Europe also add interest.

Among the photoplays are: The two-reel story of college life, "Dear Old Girl," with Francis X. Bushman and Beverly Bayne, in the leading roles; one of the Helen Holmes stories of railroad life, "The Leap From the Water Tower," and a comedy, "Countess Swedie."

On Monday the entire new bill is claimed by the management to surpass any bill seen so far this season at this popular playhouse. A distinct musical novelty is offered by the Venetian four, harmonious blenders of music, in "Night in Venice." Playing only on string instruments, their act is entirely different from anything presented heretofore in vaudeville. A complete scenic equipment is carried as well as elaborate electrical effects to give the numbers atmosphere.

Holden and Harron with their new comedy skit, "The Messenger and the Lady," promise to score heavily as laugh producers. Possessing excellent voices, they add to their witty chatter a repertoire of comic songs and parodies.

Park, Rome and Francis are a trio of singers and comedians of merit, while Selbini and Grovini are a European novelty duo.

Among the photoplays will be the Broadway star feature, "The Sage Bush Gal," in three reels; one of the Ollve stories, "Olive in the Madhouse," and a comedy, "The Laundress."

recent interview was quoted as follows:

"I consider that 'The Idler' is perhaps the best thing I have ever done. I am glad for that reason the Box Office Attraction company has selected it for reproduction in the shifting, vivid drama of the silent stage, and which lends itself to a world of expression unknown on the speaking stage. 'The Idler' as a speaking play was a dramatic sensation on two continents, and I am eager to witness the moving picture presentation." The plot in a paragraph is as follows:

Madly infatuated with the wife of his friend, the idler, a young Englishman of wealth, is ready to go almost any length to win her for his own. Through his knowledge of incriminating circumstances involving the husband, he attempts to persuade her to elope with him. At this point the husband intervenes, and a denouement ensues, startling in its dramatic intensity.

"The Idler" will be at the Rex Monday and Tuesday.

Wednesday and Thursday at the Rex the distinguished emotional actress, Florence Reed, will make her first appearance before the camera in a five-part feature based on Henry Jones' thrilling and world-famous drama, "The Dancing Girl." Miss Reed numbers among other successes such Broadway triumphs as "Seven Days" and "The Yellow Ticket," and is ideally suited to the role of beautiful Drusilla, Quaker and dancing girl, demure little village maiden, and notorious belle of London's Bohemia and favorite of the duke of Guiseberry. The production has been splendidly mounted and a cast of well-known actors support the gifted star.

"A city chap once bought a hen;
He set her on some eggs, and then,
To see how many chicks she had,
He broke the eggs and found them bad."

This is one of the many verses written by Hi Judd, postmaster of a little country village, to amuse the old cronies in "It's No Laughing Matter," the Bosworth-Paramount photoplay coming to the Rex Friday and Saturday. And Hi Judd, the merriest, kindliest, fattest and cleverest of men, who holds one laughingly, tearfully, intently through this comedy-drama, is none other than Maclyn Arbuckle, the Maclyn Arbuckle that every theater-goer has laughed at and with.

The SUNBEAM

The demonstration of how man may exercise his dominion over wild beasts will be shown in a three-reel feature, "In Tune With the Wild Beasts," in three parts, which will come to the Sunbeam tomorrow only. The story has to deal with a British missionary who, together with his wife and little daughter, are stationed in South Africa. They live in a negro village where the natives treat them very kindly and where their eminence as white people give them a certain dignity and prestige which makes their life very comfortable. Learning one day through the mail that he has fallen heir to £50,000, Robert Wayne, the missionary, determines to leave for England with his family. One of the playmates of Edith, the daughter of the missionary, has been a negro boy, the son of the chief of the village. They were great chums, so after the wagon departs, he steals away from the village and taking a short cut is enabled to strike the party in camp. On the way he overhears of a plot to capture the party by a large band of natives. Before he reaches the camp the treacherous chief of the camp had visited the whites and persuades Wayne to go to the assistance of a wounded native, thus reducing the fighting force at the wagon and making the capture much easier. After walking a short distance from camp, Wayne is struck down by an assagai, after which the chief rejoins the party and they attack the whites, kill the negro boy and wound the defenders. The chief of the friendly tribe, whose son has run away, goes in search with a party of villagers and they arrive at the wagon camp just in time to rescue the party. When Wayne recovers consciousness he goes back to the burned wagon and he believes the entire party to have been destroyed.

Insane with grief and horror, he staggers into the jungle and becomes a wild man—fearless and disregardful of the dangers of wild animals. Mrs. Wayne and her daughter, accompanied by Mrs. Wayne's brother, are discovered seventeen years later in England, believing that Wayne was taken by the natives. Robert Wayne becomes a hairy, powerful wild man, but through Capt. Jones, a British sportsman, who is hunting in Africa, he is reunited with his family.

GOSSIP OF THE RIALTO

Grace George evidently was not satisfied with the cast which had been gathered for her new play, "Half a Bride," for, with the exception of Leslie Faber, she has dismissed all the rest, numbering twenty-four.

* * *

"My Lady's Dress," which has been playing at the Blackstone, Chicago, has closed. It is said that the Blackstone, which has not been successful since its opening, will, on account of the recent agreement between the Shuberts and Klaw and Erlanger, be kept dark. Joseph Brooks, under whose auspices "My Lady's Dress" was being produced, may send the play on tour again next season.

* * *

It is said that Cohan and Harris will establish revues of the old Weber and Fields' type as the permanent policy of the Astor theater, New York.

Eugene Walter is said to be busy with a new sketch for Holbrook Blinn's vaudeville venture.

March 1 will see the production of the new revue under the management of Lew Fields. Its title will be "Hands Up," and those responsible for its book and music are to be Ray Goetz, Grant Clark and Bert Grant.

* * *

Oliver Morosco has relieved himself of the lease of his Majestic in Los Angeles. It was at this house that many of his successes received their try-out.

Harry Pilcer having taken unto himself a new dancing partner, Gaby has gone and done likewise. His name is Carl Randall, and he has recently been with Emma Carus on this side of the water.

* * *

Al Shean, who was with "The Candy Shop," which recently closed down in Chicago, has gone into vaudeville again, having reformed his old partnership with Charles L. Warren. The two successfully inaugurated their return to the two-a-days in Chicago during the past week. Their sketch is "Quo Vadis Upside Down," their old vehicle.

Mollie McIntyre, late star of "Kitty Mackaye," which has abandoned its tour, will appear in vaudeville soon in Evelyn Blanchard's sketch, "The Fiddle Told."

* * *

Emma Calve, the noted operatic star, who recently landed in this country again, is said to have been approached by vaudeville agents, who offered her something tremendous in the way of a weekly stipend for her signature to a contract for appearance in the two-a-days.

* * *

A so-called "parlor revue" is said to be within the intentions of the Shuberts for the Princess theater in New York. The revue is to be about half an hour in duration, and is to be preceded by a curtain-raiser to bring the entertainment up to the required length. It is to follow along the lines adapted by James Barrie for his new revue.

* * *

G. M. Anderson (Broncho Billy) has engaged May De Sousa, May Boley, Anna Wheatley and George Marion for his show at the Gayety theater in San Francisco.

Forbes Robertson's leading woman, Laura Cowie, recently fractured one of her legs by a fall during a performance at San Francisco. Her roles are being played by her understudy.

There is some talk of playing "The Bear," by Tchekoff, this season. The last of his plays to be done in the United States was "The Swan Song," with Whitford Kane in the pricipal role. This was done in Chicago last season.

The "Anatol" episode of "The Farewell Supper," which Doris Keane and John Barrymore did with such charm and delight at the Little theater, New York, some time since, has been selected by Lillian Keller for a vaudeville debut. Miss Keller was Ethel in the "Peg o' My Heart" production last season.

* * *

"The Love Thought" is the name of a new one which Belasco will utilize for the purpose of starring Janet Beecher later in the season.

* * *

Raymond Hitchcock will have a new musical play for next season, which George M. Cohan will write for him.

After a short tour Annie Russell has closed her season in "His Royal Happiness." It is said that she will be seen in Paul Kester's "Friend Hannah" before the season is ended. She has appeared with success in "Friend Hannah" across the water.

"Inside the Lines," J. Fred Zimmerman's new play, is being spoken of highly by those who witnessed its premiere at Baltimore recently. It is said to be slated for metropolitan production after a little revision.

THE WORLD'S DEBT TO BELGIUM

To Kind Hearts in America, To American Women Especially, From Mrs. Humphry Ward—Distinguished Author Calls Over the Sea to Her Thousands of Known and Unknown Friends to Succor the Devastated Land.

I have been asked to say a few words in aid of the noble campaign which is being carried on by the commission for relief in Belgium.

What a joy it would be if any words of mine could help—could touch any pitiful soul that has not yet been touched, and so bring fresh support, however small, to this attempt to soften the suffering of a whole people—the unexampled suffering of a heroic nation!

Here in England we have seen thousands of Belgian refugees, and done our best to house, feed and clothe them; and these refugees will be still arriving for some time to come. Holland is in the same case.

But the main bulk of the Belgian population remains in its own country, its devastated and famine-stricken country, overrun by a huge foreign army that needs all its efforts to feed itself, and can do nothing for the starving Belgians themselves. Rich and poor are equally destitute. Capital and property have been swept away in all directions; the credit system has been destroyed; manufactories are closed; 80 per cent of the population is unemployed.

In ordinary circumstances Belgium, a small country with a crowded manufacturing population, imports a large proportion of her food. The imports of food have ceased; the manufactures which paid for them have ceased. To read the account given by the officials of the American commission of the weekly arrival of the American foodships with their stores, during the five weeks which have elapsed since the commission began its labors, is at once heart-rendering and heart-inspiring.

So great a need!—so warm-hearted an effort to meet it!—and such gigantic effort still needed before it can be at all adequately met, before the starving and shivering people throughout these Belgian towns and villages who realize what America wants to do for them can be reached and comforted by the crusade of pity you have so vigorously begun.

Every month, simply to keep people alive, to prevent women and little children from dying of hunger in the center of this old and wealthy Europe, foodstuffs—wheat, flour, bacon, lard—will have to be poured into Belgium and distributed through the country. The Germans will do their best, one is thankful to hear, to promote this distribution, and so to ward off the appalling national tragedy which is threatened by their occupation of Belgium and by the ruin of war.

Only America can render this great service to humanity. The belligerent nations are powerless. America has now the opportunity, the privilege of stepping in—of feeding the hungry and helping the helpless. How many Americans in the time of peace must have spent happy days in the beautiful Belgian towns—delighting in that marvelous town architecture which testifies to the genius and prosperity of the low countries through many generations. Some of those towns are now in ruins; whole tracts of country are desolate; the Belgian government is in exile; the brave king of a brave nation is fighting in the field.

But let Americans remember what the world owes, what many of them as travelers have owed to the treasures of Ghent, Bruges, Antwerp and Brussels; let them remember the cry of old—"Inasmuch as ye have done it to the least of these My brethren, ye have done it unto Me"—and let them take up this golden task of comforting, as they so well know how.

To prevent the dire extremities of famine in the Belgian towns and villages; to feed suffering women and children; to soften at least the physical misery of those who are crushed both by the personal anguish of bereavement and by the agony of seeing a hostile army in possession of their country—this is the task before America—generous and pitiful America.

We English people, who, while caring for our own thousands of refugees, can do nothing ourselves for the Belgians still at home—turn with entire confidence to your great country; we know that you will take this business on your strong shoulders and see it through.

Only let there be no delay.

Give now!—help now! For human lives are at stake—and the winter days are cruel in a swept and ruined land!

Yours very truly,
MARY A. WARD.

First of Concert Series.

Last Tuesday evening the first of a series of concerts to be given for the benefit of St. Mark's A. M. E. church, took place at the church and was most successful in point of excellence and of attendance. These concerts are given under auspices of the "One More Effort" club. A chorus of twenty-five voices sang the opening number, Donizetti's "O Italia," Miss Reba Doctor gave a piano solo, and Mrs. Ethel Richardson sang one of Chadwick's numbers, accompanied by Miss Elmora Rodney. Mrs. Evans of Superior, Miss Clark and Mrs. Campbell gave literary numbers. A playlet, "Get Off the Line," by Henry Williams of Duluth was quite a hit. "Swanee River" by Mrs. Minnie Adams and a chorus closed the program. Rev. Mr. Holt, the pastor, developed a fine chorus by his training of the singers.

BREAKS NECK WHILE USING HEAD AS RAM.

Stockton, Cal., Jan. 30.—Using his head as a battering ram in an effort to make a record on a strength-testing punching machine in a saloon, George Keller broke his neck yesterday and died soon afterward.

Keller first tried right and left hand swings on the machine, but was not satisfied. He then backed away ten feet and with a running start butted the leather pad. The registering needle recorded 1,500 pounds.

Modes of Onset of Tuberculosis

THERE is a growing opinion among physicians that the majority of us, at least 95 per cent of the population, become infected with the bacilli of tuberculosis in infancy and carry to our graves latent, or smouldering, foci of the disease. The germs become walled up in the lymph glands in the neck or the back of the chest. Pathologists find these tubercular lymph nodes in the great majority of necropsies, no matter what the cause of death.

Infancy, then, is the time of infection, and youth is the time when the latent infection is most liable to become active. From 15 to 20 years of age the individual seems most susceptible to pulmonary tuberculosis, for some unknown reason.

Now, it is a serious error to think that cough and pain or soreness in the chest are essential symptoms in an early case of tuberculosis. Many a time neither cough nor chest symptom of any kind will be noticed by the patient or her friends. The modes of onset are very deceptive to the untrained observer.

1. With Symptoms of Dyspepsia and Anemia.—This is common in young girls. There is vomiting or belching of acid, sour fluid, palpitation of the heart and marked anemia. The periodic function is diminished or absent. Weakness increases. Afternoon fever appears. Nothing short of repeated and thorough examinations of the entire bared chest will point out the true explanation of the symptoms.

2. Onset With Pleurisy.—A simple dry pleurisy develops, painful, but not as a rule disabling. Or there may be pleurisy with effusion—watery accumulation in the pleural cavity. The patient, instead of making the expected recovery in due course, remains weak and continues more or less feverish after the pleurisy is gone. As nearly one-third of all cases of pleurisy are really tubercular, it is obvious that the patient should consult his doctor at intervals for some time after the slightest attack.

3. Onset With Symptoms Like Malaria.—Chill, fever, sweat, in repeated paroxysms, exactly like true malaria, may signify beginning tuberculosis, and in places where true malaria exists such symptoms have often proved deceptive.

4. Onset With Laryngitis.—Tuberculosis of the larynx—huskiness of the voice, pain on swallowing, persisting over a reasonable few days, should be considered possibly a sign of lung trouble. The laryngitis may precede the appearance of lung symptoms by months.

5. Onset With Bronchitis.—A diagnosis of "acute bronchitis" is always fraught with uncertainty. The patient believes himself affected with a "cold," declares he has often had just such a "cold" before, and probably is a chronic sufferer from "catarrh" of the nose and throat. Yet in this way the majority of cases of tuberculosis appear.

6. Onset with Hemorrhage.—Sudden coughing up of fresh blood is so suggestive of tuberculosis of the lung that everyone's suspicions are at once aroused.

Questions and Answers.

R. L. writes: What is "empyema of the antrum" and how should it be treated?

REPLY.

Abscess or pus-formation in the cavity of the upper jawbone, resulting from inflammatory trouble in the nose or from infection entering through the root of a tooth. It usually requires surgical treatment by a nose and throat specialist.

* * *

Miss X writes: Is neuritis of the shoulder different from rheumatism of the shoulder? Will salicylate of soda help neuritis?

REPLY.

1. Neuritis is nerve inflammation—so there is no such thing as "neuritis of the shoulder," though one might have neuritis of a nerve trunk which supplies the neck and arm. 2. The drug may give symptomatic relief in certain cases.

* * *

S. L. writes: Is there any danger in the use of antikamnia for headaches? I have been taking it for several months and some of my friends say my increasing weakness may be due to the drug.

REPLY.

Your friends have probably hit it right. The stuff is not only dangerous but absolutely useless as far as curing anything is concerned. If you must have a remedy to relieve neuralgic attacks let your doctor prescribe one which at least won't make you worse in the end.

Dr. Brady will answer questions pertaining to Health. If your question is of general interest it will be answered through these columns; if not it will be answered personally if stamped, addressed envelope is enclosed. Dr. Brady will not prescribe for individual cases or make diagnoses. Address all letters to Dr. William Brady, care of The Herald.

SOLUTION OF THE PROBLEM

Two Big Lumber Companies Maintain Own Employment Offices.

Hire All the Men They Need and Charge No Fees.

That at least one lumber company has solved the labor problem satisfactorily both to its employes and the employers is the assertion made by Frank Porter, representative of the Virginia & Rainy Lake company. He asserts that his company maintains its own employment office here, charging no fee to the men given work, and that the health and welfare of the woodsmen in the camps are well taken care through special medical attendance and sanitary camps and good food. The Alger & Smith company also maintains its own employment office following the same plan.

"That much injustice has been done not only to the woodsmen but the lumber companies as well, is undoubtedly true.

Has Solved Problem.

"We think the Virginia & Rainy Lake company has solved the problem very satisfactorily for itself. When we need men in our mills, on our railroad, or in our camps, orders are placed with our own employment office, maintained in Duluth, at 413½ West Michigan street, of which I have charge, and I personally go among the men and select those whom I think are best fitted for the company's purposes. We work on the principle of fair exchange. We need the laborers—they need the jobs, and we never charge them one penny for their jobs. On the contrary, our company has advanced thousands and thousands of dollars in railroad fares to get these men to our works when such men have not sufficient funds of their own to reach the camps. We prefer, however, men that are able to pay their own fares and since May last we have invariably secured them.

"The good resulting from this personal supervision and contact with the men at the time of their employment for our company is very well illustrated by the fact that since about the first of September of last year, more than a thousand men whom I have sent to our works in the north woods, are still working and likely to remain with us. We have little or no difficulty in employing men, all that we require in fact, for our varied purposes. They know they can come to the company's employment office and secure employment if there are any jobs open with us, without expense to themselves, and indeed without any trouble whatever. We have tickets to be sure. Every man we employ is furnished by me with duplicate tickets, one of which he presents to the foreman of the work to which he is assigned; the other he retains himself. A triplicate of this ticket is retained in the company's employment office. But this ticket costs the man absolutely nothing. It is simply to identify him with the foreman on the work.

"We find this method works to very great advantage. The better class of workmen seek their jobs with us. They go to work in our camps, and as a rule, once located with us, they stay in their positions for a long time. They are also well aware of the fact that our camps are kept very clean, the food of the best, well cooked and wholesome.

Answers Criticisms.

"I have noticed recently several criticisms in The Open Court with reference to lumber camps, and right now I want to say that all of our camps are kept scrupulously clean, in fact we invite inspection, and if those who wrote the criticisms I refer to, were to visit our camps, they would certainly change their minds and hereafter not class all lumber camps in the same category. The fact that the men stay on their jobs as long as they do, would go to bear out this assertion.

"Our company employs a physician and retains him constantly on the job, with headquarters at Cusson, Minn. It is his duty to visit each of the company's camps at least twice a week and ofterner if called for, in case of sickness or accident. This, we maintain, assists us materially in keeping men on the job. The sanitary arrangements of each camp are under the personal supervision of the doctor, with the result that we rarely have any cases of infectious disease, and that only when brought into the camps by newcomers.

"Yes," said Mr. Porter in conclusion: "I really think the Virginia & Rainy Lake company has solved the labor problem, at least for itself, very satisfactorily indeed."

MAN WHO HAS FOUR "MOTHER" COUNTRIES

Joseph Blumenthal Has Had Varied Experience Due to Fortunes of War.

French by birth, German by compulsion, English by adoption and American by choice, Joseph Blumenthal of Minneapolis is remaining strictly neutral during the present European war. Mr. Blumenthal, known as a vocational expert, has been conferring with men at the Y. M. C. A. today, helping them in picking their life work.

Born in Alsace before the Franco-Prussian war, when that province, with Lorraine, was French territory, Mr. Blumenthal, with other members of his family, was required to renounce allegiance to his mother country when the Prussians won the two provinces. Later he went to Australia, where he was engaged in phrenological research work for about ten years, and during which time he adopted Great Britain as his country. For the last several years he has made America his home, and intends to remain here.

M. Blumenthal, a brother, was mayor of the small town of Colburg, in Alsace, when the recent war was declared and narrowly escaped with his life as the German avalanche swept down into the province. Traveling by automobile, he managed to get into Switzerland after a thrilling flight, but later was arrested as a spy and almost shot before he proved his status.

Every time Mr. Blumenthal hears from relatives in the war-stricken zone he fears that he will learn of the death of close friends or relatives in either the German or French ranks. He has cousins with both armies, in addition to the brother now with the allied forces.

ELECTRICAL "LAB" INSTALLED AT "Y"

New Course of Study Arranged; Floid Fuller in Charge.

A new laboratory is being installed at the Y. M. C. A. for practical work in the electrical courses in the night school. Up to the present time there has been no opportunity for employed men to secure this kind of instruction in Duluth. A good enrollment has already been made in this class and new men are still coming in.

The course is designed to meet the needs of practical men who have already done work along electrical lines as well as those who desire to take up in the future some work related to electricity.

Several local concerns have made a canvass of their employes and have recommended selected persons to take the course.

Floid M. Fuller, a consulting electrical engineer, will have general charge of the course and will meet the class on Monday evenings for lecture work and discussion. A. C. Butterworth, an engineer with the Oliver Iron Mining company, will have charge of the laboratory work. Both of these men have a thorough technical training and their subsequent practical experience gives them eminent qualifications for their respective positions on the teaching force.

BEATS HOUSE KEEPER; MUST PAY FOR FUN

La Salle Hotel Manager Found Liable for Damages for Brutality.

Beating housekeepers who fail to come up to expectations is a pastime which received no encouragement at the hands of a jury that disposed of a case yesterday afternoon in Judge Ensign's division of the district court.

Because Walter Sprinkle, assistant manager of the La Salle hotel, took the liberty to chastise one Suntra Karvonen, a domestic employed at the hostelry, on Jan. 14, 1914, the jury decided that Sprinkle owed the woman about $500 for the trouncing he gave her. She testified that she was disabled for two months. Mrs. Rose Hammell, proprietress of the hotel, who was named as a defendant in the action with Sprinkle, was also held liable by the jury.

The woman sued for $1,000 damages. She claimed that Sprinkle pounced upon her because he was displeased with her work. She was obliged to employ a physician to attend her, she says.

"HUNG JURY" GIVES PLAINTIFF VERDICT

Saari Bros. Lose But Fraction of Damages Asked.

After deliberating thirty hours, a jury in Judge Cant's division of the district court last evening returned a verdict for $125 in favor of Mrs. Anna Olson and against Saari Bros., logging contractors. The jury took the case at 5:30 o'clock Thursday evening and reached an agreement at 10:30 o'clock last night. Twice yesterday the jurors came into court for instructions.

Mrs. Olson brought suit to recover $2,000, which she claimed as damages to her property cause by the overflowing of the Waterhen river. The defendants built a dam across the stream last spring which caused a portion of her homestead to be flooded.

The Saaris, on a counter-claim, asked $2,500 damages. They alleged that Mrs. Olson had placed booms in the stream, which had interfered with a successful log drive, and was responsible for the loss of a quantity of floating timber.

INEFFICIENCY---
"The White Man's Burden"

"The white man's burden" is not the yellow race, or any other race. "The white man's burden" is inefficiency. We see it in every department of human activity. The loss is something colossal—beyond human computation.

I went into a leading jewelry store this morning to have initials engraved on a silver vase—a Christmas present. Five clerks were busy dusting the counter and rubbing up some old silver. I finally got the attention of one of the young ladies, who said with an air of great condescension and forced amiability:

"We cannot take any more engraving orders, can we, Miss Patterson?"

"No, I think not, did you buy the vase here?"

"No, I did not, but I want initials engraved on it."

I passed over the heads of the clerks and finally found the proprietor. She recognized me, and said:

"Certainly; we will be glad to do the work for you."

I next went to the clothing store where I buy all my haberdashery. I have had an account there for ten years. I always call for a certain clerk who waits on me. He is a good salesman. I was interrupted by a floor-walker at the front door who wished to know what I wanted. I hate floor-walkers. They seldom know customers and their job is to keep the sales force disorganized. I never noticed him. I ran the gantlet of clerks and asked for my salesman. They said:

"He is in the basement taking an inventory of collars."

Here was a real salesman taken from behind the counter and relegated to the cellar to count collars!

I next went to the leading book store. It is not in a department store where books are sold by the ribbon clerk, but a real book store—it is the only one in town. I found four young ladies dusting off books and one rearranging boxes of stationery. I couldn't find the manager, with whom I am acquainted. Finally I approached one of the young ladies who had a look of almost human intelligence and said:

"Have you Maeterlinck's 'Life of the Bee?'"

She said, "All biographies on that table there—look them over," and she went on dusting.

I next visited the leading optical company in the town, a pretentious establishment furnished with a long mahogany counter on one side of which the victims are seated while on the other side are seven or eight operators adjusting spectacles to males and females. I have been a customer of this concern for a long time. Every member of my family, except the Scotch collie dog, wears glasses. I found the manager making goo-goo eyes at the good looking bookkeeper in the rear office. No one said "Howdy" to me—no one asked me what I wanted—no one offered to wait on me. I was fairly well dressed, with no signs of a contagious disease. But after waiting a half hour for some signs of recognition I had to catch a train for Niagara Falls and departed.

Now, what has advertising to do with this? Everything. Advertising must carry the burden that inefficiency loads upon merchandising. All these firms are good advertisers. In their stores I found clerks, not salesmen. Advertising must sell the goods. It sells the goods in spite of inefficiency. Recognizing this, however, the progressive merchant will see to it that he has a sales force that will co-operate effectively and intelligently with advertising.

ITCHING, BLISTERED SKIN-ERUPTION ALL HIS LIFE, NOW CURED

Nov. 19, 1914.—"All my life, until about a year ago, I was troubled with blisters and sores over my entire body. The itching and burning was terrible, and I could hardly sleep. I used many treatments that were unsuccessful and did not give me any relief. I started using Resinol Ointment and Resinol Soap and they helped me wonderfully. I WAS RELIEVED AT ONCE, and after about two dozen applications I can say that I was free and cured of that awful disease. My skin now is as clear as anybody's."—(Signed) Geo. Whitcher, Jr., R. F. D. THE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE OF THE U. S. A.

On another page of this paper there is printed an account by Isaac F. Marcosson of the work done by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, the comparatively young but tremendously important organization of which John H. Fahey is president. It would be well if every business man and every man interested in commercial affairs, small or great, would read that article and study the importance of the work thus described. It would give a broader and more optimistic view of the future than is possible to any man lacking the information contained in this sketch.

In this brief "story" are told the circumstances that led up to the organization of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States; how for many years the impression prevailed that the government and private business must of necessity be at enmity with one another; how the idea of co-operation began to take hold and become recognized, and the lessons that the commercial world learned from the labor organizations.

Here is the story of the awakening of both the government and the commercial world to the fact of common interests and the practicability of co-operation, and what that awakening has meant thus far and what it may yet mean to every business institution in the country, whether great or small, whether inland or at the seaboard. For through this getting together of two of the greatest forces in our national life there is being brought into operation a system of exchanging information, getting accurate valuations and establishing standards both at home and abroad that can hardly fail to give a heretofore undreamed of impetus to American commerce and manufactures.

All this immense work is being done under the direction of Mr. Fahey, who is recognized throughout the country for his ability to organize and execute enterprises. It is a work for strong men, and with Mr. Fahey at its head there seems to be no reason why it should not prove to be one of the most powerful influences for national prosperity and advancement that the world has ever seen.

THE ISSUE IN 1916.

To be sure it is a little early to look for definite statements of what will be the issue in the presidential election of 1916, but it is interesting, just the same, to make guesses along that line. And sometimes a guess of that kind can be based on pretty sound evidence.

For instance, it is pretty generally recognized now that there is unlikely to be any Bull Moose candidate in the field in that year. This of course, as Medill McCormick points out, leaves the principal campaign to be fought out between the Democratic and Republican parties, with such additions as each may be able to draw from the disintegrated third organization. So it is natural that any guesses as to issues in the campaign must be based on statements by leaders in the respective parties.

So far as can be judged at present, the Democrats are likely to pin their faith to the lowered tariffs on necessities and to the maintenance of peace in times that have tried the souls of nations. There will also be the program of constructive legislation that has marked the work of the Sixty-third congress.

The possible—or perhaps probable—Republican issue is furnished in the attitudes of three men who are sure to be more or less prominent in the councils of the G. O. P. One of these is Senator Lodge, who has denounced the Wilson administration for refusing to be made the catspaw for every financial speculation that has been based on the chances and uncertainties of Mexican governmental processes. The second is Senator Borah, who has joined with Lodge in these attacks, and has gone so far in his statements that he is becoming recognized as an active and hopeful candidate for the Republican presidential nomination.

And the third speaker is Col. Roosevelt, who is on record for having censored the Wilson administration for not interfering in the European war; for not trying to protect Belgium; for not sending diplomatists, supported by ships and armies, to the field of conflict, in an effort to compel Germany to direct her military activities otherwise than as she did.

Granting the probability of a union of Col. Roosevelt and the old Republican party for the 1916 campaign, it looks very much as if the issue might be, not simple militarism, but active military operations, or at least readiness to jump headlong into the first trouble that may bob up anywhere in the universe. And yet such a program as this never has been urged heretofore by any party, and as the Louisville Post points out, would not be in accord with "the true principles of the American nation," which "were expressed by Daniel Webster in his speech on the Panama mission." Webster's words were:

> The general rule of national law is unquestionably against interference in the transactions of other states. There are, however, acknowledged exceptions growing out of circumstances and founded in those circumstances. The ground of these exceptions is, as I have already stated, self-preservation. It is not a slight injury to our interests; it is not even a great inconvenience that makes out the case. There must be danger to our security, or danger, manifest and imminent danger, to our essential rights and our essential interests. Our right to interfere in any such case is but the exercise of the right of reasonable and necessary self-defense. It is a high and delicate exercise of that right; one not to be made but on grounds of strong and manifest reason, justice and necessity.

Webster's statement is clean-cut and definite, and it fits so well the events of the last few months that the heads of the present administration might almost seem to have had it in mind and been guided by it. At least, that policy has brought us safely thus far, and it seems unlikely that the American people would care to change, even with the added inducement of seeing the reverse principle applied by a Roosevelt, a Borah or a Lodge.

Who'll be the first to name a cigar after the jitney bus?

ONE DAY IN OFFICE.

From Indiana comes the story of a wealthy farmer who was elected to a public office, and who resigned it the next day because he found the emoluments were not equal to the effort demanded. In other words, he figured that his time was worth more somewhere else than it was in the service of the community he lived in.

Of course it is shocking that anybody should feel like that. The idea is absolutely new to the whole country. Nobody ever heard of such a thing before, you know. Such selfishness—such disregard for the welfare of all as compared with that of the individual—dear me!

And yet, Mr. Businessman with an ability that has made it possible for you to acquire a competency in the forty or fifty years of your life, has it ever occurred to you that maybe you could be of some service to the community in which you life? Has it ever occurred to you that you could better afford to spend a year or two years or four years in the service of your home place—even at an income less than that you could command in the business world—if in that way you could give the public organization and the public welfare a substantial boost toward better conditions? Did you ever think of that?

You laugh at this chap who spent one day in office and then gave it up. But are you much better than he? Have you, in fact, ever come even as near to doing the public a service as he did? Or have you contented yourself with sitting back and criticizing and sneering when men of ability inferior to yours did their best without your assistance?

Laugh at him if you will, but this man who spent one day in office and then quit has come nearer serving his community than you have yours.

John D., Jr., says his father lost five million dollars in the Colorado coal fields; but he forgets to say who had to smart for it.

THE VICTIM OF WEALTH.

The other day the son of one of the wealthiest men in the world, and himself reputed a multimillionaire, went through the corridors of a public building on his way to tell his views on certain economic and industrial problems.

Other men had gone through those corridors before him, and still others passed that way after he had gone. But there was a difference between their passing and his, for while these men rubbed elbows with their fellows and talked and laughed with those about them, the multimillionaire was alone, except for certain officials and a squad of armed guards.

Before he entered the corridors they were cleared of all human occupants. Not even a man whose daily business took him that way was allowed to remain. And all the while this man was telling his views on the questions under discussion, armed guards wandered here and there in the corridors and mixed with the people there in a manner forbidden to their employer.

And yet this multimillionaire was not a prisoner. He was under no duress of law. He was not even a public official whose person was being thus protected for fear his services might be lost to the state through the act of some irresponsible crank. He was just a plain, "successful" man of affairs, with the same appetites and desires and instincts as several millions of his fellow creatures.

Why, then, this elaborate preparation for his coming and going? Why the preservation of his person from the contaminating touch of the general run of humanity? Is his body so sacred that, like some fetich of an idol-worshipping tribe, it must be kept from all influences that might infringe upon its isolation?

Not a bit of it. This was just a plain everyday case of self-preservation. You see this man's wealth was made and is being augmented by methods which are fiercely disapproved by certain other men, however much the law and former customs may sanction them. He today defends those methods, and is regarded by some as the personification of what those methods stand for. And so, in spite of any personal belief in the righteousness and justice of his position, not all the millions at the command of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., could make it safe for him to mingle with other men as you and approximately a hundred million more American citizens can and do mingle with them every day in the week.

Does John D., Jr., ever wish for greater freedom? Does he realize the restraint to which he is subject, the non-human character of his position in human society? If he realizes these things, does he ever desire that it might be otherwise? One sometimes wonders.

How much would you take to live such a life as is revealed in the published accounts of this man's visit to a public building which you could enter and leave at will?

The committee vote to try to pass the immigration bill over the veto stood at eight to three. But that's no indication that the odds will be eight to three on its passage.

ADVICE WITHOUT A COLOR LINE.

Booker T. Washington's work for the negro race has won general recognition, and is constantly gaining in this respect. His teachings to his people have been sound, and his methods have produced results, and the fruit of it all is the knowledge of actual advancement, and the existence of confidence in him as a leader.

But in the talk he gave at the recent annual race conference at Tuskegee institute he laid down principles that are without the limitations of a color line, that might, indeed, be repeated in almost any community, and emphasized to the advantage of all concerned.

One of the things the speaker urged was greater diversity in the agricultural efforts of the people. That there has been no such diversity has of course been pointed out as the great weakness of the South economically and financially, but Booker Washington did not stop with the mere assertion. He produced facts and figures to show that for years the cotton crop has occupied more than two-thirds of the attention and effort of the negroes, who even after that was harvested had to depend on the markets and market prices for the daily food they might as well have raised themselves.

Other points made were against the practice of pistol-toting, which the speaker declared not only afforded no protection to the individual, but often was the means of getting him into trouble; gambling; entering upon useless law suits, when the difficulty could as well have been settled out of court; and either selling or buying liquor illegally.

But the main point made was in regard to the use of the land on which the home is situated. Several of those present told of having materially reduced their living expenses by what they themselves raised, and one woman showed account books by which it was proved that she and her husband had not had to buy a single article of food for the past year, having raised it all on their own place.

The work of pastors in imbuing their people with this idea of making their land support them was made evident by the report of one man that after reading an article by Booker Washington on the value of raising pigs, he had organized a "pig club" among the members of his church, and that the club had been successful in not only supplying its members with meat, but in reducing the cost of that article for others.

Another pastor showed that in the several years he has been assigned to his present charge he has never collected or asked for a cent of income from his church, having raised enough on the parsonage land to support his family and by selling some of the remainder at a profit has been able to buy needed clothes and other articles.

All these things show the value and practicability of Washington's work for the people of his own race. They also point a moral that could profitably be taken as a lesson by those of other races.

The opponents of a big navy can rest easy now that Hobson has joined the fight on the side of the militarists.

STUDENT VOTERS.

Wisconsin is facing an old problem—that of the student voter. At present the legislature has before it a bill to bar the students in university towns from voting in those places, unless they are residents aside from their connection with the institutions they are attending. Inasmuch as few students could afford to return home over election day, especially since for many that would mean a loss of one or more days preceding and after the actual day of balloting, the passage of such a bill as this would disfranchise possibly as many as two or three thousand legal voters.

Why should residence in a city for purposes of personal mental gain be less honorable than residence in the same city for purposes of personal financial gain? It is a puzzle we confess is beyond us. Yet the proponents of this law would declare against the recognition of the former as citizens, and admit only the latter to the privileges of citizenship.

As to qualification, it will hardly be claimed that the person who is of legal voting age and whose business is to learn more than he already knows is less able to vote intelligently than the person who is of the same age but whose business is to accumulate such of the world's goods as he may be able.

Again, if these students were living at the homes of their parents there would be no question raised as to their right at the polls. It is absurd to claim that because they have changed their place of residence for a legitimate and laudable purpose, they should be deprived of that right.

The whole proposition to bar students from voting is so strange that one wonders why it is ever raised. Perhaps an answer can be found in the following from the Wisconsin State Journal, published at Madison:

> The only real reason why there is any objection to the students voting here is because they use their vote to make Madison better.

If this theory is true, it expresses something vastly to the credit of the student voters as a class—and something equally enlightening as to the real origin of the movement to keep a fairly large number of American citizens from taking part in the government of the city in which they are, for the present, spending the greater part of their time.

A rich Arkansan's son has been sentenced to ninety days in jail for killing a man with an automobile. Evidently Harry Thaw's great mistake was in his choice of weapons.

THE PRISONER'S WISH.

At one time or another various stories have been circulated about men found guilty of crime and who have been asked by the judge to name their own sentence. A case of that kind came up in Superior the other day that is worth recording and thinking about.

Carl Anderson, aged twenty-four years was arrested on a charge of trying to rob a man. Anderson pleaded guilty, but asked the privilege of a word with the judge. When this was granted the prisoner requested that if possible he be sentenced to some place where he could get an education. The court accordingly sentenced him to the state reformatory at Green Bay, where prisoners are taught any trade they choose.

Though details were not gone into in the record of the case, it appears that Anderson did not, as a boy, take advantage of the ordinary means of getting an education, and since he got big enough to shift for himself it has taken all his time and effort to make a living with his untrained hands and brain. Meanwhile, according to what he told the court, he has wished earnestly for a chance to get some kind of an education, but knew of no way to accomplish it. So now he is to be taught a trade, and the rudiments of common school branches.

It isn't much of a story, perhaps, but it at least contains an idea that could profitably be impressed on the minds of a good many boys—and girls, too—who resent the efforts of their elders to make sure that these youngsters shall not grow up with the same handicaps suffered by Carl Anderson. There are other prisoners than those who appear in court. There are men and women who are prisoners of circumstances, prisoners to their own early thoughtlessness and folly, to their own incapacity, and who, wish with all their hearts they could get such an opportunity to make up for the past as this that came to Anderson.

And there is just one way to make sure of avoiding the fate of such prisoners, and that is to take advantage of today's opportunities of developing head, hand and heart. They all have a part to play in the journey of life and the man or woman who neglects all or any of them is bound to become, sooner or later, a prisoner to the results of personal incapacity. And it is not always true, as it was in this case, that there is a judge with power to grant the prisoner's wish.

The Chicago White Sox are to have a Chinaman in their lineup, and hereafter anything said about a yellow streak in the team will be regarded as strictly personal.

DANCING AND HEALTH.

The Daily Virginian waxes eloquent on the subject of dancing as related to bodily and mental health. Dancing, it says, "brings cheer to the heart, elasticity to the muscles and relief to overstrung nerves." To quote further:

> We need not talk of the craze for new dances or the rage for the fox trot, the hesitation, the one-step or the maxixe. There is nothing crazy, nothing outrageous in the natural desire of wholesome human nature to extend the kingdom of Terpsichore. From our feet as well as from our heads we may learn the lesson of life. And graceful dancing calls for a good spirit, a well-balanced brain and body and active feet. Sunbeams, the eyes of laughing children, the bubbles on the fountain, the stars in a cloudless sky, all dance and twinkle with the sheer delight of innocence and nature.

Wouldn't that make you want to hunt the nearest place where there is music, grab a partner and fling care to the winds? It sure would.

But while you are thus capering for rejuvenation and health, don't forget that there are certain rules for health that must be observed not only when you are going through with the prosaic routine of everyday life, but also when you are indulging "the sheer delight of innocence and nature." In other words, not even the accompaniments of rhythmical music and pleasant companionship will prevent the operation of the laws of nature which provide that whosoever gets into a perspiration and then sits in a draft will catch cold; that overindulgence of any kind is bound to bring retribution of some sort or other, and that a close and stuffy room, whether used for exercise or otherwise, is a breeder of ill health.

It would be a good thing for a lot of people if they could only get into the spirit that makes other people want to dance. They would find their minds clearer, their troubles less sordid, their sympathies extended and their whole outlook on life vastly brighter and more worth while. Also the blood would run more swiftly and evenly through their veins and the air they breathe would send its reviving elements into portions of their being that have not been so refreshed in years.

But while we enjoy this natural expression of life in motion, don't let us forget the ordinary rules of bodily care. Or to put it on a more selfish basis, if you enjoy dancing in the present, take care of yourself so that you may enjoy it again at some other time.

It has been suggested that Dr. Cook is among the war correspondents.

"How Are You?"

Youth's Companion: There are many persons, particularly women, who take "How are you?" too literally.

You meet one of them on the street and she responds to your cheerful and conventional salutation after this fashion: "Oh, I've been feeling perfectly miserable lately! I can't seem to sleep and everything that I eat distresses me. Dr. Brown tells me——" and so forth.

Or perhaps you meet her on a car and with everyone else in it have to listen to the story of the operation that she has recently undergone, or to a detailed summary of certain symptoms that fill her with apprehension. In vain you try to steer the conversation into less personal and more attractive channels. You may even in self-defense begin to tell her of your own ailments, but they prove of interest to her only as they serve to remind her of additional troubles of her own.

It is a pity both for the woman's own sake and for the sake of the friends and the acquaintances whom she bores. She deprives herself and others of so much by her unwholesome introspection—by her literal "enjoyment of poor health!" The weather is notoriously the conversational retreat of people who have nothing to talk about, and it is a thousand times preferable to the liver.

A gentle philosopher of an earlier generation, who lived before the appendix was discovered or nervous prostration became popular, was sufficiently roused to express himself thus on the subject: "There is one topic peremptorily forbidden to all well bred, to all rational mortals, namely, their distempers. If you have not slept, or if you have slept, or if you have headache, or sciatica, or leprosy, or thunderstroke, I beseech you by all the angels to hold your peace and not pollute the morning, to which all the housemaids bring serene and pleasant thoughts, by corruption and groans."

Cleaning Day.

Cincinnati Commercial-Tribune: A practical joke which was played in a small town created lots of fun and some indignation. A joker notified many of the housewives that on a certain morning the telephone company was going to blow the dust out of the phones and from the wires. They were told to tie cloths over the phone to prevent the dust ruining wall paper, furniture and pictures. Some of the phones were kept closely tied for an hour or two and others were under the rags for half a day, or at least until they found by making inquiries of central that the joke was on them. My informant said the joker had to leave town for a day or two to escape the righteous indignation of women who were fooled.

Statesmen, Real and Near

By Fred C. Kelly.

Washington, Jan. 30.—(Special to The Herald.)—Representative Robert F. Broussard, who will be senator from Louisiana after March 4, was traveling a while ago through Texas. As he sat looking out the car window he fell into conversation with an affable stranger who seemed to be a native of that region.

"Who represents this district in congress?" asked Broussard.

"Johnny Garner," replied Broussard's seatmate.

"Oh, yes, I know Garner," remarked Broussard.

"You do, eh? How well do you know him?"

"Oh, fairly well. Why?"

The stranger leaned over, placed his hand on Broussard's shoulder in a fatherly fashion, and dropped his voice to a whisper.

"I'm very fond of Garner," he said. "But let me tell you something, friend: Don't you never play poker with him."

Uncle Joe Cannon figured recently in a Democratic romance. A beautiful and talented young woman, the daughter of a man prominent in the present administration, had become engaged. Nothing had been said about it because her parents wished for her to wait a year or two before getting married. They liked the young man who had won her heart and hand, but thought it would be wiser for her to delay the marriage until she was a bit more mature. In order to fully persuade her to do this, they had an old friend of the family take her to lunch one day at a big hotel and give her a nice little talking to. This friend convinced her that the thing to do was to wait. Then, as they were coming out of the hotel, they met Uncle Joe Cannon, paying a visit to this town. Uncle Joe had known the young woman of our tale since she was a wee child, and greeted her warmly.

"Engaged yet?" he inquired. She blushed and finally told him that she was in reality engaged, but would not announce it, as the marriage was still a long way off.

"You'll make a great mistake," declared Uncle Joe with his customary emphasis. "A girl should marry young. Why, you're a good bit older now than my wife was when we were married."

By the time Uncle Joe had had his say the young woman was thoroughly convinced that he was right, and that the watchful waiting policy would be a delusion and a snare.

The next day she announced her engagement, and before long she will be married.

James R. Mann, Republican leader of the house, received from a constituent the other day a letter running as follows:

"I wish you would use your great influence as the Republican floor leader to have the agricultural department send me a small package of garden seeds. Some kind of seeds adapted to the needs of men in the shoe business having small suburban places at the edge of large cities."

Representatives Chimmie Fadden Townsend of New Jersey, Jimmy Burke of Pennsylvania, Treadway of Massachusetts and Prouty of Iowa went forth to the links one fine afternoon to heckle a little handful of golf balls. As a rule when four congressmen play golf they pair according to party lines. But in this instance there were three Republicans and only one Democrat. Then somebody recalled that two of the crowd had supported and two had opposed the resolution for national prohibition. Why not pair according to their stand on that question? They did.

"And what'll we play for?" asked one of the prohibitionists.

"What's the matter," suggested Townsend, "with playing for the drinks?"

The best way to show our love to Jesus Christ is to show a Christ-like love to those about us. Remember that Jesus loved His enemies as well as His friends.

Patience is a virtue that comes as a result of experience, and usually discouraging experience at that. It is a hard school, but its lessons are not easy to forget.

* * *

Since money represents time and labor, we should not spend our money for anything for which it would not be proper for us to give also our time and our talents.

* * *

It is best to seek God's guidance in every step of life's journey.

False moves in life are expensive, often resulting in great distress and eternal death.

* * *

God has a purpose in every life, and he will reveal it to those who sincerely ask him.

* * *

Those who crown Jesus king of their lives are promised blessings of untold richness, both in time and eternity.

The patience that Jesus has with us in all our shortcomings should make us have patience with our fellows for their shortcomings.

Has anyone mistreated you? Do not seek revenge. God will take care of your case, and sometime make settlement with the one who has wronged you.—From "The Friend."

How He Won Her.

Philadelphia Record: Like a good many others, young Willie Wooemwell loved his sweetheart ardently, but possessed only a paltry pittance to offer her in order to promulgate their connubial bliss.

But this in no way deterred Willie from making an effort.

At length, after many months of ardent toil, he approached her with his small savings.

She received him in the drawing room.

"Mary!" he cried passionately, "I lay the whole of my fortune at your feet."

"Fortune?" she replied in surprise. "I wasn't aware of your possessing one."

"It certainly isn't much, but it would look immense beside those dainty feet of yours," gallantly responded Willie.

Shrewd Old Man.

Brooklyn Eagle: "You're an old married man. What do you do when your wife begins to scold?"

"Encourage her. I talk back—discreetly, of course. I say tantalizing things. I make foolish excuses. I stammer and get husky."

"But doesn't that make her a good deal madder?"

"Of course, it does. That's the intention. I want her to get so mad that she won't have any voice left to ask me for money."

"Gee, I wonder if I'll ever get as hardened as that!"

SATURDAY NIGHT TALK

The Man With Two Talents.

The man with two talents has not come in for his proper share of attention. The exhorters have spent much time on the five-talented man and have urged him to put his superior gifts to use. And volumes of good advice have been expended on the one-talented man, that irresponsible man who went and hid his single gift in the earth. But the man who strikes the average between these two extremes has been left very largely to his own devices.

This is unfortunate because he is so very greatly in the majority. The world is simply full of average people. As you meet folks day after day you find that most of them are neither giants of intellect on the one hand nor dunces on the other; they are neither wholly good nor wholly bad, neither rich nor abjectly poor, neither completely happy nor absolutely miserable. Both mountain peaks and deep valleys in human nature as well as in physical nature are far surpassed in extent by the plains.

This unnumbered host of average people must fight against several temptations. There is that to discontent, for instance. Men and women with a spark of ambition desire to rise a bit above the common level. Youth especially will ever hitch its wagon to a star. People of spirit resolve to make some sort of mark on their times. But age is apt to find them still hewers of wood or drawers of water or adders of columns of figures. A great test of character comes when one realizes that his life performance is not to be in any way distinguished. Then a trace of bitterness is apt to appear. One resigns himself to mediocrity with sullen revolt at the order of the world.

There are many people who cannot contentedly fulfill inconspicuous careers. Because they are not headliners they will not appear in the cast at all. They hide behind their own consciousness of inferiority. If the temptation of the five-talented man is conceit, that of the two-talented man is discouragement and sloth.

Yet who has a better right than the average man to stand with shoulders back and head high? The world could not do without him. We owe much to genius. We are in the debt of the great statesmen and scientists, the Olympian poets and scientists. But where we would be, let us ask, without the Marthas and the "sons of Martha" who do the plain, prosaic, uninspired things? One reads of Kitchener and Joffre, of von Hindenburg and Grand Duke Nicholas as though they were fighting this war, and so they are. But it is "Tommy Atkins" and the park shopkeeper, the Hamburg longshoreman and the Russian peasant with black bread in his knapsack who sleep in the mud of the trenches and fire the big guns.

Commonplace lives make up the very warp and woof of society. Occasional threads of gold and of brilliant colors can be woven in only because of the solid fabric created by the ordinary people. A regiment of generals would be unmanageable; a church of Billy Sundays would resemble a menagerie.

The average man must learn to feel his place and his value in the scheme of things. Let him become conscious of his soul. We need a revival of Christian individualism, the kind taught by Jesus, who said: "Not a sparrow falleth to the ground but your Father knoweth. Every hair of your head is numbered."

Herein is the antidote for the oppressive sense of obscurity and insignificance that falls like a blight on so many lives. After a shipwreck off Cape Cod years ago, some bodies came ashore and were decently buried. Names could be put on the headstones save one. For one poor seaman there was no means of identification so his simple slab was marked with this inscription: "God knows." Is not that true of each one of the uncounted millions of our race who in any age or clime do their appointed work under the eye of the Omniscience?

Who's On the Look-out Anyway

By "HOP"

CRITICIZING WILSON

By SAVOYARD

Washington, Jan. 30.—(Special to The Herald.)—Tradition has established the fact conclusively that the gentleman who struck Billy Patterson had "the punch." And the scenes in congress the past few days make it manifest that Woodrow Wilson dealt a knockout at Indianapolis Jan. 8. The G. O. P. in congress remained speechless until the 13th, or five days, and then entered the pit like a chicken with its head pecked.

There are several active or receptive candidates for president on the Republican side of the United States senate, among them the Hon. Borah, the fancy orator of the body. Several days after the president's address at Indianapolis Mr. Borah recovered consciousness and proceeded to make a speech in reply. The president had said that the G. O. P. had not in thirty years incorporated any new idea in its policies. Mr. Borah in response had this to say:

"In 1887 we passed what is known as the interstate commerce act, creating the interstate commerce commission, which had to do with the regulation of rates by the great transportation systems of the country, and from that time until lately it has performed its services to the great benefit of the people of the United States."

Who is "we"? In 1887 Grover Cleveland was president of the United States, a Democrat. In 1887 John G. Carlisle was speaker of the house of representatives, a Democrat. The interstate commerce act was the work of John H. Reagan, a Democrat, of Texas, as much so as the tariff of 1897 was the work of Nelson Dingley, though Shelby Cullom's name is attached to it.

Then the Hon. Borah cites the Sherman anti-trust law as a Republican idea. Granted. Under it every offensive trust that has robbed our people thrived as never before; under it from the American people was extorted money with which to pay dividends upon billions and billions of water in corporate stocks. I grant that the president was in error in his statement. He forgot that within the last thirty years the G. O. P. invented Aldrichism and put it in the law of the land, and Aldrichism is the capstone of the political and economic edifice the Republican party reared from the inauguration of McKinley to the inauguration of Wilson, a period of sixteen years.

The Hon. Borah casts an anchor to windward in this connection. He gives Mr. Aldrich and a Mr. Vreeland credit for reform of our financial system, and he sneers at the Federal reserve bank act of the present congress. Let us see about that. Under the Vreeland-Aldrich act credits were impounded in New York city. Nobody could get money for any great enterprise without the assent of the house of Morgan, concurred in by the National City bank, a Rockefeller institution and, by the way, Aldrich has associations with Standard Oil nearly as intimate as those of Boies Penrose.

A case in point. Certain parties in the West conceived a scheme to build a railroad from the Mississippi to the Pacific. They raised and expended great sums of their own, and completed hundreds of miles of the road. Their money gave out, and they sought to sell a mortgage on the property in New York. The security was absolutely safe. But their enterprise was a competitor of roads already completed, and though there were capitalists in New York anxious to deal with them, the big bankers forbade and they dared not. The road went into the hands of receivers and doubtless is now the property of its rivals. That is not a new idea, but it is superlatively standpat Republican.

The Hon. Borah is very much dissatisfied with Wilson's policy touching Mexico. That policy is this and only this: There is a struggle between liberty and peonage in that country. A state of war exists. Terror reigns in many sections. It is a contest that must be fought to a finish, and it is Mexico's affair.

Of course we could go down there and restore order, but it would cost many thousand American lives lost in battle, and other tens of thousands destroyed by exposure, hardship and disease. Unless the Republicans are talking for criticism only—this it is what they want—war with Mexico. Mr. Borah deals out a lot of reports of outrages visited on Americans down there, and talks of sending an army across the border to protect American life and property. But he has no responsibility and his sole job is to find fault. The most doleful tidings that could come out of that unhappy land for such statesmen as Borah, Lodge, Penrose et al, would be peace and tranquillity across the Rio Grande.

The office of president of the United States is the biggest job in the world. He is held responsible for whatever occurs or whatever fails to happen. Criticism adverse to the president is the easiest job in the world. Only the other day the leader of the Republicans in the house of representatives confessed that he does not know what his attitude toward Mexico would be but that he is sure he could manage the thing better than Wilson has. He reminds us of a fellow who lived a long time ago, named Phaeton, son of Sol and Clymene, who insisted on the guidance of his daddy's chariot for one day. His request was granted and he botched the job, setting the world on fire, and Jupiter drowned him in the River Po.

The Republican party has a regiment of Phaetons in its ranks right now; but I much doubt if the American people intend to allow any one of them to drive the national chariot.

Patience and shuffle the cards—out of the nettle, danger, Woodrow Wilson can be trusted to pick the flower, safety.

THE SHORT BALLOT

III—Public Opinion and Simplified Government.

By H. S. GILBERTSON,
Executive Secretary, The National Short Ballot Organization.

Never has a fundamental political idea gathered support in America so rapidly or attracted so many advocates of diverse interests and temperament as the Short Ballot. Every serious writer on American government has expressed his disgust at the former prevailing habit of American people to seek democracy by multiplying elective officials. These thinkers, however, never got together in a practical effort to stem the tide. It was not until 1910, when Governor Woodrow Wilson of New Jersey and a group of about 200 prominent political leaders, writers and thinkers organized a publicity campaign for the reduction of the number of elective offices in states, counties and cities.

Forthwith newspaper writers throughout the country commented upon it; professors of political science in many colleges taught it in their classes, and civic clubs, like the Voters' league in Milwaukee and the City Club of Chicago, took up its active support.

In the Ohio constitutional convention, in 1912, the Short Ballot was one of the most hotly debated subjects. It lacked five votes of carrying, due principally to the rural members, who at that time were insufficiently informed of its meaning, and certain politicians, who were only too well informed.

August, 1912, saw the Short Ballot approved in party platforms of all three leading parties in Ohio and Illinois; in the Progressive platform in Colorado, Iowa, New York and Missouri; in the Republican platforms of Nebraska, New York, Minnesota and Pennsylvania, and in the Democratic platform of Utah. By this time it was really regarded as a standard, undebatable principle by the Republicans and Progressives throughout the land. Democrats, as they came more and more to accept the leadership of Woodrow Wilson, saw its inevitability and have been coming over to its support.

The wide publicity, which reached the leaders of political thought at least, immediately bore fruit, for within one year after the beginning of the campaign proposals for applying the Short Ballot appeared in the legislatures of New York, California, Washington, Ohio and Wisconsin, on the initiative of local legislative members in nearly every case. Governor Hay of Washington and Governor Hiram W. Johnson of California went into the subject at length in their annual messages, and urged its adoption. In the same year a reactionary proposed constitution for Indiana was effectively blocked by a simple statement to the press that it contained no recognition of the Short Ballot idea. An effort in the Illinois legislature to make two of the state commissions elective was similarly stalled.

In 1913 the Short Ballot was given a prominent and honored place in the annual messages of Governor Ferris of Michigan, Governor Ammons of Colorado, Governor Haines of North Dakota, Governor Clark of Iowa, Governor Lister of Washington, Governor Carey of Wyoming.

Every election, with its complicated ballots and long list of meaningless names, has emphasized anew to voters everywhere both the significance of the existing system and the way out. Commission government, as it has swept across the country, has demonstrated in a practical way that political machines and long ballots are needless excrescences.

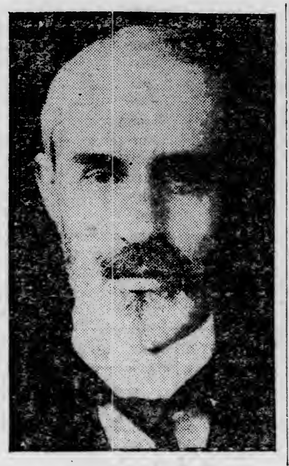

And so, in 1915, the nearly forty legislature which are in session can count not alone upon a public knowledge, but upon a well-informed public demand, voiced through every recognized medium of public expression, for the fundamental remedy which is the condition of real democracy.

Venice this year imported 6,000 tons of American coal and ordered 25,000 tons for next year.

CO-OPERATING FOR NATION-WIDE PROSPERITY

Chamber of Commerce of the U. S. A. Back of the Present Great Team Work of Business and Congress, in Which Every Business Man Is a Profit Sharer.

BY ISAAC F. MARCOSSON,
Formerly Editor of World's Work and Author of "How to Invest Your Savings."

JOHN H. FAHEY,
President of Chamber of Commerce of United States.

For years Congress regarded Business as a disorganized mass of Special Interests slipping around on gum shoes and talking in whispers. It was a red rag that stirred wrath.

"You are always trying to 'get something over,'" said Congress to Business, and it bristled with suspicion and closed the door to the friendly relation.

Business reciprocated these sentiments in part, looked upon Congress as a block to legitimate expansion and tried its hardest to get legislative proof armor. Wealth felt itself pilloried like a felon, and huge industrial enterprise resigned itself to drastic law and more or less destructive control.

"It's no use trying to expand," said Capital. "They won't give us a chance."

Thus two great agencies, that more than all others combined bore the burden of our commercial welfare, glared at each other and the "dreary sea," that the poet wrote about, flowed between.

Even John Jones, obscure merchant out at Four Corners, in any state that you care to mention, felt the folly and the futility of this situation, realized that his own trade lot, small as it was, might be improved if only Congress and Business would work in harmony. Yet Business groped along, without definite aim, without organized purpose.

Now, the reason for this misunderstanding was very simple, but, like many simple things, it was a long time in being analyzed and remedied. Neither Congress nor Business took the trouble to become acquainted. They assumed they were not affinities. Their intentions were good, but their vision was bad. They locked arms before they knew it was easier and better to shake hands. And the result was conflict and cost.

But the Business Mind, so long disorganized, has been nationalized at last; the battle ground on which these two forces stood at a tilt is a Field of Constructive Accord. We may not have reached the Millennium of Business Remedy, but we have found the way and the light.

A "Get-Together" Movement.

That light lies in the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, most representative, perhaps, of the aids that Business as a whole has brought to its support. It is the essence of democracy, the incarnation of the spirit of "Get Together." Peculiar and timely interest attaches to the organization because the third annual meeting will be held at Washington early in February, when fresh appraisal will be made of a nation-wide invsetment in team work, in which every business man—big and little—is a profit sharer.

What is this Chamber of Commerce of the United States; what brought it about; what does it do; what does it mean to you and to me?

To answer these questions is to tell the story of a Great Awakening that has stimulated the whole commercial consciousness and brought a new distinction and efficiency to business. It reaches the roots of our oldest trade grievance; it points the path to nationalization of the export opportunity that the World War created.

This is no annal of high-sounding crusade shot through with psalm and precept. It is merely the record of a piece of practical, common sense uplift projected along business lines. Its Code is the Gospel of a Get-Along-Pull-Along Co-operation, which levels all economic ranks and is helpful alike to clerk and capitalist, to community and country. To know about it makes you a more useful citizen; to be a part of it is to be a better equipped cog in the business machine.

Why were Congress and Business so wide apart all those years? You need no diagram to find out.

Take any business man plugging away at his desk. Unless he has real imagination, his outlook is not particularly big. He is absorbed in his own problems; he does not see across the frontiers of his own interests.

Like his colleague of Wall Street, who never saw beyond the Hudson River, he was blind to the shifting changes in public mind and public policy. Like a pair of ostriches they hid their heads in the sands of their environment and trusted to God and whatever party happened to be in power to deliver them.

So long as Business was a free and untrammeled agent this procedure was all right. The country developed so fast; the bowels of the earth disgorged their treasure so easily that even such shortsightedness could not prevail against what seemed to be an irresistible prosperity.

But censorship and control of Business developed; Nation and State put the probe into the corporation; depression stalked about. Business looked up from its desk and saw Big Laws gleaming like ogre eyes; beheld long ramparts of regulation hedged around.

Unless he was very vitally affected, Mr. Business Man merely said to himself:

"Why worry? There have been other upheavals. Sanity will return. I have my own affairs to mind." And he stuck to his knitting.

Then came the new Chamber of Commerce, which was a live, alert, wide awake civic and commercial force. But it was hopelessly sectional. The San Francisco Chamber could not agitate a movement for the benefit of the whole country; so with Chicago, Boston and New Orleans.

Presidents who wanted to feel the pulse of Business found no official wrist to hold. No one realized this more than Mr. Taft. That energetic American Traveler had sat at the banquet table of many of these live wire commercial organizations. He saw in them the leaven of a larger loaf.

"All they need is co-ordination," he said.

At his suggestion a meeting of representatives of all such organizations was held at Washington, and out of it emerged the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, as the Spokesman and Envoy of Business.

Democracy lies at its base. The Board of Trade of Alton, Ill., comes in on the same equality with the Merchants' Association of New York City; dues are based on the income of the member body.

The Chamber came into being at a time when Congress was the real Steward of American Business, when new laws were crowding thick and fast upon Commerce. The first job was to find out what Business thought of these laws, and put this opinion up to Washington.

It could not hold a convention of members every time there was need of such a census. It therefore adopted the Referendum as the agency with which to tap sentiment. This word sounds high brow and has the flavor of a campaign platform plank. As a matter of fact, it simply means finding out what the people think and want. Here is where the Chamber took on its real human interest and got close to the plain citizen. This is the way it works, and our old friend John Jones, the little merchant of Four Corners, anywhere, will illustrate.

The Chamber got out a Referendum on the new Federal Reserve Banking Act, analyzing the law and making some recommendations, chief of which was for an Advisory Council composed of practical business men. At the same time the Chamber sent out much literature explaining the law, what it did and meant to everybody.

Now, John Jones—and he was merely a type of the average business man all over the country—knew practically nothing about this law, although it affected him vitally. He read a lot about it in the newspapers, but it did not get down to his mental level. John Jones is a member of the Four Corners' Commercial Club and it, in turn, is affiliated with the Chamber of Commerce of the United States. The club got the Referendum on the banking law and all the literature about it. It was not considered in private committee session, but in open meeting, where John Jones and all the rest of the members could take part.

Jones found out that under the proposed law there was a wider and more elastic use of commercial paper; that if he were a manufacturer, however small, he could take an acceptance from a slow-pay customer, discount it and get more financial elbow room for himself.

So he plied a solitary needle, not realizing that the threads of his own business were bound up in the greater fabric of the business of the whole country. What concerned and disturbed that fabric also disturbed him.

Had he looked for a moment at the example presented by Germany he might have saved some cash and character. Her commercial and industrial agencies are linked into a compact union that is a tower of strength at home, a bulwark abroad. When foreign concerns compete with German firms they do not work against individual rivals, but against a whole empire.

We had no such unity. When national investigation swooped down on business like a sledge-hammer there was no representative national hand to stay the blow. To be sure, there was a swift scurrying to Washington; the gumshoe and the lobby made their illicit alliance and Special Interest got its tainted tag. The blackened brother sought whitewash; the great mass of Business, which was clean and decent, stood supine while public sentiment tarred it with the same brush. No wonder Congress regarded all Business with suspicion—even pity.

The trouble was that Mr. Business Man had stuck to his own knitting and there was no crystallized force to defend and rehabilitate the good name of his calling.

Yet right before its very nose were at least two illuminating precedents in national get-together that touched and benefited the humblest wage-earner.

HOW UNION LABOR MET AN INVASION OF FOREIGN SKILL.

Take Union Labor when the lithographers, for example, sought to prevent an invasion of foreign skill; they did not send a lobby to Congress. They had a national organization—the American Federation of Labor—to wage its national battles. When that organization spoke it was the Voice of all Labor speaking in unison.

So with Agriculture. When the Kansas and Iowa farmers wanted a bigger seed appropriation, they appealed to the national watch-dog of their interests, the National Grange, and it pleaded the case of all the Soil. It got results, too.

Don't think for a moment that Business was without organization. Imposing groups, national and local, were dedicated to special interests, there were Chambers of Commerce, Boards of Trade and Commercial clubs everywhere. But they were isolated outposts that lacked cohesion and concentration for the general welfare of trade.

The old Chamber of Commerce was a mortuary chapel, full of well-meant but embalmed intentions. Its chief function was to give dinners and pass resolutions.

Naturally, he was moved to say:

"This law is a pretty good thing for all kinds of business."

The net result, in a word, is that these Referenda, whether on banking laws, permanent tariff commissions, national budgets, government bureaus or statutes that regulate interstate commerce, are text books for the business man, no matter what his station. They make him a better merchant or producer, a more intelligent and efficient citizen. He is enabled to keep closer tab on his Congressman, and he learns to demand a higher quality of service from him.

How about the effect on Congress? A concrete and somewhat historic episode in this Drama of Business Awakening will demonstrate.

One October afternoon, in 1913, two groups assembled in a committee room in the Senate wing of the Capitol, at Washington. One was the Senate Committee on Banking, the other a delegation from the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, headed by its then president, Harry A. Wheeler of Chicago.

It was a critical time for business and legislation, because the Owen-Glass Currency Bill was up for discussion.

"Here is a Referendum on the banking law," said Mr. Wheeler. "That, we believe, expresses the intelligent and united business sentiment of the country."

Around the table where the men sat was Senator Knute Nelson of Minnesota. At this statement he smiled incredulously, shrugged his shoulders and said:

"How do you know that this represents united business opinion? I know of something about these Chambers of Commerce. I am a member of one back home. They mean well, but they don't get very far."

"But this Referendum does mean something," replied Mr. Wheeler. "It is the voice of 134 commercial bodies, scattered throughout twenty-five states, speaking for hundreds of thousands of business men."

He then told the story of the formation of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States and how, on that very occasion, it focused for the first time, and without passion or prejudice, the business mind of the country.

SENATOR'S SKEPTICISM GAVE WAY TO ADMIRATION.

The old Senator could scarcely believe his ears. Skepticism gave way to admiration, and the net outcome was that the Chambers' recommendation for the appointment of an Advisory Council to the Federal Reserve Board was accepted. This means that business all over the country has representation of its own kind at the Supreme Court of our Finance.

Ever since that day Congress regards business with a new light. It realizes that the business men of the country are organized in a representative and democratic way to co-operate with the powers of government in promoting the general good. The day of trying to "get something over" the legislature goal is gone.

But putting the brake on radical legislation is only part of the work of the Chamber. It is also a trade builder.

Early in its career it went bang up against one of the many amazing ironies in our business life. It was the lack of co-operation between Commerce and the Department of Commerce. A vast and useful machine had been created by the government to foster trade at home and develop it abroad. Yet Trade regarded it with suspicion and looked upon the waste basket as the proper depository for most of its products.

Once more the deadly parallel, this time with the Department of Agriculture. At first rejected, despised, even abused by the clod-hopper, it has, with intelligent co-operation on the part of the farmer, created a new Land, a New Farmer and a New Wealth. Its varied bureaus have made the deserts bloom, the crops rotate and multiply, and invested the farm and farm life with a lure and, what is more important, with a larger profit.

Yet for every beneficent bureau in the Department of Agriculture adding dollars to the farmers' bank account there is a mate in the Department of Commerce that could do the same service for business.

"Why not make the Department of Commerce as useful to the average business man as the Department of Agriculture is to the every-day farmer?" asked the Chamber.

The first thing was to establish close and friendly relations with the Department, just as was done with Congress. Secretary Redfield welcomed the co-operation. Even before the Great War smote civilization, the Chamber, realizing that it was one of the hopes of our Commercial Tomorrow, brought about a complete reorganization of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, which is under the wing of the Department of Commerce. It meant increased appropriations, the divorce of commercial agents from politics, the use of the cable by consular agents everywhere to flash home the news of trade opportunities, so they could be realized on at once. Under the old order they were printed in dull pamphlets and reached the merchant and the manufacturer long after the opportunity has ceased.

One direct result of this vitalization is the publication of a daily newspaper by the Department of Commerce, called "Commerce Reports." It reporters are our 300 consuls and the scores of expert trade agents scattered the world over. Here is an up-to-the-minute business guide for the alert exporter and can be used alike by millionaire steel magnate of Pittsburg and small necktie maker on the East Side, in New York.

Immensely valuable as was this co-operation in peace, infinitely more so was it when the war crashed into commerce, upsetting credit, changing the whole face of the trade map and giving the United States a new business destiny.

It was no time for speculation. A huge oversea trade lay prostrate; it was for us to raise it up. What the American business man who wanted to enter the foreign field needed more than anything else were the accurate facts that would enable him to cultivate it. Team work with the government was absolutely essential to success. Thanks to the foresight of the Chamber, this link was available and geared up to swift action.

If William Brown, anywhere, wanted to get busy in those foreign fields vacated by Germany and Austria, the Chamber had all the data about them available. It could tell him about steamship lines, tariff regulations, passport privileges—all that the business campaign needed. It did everything but get the business.

Nor was it all cold data. In the stream of information that poured out to commercial body, in town and city, and through that body to the big and little merchant and manufacturer, was the formula for the real conquest of foreign trade—the one that Germany impressed upon her militant export crusaders. It showed that by circulars and sporadic salesmen you can never achieve the permanent result. To export goods and keep on exporting them at a profit you must first export men and keep them where the goods are bought and consumed.

With its individual members the Chamber got down to the brass tacks in trade opportunities growing out of the war. Take the concrete case of Henry Smith of Boston, who exports brushes and brooms to France and imports the raw fibre from China and Japan. A complete map of his business needs and resources is on a card which forms part of a Who's Who of American Commerce.

The Chamber gets a communication from the Department of Commerce, reading like this:

"A confidential circular from our agent at Lyons states that there is urgent need of brushes and brooms at Havre, Lyons, Brest and Boulogne."

Immediately Henry Smith and every other member of the Chamber who exports brushes and brooms are notified of this fact. It is up to them to get busy. The same procedure is repeated if the Department sends word of the availability of raw material in China or Japan or elsewhere.

HELPING THE BUSINESS MAN TO SELL HIS GOODS.

Here is another specific instance: One day the Department of Commerce notified the Chamber of Commerce that a large firm in Buenos Aires had shipped a trunk, full of samples of the kind of hardware it had been importing from Europe, to New York and named the place where the samples would be shown. Instantly every hardware exporter in the card catalogue was informed. They were saved the trouble of canvassing this firm. The opportunity was brought to their very doors.

All these, and many kindred examples that I could cite, are due to one thing—to a close co-operation between the forces of business and the government. It is proving to be a good investment.

This clearing house of information has its varied uses, all showing the reliance that the government now places on the Chamber. Once when I was in the office of the Chief of the Bulletin Service of the Chamber the telephone bell rang. The Chief took down the receiver and got this message:

"This is the War Department. Can you give us a list of dealers in cavalry horses all over the country? The man who has our list is away sick."

In five minutes the Department had the most complete roster of army horse purveyors available anywhere, and it was just part of the constructive files of the Chamber.

The Chamber of Commerce of the United States is opening the eyes of business men, large and small, to government facilities, the use of which will make them more efficient and prosperous.

BUREAU OF STANDARDS A CITADEL OF EFFICIENCY.

How many manufacturers, for example, know that there is such a thing as a Bureau of Standards in the Department of Commerce? Not a great many. Yet the simple gray building that houses it, in the outskirts of Washington, is the very Citadel of Efficiency—the Heart of Standardization. Here you can find a standard for anything ranging from the most delicate watch to a ten-ton steel beam.

Why standards, and what good are they to the small manufacturer, you may ask?

A standard is a measure of quality. Quality, whether in a headlight or a camera shutter, depends upon measurable properties. If these properties are not right, then the product is not right. You may be able to sell it at the start, but in the end the inequality will find you out and the consumer will buy something else.

A definite standard cuts down the waste caused by defective materials, reduces the "overhead" and helps to block the way to failure.

What the Bureau of Standards does is simply this: It establishes scientifically the precise and accurate standard of weight, quality, measure, density or service. It may be for a gas meter, a watch, cement, clay for plotter, paper for printing or wrapping or a hundred other things. John Jones or anybody anywhere can get these specifications and apply them to his own needs or uses.

THE OLD AND NEW WAY OF BUYING PAPER.

Take the case of ordinary paper. There are still some high-salaried buyers who purchase paper by the rule-of-thumb process. They taste it and crumple it up in their hands and then think they have tested it. The Bureau of Standards takes this paper, weighs, analyzes, bursts, tears and does a dozen other things to it and then it has a real standard of paper. You who buy, sell or make it can get this standard and apply it.

In the same way the humblest watchmaker can at Squedunk, can send a watch to the Bureau to be tested. It will be timed in heat and cold, lying down, standing up, leaning edgewise. When it gets back home he will know everything about it worth knowing.

Where does the consumer come in on this standardization? In uniformity and durability of output, which can only result from the highest, seasoned standards. Thus the Chamber, by its campaign of education, really reaches all the people in some way.

You have seen the panorama of these varied activities unfold. What is the big significance of it all?

For one thing, this far-reaching organization of 600 member bodies, spread through forty-seven states and linking more than 300,000 firms, rears an impregnable barrier against Abuse and Misunderstanding. In a larger sense it stands for deeper things. It has rehabilitated the good name of Business in the eyes of Congress and the Public; it stands as Counsel for Everyman at the National Bar of Trade. It is making the average man in business everywhere a more efficient unit, and the sum of these units can only mean a larger national efficiency and character.

In brief, the Chamber of Commerce of the United States is not only the Voice of the New Business—it is the Keeper of the Commercial Conscience.

Real Mat Battle Promised in Miller-Ketonen Meeting—Glenwood Ski Club Ready to Assist Duluth in Becoming National Ski Tourney Home—Crack Oswego Basket Ball Team Coming.

BY BRUCE.

FANS WHO attend the big mat battle between Waino Ketonen and Walter Miller will see Walter Miller for the last time in action in this city—or Waino Ketonen for the last time in wrestling togs. The man who loses this contest is automatically eliminated from wrestling here again; he will be through, absolutely—and both of the wrestlers know this fact thoroughly.

If ever interest was created in a contest by natural desire upon the part of the public to see two men in action, this is the contest.

For some reason some fans here want to see Walter Miller beaten—and there are a lot of followers of the wrestling game pinning their faith upon the ability of the sensational Finn to turn the trick.

Other followers of the wrestling game want to see Ketonen given a mat gruelling—to see whether he will stand up under the third degree of mat tactics. Miller is a rough grappler, resorting to legitimate uses of headlocks and torturing toe holds. The story of the intense dislike of Ketonen upon the part of Miller is generally known by local followers of sports. All of these are elements of the forthcoming battle between two bitter enemies, two boys who have actually never seen one another—and yet, because of the deadliness of rivalry, have a long-growing grudge to settle.

Ketonen reached Duluth yesterday afternoon. In the vest pocket of the little Finn is a healthy bank roll. Merely to show the confidence of the Worcester lad, it might be stated that he stands ready to wager $250 of his own money on his chances in the coming contest.

Duluth fans love clean wrestling. From every angle this looks like the greatest match made for this old town in years. There will probably not be a pound difference in weight between the two boys. Physically they are constructed alike, with Miller a trifle heavier in the legs and Ketonen carrying better arms and shoulders.

Miller is one of the fastest men in the world. Like a terrier in attack, he marshals his physical forces at various parts of his opponent's anatomy; Ketonen is a wrestling machine, and wrestles like Joe Gans used to fight—with no excitement, no thought of the audience, and ever with one relentless object, one single line of attack.

The Pole is highly nervous, excitable, mercurial in temperament, often looking at his audience and often becoming affected by the shouts or pleadings of the fans. The Finn is stolid and steady. Ketonen will perform some sensational feat with stoical bearing. The Finn can wrestle underneath as well if not better than on top, and this very fact is liable to worry Miller into a blue fume of fret.

Once again, before the day of the contest, this column adds that we believe Ketonen will prove to the Duluth fans that he is the greatest 158-pound wrestler in the world.

Duluth the Ideal Home.

ASKEL HOLTER, secretary of the National Ski association, declares that Glenwood stands ready to assist in the movement to make Duluth the permanent home of the National Ski association's annual tournament.

It might be added that the members of the Glenwood club are coming here in a special train—and are coming prepared to throw the votes of their delegates to Duluth in its effort to have this hill-shaped city made the home of American ski sport, just as it has become the permanent home of American curling.

Ideally situated as the real home of winter sport in America, directors of the Duluth Ski club are lining up the forces to have this city definitely declared the future home of the big national tourneys.

Once Duluth is decided upon as the place where the annual national ski meet will be held each year, it is very likely that a new steel hill—the greatest in the world—will be constructed and ample provision made for holding not only the greatest American tourneys here, but also the greatest tourneys in the world.

In the old days several thousand persons used to line the sides of majestic Chester hill and fill the stands at the base of the big takeoff and make the annual national tourney an event that took pre-eminence among the winter sporting events of America. This season every effort is being made to make the coming tournament surpass the greatest tourney of the past.

Assurance has been received that every club in the National Ski association will send a large representation here. With positive assurance that from the standpoint of competition the tournament will be one of the greatest in the history of the association—indeed, if not the greatest—it is to be hoped, for the sake of Duluth, that the attendance will be the greatest that has marked any ski tournament of recent years.

Duluth has gained wide-spreading fame through its ski meets. Tourists from afar have journeyed thither to witness the big winter sporting event. Duluth people can lend a helping hand in making the 1915 national tournament an unprecedented success—and can do much to make Duluth sure of landing the permanent meeting place of the association.

The Oswego Contest.

Little Lawrence Duby has shouldered responsibility and flirted with enterprise and otherwise exhibited earmarks of progressiveness in scheduling a game between the crack Oswego, N. Y., basket ball team and the crack quint that is playing under the name of the Rotary club of Duluth.

This game—on the sport spindle for next Wednesday evening—is the most ambitious basket ball offering that has ever been attempted in little old Duluth. Oswego has rolled up a remarkable record. In the contests with Buffalo, for the championship of the United States, the corn-starch makers won three of the four games and showed superiority in every angle of the game.

Rounding out his team from players of the proficiency of Morrey Harris, Roy Johnson, Oscar Solheim, Dutch Jeronimus, Jim Dick and Bill Bradley, Duby will trot out the best team that has ever represented Duluth when the whistle calls time for the combat with the cracks from the East.

Playing together for the last five years, and possessing experience and the confidence that comes of repeated victories, the Oswego quint will prove a difficult aggregation to defeat.

The coming contest should bring out all the good sides of the game, and should also display to local spectators a basketball team that is ranked today as one of the best that has ever been organized.

TRINITY INDOOR TEAM STILL LEADS

Scottish Rite Nine Wins Over Blue Lodge 26 to 19.

The Trinity team still heads the Temple Indoor Baseball league, with the close of the January schedule last evening, when the Scottish Rite nine won over the Palestine players by the score of 26 to 19.

By defeating the blue lodge team, the Scottish Rite team went into the third place, the two having been tied for that position before the game.

A large crowd witnessed the game last night. It was full of thrills from beginning to end. Three times during the evening the two teams were tied, but one would forge ahead after a few minutes, keeping the audience constantly on edge. Anderson and Frederickson were the batteries for the winners, while Joyce and Beschenbossel worked for the Palestine team.

Following the game, about sixty couples enjoyed an informal dancing party.

Team—	Won	Lost	Pct.
Trinity	6	1	.857
Ionic	5	2	.714
Scottish Rite	4	3	.571
Palestine	3	4	.429
Shrine	2	5	.286

AGAINST RAISING THE ASSOCIATION

President of Baseball Players' League Says It Will Be Unjust to Men.

New York, Jan. 30.—David Fultz, president of the Baseball Players' league, said last night:

"I would consider exempting the American association from the draft as detrimental to the members of the Players fraternity now in that league, unless the American association would operate as a full major league with all major rights and paying major league salaries.

"Should the draft be eliminated from the American association and continue to operate under its present rating, it would mean a lot of players would be bottled up in that league with very little chance to advance in their profession.

"Each year eight players are drafted from the American association, but the draft brings up a good many other players. Class A. A. clubs are continually in fear that they will lose a valuable man in the draft for $2,500, so they sell him before the drafting season.

"With the draft eliminated big minor league clubs would not be compelled to sell players to protect themselves and should one of these clubs sell a player it would be resented by the fans of the minor league city with the result that there would not be much chance for promotion in that league."

Wins Close Match.

Danville, Ill., Jan. 30.—George Sutton defeated Koji Yamada 300 to 239 in a Billiard Players' league contest last night. Sutton's high run was 114, average 23 1-13; Yamada's, 60; 19 11-12.

PREPARING PLANS OF FEDERAL MINORS.

New York, Jan. 30.—President J. A. Gilmore of the Federal league arrived here from Chicago yesterday and held a long conference with R. B. Ward, president of the Brooklyn Federal club. Later he met Charles Deal, third baseman of the Boston's world champions, at an uptown hotel and announced that Deal had signed a two-year contract to play with the St. Louis Federals.

Mr. Gilmore stated that his trip East was principally for the purpose of attending a meeting of baseball club owners and other interested parties in New England which will be held at New Haven today for the purpose of establishing a Federal minor league.

President Gilmore explained that the Federal league clubs which released players to the minor body would pay the difference between the salaries paid by the minor clubs and the amount called for in the contracts of these players with the Federal league, so that the player would not suffer financial loss.

JOHNNY ERTLE PUTS ANOTHER TO THE BAD.

Milwaukee, Wis., Jan. 30.—Johnny Ertle, St. Paul featherweight, last night won from K. O. Krause, Milwaukee, in the sixth round of a scheduled ten-round bout, the referee calling the fight. The battle was Ertle's in every round.

STALLINGS RELEASES DEVORE.

Boston, Mass., Jan. 30.—"Josh" Devore, termed the "luckiest man in baseball" because of his connection with the New York Nationals and later with the Boston Nationals when each team participated in world's championships, was given an unconditional release by the Bostons yesterday. A desire to allow him to sell his services in the best market was given as the reason for the release of the little outfielder.

DULUTH WINS GREAT GAME FROM FORT WILLIAM TEAM

Jack Mahan Shoots Deciding Goal in Overtime Period; Score 4 to 3.

Fastest Hockey of Season Is Played During the Latter Period.

Fort William was defeated at the curling club last evening by the score of 4 to 3 in a contest that required a 10-minute overtime period to decide the result. At the end of the second period the count was knotted, 3 all. Jack Mahan shot the deciding goal in the first five minutes of the final period of play.

During the first half of the contest the game appeared dead. The players did not get started and the contest dragged. In the second half the old game started to speed up and developed into one of the best games that has ever been played on the local ice. The over time period came as a thrilling climax to a half that abounded in excitement.

Arnie Olson Ill.

The Duluth team was considerably weakened by the absence of Arnie Olson, one of the most effective players on the team. Jack Barkell substituted for the West Duluth boy, and while he batted in two goals, his playing was not up to the standard of Olson and the team work of the Duluth aggregation suffered in consequence.

But one goal was scored in the initial period of play. Jack Barkell took a neat pass from Linder directly in front of the goal and caged the puck at the conclusion of twenty-one minutes of play.

McTeigue of Fort William as a hockey player is the Fred Stone of this part of the country. His acrobatic versatility at the net was a charm and pleasure to behold. He was stopping them with his hands, feet, and other portions of the anatomy. Had it not been for the excessive liveliness and extreme effectiveness of the goal guardian, the ultimate score would have been more greatly in Duluth's favor.

Second Half Is Fast.

With the bell in the second half the game livened up. Willie Adams made a nice rush with the rubber, but was stopped at the net. Jack Barkell made a pretty rush with the puck, but was also blocked neatly by Willie Adams.

John Adams caged the first of the visitors' goals at the conclusion of four minutes of fast work in the second period. Willie Adams made a pretty sortie down the ice, carrying the puck from past middle ice. Jack Adams was skating abreast of his brother and caged a neat goal on a pretty pass.

A minute later John Adams took the puck nearly the length of the ice alone and caged the second goal for the visitors.

The game was going at a furious burst of speed by this time. At the end of eleven minutes of play Warhorse Linder took the puck on an intercepted pass near his own goal and rushed it the length of the ice. Joe took the rubber right down to the portal of the goal, and Jack Barkell shot it in.

Bole made one of the sensational plays of the evening when he got the puck far back in his own territory and rushed it down the ice, exhibiting remarkable speed and clever stick handling, and shot a pretty goal, feinting and then shooting it by the vigilant guard of Nicholson.

Just fifty seconds of the second half remained when Mohon tied the count. The play was going at breakneck speed. Mohon got the puck from behind the Fort William goal on a short pass out and caged the tying goal. There were just forty-eight seconds left to play when the play was made. Rather close, Monty.

The Overtime Period.

Handsome Jack Mahan busted up the game five minutes after the start of the extra period of play. John took the pack unaided down the side ice, displaying speed and clever stick handling, and from a position near the boards made the prettiest shot of the evening.

Capt. Joe Linder became mixed up in a nasty fight. Wilson's stick cracked the Duluth leader over the forehead and opened up a severe cut. Blood spurted from Joe's bean, and Joe's ire rose in sudden fury. Casting aside his stick he resorted to the weapons of nature and tore at Wilson with his fists, executing swings and jolts. Joe came in close to Kid Wilson and caught him over the eye. It was one of the prettiest blows of the fight. Wilson went into a shell and then came back with a ripping left.

Seconds of both men jumped into the ring and separated the combatants. Young Linder broke away and started at Kid Wilson again. Once more the combatants were separated. Joe was given five minutes on the bench to cool his ardor and talk to Bill. Wilson was suspended from the festivities for three minutes.

The second and final game of the period will be played this evening. The crowd was rather small last evening. In view of the remarkable contest of last evening and in view of the fact that both teams are so apparently evenly matched that another thrilling encounter is looked for, it is believed that a large attendance will witness the play tonight.

CURLEY THINKS WILLARD HAS CHANCE WITH ARTHA

Promoter of Coming Heavyweight Encounter Lauds the Gigantic Cowboy.

Derides Predictions of Muldoon and Corbett That Negro Will Win.

(By Jack Curley.)

Jess Willard is to be congratulated for having so many experts pick him for a sure loser in his coming match with Jack Johnson to be staged at Juarez, Mex., March 6, 1915.

A very interesting criticism is at hand from no less an authority than the veteran William Muldoon, the man who went broke backing John L. Sullivan against James J. Corbett, who later was in the training camp of Corbett when he lost the title to Bob Fitzsimmons and, who still later, was one of the strongest supporters, in his public writings, picking Jeffries to knock out Jack Johnson. The fact that William Muldoon picks Willard a loser should make him a betting favorite over Johnson.

At any rate expert pickings have never proved the undoing of an aspirant for the title. Mr. Muldoon is a very busy man and surely a financial success in the calling which he has chosen to earn his living. Muldoon's place in Westchester county is the model training institution in the world for broken-down-in-health millionaires, and many a man afflicted with apoplexy, insomnia, nervous breakdown, paresis, etc., has left the care of Mr. Muldoon ready to once more face the world with his retrieved constitution and good health. When William Muldoon passes away, the world will owe him a monument in some public park, lauding his work during his lifetime, but, when it comes to picking winners in championship fights, Muldoon is an ideal example of the expert's opinion and expert dope.

Scoffs at Experts.

I doubt whether Muldoon has even seen Willard in a ring. It would even surprise me to find out that he has ever seen Willard out of the ring. Busy as Mr. Muldoon is on his training farm, he seldom goes to New York to witness boxing contests, and I am sure he has not been out of the state of New York since the Jeffries-Johnson fight at Reno. He says that "Willard is unschooled and simple-minded, and handicapped by his height and weight." It is hard to understand what Mr. Muldoon calls "unschooled and handicapped by height and weight," for the record book shows us that Willard has participated in thirty-seven battles and won twenty-eight of them with clean knockouts. Among the men that Willard has defeated stand out: Arthur Pelky, Luther McCarty, Sailor White, Soldier Kerns, Bull Young, George Rodel, One-Round Davis, Carl Morris and Dan Daley. The records of each match show that Willard was never hit, never stepped back an inch, and that nine of the men who acted as receivers of his sleep-producing punch failed to revive for hours afterwards, and, sad to state, it proved the ending of one and the removal from the ring game forever for two of the others.

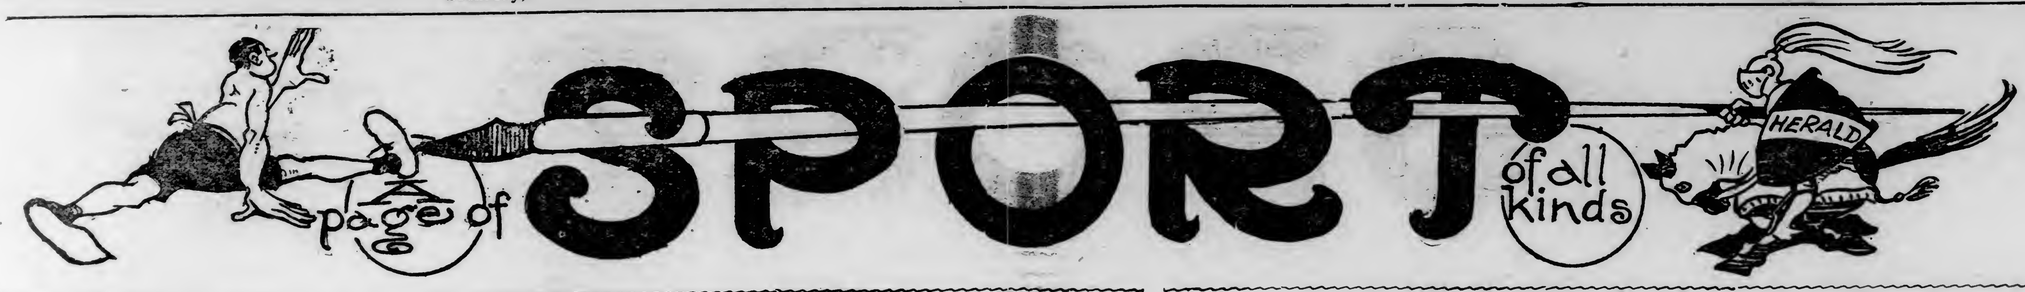

Willard will face Johnson on March 6, with little hope of receiving one cent for his services. The promoters of the match, who are paying Johnson $32,000 for his services, and risking an additional expense of $20,000, do not hope to make a cent out of the contest. None claim to be philanthropists and hope to make money out of the match by Willard carrying out their confidence and landing Johnson for the ten count and earning the title of world's champion.

Once more, for the fact that Muldoon's expert testimony points against Willard's chances, Willard deserves the congratulations of the sport world and his immediate friends, for nothing more caused Jeffries' nervous collapso immediately preceding the Johnson fight at Reno, than those self-same experts, swarming his training camp like bees and continually warning Jeffries of the terrible calamities which would follow his failure to remove Johnson from the championship.

The public can rest assured that Willard fully understands the importance of the coming match, and that he fully realizes that a fortune awaits him if he win, but all this talk of calamities if he fails in his effort is pure "tommyrot." The public will be welcome at Willard's training quarters, and there will be no charge to watch him go through his stunts every afternoon. None of the old-timers, or so-called experts, will be connected with the Willard camp. Strong, husky young fellows, boxers who can step in and rough it with Willard will be welcomed in his camp, but well meaning advisers, who will no doubt swarm to Willard to impress him with the calamities to the white race if he fails to win, and all such piffle, will not be tolerated. Manager Tom Jones has even decided not to deliver any mail or telegrams to Willard until after the fight.

Corbett False Prophet.

While on the topic of experts, let us call attention to the great expert and predictor of outcomes, James J. Corbett. Corbett's predictions in pugilistic contests have become the butt end of 10, 20 and 30-cent jokes, and there is no record of Corbett ever having been on the right side in predicting an outcome. Corbett was also especially self-appointed at Reno to get Johnson's goat, and the world knows what a failure he proved in that vocation, for Johnson got his goat instead, and before many rounds had progressed Corbett had retired to the shady side of Jeffries' corner as meek as a lamb. Only last week Corbett, in his expert dope which is sent broadcast throughout the country, mostly gratis to advertise his vaudeville act, contained the big news that J. Bounds of Tacoma, Wash., is the coming heavyweight champion of the world and should be the man matched to fight

Jack Johnson instead of Willard. In the last six months Bounds lost to such men as Tommy McCarty, and was recently knocked out by Al Norton, who, in turn, took the sleep producer from Jim Flynn at Kansas City. No doubt Jim Corbett monologued at Tacoma, received some personal favors from Bounds' manager, who is an old timer, at present sporting editor of a Tacoma newspaper, and Corbett in turn sprung the exciting news on the public, nattering little of actual knowledge in the premises. I certainly have no axes to grind with Corbett or Biddy Bishop, who is managing Bounds. Both are fine fellows, but to hand the country the dope of belittling Willard's chances, a man who has never even felt the weight of another fighter's blow, and, at the same time, picking a third rater for the contender of the heavyweight title, is a joke pure and simple.

The record book, commonly known as "dope," can seldom be relied upon to decide a coming match. Nevertheless, if dope counts for aught, Willard's record greatly overshadows the record of Jack Johnson and his chances certainly look rosier than any contender's chances in the heavyweight class ever appeared before any match wherein a title changed hands in the last twenty-five years.

GLENWOOD FOR DULUTH AS PERMANENT HOME OF NATIONAL SKI TOURNEY

To the Sporting Editor of The Herald:

The item of most interest to be decided at the national convention of the ski association at Duluth, Feb. 6, will be "Where is the next national tournament to be held?"

The little city of Glenwood, down the Soo Line a little ways, is coming to the tournament in a special train—not a special car, but a special train—and they will have banners and rooters galore with them to boost for Glenwood for the twelfth championship tournament, but, in case Duluth makes a bid for the permanent location of the national tournament, Glenwood will not withdraw from the association, but will assist Duluth. There will be opposition to the movement by several delegates, however, as there are clubs which would like to arrange for a national some time in the future.

Milwaukee is preparing to send a strong delegation to Duluth and Chicago will be well represented. Utica, N. Y., writes me they will try to have a representative, probably State Senator T. H. Ferris, at the convention. From present indications every one of the thirty-two clubs will have a delegation, and as every delegation will carry banners from their respective localities, the tournament held at Mount Horeb the other day no less than 4,000 spectators were present, and that a little village of 1,000 inhabitants, this being an indication of the interest taken in the ski sport in the Northwest.

The skiers entered for the Duluth tournament are the best in any country and the association expects the contests will be the best in our history.

A long-distance contest will likely be held in conjunction with the tournament, a number of amateur skiers having written me they would like to have such a contest, and the association is getting a gold medal printed as first prize should a sufficient number of entries come in to warrant the staging of this very interesting run.

The convention will be called Saturday, Feb. 6, at 7 p. m. The present president, County Auditor X. A. Nelson of Stillwater is not a candidate for re-election and it is generally conceded that T. O. Raaon of Chicago will head the organization the coming year. A number of candidates for treasurer are in the field, the unexpired term of our late treasurer, J. Howland of Chippewa Falls, being filled by the secretary.

Yours very truly,
AKSEL H. HOLTER.

FIRST SPURT OF RACE.

Moran Gains Lap in Six-Day Bike Race Being Run at Chicago.

Chicago, Jan. 30.—The first real spurt of the six-day bicycle race here began last night, twenty-two hours from the opening, when Moran gained a lap with the assistance of his partner, McNamara. The other leaders at 10 o'clock were Anderson and Hansen, Mitten and Wiley, Rudi Russia and Provost and Ryan and Wohlrab.

The other seven teams were close behind. At that hour the leaders' score stood 517 miles and 10 laps.

The eight leading teams in the six-day bicycle race had covered 689 miles even at 8 o'clock this morning and the other four still in the contest were only a lap behind. This was twenty miles behind the record, frost drippings from the skylight having slowed the track.

The eight teams now setting the pace are: Moran-McNamara, Verri-Egg, Walter-Root, Drobach-Piercey, Corry-Carman, Walthour-Bedell, Linart-Dupuy, Kopsky-Columbato. The others are: Wohurab-Ryan, Anderson-Hansen, Rudi-Russe-Provost, Mitten-Wiley.

TWO HARBORS TEAM WINS

Railroad Hockey Players Defeat Central High 6 to 4.

Northerns Take Bagleys Down the Line 5 to 0.

In the double header of the Duluth Amateur Hockey league bill of last evening Two Harbors defeated Central high school by the score of 6 to 4, and the Northerns came through with a 5 to 0 win over the Bagleys. One of the largest crowds of the season witnessed the games and the brand of hockey was about the fastest of the year.

At the end of the first half Central led the Two Harbors seven by one point, the score being 4 to 3. From this point on the lads from the railroad town showed their real worth. Two goals were scored in the first eight minutes of the second half. The playing of the Two Harbors boys in the second half of the game was about the best that has been witnessed in the league this season.

Northerns in Fine Form.

In the first half of the Northern-Bagley game it looked as if the contest was going to be a toss-up. But one net was caged in the initial period of play, Nelson getting a pretty pass from Bastien.

In the second half the Northerns increased their speed, got their combination play started, and played circles around the jewelry sellers. Near the close of the game the Bagleys were merely playing on the defense and trying to keep the score down.

SAULT GETS FOUR FROM HOUGHTON

Last Is Close Game, With Overtime Period Necessary.

Houghton, Mich. Jan. 30. — The American Sault scored its fourth straight victory over Portage Lake on Amphidrome ice last night, winning in eight minutes overtime, 1 to 0.

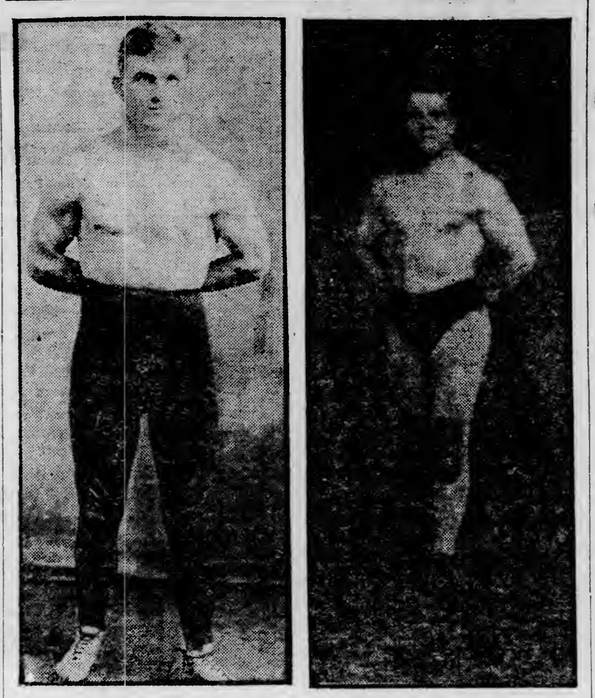

Both teams played evenly during the first and second halves, neither having the advantage. The puck zigzagged from goal to goal during both periods. Haugh, Portage Lake goal tender, and Talion, Sault net guard, played star games, both stopping a continuous rain of shots.

The Sault plays Calumet Monday and Tuesday.

GOLF AS A RELIGION

By ALMA WHITAKER,
In the Los Angeles Times.

A great many Philistines regard golf as a sort of a game. Not exactly a real game like baseball, of course, but a sort of glorified combination of billiards and tiddly-winks for outside amusement.

But golf is not so much a game as a religion. A vast and ever-growing religion with disciples and apostles in the four corners of the earth, with luxurious and architecturally superb temples, with a mighty and well-paid priesthood, with a tremendous and incessant literature, with a multitude of ritual, ceremony, forms of service, and rules galore for decorous and seemly behavior. It enjoys a distinct and biblical form of diction, it involves ceremonious convocations, incantations, exaltations, litanies, chastening penances for the careless, the culpable, the malpractitioner; it punishes moral turpitude, rewards moral rectitude; it respects feast days and fast days and saints' days, yea, and it surely hath its Michaels and its Lucifers.

The golf disciple knows it for a thing of the spirit, with small concern for the flesh. It is beset with religious emotions, exaltation and rejoicing for saintly conduct, remorse and penitence for the evildoer.

When the golf devotee solemnly assures you that golf is a facsimile of the game of life he knows whereof he speaks. It is the man who makes the fewest mistakes that wins; but none are perfect and even the most glorious of golf champions cannot maintain himself at a lofty standard. He knows himself for a sinner but he calls it being "off his game."

Physical perfection is of little account in golf. A mighty arm that can drive a ball within the limits of the straight and narrow way counts for less than the weaker stroke that sacrifices distance for accuracy. The temptations in golf are all too numerous and, as in religion, the pride of Lucifer invariably meets its fall. And, as in religion, a clear conscience and a calm, serene mind are far above erratic and spectacular virtue.

In golf it is yourself against the world. Not yourself against a mortal opponent. Both he and you are striving to overcome the obstacles and difficulties which nature has placed in your path. Given equal physical strength, equal experience in the game, it is the serene man of clear conscience and unharassed mind that will win. That is why so many doctors recommend golf for nervous patients. It brings home poignantly the need for self-control, self-confidence, mental orderliness, spiritual peace. To attain the goal the mind must be concentrated with solemn earnestness upon the matter in hand—in no other game does the player demand strict silence while he makes his shot; in no other game is seriousness, ceremony, etiquette, decorum generally so important a feature. The player who allows his mind to wander to external things is lost. As in religion, one must relinquish oneself entirely to the ritual to gain the reward of inward satisfaction.

"Greater," said Solomon, "is he that ruleth himself than he that taketh a city."

Over-zealousness, known in golf as "pressing," by which one tries to do more than one is able, is a common and fatal fault in golf—as in religion. Therein lies chaos worse confounded. In religion it results in melancholia, in golf disaster.

To the outsider it would seem the simplest of games. The fact that one hits a stationery ball looks so very easy. In baseball, in tennis, in all other ball games one is called upon to act quickly, without pause for thought as the ball comes flying towards one. But there is the stimulus of action, the quick responsiveness to the other man's move, the straight combat of man's wit against man's wit in such games. In golf it is at combat against nature herself and the psychological effect of that knowledge alone is confounding. Of all things, hurry is the most grievous fault in golf.

"Don't hurry, it will spoil your game," is one of the first tenets of the creed. And "keep your eye on the ball," which seems such a simple admonition, is the greatest difficulty the golfer has to overcome.

That little rule alone requires the utmost self-control, the utmost co-ordination of nerve, brain, muscle. Indeed, most of the difficulties of golf are purely mental; the game absorbs all the faculties for the time being, mental, spiritual, physical. The best player in the world makes an awful hash of his game when his emotions have been uncomfortably disturbed—thus doctors rushing down to the links after performing a difficult operation; or a young man endeavoring to play when he has just been jilted; or if a stockholder has sold short and sees the market on a pronounced rise, it is quite, quite impossible for them to show their wonted skill in golf, their spiritual self-abnegation in their religion.

To foozle in golf is to scourge one's very soul. It is a grievous and abiding wound to the sensitive for which he invariably curses himself roundly and takes to sackcloth and ashes. When her lord returns from the links, his spouse knows well by his sour dejection that he has sinned ignominiously, he who thought he was master of himself. At such times he will snarl at his best friend, even as the wrongdoer is at war with the world.

Golf has no grandstand, no bleachers, no gate money. It is not a spectacular game for the onlooker, it is a game to play oneself, for the inner disciple of one's soul. In fact, as one great writer on the game assured us, golf is largely a matter of conscience. The man knows that he is capable of doing well, that no mortal opponent bars his way, that, unless he is actually a very sick man, physical disability counts for little. He knows that his nerves, muscles, brain could and should be able to accomplish those simple strokes, and when he fails he knows that it was lack of self-control, lack of will power, lack of self-confidence.

CATHEDRALS WIN FROM SUPERIOR

Catholic Basket Ball Team Defeats Nelson Dewey 28 to 10.

The Cathedral basket ball quint of Duluth had little trouble with the Nelson Dewey five of Superior last evening in the gymnasium of the Catholic school, winning the contest by the score of 28 to 10. Superior was outclassed in every department of the game.

Duluth scored early in the game and led the players from the village all the way. At the end of the first half the score was 17 to 7. In the second half the Cathedral boys showed some of the best playing of the season and simply played the Superior basket shooters off their feet.

The lineup:

CENTRALS WIN BOTH

First and Second Teams Defeat Denfeld High School Fives.

West Duluth Boys Put Up a Hard, Clean Battle.

Athletic relations between the Central and Denfeld high schools were begun last night when the two basket ball teams met for the first time. As was generally expected the Central men experienced little difficulty in disposing of their less experienced opponents and the score of 68 to 7 was about what had been forecasted. Between halves the Central seconds defeated the Denfeld scrubs by a score of 34 to 5.

Coach Glyer of Central used several men in order that he might get a "line" on them. Rosenberg and Shaw, two "gym" team stars, were used at forward in the first half and performed very creditably, the former getting 12 points and the latter 10. In the second half Scrivens and Karon, the regulars, were put in and they also played exceptionally well. Capt. Solheim was the star of the contest. He caged goals from all angles and contributed 26 points to the total. Scrivens, not fully recovered from his injury, was not of course in his true form. Clark and Ross, the Denfeld forwards, played a good game, for their team.

The West Duluth aggregation must be complimented for the good game that they put up in the face of certain defeat. They played a remarkably clean game. They have been playing strong teams all season and although they have not won many games, they are getting good training and as most of the men are freshmen, they should be represented by some exceptionally good athletic teams in the future. Central will play a return game at the Denfeld gymnasium on Feb. 22.

The second team game was also rather one-sided, Central winning by a 34 to 5 score. Gronseth played best for the winners, scoring 18 points, while Duffy played well for Denfeld. The line-up and summary of the games follows:

Centrals—		Denfeld—
Rosenberg, Scrivens	f	Clark
Shaw, Karon	f	(Capt.) Ross
Moore	c	Dornady
Taylor, Farah	g	Newsome
Solheim, (Capt.)	g	Deutsch

Summary: Goals—Shaw, 5; Rosenberg, 6; Moore, 1; Solheim, 13; Scrivens, 1; Karon, 7; Taylor, 1; Clark, 1; Dornady, 2. Free throws—Ross, 1.

Central Seconds—		Denfield Seconds—

Wheeler Star at Skating.

Cleveland, Ohio, Jan. 30.—Russell Wheeler of Montreal was the star of the first night's International Skating union championship matches, winning the three-quarter mile and mile events. His left knee was cut and several ligaments torn.

BASKETBALL AT Y. M. C. A.

Kelleys and Northerns Capture the Commercial League Contests.

Fenton-Dubys and Lake Teams Go Down to Defeat.

Standing of the Teams.

	Won	Lost	Pct.
Kelleys	2	1	.667
Lakes	2	1	.667
Fenton-Dubys	1	1	.500
Northerns	1	1	.500
Big Duluths	0	2	.000

By far the most interesting games yet played in the Commercial basket ball league were played last evening at the Y. M. C. A. The Northern Hardware team defeated the fast Lake aggregation by a score of 19 to 11, and the Kelleys won over the Fenton-Dubys in a hot contest by the score of 13 to 7.

Both Games Interesting.

As far as interest was concerned there was little to chose between the games, and although the scores were not quite as close as those of some of the former games, the playing was more spectacular and far more interesting to witness. The teams are all developing excellent team work and the race will certainly be a hot one.

The first game, between the Lakes and the Northerns was hot and exciting and some fine playing was exhibited. It would be hard to pick stars as everyone played his best. Hallenbeck played his usual remarkable game for the Lakes, while Olson and McLaughlin also played well. The Northerns had a number of lady friends in the gallery and they all played brilliantly.

Second Game Exciting.

The second game was just a little more interesting than the first, more time to defensive work on each side, keeping the score down. Duby played his first game and showed up well. Burnett made the scores for the losers, while Foryziak and Frost were pointgetters for the winners.

The lineups and summaries:

Lakes—		—Northerns.
Hallenbeck, Olson	f	Boerner
McLaughlin	f	A. Nelson
Miller	c	W. Nelson
Karsberg	g	Grant
Ziehlsdorff	g	F. Smith, Busselman

Summary: Goals—Hallenbeck, 2; Ziehlsdorff, 1; Smith, 3; A. Nelson, 3; Grant, 1; A. Nelson, 1; Boerner, 1. Free throws—W. Nelson, 1; Olson, 3; McLaughlin, 2.

Kelleys—		—Fenton-Dubys.
Foryziak	f	Fenton

Megson	g	Coning

Summary: Goals—Foryziak, 2; Frost, 4; Burnett, 2. Free throws—Burnett, 3; Foryziak, 1.

SOON ENTER NEW ERA OF PROSPERITY

President Wilson Makes Confident Prediction in Speech.

Washington, Jan. 30.—Another confident prediction that the country will enter upon a new era of enterprise and prosperity, was voiced yesterday by President Wilson in a speech before the convention of the American Electrical Railway association.

Speaking to business men and through them to the world, the president outlined what the Democratic congress has tried to accomplish through its trust legislation, and declared that while a test period would be required to determine whether the correct remedy had been applied he believed "the maze of interrogation points" which had checked enterprise for twenty years had been cleared away.

With a common understanding regarding business reached, he said, henceforth nobody is going to be suspicious of any business just because it is big. He gave some of the "rules of the game," which he thought ought to be followed, heading the list with publicity—"not doing anything under cover."

"I have always maintained that the only way in which men could understand one another was by meeting one another," the president said. "If I believed all that I read in the newspapers, I would not understand anybody. I have met many men whose horns dropped away the moment I was permitted to examine their character. It seems to me that I can say with a good deal of confidence that we are upon the eve of a new era of enterprise and prosperity."

COULD NOT CONTROL SON, SO IRONED HIM

Wisconsin Man's Reason for Locking Chain About Boy's Neck.

Phillips, Wis., Jan. 30.—Because he could not control his son, Albert, 12 years old, the boy's father, Albert Hartmann, Sr., hung a seven-foot logging chain, weighted with a piece of heavy railroad iron and fastened with a padlock, around the boy's neck, according to his admissions in county court yesterday.

Judge Owen turned the case over to the district attorney who has taken it under advisement.

With the weight around his neck, the boy went to school three days until the case was reported to Sheriff E. H. Hicks.

When Sheriff Hicks reached the school, a short distance from here, where he went on complaint of William Milo, a neighbor, he found the boy scarcely able to move his head. The youngster had placed a handkerchief around his neck in an effort to prevent chafing. Manacled in this manner, and with the thermometer 26 deg. below zero, the boy had been obliged to trudge a considerable distance to school, carrying the weight in his hand.

Manacled Three Days.

The weight was placed about the boy's neck Sunday night by the father because his son went to a neighbor's house contrary to the wishes of his parents. It was left on him from Sunday night until Wednesday.

Hartmann told Judge Owen he could not control the youth.

So great was the indignation of the citizens, when they learned of the affair the father was saved from rough treatment only by his blindness. He lost his sight in an explosion of dynamite several years ago.

Young Hartmann is in the county jail pending action by the authorities.

The teacher of the school, a young girl, stated to the court she was afraid to report the case and it remained for the other pupils of the district school, whose parents investigated and communicated with Sheriff Hicks.

SIMMONS GRILLED; BUT DENIES CHARGE

Alleged Instigator of the Crookston Arson Case Asserts Innocence.

Crookston, Minn., Jan. 30.—(Special to The Herald.)—The trial in district court of Fred Simmons, charged with complicity in the attempt to burn the Crookston opera house, may be concluded late today. Interest in the case still continues at a white heat, the courtroom being crowded. The defendant was submitted to a terrific grilling by the state on cross-examination yesterday afternoon, but managed to hold his own. Arthur Broseau, testifying for the state, said he saw Simmons in conversation repeatedly with La Plante, who confessed to setting the fire. Simmons repeated his testimony of last June, denying ever seeing or speaking to La Plante. He denied sending La Plante money, furnishing him with the kerosene used in starting the fire, and denied the testimony of practically every witness of the state. He told a straightforward story on direct examination by Attorney Rowe, but was later given a terrific grilling by Assistant County Attorney Edgerton.

Tells of Decoy Letter.

The defense succeeded in getting the fact before the jury this year that Simmons had turned over to a local newspaper man the day after he had received it a decoy letter written by Deputy Grasse of the state fire marshal's office, asking Simmons to co-operate with him in getting even with Cavanagh, lessee of the Grand, and the fact that Simmons instructed the newspaper man to confer with County Attorney Hagen, regarding reply to the letter. Hagen corroborated this evidence.

Hinckley, Minn., Jan. 30.—At a well attended meeting held here this week of farmers and others interested in developing Pine county, which was addressed by Secretary G. D. McCarthy of the Northern Minnesota Development association, it was decided to remain in the association and to urge the county board to appropriate $150 for that organization. It was also decided to form a county development association.

Resolutions were adopted favoring retention of membership in the Northern Minnesota Development association; favoring the bonding of the county for $200,000 for the building of good roads across the county; the sale of county poor farm; a liberal appropriation by the legislature for the furtherance of immigration, the retention of the name Pine for this county, as well as several local matters. LIDGERWOOD MURDER PARTIALLY AVENGED.

Wahpeton, N. D., Jan. 30.—(Special to The Herald.)—The killing of Frank Kulicek, a laborer, by three negroes at Lidgerwood last August was partially avenged when Bige Reed was convicted and sentenced to sixteen years in the state prison. Earl Bedell had entered a plea of guilty and turned state's evidence against Reed. He will probably get a somewhat lighter sentence. James Wilson, who was arrested at the same time, was admittedly a member of the party, but as he was not actually present at the killing, the case against him was dismissed. Kulicek and some other Austrians were asleep near the railroad tracks when aroused by the negroes. Kulicek refused to turn over his money and was shot so badly that he died a short time later. The negroes were captured after a chase, across the country.

WHEAT TAKES SHARP BULGE

Market Advances With Heavy Call From Exporters and Millers.

Flaxseed Seeks Lower Level on Liquidation—Crushers' Demand Light.

Duluth Board of Trade, Jan. 30.—The wheat market reacted sharply today. Heavy buying appeared right at the opening, and prices were on the upward grade to the close, which was at the top of the day. Bullishness was imparted through the failure of Liverpool to follow yesterday's break in the American markets, and persistent call from millers for supplies.

May wheat opened ¼c up at $1.43¼, and closed 2⅝c up at $1.45⅞. July opened ¼c up at $1.41½, and closed 2c up at $1.43¾.

Durum did not reflect strength to the same extent as spring wheat, but it also moved up with a good call for export. Receipts of durum are limited, and remaining stocks in growers' hands over the West are estimated to be light. May durum opened ½c up at $1.55, and closed 1c up at $1.55½; July gained 1c at a close of $1.53½ nominally.

Oats bulged with persistent demand in evidence. They closed 1¼c up at 56⅞c for on the track; rye, 1½c up at $1.23½; barley, unchanged at from 72@83c, and corn, 1⅝c up at 75c.

At Winnipeg, May oats closed 1⅜c up at 67c, and July 1¼c up at 68c bid.

While no export business in American spring wheat was reported by Duluth operators, a substantial trade was put through at Winnipeg. Eastern millers are now coming into the market more freely for supplies, and heavy buying is reported by them in an unostentatious way. They are said to be showing increasing anxiety on the score of shortage in supplies developing in the spring, in view of the continued heavy export call for winter wheat, and the practical certainty that it will in due course be shifted over to spring wheat. Stocks of wheat in Duluth elevators, as reported up till yesterday, were 9,709,000 bu, showing an increase of 299,000 bu in six days.

Flaxseed on Down Grade.

Flaxseed was erratic. Prices sold off 2⅜c to $1.85 during the first few minutes' trading, and then they rallied somewhat on the appearance of scattering call from crushers. It was reported today that local traders have been buying flaxseed at Winnipeg of late, paying the duty upon it and shipping it on to Minneapolis, where it is being taken into store by crushers. Twenty-one cars of bonded flax were on the tracks at Duluth today.

May flax opened unchanged at $1.87¾ and closed 1¾c off at $1.86.

At Winnipeg, May flax closed 1⅜c off at $1.65½. July closed at $1.67 bid.

Puts and Calls.

Puts on Minneapolis May wheat closed at $1.41⅞ bid.

Calls on Minneapolis May wheat closed at $1.45⅛.

Chas. E. Lewis & Co. had the following closing letter from Chicago: "Another new high record in May wheat was reached and maintained up to the close. Repudiation of peace news induced the sellers of yesterday to reinstate their lines. Foreigners were also good buyers from the bell tap. Export demand was urgent at the advanced figures. Outside markets were all strong, both for the futures and cash. Country still holding onto their supplies and it is the opinion of the writer that supplies in the first hands are very meager. We still look for much higher prices."

The Minneapolis cash market was strong. No. 1 northern blue stem sold at 4½@5c over May. Some choice cars brought 5½c over May. Velvet chaff was May price to 1c under. Flour sales were still reported moderate, with good shipping directions. Orders on millbooks are cleaning up fast. Cash No. 1 northern wheat sold there at from $1.43 to $1.48½ and No. 2 northern at from $1.40½ to $1.46½.

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool: "The weakness in America yesterday was offset here by a better millers' demand at the advanced level, lighter offers and unfavorable weather in Argentina. Spot market was firm, but dull and winter parcels held at 4½d advance and Plates 3d higher. Expectations for lighter world's shipments this week and comparatively small amount to the United Kingdom with export demand from Argentina urgent to the continent and ex-Europe and wet weather there, which is against the movement and quality, are bullish factors.

"Corn was easier. American cables were offset by firmness in Plate offers, good general inquiry and firmness in Plate spot."

Good rains have fallen in the center of India and in other parts. There was frost and fears of damage.

Advices continue to come to hand of excessive rains in Italian central districts. Weeds and pests are infecting the young crops.

January exports of domestic wheat and flour are placed at 31,000,000 bu against 9,700,000 bu last year. From July to date exports come to 209,000,000 bu against 102,000,000 bu last year.

C. E. Lewis wired from Minneapolis: "Our private elevator stocks of wheat have been drawn on very heavily this week. It is estimated 1,000,000 bu have been taken out. On the first day of the new week our public stocks decreased 100,000 bu and it looks as if the withdrawals from public stores would now be much freer than they have been."

CHICAGO MARKET.

Various European Rumors Followed By Sharp Upturn in Wheat.

Chicago, Jan. 30.—Calling out of Italian military reserves and the denying of peace rumors were followed by a sharp upturn today in the price of wheat. There was but little for sale here at the start, and there was an advance of more than 2c a bushel before offerings became at all numerous. Wet weather in Argentina was of some influence against the bears. Opening prices, which ranged from the same as last night to 2⅝c higher, were followed by a reaction, with the market steadying about 1c above last night.

Later the strength of export demand here led to a fresh upturn that helped carry May delivery to a new high war record, $1.52 a bu. The close was strong at an advance of 1¾c to 3½c over last night.

Corn rose with wheat. Country offerings to arrive were light. After opening a shade off to ⅜c up, prices scored a moderate further gain.

Sales to the seaboard and the foreign call for oats brought about afterward a decided further advance. The close was strong at 1⅝c to 1⅞@1¾c net advance.

Demand for oats was active on the part of commission houses. Sellers appeared to be in a decided minority, and quotations rose accordingly.

Provisions averaged lower. The market was bearishly affected by unexpected deliveries of lard on speculative contracts.

BUTTE & SUPERIOR STRONG FEATURE

Increase in Next Quarterly Dividend on Stock Is Foreshadowed.

Butte & Superior was the feature in a quiet market in mining stocks at Boston today. Heavy buying appeared in it, and its price advanced $1.38 to a close of $46.50. The special strength in the issue was brought about through expectations that the present dividend of $3 a year will be increased at the next quarterly declaration.

Alaska Gold closed 25 cents up at $27.75; Copper Range unchanged at $32.75; Calumet & Arizona 50 cents up at $53; Granby unchanged at $61.75; North Butte 25 cents up at $23, and Shattuck 50 cents up at $23.50.

At New York, Amalgamated Copper advanced $1 to $63.75. Anaconda closed a fraction up at $26.38, and Utah Copper 25 cents up at $53.63.

In the Boston curb list, as reported to Paine, Webber & Co., Calumet & Corbin sold at from 18 to 15 cents; Jumbo at $1.12; United Verde Extension at $2, and Calaveras at 93 to 95 cents.

According to advices received this week from Boston, Butte & Superior is earning on a basis of $12 per share per year. This company is now paying seventy-five cents per quarter, and an advance to at least $1 per share is looked for when the next quarterly dividend is authorized. Increased production, improvement in the recovery, and the high price for zinc have put Butte & Superior in the spotlight, and made a leader of it in the stock market.

* * *

Referring to the stock market situation Skillings' mining and market letter of today says: "There is a better demand for Duluth curb stocks. Butte-Alex Scott is in demand at $4 and the offerings at $4.50 are limited. Calumet & Corbin is active but does not advance easily, when the amount of trading reported is considered. Keating is in fair demand. From present prospects there will be an improving demand for stocks in those Cuyuna range companies which have developed mines. There is keen inquiry for Interstate-Callahan, but no offerings are quoted. The news that Tonopah Belmont has taken a contract to develop the Oro Belle gold mine should be of interest marketwise. The mergers of Hill Cuyuna Mining and Mission Iron, and the Lake Superior & Western and Big Pine Mining, are late developments to claim the attention of investors."

UNDERTONE UNCERTAIN

Some of Ground Lost By Stocks Friday Is Regained.

Signs of Substantial Support and Short Coverings Evident.

New York, Jan. 30.—Supporting orders were in evidence at the opening of today's stock market, the undertone showing firmness after some brief hesitation. Harriman issues, Reading, Northern Pacific and New Haven showed substantial fractional gains on light trading. Canadian Pacific, which opened at a point less, repeating yesterday's low price, soon recovered and made further headway. United States Steel was not quoted in the initial dealings, but later a block of 1,100 shares changed hands at 40, its minimum. Republic Steel preferred lost almost 3 points and American Express fell 5 to 90, its minimum. Sears-Roebuck rose over 4 points.

Some of the ground lost in yesterday's liquidating movement was regained today, but the undertone was frequently uncertain. Trading was moderate, with signs of substantial support and short coverings. United States Steel common was almost neglected after some early dealings, which included one lot of 1,100 shares, all at the minimum price. New Haven rose over 2 points above its minimum of 48, and more prominent issues finished the brief session with gains of a point or more over yesterday's final figures. Sears-Roebuck led the special group with a further advance of almost 5 points in anticipation of favorable dividend action later in the day. The closing was firm. Bonds were steady.

INLAND STEEL COMPANY TO OPERATE ARMOUR MINES

Report Gives Great Satisfaction on the Cuyuna Range.

Two Hundred Men May Be Employed at Rowe Pit Soon.

Brainerd, Minn., Jan. 30.—(Special to The Herald.)—News of the most gratifying kind on the Cuyuna range is the report that the Inland Steel company will operate the Armour No. 1 and Armour No. 2 mines. The Armour No. 1 has been silent for some time, but recently the water was pumped out of the shaft and the preparations made indicate that mining will be resumed at an early date. The Inland Steel company operated the Thompson mine to the east as an underground property and then successfully converted it into a pit mine, Capt. William Wearne of Hibbing being the superintendent. The Armour No. 1 mine was worked by the Rogers, Brown Ore company in such shape that part of it may be stripped. The west end, which has the widest ore deposit and seventy feet surface, could be operated as a stripping proposition and independently of the underground section of the mine. If need be, the Armour No. 1 can ship 150,000 tons this season. It is believed that William Treloar, who was with the Armour No. 1 and later went to the Adams mine, may be re-engaged as captain at the Armour No. 1.

The Rogers, Brown Ore company, which had its offices in Crosby, has removed to Cuyuna, where it is operating the Kennedy mine. Capt. G. A. Anderson has been promoted to superintendent. O. W. Peterson, bookkeeper, and Nels Jacobson, clerk, will go to Cuyuna. L. K. Wahl, engineer, and Ross Ronan, clerk, go with the Inland Steel company. The Meacham mine, opened up by the Rogers, Brown Ore company, may be operated by them this season. The Cleveland-Cliffs company, it is reported, has been examining both the Meacham and Kennedy mines.

Of the pit mines, the Rowe pit of the Pittsburg Steel Ore company is showing the greatest activity. A large concentrator is to be built which will wash the ores. A double track and single track trestle are to be put across Little Rabbit lake. A big swamp has been bought in which to discharge debris. Two new locomotives and a steam shovel have been purchased and are being shipped to the mine. Capt. Barr, it is reported, will soon be employing a force of 200 men. At the machine shops of the company all machinery is being gone over, including locomotives and steam shovel. The Rowe mine promises to be a big shipper this season.

Winston Bros., it is reported, will strip the Cuyuna-Sultana property, commencing work this spring. The Thompson pit is making preparations to commence mining March 1. The Hill Crest pit mine will commence development work March 1. Contracts have been placed with the Cuyuna Range Power company for 550-horse power of electric current. A power station similar to the one at the Rowe pit mine will soon be built. The property to be stripped is part of the northeast quarter of the southeast quarter of section 9, within the village limits of Ironton and half a mile west of the Pennington. The two forties between the Pennington pit and the Hill Crest mine are part of the Feigh property, on which the Northwestern Improvement company holds a lease. The hydraulic system will be used in stripping, water being secured from Blackhoof lake. Situated near the Pennington pit is the property of the Cuyuna Iron & Manganese Ore company, which is expected to open up its property and develop another pit. The Pennington pit is preparing for early spring work.

Underground Mines.

Of the underground mines the Cuyuna-Mille Lacs and Cuyuna-Duluth mines of the American Maganese Manufacturing company are expected to start work early in February. The Wilcox mine of the Canadian-Cuyuna Ore company is drifting in the ore body and will be a shipper this year. The Adams mine is in shape to ship promptly. A small stockpile was accumulated last year. The croft mine of the Merrimac Mining company has its concrete shaft nearly completed. It is but a few feet from the ore body and is expected to start hoisting within a month. The Brainerd-Cuyuna mine in Brainerd has entered ledge and after some further sinking will be in shape to commence drifting. This company expects to do some shipping this year. The Iron Mountain mine has received new boilers and is expected to ship this season.

Drilling is also receiving an impetus on the range. Three drills, it is reported, are shortly to be installed by the Merrimac Mining company on their forty near the Croft mine in Crosby. Moe brothers of Virginia are drilling near Klondyke. Osterberg Bros. of Tower, it is reported, will soon have five drills working near Mahnomen lake. H. J. Kruse of Crosby has two drills northwest of Aitkin in Crow Wing county, situated in sections 2 and 3, township 136, range 25. The Adams interests are operating a drill near the Adams mine property.

Cole & McDonald and Jamison & Peacock are drilling near the Canadian-Cuyuna ore company lands in sections 7 and 8, township 45, range 29. The Walker estate of Brainerd owns the south half of the southwest quarter and the southwest quarter of the southwest qarter of section 7, township 45, range 29, and it is said to have been leased to the E. J. Longyear company.

At Barrows, drills of the Brainerd Mining company, Barrows Mining company and Barrows-Mississippi Iron company are busily engaged in exploration work. In Aitkin county the poor farm is to be explored by W. D. Edson.

Brainerd will have the mineral lands bequeathed to it by the late Judge G. W. Holland explored by John Harrington of Hibbing. If satisfactory, he may call for a fifty-year mining lease, royalty at 30 cents a ton and the minimum to be 10,000 tons the first year and 25,000 tons annually thereafter. The work of exploration is to commence within thirty days after the contract is signed by the proper officials. The county poor farm is having its ninth hole drilled by the E. J. Longyear company. The drill is now bottomed in ore.

Changes of Interests.

Transfers on the range include these: J. D. Lamont to Charles S. Slack, the southeast quarter of the southwest quarter of section 5, township 137, range 25, the northwest quarter and the northwest quarter of the northeast quarter of section 8, township 137, range 25. The National Realty company has sold to Nels J. Paulson and Otto W. Johnson an undivided half of the southeast qarter of the southwest quarter of section 5, township 137, range 26. The St. Paul & Chicago Railway company has sold to the Mission Iron company the south half of the northeast quarter of the northeast quarter and the southwest quarter of the northeast quarter of section 27, township 136, range 27, for $2,080. Eugene L. Trask has sold to Nels J. Paulson and Otto W. Johnson an undivided half of the southeast quarter of the southwest quarter of section 5, township 137, range 26. L. M. Mann has sold to Royal W. McKusick the undivided half of the mineral reserve of the northeast quarter of the northeast quarter of section 1, township 137, range 29. Charles S. Slack has sold to John E. Andrus the southeast quarter of the southwest quarter of section 5, township 137, range 25, the northwest quarter, the northwest quarter of the northeast quarter of the northeast quarter of section 8, township 137, range 25. The St. Paul & Chicago Railway company has sold to John M. Lambert and John M. Cooper, lots 3 and 4 of section 1, township 137, range 26, for $462.42.

Joseph J. Hennen of St. Paul, Wilson Bradley of Deerwood, George Urquhart of St. Paul, Odin B. Walters of Manning, Iowa, and Roy W. Murray of Storm Lake, Iowa, have formed the Pioneer Development company, capitalized at $200,000, with headquarters at St. Paul, and operating headquarters in Deerwood, and have let a contract for 50,000 feet of drilling to the Hale-Bradley Exploration company of Deerwood.

BIG COPPER TRADE VIA PANAMA CANAL

Anaconda Company to Ship to Tacoma, Thence By Water.

From 1,000 to 1,500 tons of copper ingots, produced by the Anaconda Copper Mining company of Anaconda, one of the largest copper corporations in the world, will be shipped to Tacoma every twenty days over the Milwaukee system and transhipped at the Milwaukee ocean dock here to steamers of W. R. Grace & Co. to be hauled via the Panama canal to New York, says the Tacoma Ledger. The first shipment in this enormous copper business, of which Tacoma is to be the sole shipping port, will arrive here Feb. 1, consisting of 1,000 tons, and to load it the steamer Santa Cecilia will come to the Milwaukee dock.

It was said that after the initial shipment on Feb. 1, a shipment every twenty days was expected, according to advices from the Anaconda company, which would, if kept up month after month, as planned, amount to an exporting business in copper ingots from Tacoma of at least 20,000 tons. The copper will come from the Washoe smelter at Anaconda. The second shipment probably will be taken out from Tacoma by the steamer Santa Cruz of the Grace fleet, leaving here about Feb. 20.

Routing of the new freight to Tacoma is regarded by shipping men as one of the greatest traffic readjustments which have taken place since the opening of the Panama canal and which have been due directly to the influence of that waterway on transcontinental shipments. The cause in the change of copper routing to Tacoma instead of the usual all-rail route to New York is given merely as a question of cost in delivering the copper. The all-rail route from Anaconda is $10 per ton, and it is said that the Anaconda-Tacoma rail and steamer rate is considerably less.

ALASKA-JUNEAU READY TO BEGIN

Equipment of First Fifty-Stamp Unit of Mill Completed.

Seattle, Wash., Jan. 30.—Advices from Juneau, Alaska, state that the Alaska-Juneau mine, adjoining the Alaska Gold Mines and Alaska-Ebner groups, has completed the equipment of the first 50-stamp unit of its big mill. This unit will have a capacity of 1,000 tons a day. The mill will ultimately handle 12,000 tons daily and should be in operation by the spring of 1915. Mine developments progressed throughout the year 1914 and are now very far advanced.

The Alaska-Juneau is controlled by Frederick Bradley and associates of San Francisco, who developed the Treadwell group across the channel from Juneau. The same interests also control the Bunker Hill & Sullivan, in the Coeur d'Alene, Idaho, the well-known low-grade silver-lead producer and world's largest lead mine.

Mr. Bradley estimates an operating cost of 85 cents per ton on Alaska-Juneau ore. Early estimates of the grade of the ore showed recoverable values between $1.25 and $1.50 per ton. Development work of the past two years on Alaska-Juneau as well as on the adjoining Alaska Gold and Alaska-Ebner indicates that the values in the ore may substantially exceed the early estimates.

MORE MACHINES TO BE INSTALLED

Great Success of Janey Flotation System at Butte & Superior.

Butte, Mont., Jan. 30.—So successful has the Janey flotation machine, installed the last of December at the flotation plant of the Butte & Superior proved, it was stated last night by an official of that company, that six or seven more of the machines immediately will be installed, when it will be possible, it is expected by Butte & Superior officials, to maintain a recovery of 95 per cent. Tailings from the Janey machine are the cleanest the company has ever had and with change made in the concentrates, it is said, will show marked improvement in grade.

ASSESSMENT TO PROVIDE FUNDS

Concentrator to Be Installed at the Ohio-Keating Mine.

Butte, Mont., Jan. 30.—Ohio-Keating stockholders have voted to make the stock of the company assessable in order to liquidate an indebtedness and to provide funds with which to construct a concentrator. Ample ore of low grade is in sight to warrant the installation of a concentrator of about a capacity of 100 tons daily, it was stated at the meeting. The grade of ore precludes its shipment direct to the smelter.

The Ohio-Keating's property is located at Radersburg and the mine was closed last year.

INCREASED OPERATIONS AT ANACONDA COMPANY'S MINES

Claimed That Object Is Only to Stock Up the Smelter.

Dividend Reported to Be in Sight By Barnes-King.

Butte, Mont., Jan. 30.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Leonard mine of the Anaconda company has been started up again after a shut down of nearly a month. About 600 men were put back to work. The shut down resulted from a fall of a loaded skip which fell from the top to the sump of the shaft, tearing out a lot of wall plates. When the accident happened plans had been completed to close the Original mine and reopen the Badger State, but the damage to the Leonard changed plans and the Original was kept in operation. Since then the ore supply at the smelter has decreased to such an extent that now the Original, Badger State and Leonard are kept working, and all the operated mines have been put on a six days a week schedule, instead of a five days schedule. It has been denied by officers of the company that the improved condition of the copper market had anything to do with the increased operations at the mines. It is explained that the supply of ore at the smelter was allowed to run down and the additional day per week at the mines and the addition of another mine to the operating and producing list is only temporary and to stock up at the smelter. By the addition of the Leonard to the producing mines the monthly ore tonnage is increased 10,000 tons. Present expectations are to cut off one of the mines again by the first of February, unless the demand for copper continues to improve.

North Butte.

The other producing companies in Butte continue to operate at about 60 per cent of normal. There had been rumors that the North Butte was about to increase its output, but General Manager Pope says there will be no increase in the near future. "We will be glad to welcome a return of conditions that will warrant working the North Butte full time and with full force," he said, "but at present we feel that it is better to keep on with the policy adopted some time ago. We are not working at the Rainbow at all, and are carrying only a half force, with five and sometimes six days a week at the North Butte. With this force we are producing about 1,000,000 pounds of copper a month. As to the future Mr. Pope is very optimistic."

Butte & Superior.

During the portion of December in which the Butte & Superior operated, it mined and milled 12,004 tons of ore at a cost of $5.42 a ton. The recovery was 2,345 tons of concentrates, valued at $28.24 per ton. The approximate value of the concentrates was $12,713.27. The demand for spelter has prompted the Butte & Superior to push its production and it has added a number of men to its working force in the mine and mill. It is now mining and milling in excess of 1,200 tons of ore daly. It is claimed that at 7 cent spelter the annual profits of the Butte & Superior on its present rate of production are in excess of $3,000,000. The profit in zinc mining has renewed talk about the Anaconda company entering the field. It has an enormous deposit of zinc ores in the upper levels of the Anaconda and other mines, and owns the Alice group of mines which contain more zinc-silver ores than any other property in the district. Only leasers work in the Alice mines at present, the Anaconda company having deferred work there on account of the litigation a few Alice stockholders have started against the acquisition of the Alice company by the Anaconda company.

Zinc Properties.

The Timber Butte Milling company, owned privately by Senator W. A. Clark, is operating by oil flotation on the zinc ore of the Elm Orlu mine and is reported to be achieving even better results than the Butte & Superior, but as the company is a closed corporation no details are available.

It has been asserted by mining men that the Butte district has larger deposits of zinc ore than copper ore. One of the big zinc properties that is lying idle is the old Emma mine, well known to some Boston bankers and brokers who promoted the Butte Mining Development company many years ago, and made a failure of it because the company had only a lease and option on the Emma mine. A thousand-foot shaft was sunk and the mine was opened by levels to a depth of 800 feet. On several levels enormous veins and deposits of high grade zinc ore were cut, but at that time there was no known method of treating Butte zinc ores, and the heavy zinc deposits damned the property and the option was forfeited. Some years later a few of the old stockholders secured another option and organized the Butte Copper & Zinc company which finally secured title to the Emma mine but did nothing more. Before the Butte & Superior and the Elm Orlu companies demonstrated the fact that the zinc could be recovered from the Butte ores at a great profit, the New Jersey Zinc company made a cursory examination of the Emma, but only went down to the 200-foot level and then quit. The reports of engineers show that there is a remarkable body of high grade zinc ore in the mine from the 500-foot point down, the vein being 300 to 500 feet wide. The Lexington mine, formerly owned by F. A. Heinze and now owned by the Anaconda company, is another big zinc property. Heinze was in fact the pioneer in the effort to recover zinc from Butte ore at a profit. He employed a dry separation process, owned by some Texas inventors, but it failed to earn any profits and the dust it treated was such a nuisance that residents and prpoerty owners stopped operations by court injunctions. Since then nothing has been done with the Lexington ores.

Pilot-Butte.

The Pilot-Butte company, which has been developing the Pilot claim throughout the market depression and in the face of injunction litigation, has also opened two big zinc veins in its property, and which are not in litigation. It is probable that the Pilot-Butte company will mine the zinc ore if it can make arrangements for its treatment.

East Butte.

There have been rumors about a possible resumption of work by the East Butte company, but the management says there is no intention of resuming soon. The East Butte closed down completely on Aug. 5, since which time it has been engaged in repair and development work in the mines, and making tinportant changes and additions in the smelter. For three years the East Butte had been desirous of making changes and improvements in the smelter in order to bring it up to date and increase its capacity. Immediately after the shutdown the company started on these improvements and the work is still going on. The reconstruction work has extended to all parts of the plant, and in remodeling many enlargements have been made. These effect the furnaces particularly. When the smelter resumes operations it will be possible not only to treat a far greater quantity of ore, but to treat it at a greater profit. It has been recognized for some time that the East Butte smelter has been rather out of date, but with the changes and improvements that are being made it will be one of the most modern in the West and it is anticipated that its earning capacity will be very greatly increased.

Barnes-King.

It is intimated that a dividend by the Barnes-King Development company is in sight. By the first of March, or soon thereafter, the electric power line which the Montana Power company is building, will be completed to the Piegan-Gloster mines and mill and operations will then be started at that property. Every dollar in development and improvement will have been paid for and the company will be without debt, while the treasury will have funds sufficient for a substantial dividend and leaving more than $100,000 still in the treasury. The definite returns on December earnings show the gross income from the North Moccasin operations to have been $39,883.43. The tonnage for the month was 5,500 tons, making the amount per ton realized from the ore $7.25. The December returns indicate a very prosperous year for the Barnes-King company, the total from the North Moccasin amounting to $424,410.96. The number of tons mined and milled was 51,471, making the average yield nearly $8.25 per ton. The average cost of mining and milling has not been given out by the company and will probably not be made public until the annual report to the stockholders about March 1. Judging from the past figures, however, the cost will probably run between $4.25 and $4.75 per ton, which will leave a net profit from the output of $3.50 to $4 per ton, or close to $200,000 for 1914.

During the year the final payment was made for the North Moccasin property, all out of the earnings of the mine, and the Piegan-Gloster mill was rebuilt and that property put in readiness for operation. All improvements have been paid from the earnings of the company. Should the expectations of the company regarding the Piegan-Gloster mine be realized dividends are expected to be available between July 1 and the end of the present year. A few years ago the Barnes-King was a discredited corporation because of the fraud that was connected with its flotation, but the present officers got hold of it and built it up by acquiring new and valuable properties, and giving their time and abilities to the company without salaries. The Barnes-King promises to become one of the most important gold producing companies in the West.

GOOD GRADE OF COPPER

Found By Franklin in Raise From the Lowest Level.

New Lode Has Been Discovered By the New Arcadian.

Houghton, Mich., Jan. 30.—(Special to The Herald.)—Franklin, except for a few feet at the bottom, has found a very good grade of copper in the raise from the lowest, or thirty-seventh, level in the 160 feet so far opened. The superior ground that was encountered in the raise from the twenty-second level at the first sub-level seventy-five feet up is still persisting at the height of 350 feet. As there will be a sub-level for every seventy-five feet up, it would seem that they will average a very good quality of rock when they are opened and stope. The long crosscut on the thirty-second level has a length of 990 feet from the Allouez conglomerate and over 1,500 feet from the Pewabic, or Quincy, amygdaloid. It has passed through the second of the amygdaloids that lie between the Allouez conglomerate No. 14 and the Calumet conglomerate No. 15. This lode had a width of fifty feet but there was only a little copper and the amygdaloid that preceded had a width of over 100 with one foot of a good grade. Both lodes, however, had all the characteristics of the best amygdaloids.

New Arcadian.

New Arcadian has on the 900-foot and on the 250-foot level at the distance of fifty feet further east, by continuing the crosscuts, discovered a new lode, at present called No. 2, which is about fifteen feet wide, and the former, or bottom, level disclosed in it good values all the way though, while the latter, or highest level revealed it as only fair. The drills on the 250-foot level and that on the 900-foot level are steadfastly maintaining their good grades, that of the first being the best yet found in the mine and that of the second being the same quality as met with in the drift itself and in the raise. The drill on the southern drift was removed to the 250-foot level and another will soon take its place, a slight delay occurring on account of the failure of some supplies to arrive. The drills are working, as before, the day shift only.

Mayflower and Old Colony.

Mayflower and Old Colony have now drilled a rectangle on the lode about 6,300 feet long from No. 36 Mayflower to No. 33 Old Colony along the strike of the lode and 3,000 feet wide from Mayflower No. 41 to No. 22 Old Colony, or at right angles to the formations. There have been drilled so far fifty-one holes, thirty-four on the Mayflower and twenty-seven on the Old Colony. There now being drilled Nos. 41 Mayflower and 33 and 34 Old Colony. No marked change is taking place, the object of the continued drilling being to ascertain as far as possible just what the ground contains so as to know how many and where to locate the shafts and how properly to mine the ground adjacent to them when they are sunk. A shaft would have probably been started some time ago if it had not been for the fact that at times the territory is broken and disturbed by a series of faults whose system of occurrence has not yet been fully studied out.

Keweenaw.

Keweenaw Copper's disclosure of phenomenal values in coarse shot copper continued for about twenty-five feet in the shaft, mostly below the seventh level, this space being hollowed out so as to allow plenty of room for cutting the plat and opening the drifts, when the sinking was stopped to permit this last mentioned work to be done. The officers here state that they know nothing of any intention of extending the railroad to Copper Harbor in order to develop the Ashbed formations at that point. They have been busy preparing plans and maps for the physical valuation of the road and this work may have given rise to the prevalent rumors.

Isle Royale.

Isle Royale has erected the steel work over the slimes portion of the mill, about on-third of the whole, by bolting it together and the riveting was begun last Tuesday. The following day Calumet & Hecla carpenters began to board in the roof and the "Kerry" roofing will soon be laid. The Centennial-Allouez mill is devoting very nearly four stamps, if not the four stamps wholly, to the Isle Royale rock the most of the time and is working Saturdays. The fifth stamp can almost always take care of the Superior rock of which there is forwarded about fifteen to seventeen cars, 600 to 680 tons, daily. The Isle Royale mine is by no means shipping to the limits of its present ability.

Island Copper.

The Island Copper company will some time take the center of the stage as it holds now about 95,000 acres on Isle Royale out of the total acreage of 125,000 acres. It is known that our copper bearing series were originally laid somewhat flat but later were bent in such a way that the center was lowered or the sides raised so that a basin was formed in which lies Lake Superior and thus the same formations, on whose edges mining is being done here today, appear on this island forty miles north of the upper end of our peninsula and on also on the Canadian shores beyond. The greater part of the Island carries copper and this company has, roundly speaking, about 95 per cent of mineralized acreage. The company has been acquiring it as it could pick it up at figures at which it could be held until conditions are ripe, and it secured 45,000 acres at $1.16 per acre. It is estimated that the timber could be sold for three times the cost of the property. Some mining was done several years ago with indifferent results. Since that time careful explorations have been made and it is considered here that a mine or mines can be developed there. T. F. Cole of Duluth and friends control the property.

Porcupine.

The Porcupine mountains exploration, being conducted by F. B. Close, an experienced mining engineer, on the lands held by S. L. Smith of Detroit and others on the western boundary of section 7, T. 50 N., R. 43 W., about ten miles southwest from the Pine, are meeting with good results. The sandstone is somewhat finer grained apparently than that of the White Pine, but certainly carries very good copper values, the metal being as at the last named mine, in the form of very small particles. The pieces that were brought out were from the bottom of the shaft and all possessed the metal in very profitable quantities. There was the usual scoffing when the exploration was begun, but all the lands on the formation are being looked over by those seeking options. Options have already been secured on one block of 3,000 to 4,000 acres.

DEVELOPMENT BY BUTTE & ZENITH

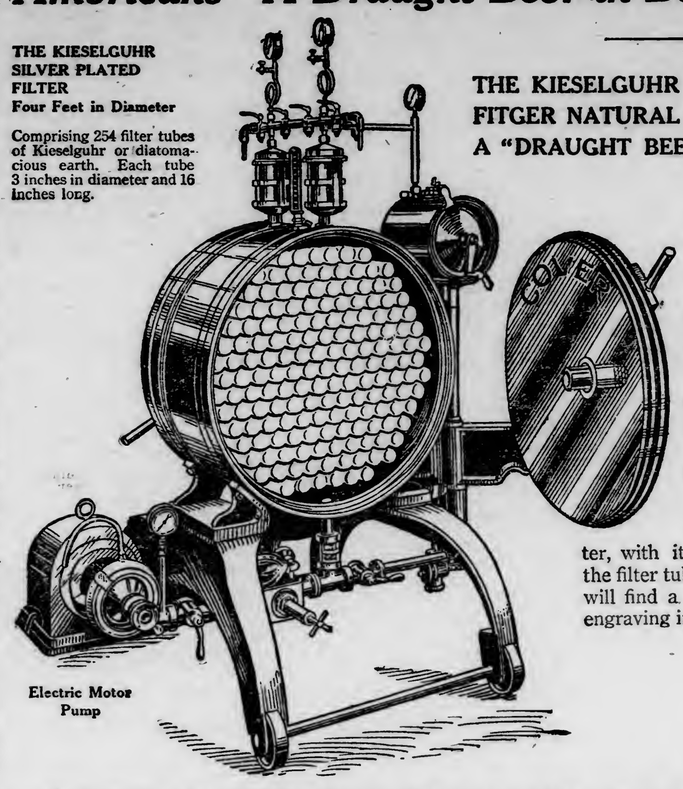

Proposes to Resume Sinking When Metal Conditions Are Adjusted.

Butte, Mont., Jan. 30.—The Butte & Zenith City proposes to resume sinking to the 1,000-foot level just as soon as metal conditions adjust themselves. The shaft is now down 640 feet, being two compartments down to the 460-fooot level and three compartments the remaining distance. The pumps were left in the shaft, and, although they are now submerged, it is anticipated no harm will be suffered because of a heavy coating of oil and grease given the machinery. Butte & Zenith plans to cut a large station at the 1,000-foot level and install pumps of great capacity to care for a heavy flow of water which is characteristic of the country in which they are operating.

How Much Does Your Bank Account Get This Pay Day?

The best plan is to put it all in the bank and check it out as you need it. There is always a strong temptation to spend money carried in the pocket. If you have to write a check before you spend it you have a chance to think twice and ask yourself whether you are really going to get value received.

It isn't necessary to be close-fisted to get up in the world, but it is necessary for you to be careful in your expenditures. Money isn't free, it has to be earned, and if you allow yourself to get in the habit of spending "freely" you are going to be the loser. It means that you will never be free yourself—you will always have to work for a living.

Take our advice and put ALL your money in the bank as soon as you get it. You'll find it much easier to save that way.

OFFICIAL MAP OF THE WEATHER

SNOW

The change in temperature, after the session with weather that did not get above zero all day, is decidedly welcome, and the cold this morning is just enough to put vim in one and make the blood dance. The brightness of the sunshine helps matters a lot, too, and the result is that there is a combination which makes the day delightful.

A year ago today was mild. The sun rose this morning at 7:35 and will set this evening at 5:09, giving nine hours and thirty-five minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"Much warmer weather prevails in Central and Northwestern states, but the temperature is falling again over extreme Western Canada. Houghton, Mich., was the coldest place in the country last night, the temperature there being 24 deg. below zero. During the last twenty-four hours snow or rain fell over states westward from the lower Mississippi valley to California. Heavy rain occurred at Phoenix, Ariz."

MOUNTAIN IRON BANK.

Hibbing Men Promoting New Concern Meet With Encouragement.

Mountain Iron, Minn., Jan. 30.—(Special to The Herald.)—A meeting was held in the high school building Wednesday evening, at which steps were taken for the organization of a bank. Men from Hibbing are promoting the affair. It is proposed to issue 100 shares of stock at $160 a share and to have at least fifty-one shares held by residents of this village. The sum of $6,000 would be used for a site and building, and $10,000 for capital stock. Thirty-two shares were subscribed for by six men in business here. Very few people knew anything about the meeting at which these shares were disposed of, and when a canvass is made it is thought no trouble will be experienced in disposing of the remaining nineteen shares. When these are disposed of an organization will be affected, a site secured and a building started.

SCHOOL BONDS MAY BE SOLD

Board May Dispose of Part of $200,000 Issue at Next Meeting.

Lincoln Junior School to Be Built; Other Building Delayed.

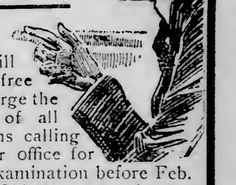

The chief matter that will come before the board of education at its meeting next Friday evening will be to determine what shall be done with the $200,000 in bonds issued last July for the construction of school buildings. The breaking out of the European war caused a lull in business and the bonds were withheld from the market temporarily.

The construction of two school buildings was proposed—the Lincoln Junior high school and a school at Morgan Park. It is still deemed a necessity to erect the junior high school but the proposed school at Morgan Park, the model city, is not thought necessary at once. Should operations on the steel plant begin again soon, action will be taken by the board to supply school facilities.

It is expected that the board of education will decide to sell about half of the bonds for the purpose of erecting the junior high school and defer action on the remainder.

Little else is scheduled to come up except routine business.

SICK CHILDREN LOVE CASCARETS FOR THE BOWELS
Give "Candy Cathartic" for a Bad Cold, Sour Stomach, Constipation.
Get a 10-cent box now.
Most of the ills of childhood are caused by a sour, disordered stomach, sluggish liver and constipated bowels. They catch cold easily, become cross, listless, irritable, feverish, restless, tongue coated, don't eat or sleep well and need a gentle cleansing of the bowels—but don't try to force a nauseating dose of oil into the little one's already sick stomach—it is cruel, needless and old-fashioned.
Any child will gladly take Cascarets Candy Cathartic which act gently—never gripe or produce the slightest uneasiness—though cleanse the little one's system, sweeten the stomach and put the liver and bowels in a pure, healthy condition.
Full directions for children and grown-ups in each package.
Mothers can rest easy after giving this gentle, thorough laxative which costs only 10 cents a box at any drug store.

BIRD'S EYE VIEW OF MORGAN PARK, THE RECENTLY COMPLETED MODEL CITY WHICH WILL HOUSE SOME OF STEEL PLANT WORKMEN—SOME HOUSES ARE ALREADY OCCUPIED

The illustration herewith affords a bird's-eye view of Morgan Park, the Minnesota Steel company's model town. The site is laid out along artistic lines and when the construction plans are carried through to their ultimate conclusion, it is conceded that the site will be one of the most interesting in the country from architectural and landscape points of view. The 170 houses included in the first unit of structures are unique in that they are built of cement blocks, and are of fireproof construction throughout. The general contract was carried through by the Lounsberry-McLeod company, which was awarded it in competition with builders in the Twin Cities, Chicago and Milwaukee. The amount involved was approximately $1,000,000, and it stands to the credit of the contracting company that it was carried through within the time specified. The work was started in August, 1913, and was completed last November. It is intimated that plans have been prepared for a handsome general office building for the Minnesota Steel company to go up on the site, and it is regarded as probable that the contract for it will be let during the present year.

GOOD INQUIRY REPORTED BY REAL ESTATE DEALERS

Demand for Dwellings and Residence Lots Still the Feature.

Revival of Interest in West Duluth and Suburbs Expected.

Good, all-round inquiry was met with by real estate operators during the present week, and a satisfactory business was put through in the aggregate.

Transfers of dwellings and building lots were again the feature, and taken from every point of view, the outlook is regarded as promising by dealers. Interest in home buying is said to be marked, especially in the way of moderate-priced houses, and, according to the "prospects" in hand, operators are looking forward to an active movement setting in next month. At the present the eastern sections of the city are coming in for the most attention, but with a continuance of the recent betterment in industrial conditions, a sharp revival of interest in West Duluth, and in the steel plant districts, is forecasted.

May Plat New Addition.

Inspired by the success which attended the Waverly Park sale last summer, members of the Duluth Real Estate exchange have in view the platting of a desirably located acreage for a new high-class residential addition in the spring. A project in that line will be brought up for consideration at the monthly meeting of the exchange next Tuesday. It is recognized that with all the members of the exchange behind it, as was the case with Waverly Park, another success would assuredly be scored.

Plans Being Made for Several Expensive and Important Jobs.

Lincoln Junior High School May Be Ordered—Several Contracts Let.

Duluth architects are clearing the decks for an early spring rush in both business and residence work. Plans for three expensive jobs are expected to go out for figures next month. In the way of outside work, it is to be noted that figures are being taken for a three-story parochial school for the Church of Our Lady of Lourdes at Virginia, estimated to cost $75,000. It is to be reinforced concrete construction faced with brick and terra cotta. The plans were prepared by Holstead & Sullivan, architects.

Plans for the proposed Lincoln junior high school will be ready to go before the school board next Friday, and it is expected that a decision to go ahead with the building will be reached. Its cost is estimated at $100,000. The plans were prepared by F. G. German, architect.

When to Buy Real Estate

Real estate authorities of wide experience will advise buying real estate when prices are bedrock. Purchasing property during times of feverish excitement, when prices are climbing in leaps and bounds, is a dangerous step and generally a decidedly unprofitable one, at least to the last buyer.

The old law of supply and demand governs the prices of real estate the same as it does flour or sugar.

If the demand for real estate is a legitimate one, the prices are of course based accordingly, but it sometimes happens that the demand is artificial—often based on rumors. During such times values become inflated; such inflation helped on by our feverish and unreasonable desire to make money fast and not being content with a reasonable profit from a safe investment.

During such times the bubble may burst at any time, bringing disaster in its wake.

Occasionally some man may make a "killing" in a boom market, but as the children say "what goes up must come down," and as a general thing prices drop much quicker than they go up under such circumstances.

There is always a reason for a climb in real estate values, either a fictitious one which means the climb will be a short one with sudden fall or a legitimate one, such as commercial or industrial growth.

Now, however, is the time to turn attention to real estate.

The Northwest, and especially Duluth, has had a steady, substantial growth during the last few years and Duluth is now rated as being the third largest port in the country as regards tonnage. The development of railroads in this section has caused greater development agriculturally. Commercial and industrial development has taken place and the city's population has materially increased.

In 1910 Minnesota mined 33,800,000 tons of iron ore, one of the most valuable mineral products, all of which was shipped from the docks of Duluth and Superior. This ore was worth at the docks $133,200,000, while all of the gold produced in United States and Alaska was valued at only $96,000,000.

All this has placed a solid foundation under every inch of advance in real estate values, meaning a certain gain for those who buy early.

TWO DULUTH MEN FACE STARVATION

Went to Serbia to Serve in Army; Rejected: Unable to Return.

Penniless in their own country, refused admission into their country's army, with friends and relatives unable to send them money with which to come home home, Eli Kundacina, 29, and Mike Kovac, 23, former employes of the Zenith Furnace company of West Duluth, are stranded and facing possible starvation in Serbia.

In company with three other men, Eli and Mike left for Europe to fight for their country. Their companions were accepted, but when it came to the examinations of Eli and Mike they were found wanting, and they were turned down for some unaccountable reason.

Their predicament became known recenily by fellow employes through a letter received by their relatives in West Duluth. A collection was taken up among Serbians here and sufficient funds raised to bring them back to America.

After raising the money the question of sending it to the men arose. Then it was found that express companies, the postal department of the United States and other channels of sending money were closed to them. The money was useless and now it appears that the men will have to stay where they are.

Kundacina was employed at the Zenith company's coal dock for nearly nine years. Kovac was in America six years, most of which time he worked at the blast furnace.

OPPOSED TO PENSION BILL

Commercial Club Members Also Want Elwell Law Retained.

Members of the West Duluth Commercial club went on record last night as being opposed to any form of pensions for public servants which would directly affect the taxes of the city. The resolution was adopted following a discussion of the proposed police pension bill that is to be introduced into the state legislature this session.

The opposition to the bill arose because it provides that a certain sum shall be levied each year in taxes to build up the pension fund. The members stated that they were not opposed to any form of pensions which would not call for a tax levy.

The club also went on record as being opposed to the repealing of the Elwell road law. A resolution stating the opposition of the club will be forwarded to the state legislature.

The feature of the evening was the reading of a lecture on "Crime and Disease," by Judge H. W. Lanners. The lecture was given last summer at the meeting of the National Prison association by Dr. Victor B. Vaughn, president of the National Medical association and dean of the medical college of the University of Michigan. The attendance at the meeting last night was the best in several months. A smoker followed the business session.

This evening the banquet committee recently appointed by W. A. Pand, president of the club, will meet at the office of W. B. Getchell. The committee will organize and select a chairman and secretary. Sub-committees will also be appointed.

TWO "KID" RINKS WILL PLAY GAME

Only One of Three Contests in Esterly Event Is Played.

A curling game between two "kid" organizations will feature the activities at the Western Curling rink this evening. The game will be between R. F. Wade's rink of West Duluth, and the Holmes' "Kid" rink of Superior.

Last evening only one of the three games in the Esterly event was played. Quinn won from Wieland by a score of 14 to 7. According to announcement made by Frank H. Wade, president of the club and chairman of the games committee, this morning, games scheduled from now on will either be played as scheduled. This action, he explained, will have to be taken in order that the club may complete all of the trophy events before spring.

On Monday evening the two games scheduled for last night and not played will again be scheduled. In addition to these, a game will be played between Donald and Quinn in the semi-finals of the Union Match event. The winner of this game will play F. H. Wade in the finals.

ACCUSED WIFE CHARGES HUSBAND

Mrs. Pauline Treado Files Cross Bill in Divorce Suit.

Denying the charges of cruelty and infidelity which have been lodged against her in a divorce action, Mrs. Pauline Treado, in district court yesterday afternoon, filed an answer to the complaint of her husband, Clifford J. Treado. In a cross bill she asks for a divorce from him on the same grounds. Mrs. Treado was formerly known as Miss Dudie Delbern. She is 20 years old and her husband is 22.

Treado accused his wife of having jabbed him with a hat pin on one occasion. She denies this and in support of her claim of cruelty sets forth that he menaced her with a razor and threatened to take her life. Treado charged her with infidelity. She denied the charge, but makes the same accusation against him. She accused him of having consorted with other women.

In support of her charge of cruelty, she says that he assaulted her on numerous occasions and that once she had him arrested and fined in police court for attacking her. Both are seeking the custody of their only child, Gerrald, aged 18 months. Mrs. Treado asks for allmony.

HORSE TROUGHS ARE A MENACE

City Veterinarian Would Force Drivers to Carry Pails.

Abolition of public watering places for horses, to prevent the spreading of disease, is recommended by Robert Dixon, city veterinarian, in his annual report submitted this morning to Dr. H. E. Webster, director of the health department.

"In our tests conducted throughout last year," states Mr. Dixon in his report, "I found many horses suffering from glanders and this disease could easily be checked by the complete abolition of public watering troughs. Each driver could carry his own pail and the city could provide public faucets in various central points throughout the city. It is safer and more sanitary."

During the year Mr. Dixon gave the tuberculin test to 1,787 horses.

In his report, Mr. Dixon gives considerable praise to the law ordering a compulsory test of all milch cows before they ars sold to Duluth dairymen. At the close he makes a request for an assistant during the coming year, because of an increase in work.

There are twenty-six fruit packing schools in British Columbia, which are rendering valuable service to fruit growers in teaching the best methods of packing.

HONOR PLAN IMPRACTICAL

Supt. Denfeld Does Not Wholly Indorse "U" Test Methods.

Veteran Educator Declares Character Is Result of Evolution.

The idea of putting students on their honor during examinations is altogether proper but its practicability is a different matter according to Supt. R. E. Denfeld. Mr. Denfeld gave this view of the subject when asked for his opinion regarding the action of the state university faculty in putting students on the honor basis.

"The arrangement should work out better at the university than in the schools," continued Mr. Denfeld. "There the students are more nearly matured, and are not so much in need of protection from temptation. In the case of some it would work to advantage while to others it would be a positive detriment."

The honor system Mr. Denfeld believes is a thing that cannot be thrust suddenly upon students and prove successful. Honor must be developed by evolution of character and had its beginning in the home.

"I would not want to say students cannot be trusted," said Mr. Denfeld, "but if the student is to prove faithful to his trust, he must feel that the mark attained in his examination is not the end to be sought in his work. He must feel that the purpose of his education is to learn something and become efficient. If he has this idea in view he will not care so much for the percentage he is given by his teacher as he will for what he has really accomplished. Markings count for little except that they show that the student is able to answer the questions given him to answer.

"It is a broad question, and one that cannot be answered to cover all cases. Students differ in character and ideals, and must be handled accordingly. The police idea is distasteful to the teacher and student, and it is our aim to put all the trust in pupils that is consistent with their welfare."

MANY FILE BUT FEW ARE CHOSEN

Physical and Mental Fitness Needed for City Jobs.

To secure a civil service position with the city of Duluth requires both mental and physical fitness.

Out of 172 applicants for city positions who were examined by the civil service commission during 1914 sixty-seven failed, while in 1913 twenty-three failed out of the sixty-five examined, according to the annual report of Ruben Johnson, secretary of the civil service board, filed this morning with City Auditor Campbell.

Applications more than doubled in 1914 states Mr. Johnson in his report. During 1913 there were 104 applications filed, while last year 211 applicants filed for civic offices. Of this latter number only 172 took the examinations, 105 receiving passing marks and the right to be placed on the eligibility lists.

In addition, thirteen applicants were rejected after having passed the examinations, because they were physically unfit. These included applicants for positions in the fire and police departments.

At the present time the eligibility list includes applicants for pipemen and truckmen in the fire department, patrolmen, sergeants and lieutenants in the police department, roadmen, chauffeurs and stenographers. The commission met eleven times during the year, while five examinations were held under the supervision of Mr. Johnson. The total expense for 1914 was $772.52.

Closing his report Mr. Johnson pays a tribute to James L. Cromwell, member of the commission, who died last fall.

FARGO WIFE-SLAYER IS GIVEN LIFE TERM

Robert Hendrickson Pleads Guilty to Killing Woman Ten Days Ago.

Fargo, N. D., Jan. 30.—(Special to The Herald.)—A sentence of life imprisonment at hard labor was imposed this morning on Robert Hendrickson by Judge Pollock in district court. Ten days ago Hendrickson murdered his wife and attempted suicide. Since that time he had been in the hospital but recovered sufficiently to be brought into court and entered a plea of guilty.

Hendrickson came here a few months ago from Minneapolis. His former home was at Alexandria, Minn. When he first arrived here he drove a delivery wagon but later spent his time almost entirely around saloons in Moorhead and when he threatened the lives of his wife and baby boy, Mrs. Hendrickson appealed to the police. Hendrickson was held in jail eight days until thoroughly sobered up and immediately after his release went on another drunk and the following day murdered his wife. He will be taken at once to the state prison.

"TOM" LANTRY DIES IN SOUTH

Had Been Resident of Northern Minnesota 28 Years.

Thomas Lantry, known to Duluthians and people on the Mesaba range as "Tom" for twenty-eight years, succumbed to an attack of heart disease shortly after noon yesterday, according to a dispatch from Hot Springs, Ark., where he has been under treatment for some time.

For twenty-two years Mr. Lantry was a well known business man of Virginia and during the last six years, while located in Duluth, he has made a host of friends in this city. He was one of the proprietors of the Kaiserhof saloon and cafe, 1 East Superior street.

Mrs. Lantry, who accompanied him to Hot Springs, is on the way to Duluth with the body, and funeral services probably will be held from the home, 5348 London road. In addition to the widow, he is survived by his mother, and two brothers, now living in Canada. He was 50 years of age.

FARM CLUBS BIG SUCCESS

County Agent Larson Tells of Their Three-Fold Benefits.

Are Great Asset in Uniting Interests of Rural Districts.

In his weekly agricultural letter, H. G. Larson, county agricultural agent, tells of an interesting experience in connection with attending a meeting of a farmers' club in Koochiching county recently. Among other things, he says:

"A short time ago it was my privilege as well as pleasure to attend a farmers' club meeting across the county line into Koochiching county. It happened this way. We had two farmers' clubs close to the county line, Koochiching county also had two on its side. D. B. Jewell, agent for Koochiching county, suggested to me that we double forces and visit all four clubs together. The plan was carried out and there was one thing that happened on that trip that really impressed me more with the possibilities of the future for a good live farmers' club than I ever thought possible before.

Visits Farmers' Club.

"On Monday, Jan. 18, last, we met at the Carlson farm, in Silverdale, Koochiching county. I might explain that while this club technically belongs to Koochiching county, it practically belong to St. Louis county, inasmuch as all the traffic from this splendid community goes into St. Louis county through Gheen and over the Duluth, Winnipeg & Pacific road to Virginia or Duluth.

"It is situated twenty miles or more distant from the railroad station. Yet we found seventy-five people, young and old, waiting for us there at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. Our part of the program was carried out during the next few hours. Then theirs began. Coffee and lunch was served, after which the decks were cleared for action. Violins were brought out and not only the young folks, themselves, but many of the older people, enjoyed themselves to the limit. It was nearly midnight when the party reluctantly broke up. Dates were set for another meeting.

Benefits Are Threefold.

"To those who have made the farmers' club a special and interesting study, it has long been known that the benefits any community gets from a good, live, active farmers' club are threefold—social, educational and financial. Social first, because that means harmony and good will, without which no farmers' club can possibly prosper. Furthermore, it brings together the little folks, the young people and the older members of the neighborhood, and they must all be included if we are to consider the welfare of the neighborhood club as a permanent institution.

"The educational features are those that all the best information in that neighborhood is brought out and outside information can get in, either through the county agent or state or government speakers, short courses be arranged, etc.

"The financial side is usually represented by improvement through many and varied sources especially improved and improved livestock, better arranged field work, better care of the soil and more careful handling of the fertility accumulated, better fences, better farm buildings, better roads, etc.

In Touch With County Agent.

"When any community, whether it be large or small, begins to realize its own needs and the necessity of getting together, for better results, then it is only a short step for them to notify the county agent to the effect that they desire to talk over plans to that end, by which a club may be organized, and as there are today some 900 farmers' clubs in Minnesota, thirty of them in St. Louis county, we begin to realize what it would mean if every township or every schoolhouse should become the center of those farmers' gatherings.

"The club which has been mentioned here serves as a good illustration of what can or might be done in any neighborhood, and, incidentally, let me say that it would take something more serious than an injunction to keep this particular county agent from attending one of those meetings, where the whole neighborhood seems to be in harmony and everybody so thoroughly enjoys themselves and where twenty or thirty miles distance from a town or city and frontier conditions cannot put a damper on the proceedings."

WOULD PLANT TREES ON FARM

Horticulturist Gives the Results of Eighteen Years' Experience.

Gives Lists of Most Desirable Kinds for Various Purposes.

Investigations have been carried on for eighteen years at the Northwest Experiment station, Crookston, regarding the value of windbreak trees, and the best kind of trees to plant. Prof. T. M. McCall, horticulturist, gives the following summary of the results and makes a strong plea for tree planting. He says: "It is an assured fact that tree planting in our Northern prairies is now a profitable undertaking. A good selection and arrangement of trees in combined wood lot and windbreak not only gives the farm increased value but adds to the comfort and wealth of the owner. It has been demonstrated that willows, cottonwoods or poplars if given ordinary care will give a greater return per acre in a 15-year period than will wheat. As this section of the state grows older there will be an increasing demand for posts and poles and this demand can be met by the planting of trees now.

"A windbreak, to be effective, should have its rows run at right angles to the direction of the wind to be checked. The tree rows should be about eight feet apart and the trees should stand about three feet apart in the row. When such planting distances are used, it will require about eighteen hundred trees to plant an acre. If dense bushy trees are planted, a windbreak four rods wide can be made very effective; however, a snow break, if planted about two rods from the north rows of trees, will keep the snow from drifting in around the farm buildings. If the windbreak is to furnish fuel, posts and poles it should be at least ten rods wide and extend around the north and west sides of the farmstead. A strip of trees ten rods wide on the north and west sides of a ten-acre farmstead with a five-rod strip on the south, would total about six acres. A block of trees four rods wide around three sides of ten acres would make less than three acres. Common soft wood trees like white willow, cottonwoods and poplars, three feet high, cost about 1 cent each, while green ash and box elders of the same size range in price from $5 to $10 per thousand. The cost per acre, then, to establish a windbreak should not exceed $20.

"The white willow, Carolina poplar and cottonwood are all desirable, fast growing trees. The box elder makes good growth, but of late years it has become badly infested with various insects and diseases. The green ash, basswood, hackberry and white elm are desirable kinds of the slower growing trees. The native plum and buffalo berry make good shrubbery plants for low wind barriers. The evergreens, such as the Black Hills spruce, red cedar and bull pine make excellent shelter and do well on the inner rows of the windbreak."

TIPS AND TIPS.

The Youth's Companion: An American spending his vacation in Scotland had an opportunity to play golf every day on a world-famous links. Moreover, he had assigned to him an exceptionally fine caddie, who had frequently carried the bags of the best golfers in Scotland.

"Donald, my man, I expect to get some good tips from you while I am here," said the American, while making the first round of the course.

"And I expect," returned the thrifty Donald, "the like frae you."
